By Order of the Commissioners for Compensation.

Office of Compensation, }
Dublin, 15th April 1805. }

David McKay,
Secretary.

Copies of the CLAIMS laid before the Commissioners, under Act 40 GEO. III. c. 34, by all Persons claiming COMPENSATION, in consequence of their OFFICES being DISCONTINUED, or DIMINISHED IN VALUE, by the UNION;—And of the EVIDENCE laid before the said Commissioners, in support of such Claims.

No. 1.—The Right Honourable ST. GEORGE DALY, Prime Serjeant.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of the Right Honourable St. George Daly, Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist was on the first day of January instant, and now is, His Majesty's Prime Serjeant at Law of that part of His United Kingdom, called Ireland.

That in consequence of the Act of Union which took place on that day, the emoluments of the said office have been materially diminished.

May it therefore please your Honours to examine into the diminution of emoluments of the said office, and to make such Report thereon as you are authorized by law.

And Memorialist will pray.

St. George Daly.

EVIDENCE in support of the said last-mentioned Claim.

Richard Waller, Esquire, Solicitor to the Commissioners of Customs, sworn 15th May 1801—says, That the Right Honourable St. George Daly was on and previous to the 1st of January 1801, His Majesty's Prime Serjeant at Law; says, that he acted in that capacity last December, and was present at the drawing up of the Revenue Bills with the Chancellor of the Exchequer for the Imperial Parliament which met in 1801; says, that the Account delivered in, marked (A.) is an Account of the fees paid to the Prime Serjeant for four years, for drawing up certain Revenue Bills; it commences 1797 and ends 1800, including both years, the amount £.1,479. 5.1 £.700 for Money Bills, and the rest for Revenue Bills. The £.700 a year may be almost said to be on the establishment, the remainder being for various Bills. The certificate of the Solicitor is necessary before any order of payment made by the Revenue Board; no payments have been made this year, as there was no parliamentary business, and no payment for any of the business since the Session of 1800. The Bills that used to be annual are now said to be made perpetual by the Union; and there is a Gentleman of the law in England, who, it is said, is to settle the Revenue and Regulation Bills in future; therefore the Prime Serjeant will lose the amount of all the emoluments in the Account marked (A.); and that is in consequence of the Union. The Law Servants have for 30 years past been employed in the Committee of the House of Commons for preparing those Bills; in consequence of that nomination, the Solicitor for the Revenue called on the Law Officer to prepare and settle those Bills every Session, for which business he has been paid by the Commissioners according to his services for each Session; and the Account delivered in, marked (A.) contains the fees received on those occasions for the four last years.

The Paper Writing, marked letter (A.) referred to in the foregoing Affidavit:

An ACCOUNT of the several Sums which have been paid each Sessions of Parliament to the Prime Serjeant, as part of the Law Commissioners appointed by the House of Commons to prepare and bring in the Bills commonly called Money Bills, and also the Bills commonly called Revenue or Regulation Bills, for four years, commencing with the Session 1797.

I have examined the above Account, and from a careful search made by me, I find that the same is accurate. Dated this seventh day of March 1801.

Richard Waller,
Solicitor for the Revenue.

Thomas Kemmis, Esquire, sworn, 15th May 1801—Says, he is Crown Solicitor; says he has been employed in soliciting the Claims for dormant Peerages, has been employed as Solicitor in three different cases, Earl of Ormond and Offory, Lord Dillon, and Lord Trimlestown. The fees paid the Prime Serjeant on Lord Ormond's claim, £. 79. 12. 6.; on Lord Trimlestown's £. 179. 12. 6.; on Lord Dillon's £. 79. 12. 6. Says, the Union will prevent the Prime Serjeant, as a Law Officer of the Crown, from receiving those emoluments; as Crown Solicitor he employed the Law Officers in preparing Bills for Parliament, and sometimes employed them all, and in some one or the other. Says, that the Account delivered in, marked No. 2. is a fair Account, and true Account and Calculation of the Monies paid the Prime Serjeant in the years 1797, 1798, 1799, and 1800.

No. 2, referred to in the foregoing Affidavit.

Thomas Kemmis.

Robert Maddock, sworn, 15th May 1801—Says, he is Assistant or Clerk to Mr. Waddy, Law Agent to the General Post Office; there was an annual Duty Bill heretofore brought into Parliament. The Prime Serjeant perused said Bill, and received on account thereof fifty guineas, and same is now made perpetual.

Casper Crossford, sworn, 15th May 1801—Said, he is Solicitor to the Stamp Office, and annually prepared the Stamp Bills; has been so employed since the year 1796; the Bills were laid before the Prime Serjeant, and 70 guineas paid him annually; the Bill is now to be perpetual in consequence of the Union.

The Right Honourable John Stewart, His Majesty's Attorney General, sworn, 15th May 1801—Said, there are six Circuits and twelve Judges; two Judges go each Circuit, and a general Commission includes all the Judges, the Prime Serjeant, Solicitor General, and second and third Serjeants. When the Irish Parliament sat, two of the Judges always attended Parliament, and that attendance becomes unnecessary in consequence of the Union; and the Prime Serjeant always went the Spring Circuit; and he considered it a matter of right, and of course considers that one hundred guineas was the average expences, and four hundred pounds was paid for the two Circuits.

NO. 2.—ROBERT JOHNSON, Esquire,

First Counsel to the Commissioners of the Revenue.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Robert Johnson, Esquire,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist was, on the 1st day of January 1801, and still is, possessed of the office of First Counsel to the Commissioners of the Revenue; and that your Memorialist's office is by the Union considerably diminished in value in many instances, the particulars of which your Memorialist prays leave to be admitted to prove to your Honours, and prays relief according to law.

16th January 1801.

Robert Johnson.

EVIDENCE.

15th May 1801.

Richard Waller, Esq. sworn—says, he is Solicitor to the Board of Customs; that he knows Robert Johnson, Esquire, who was First Counsel to the Board of Commissioners on the 1st of January 1801, and long previous thereto; that the Account marked (B.) is the amount of fees paid the First Counsel to the Commissioners of the Revenue in the last four years. The amount is £.2,867, and also £.700 for Money Bills. It was directed that the sum of £.700 should be paid the Prime Serjeant, Attorney General, Solicitor General, and the Board's Senior Counsel, in lieu of casual fees; they were paid before for each Money Bill distinct for the session. The fees might have been more or less, and the regulation was made in apprehension they might amount to more. The sum of £.700 was paid to Mr. Ponsonby until removed from office; afterwards to Mr. Beresford, who, being Second Counsel, succeeded to the situation of Mr. Ponsonby as First, and got the £.700. Mr. Johnson, upon Mr. Beresford's death, succeeded Mr. Beresford as First Counsel, he (Johnson) having been Second Counsel, and received the £.700 annually. There never was any new appointment took place on the removal of Second Counsel to be First Counsel.

The

The £. 700 a-year may be almost said to be on the establishment. The certificate of the Solicitor is necessary before any order of payment made by the Revenue Board. No payments have been made this year, as there was no parliamentary business; and no payment for any of the business since the sessions of 1800. The Bills that used to be annual 'tis now said are to be made perpetual by the Union; and there is a Gentleman of the Law in England who, it is said, is to settle the Revenue and Regulation Bills in future; therefore the First Counsel to the Commissioners of the Revenue will lose the amount of all the emoluments in the Account marked (B.) and that is in consequence of the Union. The Law Servants have for thirty years past been employed in the Committee of the House of Commons for preparing those Bills; in consequence of that nomination, the Solicitor for the Revenue called on the Law Officers to prepare and settle those Bills every session, for which business he has been paid by the Commissioners according to his services for each session; and the Account delivered in, marked (B.) contains the fees received on those occasions for the four last years.

Letter (B.) referred to in the foregoing Affidavit.

An ACCOUNT of the several Sums which have been paid each Session of Parliament to the Senior Counsel of the Commissioners of the Revenue, as one of the Law Committers appointed by the House of Commons to prepare and bring in the Bills commonly called Money Bills, and also the Bills commonly called Revenue or Regulation Bills, for four years, commencing with the Sessions of 1797.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners for Compensation.

The Memorial of the Right Honourable John Stewart,

THAT Your Memorialist was on the 1st day of January instant, and still is, Attorney General of Ireland.

That

That your Memorialist's Office hath been considerably diminished in value by means of the Union, in many particulars, which your Memorialist humbly begs leave to be admitted to prove before your Honours.

EVIDENCE in support of the foregoing Claim.

Richard Waller, Esquire, Solicitor to the Commissioners of Customs, sworn, 15th May 1801—Says, that the Right honourable John Stewart was, on and previous to the 1st of January 1801, His Majesty's Attorney General. Says, that he acted in that capacity last December, and was present at the drawing up of the Revenue Bills with the Chancellor of the Exchequer for the Imperial Parliament, which met in 1801. Says, that the Account delivered in, marked (A.) is an Account of the fees paid to the Attorney General for four years, for drawing up certain Revenue Bills; it commences 1797 and ends 1800, including both years; the amount £.1,479. 5; £.700 for Money Bills, and the rest for Revenue Bills. The £.700 a year may be almost said to be on the establishment, the remainder being for various Bills. The Certificate of the Solicitor is necessary before any order of payment made by the Revenue Board; no payments have been made this year, as there was no parliamentary business, and no payment for any of the business since the Sessions of 1800. The Bills that used to be annual, it is now said, are to be made perpetual by the Union; and there is a Gentleman of the law in England, who it is said is to settle the Revenue and Regulation Bills in future; therefore the Attorney General will lose the amount of all the emoluments in the Account marked (A.); and that is in consequence of the Union. The Law Servants have for thirty years past been employed in the Committee of the House of Commons for preparing those Bills; in consequence of that nomination, the Solicitor for the Revenue called on the Law Officers to prepare and settle those Bills every Sessions, for which business he has been paid by the Commissioners according to his services for each Sessions; and the Account delivered in, marked (A.) contains the fees received on those occasions for the four last years.

The Paper Writing, marked letter (A.) referred to in the foregoing Affidavit.

N. B. A recommendation from the Lord Lieutenant was sent on the 16th January 1801, for eleven Gentlemen to be created Baronets; and, by a letter from the Duke of Portland, it is declared to be most advisable that the patents for these baronies should be pulled in England.—Query, as these were recommended previous to the Union, is not compensation due thereon?

No. 4.—WILLIAM SMITH, Esquire, Solicitor General.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners for Compensation.

The Memorial of William Smith, Esquire,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist was on the 1st day of January instant, and still is, Solicitor General of Ireland.

That your Memorialist's office hath been considerably diminished in value by means of the Union in many particulars, which your Memorialist humbly begs leave to be admitted to prove to your Honours.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly prays compensation according to law.

William Smith.

Richard Waller, Esquire, Solicitor to the Revenue, sworn 15th May 1801—Saith, that Mr. William Smith is Solicitor General, and was so on and previous to the 1st of January 1801; says, that he acted in that capacity last December, and was present at the drawing up of the Revenue Bills with the Chancellor of the Exchequer for the Imperial Parliament, which met in 1801; says, that the Account delivered in, marked (A.) is an Account of the fees paid to the Solicitor General for four years, commencing in 1797 and ending 1800, both inclusive, for drawing up certain Revenue Bills; the amount is £.1,479..5.; £. 700 for Money Bills, and the rest for Revenue Bills. The £. 700 a year may be almost said to be on the establishment, the remainder being for various Bills. No. 7.—CHARLES OSBORNE, Esquire, Junior Counsel to the Commissioners of His Majesty's Revenue in Ireland.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Charles Osborne, Esquire:

THAT your Memorialist was on the first day of January 1801, and still is, possessed of the office of Second Counsel to the Commissioners of the Revenue, and that your Memorialist's office is considerably diminished in value in many instances, the the particulars of which your Memorialist prays leave to be admitted to prove to your Honours, and prays relief according to law.

Chas. Osborne.

Jan. 16th 1801.

EVIDENCE.

15th May 1801.

Richard Waller, Esq. sworn.—Saith, Deponent is Solicitor to the Board of Customs. That Charles Osborne, Esquire, was in last December, and previous thereto, Second Counsel to the Commissioners of the Revenue. Saith, that the Paper Writing, marked (C.) is the amount of the money paid the Second Counsel to the Commissioners of the Revenue on the 1st of January 1801. The Bills that used to be annual, 'tis now said, are to be made perpetual by the Union, and there is a Gentleman of the Law in England who, it is said, is to settle the Revenue and Regulation Bills in future: therefore the Second Counsel to the Commissioners of the Revenue will lose the amount of the emoluments in the Account marked (C.); and that is in consequence of the Union.

The Law Servants have for thirty years past been employed in the Committee of the House of Commons for preparing those Bills; in consequence of that nomination, the Solicitor for the Revenue called on the Law Officers to prepare and settle those Bills every Session, for which business he has been paid by the Commissioners according to his services for each Session; and the Account delivered in, marked (C.) contains the fees received upon those occasions for the four last years.

It was directed that the sum of £.700. should be paid to the Prime Serjeant, Attorney General, Solicitor General, and the Board's Senior Counsel, in lieu of casual fees; they were paid before for each Money Bill distinct for the Session. The fees might have been more or less, and the regulation was made in apprehension they might amount to more. The sum of £.700. was paid to Mr. Ponsonby until removed from office, afterwards to Mr. Beresford, who, being Second Counsel, succeeded to the situation of Mr. Ponsonby as First, and got the £.700. Mr. Johnson, upon Mr. Beresford's death, succeeded Mr. Beresford as First Counsel, he (Johnson) having been Second Counsel, and received the £.700 annually. There never was any new appointment took place on the removal of Second Counsel to be First Counsel, and as such the payment was made of £.700. If the Irish Parliament continued, and Mr. Johnson made a Judge, Mr. Osborne would of course become Senior Counsel, and receive the £.700. Deponent conceives the succession of the Second to the place of the First was a matter of course. Mr. Osborne attended those Bills for which the £.700. was paid, and Deponent wished he should, as he considered he would be entitled to receive it on the removal of Mr. Johnson. Mr. Beresford and Mr. Johnson when Junior Counsel did the same. The name of the Junior Counsel was inserted to prepare Bills in the Committee of the House of Commons.

Letter (C.) referred to in the foregoing Affidavit.

An ACCOUNT of the several Sums of Money which have been paid each Session of Parliament to the Second Counsel of the Commissioners of the Revenue, as one of the Law Committees appointed by the House of Commons to prepare and bring in the Bills commonly called Revenue or Regulation Bills.

I have examined the above Account, and from a careful search made by me,
I find that the same is accurate. Dated this 7th day of March, 1801.

Richard Waller, Sol^r for the Revenue.

20th August 1801.

Robert Boyd, Esquire, sworn.—Says, that when Mr. Ponsonby was Counsel to the Commissioners, he had the Money Bills entirely. When Mr. Beresford was appointed to succeed to the First Counsel, and Mr. Boyd appointed Second, he sent to Lord Hobart, then Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant, who asked Witn^{ess} would he take the half of the Money Bills, and Witn^{ess} consented. Afterwards Mr. Beresford requested the orders for payments might be made entirely to him, as Witn^{ess} would shortly succeed to the Bench, and the order was made to Mr. Beresford, who left the half with Mr. Waller the Solicitor, to pay it to Witn^{ess}. He said, he had stipulated if Witn^{ess} went out that he was to get the whole Money Bills. It was made as a convenience to him, but not to be so for any other person. He was so tenacious of his rights, that an order being made for the Counsel to go out, he requested that the order might be sent him only, which Witn^{ess} was satisfied with. Doubt arose as to Senior Counsel, Witn^{ess} being the oldest Counsel, and the Chancellor said there was no difference as First or Second Counsel. His Majesty had two Counsel; and Mr. Beresford got the whole Money Bills when Witn^{ess} left the office. Witn^{ess} considered the office of First and Second Counsel as one. It was a private agreement between the Counsel themselves, and no established right. Witn^{ess} would consider himself entitled to compensation if in the situation of Mr. Charles Osborne, for he considers him having a vested right in him. It was the private agreement that gave up the right. Witn^{ess} considers the Act of Parliament should be taken equitably, and the most equitable construction should be given to it: That the office should be considered: And Witn^{ess} has considered this Act very maturely, and noted the question with Gentlemen of the first eminence at the Bar, and it was their opinion it should be so considered. And Witn^{ess} says upon his oath if he was in the situation the Commissioners of Compensation are in, he would give a Certificate for Compensation for the Money Bills to Mr. Charles Osborne, and thinks it would be unjust not to give him Compensation for those Bills.

No. 8.—JOHN JENKINSON, and WILLIAM HENRY FREEMANTLE, Esquires.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of John Jenkinson, and W. H. Freemantle, Esquires, Resident Secretary in London to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT the said Memorialists were duly appointed to the said office, and held it for many years, having purchased it under the direction and approbation of the Government of Ireland for the time being.

That this Office was always considered and held as a permanent establishment for life, and usually sold (with the consent of Government) if wished by the resident Secretary; and in no instance was the possessor of it ever removed or superseded: and that it was so stated to your Memorialists when they purchased it.

That in the month of December last, it was notified to the said Memorialists by the Government of Great Britain, that it was thought essential for the arrangements made made for the conduct of public Business in consequence of the Union of the two Countries, that their said office should be suppressed; but it was stated at the same time by the direction of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that full compensation should be made to the said John Jenkinson and W. H. Freemantle, Esquires, for their loss of office. Under these circumstances the said Memorialists actually desisted from acting in the said office in January 1801, and they humbly submit to the Honourable the Commissioners for Compensation, as by Law required, the annexed Statement of the amount of the value of their office, and the loss they sustain by the suppression of it, and their humble Petition for the full Compensation which they claim under the promise made to them by the Government of both parts of the United Kingdom, in consequence of the sense of Parliament expressed on this subject. And they humbly request the permission of the Honourable the Commissioners to verify and establish, by the annexed Affidavit made before a Master in Chancery, the several items of the salary, fees, and emoluments, prepared for the examination and consideration of your Honourable Board.

And your Memorialists, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c. &c.

John Jenkinson.

No. 9.

No. 9.—Right honourable EDMOND HENRY Viscount LIMERICK, Clerk of the Crown and Hanaper, in Ireland.

To the Right honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Claim of the Right Honourable Edmond Henry Viscount Limerick.

THE said Lord Limerick claims Compensation for the loss he will sustain in consequence of the power of creating new Peers and Barons being taken away from the Crown by the Act of Union, and which Creations produced him annually, upon an average three years last past, a sum of - - - - - £. 195 5 3

The said Lord Limerick claims Compensation, for that by reason of the Union, no Grants of Offices in both Houses of Parliament, of Offices in the Ordnance Department, and of Echeatorships, will in future be made, and which produced to him annually, upon an average of three years last past, a sum of - - - - - 72 5 5

The said Lord Limerick claims Compensation for a Grant annually made to him by Act of Parliament, of £. 51. 11 s. in lieu of fees upon Turnpike Bills, of which, after paying thereout the proportion thereof belonging severally to the Lord Chancellor's Secretary and Purse-Bearer, there remains to him a sum of - - - - - 43 19 4

The said Lord Limerick claims Compensation, for that by reason of the Act of Union, a new and very considerable increase of business is imposed upon his Office; namely, the issuing two Writs, with Schedules annexed to each, containing the form of the Return to be made to every one of the Temporal Peers of Ireland upon the event of a vacancy occurring in the present representation of the Peerage, and which, upon the smallest scale of calculation, will happen once in every year; and there being at present 220 Temporal Peers, will make 440 Writs and Schedules, the expence and trouble of which will be very considerable to him, and for which no fee or other reward is given by the said Act - - - - -

The said Lord Limerick also claims Compensation, for that by reason of the said Act, another new and considerable increase of business is imposed upon his Office; namely, the making and keeping Copies, to be attested by the Chancellor, of all Writs and Returns of Members of the House of Commons to be returned to the United Parliament after the Union, in order that the originals may be sent to the Crown Office in England; and for the doing of which duty, though it will be very expensive and troublesome, no fee or other reward is given by the said Act - - - - -

The said Lord Limerick submits, that for all said additional business, which, if paid for as business of the like nature is now paid for in his office, would produce above £. 400. a year;—he will not be considered unreasonable in seeking an annual compensation - - - - - 200 0 0

February 11th 1801.

Limerick.

2d October 1801.

A PATENT granted to Lord Limerick, Clerk of the Crown and Hanaper, bearing date 7th July 1797, was produced to the Board.

Thomas Bowcher, Esquire, being duly sworn,

Deposeth,

Is Deputy Clerk of the Crown and Hanaper.

None of the Articles now claimed by Lord Limerick are included in the Grants of the last Session of Parliament, the Grants made by the last Session being for public public and private Acts of Parliament, Writs of Election, Writs of Summons, and relating solely to Parliament. The Turnpike allowance of £. 42. 19 s. 4 d. was not charged, having been supposed by Deponent to have been on the Civil List.

Says, the fees charged for Patents in the Ordnance Department were received by Deponent for Lord Limerick, as specified in the Account produced, amounting to £. 44. 19 s. 3 d. the average of which being £. 11. 4 s. 9 d.

Says, a Grant has passed the Great Seal, revoking all the Grants in the Ordnance Department.

The Bourchier.

2d October 1801.

Peter Le Bas, being duly sworn—Says, he is the Second Clerk in the Civil Department in the Chief Secretary's Office. That the Account he has signed is a correct List of fees he has paid to Mr. Thomas Bourchier, upon Account of Barons and new Creations, and other Grants in the Peerage, upon Baronets and Escheatorships, to be paid over to Viscount Limerick, as Clerk of the Hanaper: And further saith, that the Fees mentioned in said List, respecting the Ordnance Department, are such as are allowed upon similar Grants for Civil Offices, and that the branch of emolument which was derived by Escheatorships is now lost.

Peter Le Bas.

No. 14.—Honourable JOHN YORKE, Clerk of the Crown in the Chancery of England.

To the Right honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

THE Clerk of the Crown in the Chancery of England, is perhaps the only Officer who has suffered considerably by the alteration which took place in the mode of passing Irish Acts of Parliament.

In consequence of the Act of Union, all that remained to the Crown Office of Irish business, and every emolument arising from it, will cease of course.

In this situation the Honourable John Yorke, patentee for life of the Crown Office, finds himself under the disagreeable necessity of laying before the Honourable Commissioners an accurate Statement of the fees, perquisites, and profits actually received by virtue of his Patent upon the passing of Acts of the Irish Parliament, both antecedent and subsequent to 1782, confiding on the equity and judgment of the Honourable Commissioners to entitle him to a just compensation for a very considerable loss sustained solely in consequence of two great national legislative measures; and he trusts it cannot be improper or immaterial to observe, that while other Officers retained their ancient fees and emoluments in 1782, those of the Clerk of the Crown were reduced, and no compensation either asked or granted; he takes leave to add at the same time, that the sole object of this application is to be allowed a compensation founded upon the actual receipt of his office upon Irish business antecedent and subsequent to 1782, without any idea of reimbursement for what he has lost between 1782 and this time, amounting to the sum of £. 9,271. 5. 4. as appears by the following Statement :

An ACCOUNT of the Fees, Perquisites, and Profits to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, which have arisen from proceedings in respect of Bills passed in the Parliament of Ireland, and transmitted to England for the King's Royal Assent.

Account of the above-mentioned Perquisites, Profits, &c. to the Clerk of the Crown, including the Perquisites of his Deputy.

No. 17.—Colonel MARCUS BERESFORD, Lieutenant General of the Ordnance.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Colonel Marcus Beresford,

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist, as Lieutenant General of the Ordnance, held the next office in rank to the Master General of the Ordnance.

That in the event of the chief office of the department being vacated, Memorialist would have naturally succeeded to the appointment of Master General of the Ordnance.

Memorialist sets forth his claim for additional compensation, in consequence of Lord Castlereagh's Statement in the House of Commons, where he declared, "That in the arrangement for compensating such offices or individuals as should be done away or injured, no person should be a sufferer, but the reasonable expectations of every person should be considered."

Memorialist states, that by the annulling of the Board of Ordnance in Ireland, he is for ever excluded from the succession to the office of Master General, which would double his income; the Master General having £.1,200, and the Lieutenant General only £.600 per annum.

Memorialist further begs leave to observe, that Major General Barber, eldest Colonel in the Royal Irish Artillery, who was obliged to retire in consequence of the before-mentioned arrangement, has been granted the sum of sixteen shillings per day, in addition to his full pay of £.1. 4s. in consideration of his succession to a Battalion being cut off by the incorporation of the Irish with the British Artillery.

And Memorialist begs leave to state, that a similar liberality extended to him in the same proportion, would give him an addition of £.400. per annum to his salary of £.600. and as the causes of their retiring, and the nature of their disappointments are the same, Memorialist begs leave to submit the justice of his claim to the consideration of the Commissioners; and prays such additional compensation as may appear to them just and reasonable.

Marcus Beresford, late Lieutenant General of the Ordnance.

No. 19.—The Right Honourable JOHN Earl of CLARE.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of the Right Honourable John Earl of Clare, Lord High Chancellor of Ireland.

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist and his predecessors, Chancellors of Ireland, have been for many years last past entitled to and paid the several fees mentioned in the annexed Account, on the Grants from the Crown of Honour, Places, and Profits, which passed the Great Seal of Ireland.

That

That by means of the Union, the said Grants cease, and Memorialist will thereby be a loser of the emoluments arising from such Grants.

May it therefore please your Honours to order your Memorialist such compensation for his losses sustained by the Union, as to your Honours shall seem meet.

October 21st 1801.

William M^cKay, Esquire, being duly sworn,

Deposeth,

That the Right Honourable Lord Clare was Lord Chancellor of Ireland on the first of January 1801, and for several years before.

A Paper was produced to Deponent, containing an account of Patents which passed the Great Seal in consequence of His Majesty's Letters for new creations of Peers, from the beginning of the year 1797 until the latter end of the year 1800, which Paper contains a true account for Patents which passed the Great Seal for creating Peers from the beginning of the year 1797 to the end of the year 1800; and also containing a true account of all the Patents which passed for the creation of Baronets for the same space of time; and also a true account of all the Patents which passed for the appointment of Escheators for the same space of time; and also of all Patents which passed for the appointment of Officers in the Ordnance department for the same space of time; and Deponent swears, that the several sums marked in the said Paper, as fees to the Lord Chancellor for said Patents in the said Paper, were actually paid by Deponent to the Lord Chancellor; and that the fees paid by Deponent to the Lord Chancellor, for Patents creating

For the Ordnance Department	8 10 0

The whole amounting to, net money - £. 645 7 0

And Deponent says, that he has calculated upon an average of four Years the said Sum, which amounts to the annual sum of net money, One hundred and sixty-one pounds six shillings and nine pence; and Deponent has signed his name to foot of said Paper.

N. B. The Marquis Cornwallis recommended, in January last, eleven Gentlemen to be Barons of Ireland, but the Duke of Portland has transmitted the opinion of the Attorney and Solicitor General against the Patents for those Honours being passed locally for Ireland, but as Barons of the United Kingdom; by which means the Patents for those eleven Barons will be passed in England, which will create a loss of £. 25. 6s. 0d.; a 4-years average upon which would produce your Memorialist £. 6. 6s. 6d.

NO. 21.—JOHN BERESFORD, Esquire.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of John Beresford, Esquire, Purse Bearer to the Right Honourable John Earl of Clare, Lord High Chancellor of Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist and his Predecessors, Purse-Bearers to the Chancellors of Ireland, have, for many years last past, been entitled to and paid the several Fees mentioned in the annexed Account on the Grants from the Crown, of Honours Places, and Profits, which passed the Great Seal of Ireland.

That by means of the Union the said Grants cease, and Memorialist will thereby be a loser of the emoluments arising from such passing.

May it therefore please your Honours to grant your Memorialist such Compensation for his losses, sustained by the Union, as to your Honours shall seem meet.

John Beresford.

No. 24.—WILLIAM POLLOCK, Esquire.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of William Pollock, Esquire, First Clerk in the Secretary of State's Office for the Home Department.

Sheweth,

THAT in the year 1782, the undersigned Memorialist was appointed First Clerk in the Home Department, and in that capacity has received at the close of each Session of the Irish Parliament from Messrs. Jenkinson and Freemantle, or from Messrs. Jenkinson and Weston, the sum of Fifty Pounds, as a gratuity for expediting the public Bills; that in consequence of the Union between Great Britain and Ireland, the undersigned Memorialist will sustain a diminution of income in the matter set forth, and therefore hopes he may appear justified to the Commissioners of Compensation in laying his case before them, trusting that they may be of opinion that the same comes within the spirit of the Act of the last Session of Parliament in Ireland respecting Compensations.

The Memorialist therefore prays, that the Commissioners will be pleased to take the Premises into their consideration, and will do therein as in their judgment may appear fit. All which is humbly submitted by the Memorialist.

Will^m Pollock.

William Taylor, sworn, and deposes—Says, that a sum of Fifty Pounds British currency, net, was annually remitted by the Government of Ireland, and paid to William Pollock, Esquire, First Clerk in the Secretary of State's Office, London, for his trouble in attending to the dispatch of the Bills transmitted from Ireland during the Session of Parliament, and that the said allowance is now discontinued in consequence of the Union; that Mr. Pollock was on the first of January last 1801, and for several years before, First Clerk in the Secretary of State's Office, and is still in that situation, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

Nos. 27, 28, and 29.—PETER LE BAS, CHARLES CROW, and CHARLES BERKELY KIPPAX, Clerks in the Civil Department of the office of the Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of Peter Le Bas, Charles Crow, and Charles Berkely Kippax,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT in consequence of the Union, they will suffer a great diminution of emoluments upon the several heads mentioned in the annexed Account, which they take the liberty of submitting to the Board.

That the benefit arising from the passing of Patents, for the purposes mentioned in the said Account, constituted the principal share of their emoluments.

That two of your Memorialists have been, within a few months, 25 and one 14 years in the said department, which has been a situation of constant labour and close attention.

That after such long and arduous duty (the greatest part of which was under the controul of one of the Right honourable Members of your Board, to whom we beg leave to refer for the truth of what we assert) we hope we shall not be left in a worse situation by the Union.

That we also beg leave to call your attention to a very material circumstance, that though we shall lose that branch of labour which was so productive of emolument, yet we can truly say, that the Union has created and is likely to create more labour to the office, without any emolument.

That under these circumstances we feel confident that your justice and liberality will give a liberal construction to the claims of men who have devoted so large a portion of their lives in the service of His Majesty and the Public.

Dublin Castle,
1st June 1801.

Peter Le Bas.

The Marquis of Cornwallis recommended, in January last, eleven Gentlemen to be Baronets of Ireland, but the Duke of Portland has transmitted the opinion of the Attorney and Solicitor General against the Patent for those honours being passed locally for Ireland, but as Baronets of the United Kingdom; by which means the Patents for those eleven Baronets will be passed in England, which will create a loss of one hundred and ten guineas, a four years average upon which would produce your Memorialist £. 31. 5. 7½.

No. 30.—WILLIAM FAWKNER, Esquire.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of William Fawcener, Esquire, one of the Clerks of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council in Ordinary.

Sheweth,

THAT by the Act for the Union of Great Britain and Ireland, passed in the last Session of the Parliament of Ireland, your Memorialist has sustained a considerable reduction in the emoluments of his office, as will appear by the annexed Abstract of the gratuities received by him for expediting the public bills, and of the fees and gratuities upon the private bills transmitted from Ireland for the year 1797, 1798, 1799, and 1800.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly prays, that the Commissioners will be pleased to take the premises into consideration, and make such order therein as to them shall seem proper.

Council Office, Whitehall,
15th July 1801.

No. 31.—SOLOMON DELANE, Esquire, Cork Herald.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Solomon Delane, Esq.

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist will be a considerable sufferer by reason of the Legislative Union which has taken place between Great Britain and Ireland, unless redressed under the Act of Parliament, passed in the last Session, for compensating Bodies Corporate and individuals.

Because Memorialist, as Cork Herald, has been entitled to emoluments arising from a certain Fee of honour on the creation of each Peer and Peeres; and by an article of the said Union, limiting the power of creating Peers, he is deprived of the continuance of such emoluments.

Therefore Memorialist begs leave to submit to your consideration the Statement herunto annexed, shewing the average sum of his emoluments for the last three years, amounting to £. 144. 18s. 2½d. yearly.

And prays, that the said sum of £. 144. 18s. 2½d. may be granted him yearly, as an average compensation for such his loss as aforesaid.

Sol ^r Delane.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.
The Memorial of Solomon Delane, Esquire, Cork Herald,

Humbly sheweth,

That he has presented a Memorial to your Honourable Board, stating his losses of Fees in consequence of the Union; but, with humble submission, he begs leave to substitute the enclosed account of his claim in lieu of the above-mentioned, as it exactly corresponds with his brother Herald's account, which has been formed upon the same principle as that of His Majesty's Crown Lawyers.

No. 32.—JAMES ORMSBY, Esquire.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of James Ormsby, Esquire, Deputy Keeper of His Majesty's Signet or Privy Seal, in Ireland.

Sheweth,

THAT in consequence of the Union, your Memorialist will suffer a diminution of emoluments in his office, as will appear by the annexed Account.

Memorialist therefore prays you will take his case into your consideration; and grant him Compensation, agreeable to the said Account.

Which is submitted.

James Ormsby.

December 3d 1801.

EVIDENCE.

Peter Le Bas, being duly sworn, deposeth—That Mr. James Ormsby acted as Deputy Keeper of the Signet or Privy Seal, under the appointment of the Lord Lieutenant bearing date 24th July 1797, till about August 1801, when he got notice that John Rickman, Esquire, would be appointed, whose appointment took place September 30th 1801. There has been fees paid to the Deputy for several years. The Principal had the right, but never claimed them; and they were paid to the Deputy. The Principal was entitled to £. 1. 7. 0. upon every article in the List given in and signed by Deponent; the remainder is a gratuity granted; but there is no instance where the Principal claimed that right, as no one would do the business, as the business is laborious. The gross amount for four years, after deducting £. 5. 6. 11. upon the Baronets passed in England, £. 318. 1. 7½; the average, £. 79. 10. 7. as will appear by an Account of fees signed by Deponent on the day before mentioned.

Peter Le Bas.

N. B. The Marquis Cornwallis recommended, in January last, eleven Gentlemen to be Baronets of Ireland, but the Duke of Portland has transmitted the opinion of the Attorney and Solicitor General against the patents for those honours being passed locally for Ireland, but as Baronets of the United Kingdom; by which means the patents for these eleven Baronets will be passed in England, which will create a loss of £. 5. 6. 11.

No. 33.—THOMAS MEREDYTH WINSTANLEY.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of Thomas Meredyth Winstanley, Dublin Herald,
Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist's entire emoluments consist in Fees of Honour upon Peerages, &c.; that he will be a considerable sufferer in consequence of the Union, which limits the Crown in granting Peerages in Ireland, unless redressed by your oaid.

Your Memorialist therefore begs leave to submit to your consideration the annexed Account of his Fees upon Peerages, &c. for four years, with an average thereon.

And prays for such relief as in your wisdom and justice may seem meet.

Tho^t Meredyth Winstanley.

Liffon Hall, near Swords.

EVIDENCE.

December 5th 1805.

Theobald Richard O'Flaherty, being duly sworn, Deponeth:—

A Clerk to Sir Chichester Fortescue; knows the amount of Fees of Honour which have been paid to Thomas Meredyth Winstanley, as Dublin Herald.

The average of which, upon the last four years, amounts to £. 185. 16s. 14d.

A second paper was produced, and signed by Deponent, containing the several sums paid as aforesaid, both which papers correspond exactly, and which Deponent compared with documents taken from Sir Chichester Fortescue's books; and that the said sums were actually paid, as appears by said Mr. Winstanley's receipts:

All which is submitted, by

J. Patrickson.

11th March 1801.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of John Patrickson, Esquire, Usher and Keeper of the Council Chamber,

Sheweth,

THAT the Parliament of Ireland, taking into their consideration the heavy expence of fees on passing Turnpike Bills as private Acts of Parliament, awarded the sum of fifty-one pounds eleven shillings in lieu of fees to Council-office, on Turnpike Bills in this kingdom.

That said sum of fifty-one pounds eleven shillings was placed on the Civil Establishment, and Memorialist has regularly received for his proportion of said grant the sum of two pounds five shillings and eleven pence, in lieu of fees on Turnpike Bills.

May it therefore please your Honours to take Memorialist's case into consideration, and order him compensation for said sum of two pounds five shillings and eleven pence (the Lords of the Treasury alledging, on his application to them, that no provision has been made in the last Bill of Supply, and that he must apply to the Commissioners of Compensation) so that he may not be a loser by means of the Union.

J. Patrickson.

No. 49.—Sir CHICHESTER FORTESCUE, Knight.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Sir Chichester Fortescue, Knight, Ulster King of Arms of all Ireland.

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist is a very considerable sufferer by the Union, as it has deprived him of the continuance of those Fees which constituted the greatest part of his income; an Account of which Fees he herewith begs leave to lay before you, stating the average sum thereof for the four years preceding the year 1801.

That Memorialist also, in consequence of the Union, being about to be deprived of his apartments in the Parliament House, submits for your consideration, as a part of his claim, the estimate he has made of the value of said apartments; which estimate he is persuaded will be deemed reasonable, when it is considered that he resides there free from rent, taxes, and repairs.

And therefore Memorialist hopes that you will take his case into consideration, so that he may be compensated, who, relying on the performance of his Office entire as before the Union, sacrificed great chances of promotion and emoluments as an Officer in the Naval Service high in rank.

Chichester Fortescue, Ulster.

Office of Arms Oct. 27th 1801.

EVIDENCE.

Oct. 28th 1801.

Peter Le Bar, Esquire, being duly sworn—Deponent says, That the Account this day delivered in by Sir Chichester Fortescue, Ulster King of Arms, and signed by by Deponent, of the gross sum of the Fees of Honour received by him for his portion, and for the portions which are claimed by other persons having claims thereto, in the years 1797, 1798, 1799, and 1800, and the average thereon, amounting to £.2,690. 11s. 5d. is a just and true account.—Deponent further saith, That the personal Fees of the King of Arms for grants of supporters, for embellishing Patents, and for registering the descents therein mentioned, have also been received by said Sir Chichester Fortescue; and that he has examined the Table of the Fees of Honour, and finds that the portion of those Fees claimed by Sir Chichester Fortescue, are the Fees of Honour to which the Ulster King of Arms is entitled; and that the average stated in the said Account upon the said Fees for grants of supporters, registering descent of said Fees, for embellishing Patents, and his portion of the Fees of Honour, amounting to £.857. 13s. 4d. is truly and fairly stated; and Deponent verily believes, that the Ulster King of Arms is entitled to claim Compensation for the same: And Deponent further saith, That the said Sir Chichester Fortescue possessed said Office of Ulster King of Arms on the 1st day of January 1801, and for several years before.

Peter Le Bas.

An ACCOUNT of the Fees of Honour, Fees upon Grants of Supporters, and Fees for embellishing Patents, and certain Fees upon Baronets, which have been paid to Sir Chichester Fortescue, Ulster King of Arms, in consequence of His Majesty's Letters, granting the dignities herein named, from the 1st of January 1797 to the 1st of January 1801, being four years.

No. 59.—SIR STEPHEN COTTRELL.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Sir Stephen Cottrell, one of the Clerks in ordinary of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council of Great Britain,
Sheweth,

THAT from the year 1772 the Memorialist has had the honour to be specially entrusted by the Government of Ireland to solicit the Money Bills, and others, passed in each Session by the Parliament of Ireland, after the said Bills had been approved by His Majesty in Council, through the different offices on this side of the water, and in returning the same under the Great Seal of Great Britain to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

That at the conclusion of each Session of the Parliament of Ireland, the Memorialist received a gratuity from the Government of Ireland of £.400. British, for his care in the premises, exclusive of the Fees upon the private Bills payable at the Council-office, and exclusive of the allowance made each Session to the Clerks in ordinary, and Under Clerks of the Council, for dispatch.

That the said gratuity of £.400. was received net by the Memorialist from Messrs. Freemantle and Jenkinson, and their predecessors in office.

That in consequence of the Union between Great Britain and Ireland, the Memorialist has sustained a very material diminution of income by the circumstances above set forth; and therefore hopes that he may appear justified to the Commissioners of Compensation in laying his case before them, trusting that they may be of opinion that the same comes within the spirit of the Act of the last Session of Parliament in Ireland, respecting compensations.

The Memorialist therefore prays that the Commissioners will be pleased to take the premises into their consideration, and will do therein as in their judgment may appear fit. All which is humbly submitted.

Steph. Cottrell.

We do hereby certify, That we received from the Government of Ireland for the use of Sir Stephen Cottrell, and paid over to him, the sum of £.400. net, in each of the following years, 1797, 1798, 1799, and 1800, for his care, trouble, and dispatch patch of the Money Bills, and others, transmitted from Ireland during each of the above Sessions of the Parliament of that kingdom.

London,
June 1801.

Jn. Jenkinson.
W. H. Freemantle.

10th October 1801.

I certify, That I examined Messrs. Jenkinson and Freemantle's books, and that I found entries for the payment of the above sum for four years last past to Sir Stephen Cottrell.

J. Patrickson.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation:

The Memorial of Sir Stephen Cottrell, one of the Clerks of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council in ordinary,

Sheweth,

That by the Act for the Union of Great Britain and Ireland, passed in the last Session of the Parliament of Ireland, your Memorialist has sustained a considerable reduction in the emoluments of his office, as will appear by the annexed Abstract of the gratuities received by him for expediting the public Bills, and of the fees and gratuities upon the private Bills transmitted from Ireland; for the years 1797, 1798, 1799, and 1800.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly prays, that the Commissioners will be pleased to take the premises into consideration, and make such order therein as to them shall seem proper.

John Patrickson, Esquire, sworn, and examined—Saith, That Sir Stephen Cottrell claims £.400. British, net, at 9 per cent. for his care in dispatch of Irish Money Bills, and others, in which Government were concerned. Says, he examined the books of Messrs. Freemantle and Jenkinson, and that sum appears to have been paid him for years, he believes fifteen years. Says, that Messrs. Jenkinson and Freemantle certify their having paid him said sum of £.400. British, which was paid net, at 9 per cent. amounting to £.436. Irish. He also claims, as a further gratuity for expediting public and private Bills, on an average of four years £.157. 15. 3 $\frac{1}{2}$. which at 9 per cent. is £.171. 19. 2 $\frac{1}{2}$.

No. 60.—JOHN DWYER, Esquire.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of John Dwyer, of the City of Dublin, Esquire, Secretary in Chief to the Right Honourable John Earl of Clare, Lord High Chancellor of Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist had been appointed, and has acted as Secretary in Chief to the said Earl of Clare as Lord High Chancellor of Ireland, since his appointment as Lord High Chancellor in the year 1789.

That by reason of the Union, it became necessary for the Earl of Clare to attend very frequently in the Imperial Parliament, and therefore it became absolutely necessary to appoint an efficient Master of the Rolls in Ireland.

That by the appointment of Sir Michael Smith, Baronet, as Master of the Rolls, and the powers given him by such appointment, your Memorialist is deprived of a very great proportion of the fees of office which your Memorialist was entitled, and used to receive as Secretary to the Lord High Chancellor.

May it therefore please your Honours to grant unto your Memorialist such Compensation as to your Honours shall seem meet; and your Memorialist will pray, John Dwyer.

Dublin, 19th January 1802.

Compensation Office, 6th February 1802.

William McKay of the city of Dublin, Gentleman, being sworn, and examined, Deposeth:—

That he hath known John Dwyer, Esquire, to be as Secretary to the late Lord Clare Lord High Chancellor of Ireland, from the time of his appointment as Chancellor on the 20th June 1789 to the 1st day of January 1801, and until the death of the said Lord Chancellor; saith, that a Patent passed the Great Seal of Ireland on or about the fifteenth day of June one thousand eight hundred and one, appointing the Right Honourable Sir Michael Smith, Baronet, Master of the Rolls of Ireland; saith, that said John Dwyer has acted as Secretary to the said Master of the

the Rolls since his appointment as aforesaid, as also to the said Lord Chancellor; that the greater number of Petitions in that time have been addressed to the said Sir Michael, and has received the fees due to him as Secretary to said Sir Michael, which he was used to receive as Secretary to the said Lord Chancellor for his own use; faith, he this Deponent has, upon several occasions, during the absence of the said John Dwyer, acted for him as Secretary, and has always accounted for the fees received by him to the said John Dwyer; faith, he heard, and believes, that since the death of the said Lord Chancellor, that said John Dwyer is Trustee for some other person in respect to the fees received by him as Secretary: This Deponent faith, that he verily believes that the fees received by the said John Dwyer as Secretary to the said Lord Chancellor, and Sir Michael Smith as Master of the Rolls, would amount at least to the sum of One thousand pounds yearly, in case the said Lord Chancellor had lived to the end of the first year of Sir Michael's appointment; that Deponent believes, in the common course of business, as many Petitions would be addressed to the said Sir Michael as to the said Lord Chancellor; faith, that he believes the said John Dwyer received the amount of the fees, as Secretary aforesaid, to his own sole use, and that he knows of no entry being kept of the amount thereof, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

No. 63.—Right Honourable JOHN Earl of ALDBOROUGH.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of the Right Honourable John Earl of Aldborough, Agent for the Forces on the Establishment of Ireland serving at Gibraltar, &c.

Sheweth,

THAT His Majesty, by His letter under His Royal Sign Manual, bearing date at His Court at Saint James's, the 23d day of December 1794, in the 34d year of His reign, directed to His right trusty and right well-beloved Cousin and Counsellor John Earl of Westmoreland, His Majesty's then Lieutenant General and General Governor of His Kingdom of Ireland, was graciously pleased to direct, authorize, and empower His said Lord Lieutenant to constitute and appoint your Memorialist (by his then name and description of the Honourable John Stratford) in the room of the Honourable Thomas Knox, to be Agent for all such of His Majesty's Forces on the establishment of Ireland as were then serving or should thereafter serve in His Majesty's garrison of Gibraltar, or in His possessions in Canada, Nova Scotia, or elsewhere out of His said kingdom of Ireland, and to correspond with His Majesty's Paymaster General in Great Britain, touching the business and accounts of His said forces, with an allowance of three pence per pound sterling upon all sums which should be issued to and paid by him on the account of all such forces, to be paid out of His Majesty's revenues at large of that His said kingdom during His pleasure, as by a copy of said letter hereunto annexed, and to which your Memorialist refers, may fully and at large appear.

Your Memorialist further shews, that his Excellency the said John Earl of Westmoreland, to whom His Majesty's said Royal Letter was specifically directed, did, in compliance therewith, by warrant under His hand and seal, bearing date at Dublin, the eighth day of January one thousand seven hundred and ninety-two, constitute and appoint your Memorialist, by the name and description aforesaid, Agent for all such of His Majesty's Forces on the establishment of His said kingdom of Ireland as were then serving or should thereafter serve in His Majesty's garrison of Gibraltar, or in His possessions in Canada, Nova Scotia, or elsewhere out of His said kingdom, and to correspond with His Majesty's Paymaster General in Great Britain touching the business and accounts of His said Forces as by the said Warrant, a copy of which is hereunto annexed, and to which your Memorialist refers, likewise appears.

Your Memorialist further shews, that your Memorialist, in pursuance and by virtue of the said warrant or power, has ever since continued in the employment of agent for His Majesty's said forces, serving abroad out of this kingdom, and has received and enjoyed the emoluments and benefits arising therefrom.

That your Memorialist's said employment, in consequence of the said Act of Union, has ceased and is discontinued, by means whereof your Memorialist is deprived of the emoluments and benefits of his said employment, which yielded and produced, and would, had not the Union been effected, have continued to yield and produce an annual income of £ 1,500. sterling to your Memorialist, as by the annexed Estimate appears.

That by the tenth section of the Act of Parliament under which your Honours have been appointed Commissioners, it is enacted, " That if any office or allowance, or any emolument from any office, shall cease or be diminished by the Union, and in consequence thereof, which was not paid or payable before the Union out of His Majesty's Civil List, in that case the Lord Lieutenant or other Chief Governor or Governors of this kingdom for the time being, upon report being had from the said Commissioners thereupon, are thereby authorized and empowered to grant any allowance or allowances, by salary, during his or their natural life or lives, equal to the loss which shall be ascertained by the said Commissioners to be sustained tained in consequence thereof, by the person or persons possessed of the said offices or emoluments at the time of the Union," &c. &c.

May it therefore please your Honours to take your Memorialist's case into consideration, and to make such report thereon to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant as to your Honours in your wisdom and discretion shall seem meet.

Aldborough.

It is Deponent's duty to make up, check, and certify to the Lords of the Treasury the amount of pay due to the Army under the King's establishment.

From 1st of April 1796 to 31st March 1798, the establishment was fixed at a certain charge of £. 57,407. 5s. 2d. per annum, in which issue was included subsistence and arrears; the subsistence was regularly issued (perhaps) every quarter, being certified by Deponent monthly; perhaps two years arrears were then due to regiments; from 1st April 1798 arrears were struck off, and from which time the whole pay due to officers and men was issued as subsistence, clothing not included.

On 1st January 1797, £. 57,407. 5s. 2d. was the amount of what went through the Agents hands for the year ending 31st December 1797.

An account being produced, signed Matthew Handcock, Deputy Muster Master General.—

Is a true account, and is deponent's hand-writing.

That since 1st January 1801 inclusive, the charges for these forces has ceased.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners appointed pursuant to an Act of Parliament for making (amongst other things) compensation to those persons whose offices should by the Union be discontinued or diminished in value.

The Memorial of the Right Honourable John Earl of Aldborough, Sheweth,

That your Memorialist, on the eighth of April one thousand eight hundred and one, preferred his Memorial to your Honours, stating, as the fact really was, that your Memorialist had been appointed Agent for all such of His Majesty's forces on the establishment of this kingdom as were serving in Gibraltar, or elsewhere abroad, and that your Memorialist had continued in said employment, and received the emoluments thereof, until the same had ceased in consequence of the Union.

And your Memorialist prayed,

That your Honours might take his case into consideration, and make such report thereon to the Lord Lieutenant as your Honours should think fit, as by said Memorial remaining amongst the proceedings of this Honourable Board, and to which your Memorialist refers, may more fully appear.

Your Memorial further shews, that your Honours on the twentieth day of January last were pleased to report, that your Memorialist was on the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and one, and for several years previous thereto, in possession of his said office. That same, in consequence of the Union, was discontinued, and that the allowance of poundage to your Memorialist amounted to Nine hundred and eighty-one pounds three shillings and sixpence a year net money upon the average of the then four last years, as by said report, to which your Memorialist likewise refers, may also appear.

That your Memorialist is by said report, should the same be permitted to remain unrectified, very much injured, in regard your Honours have thereby estimated the annual produce of your Memorialist's said employment at an average rate of poundage only on the sums issued for the payment of the troops serving abroad for four years next antecedent to the said Union; whereas your Memorialist conceives and submits that your Honours should have taken into your consideration the actual and full emoluments that had arisen to him from his said office or employment at the time of the Union, and which your Memorialist avers amounted to One thousand five hundred pounds a year and upwards at and previous to that period; and your Memorialist also submits it to your consideration, that no rule entered into by your Honours for the internal regulation of your proceedings at your Board, should be permitted to operate against the spirit of the Act of Parliament under which you have been appointed, and to the faith of Government heretofore solemnly pledged, that no employment that should cease or be discontinued by the measure of Union should be lessened or diminished in value.

That your Memorialist, in addition to the proofs heretofore laid before your Honours, has lately discovered further evidence from whence, it will unquestionably appear that the same was worth and yielded one thousand five hundred pounds a year and upwards, at and previous to, the time of the Union.

Your Memorialist therefore prays that your Honours will permit him to lay such further proofs before you; and that you will be pleased to reconsider his said Claim, and make such further report thereon as you shall in your wisdom and discretion think fit.

Aldborough.

Monday, 29th November 1802.

The Honourable Thomas Knox, sworn,

Saith, he this Deponent held the employment of Agent for paying the troops serving abroad immediately previous to the appointment of the Earl of Aldborough in 1792; it produced to Deponent about £. 1,700 per annum; that was previous to to the augmentation of the army, which would have increased Deponent's income very much if same had taken place during his holding said employment. There was annually Sixty-one thousand odd hundred pounds remitted to the Paymaster General in England through Deponent, upon which Deponent received three pence in the pound, which produced, as near as Deponent can recollect, £. 770 per annum. Same was issued monthly from the Treasury, about £. 5,000 per month, and remitted at different times, about twice, thrice, or four times per annum, as the exchange happened to be favourable. This mode of receiving and remitting always left Deponent a balance in hand of not less, upon an average, than £. 22,000. The bank of Finlay and Co. were his deputies to transact Deponent's business, for which they allowed him 3 per cent. on the floating balance, averaged at £. 22,000, the profits whereof produced £. 660. per annum; there was also a considerable profit upon exchange, which was at that time about one per cent. or more under par, upon which advantage to the Bank they allowed one-half per cent. dividing the profit of one per cent., and allowing Deponent ten shillings per cent. on the annual remittance of £. 61,000. per annum, which produced to him about £. 300. per annum; when there was a loss upon exchange, it was always allowed by Government to the office, but at that time it was generally considerably below par. Deponent understood this to have been the practice of his predecessors, and therefore followed it.

The Paymaster in England did not disapprove of this mode.

Tho^r Knox.

John Claudius Beresford, Esquire, sworn,

Saith, he is acquainted with the employment of Paymaster of troops serving abroad; he rented it from Lord Aldborough at the rate of £. 1,200 per annum by quarterly payments. His engagement to pay same existed at the time of the Union, and for about three years before. He rented it under a deed, by which they were mutually bound for seven years from the date thereof; and it was agreed between them, and stated in the deed, that if the number of the troops increased so as to render the profits of the employment £. 200. per annum more, that Lord Aldborough should have £. 100. a year thereof.

There was an increase of pay to the army; does not recollect the time, but believes that it was about one year before the Union; never paid him the increase of £. 100 a year. The office was diminished in value to Deponent, which diminution, he believes, would not have existed after the restoration of peace.

If Lord Aldborough had agreed to renew his bargain after the seven years, Deponent would have renewed it with him. The profits of the employment arose from a certain sum of money being likely to remain in his hands, and from a benefit he might have made in the exchange, as he was allowed for remitting the Dublin Exchange, and could have obtained Country Bills on better terms; but the Lords of the Treasury would not issue the money to him as long as they continued to borrow from England, but paid the Paymaster in England by a transfer.

No. 64.—ABRAHAM BRADLEY KING.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Abraham Bradley King, Stationer to His Majesty, and Printer to the Honourable House of Commons,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT in the year 1750, the late Abraham Bradley, grandfather to your Memorialist, purchased from Samuel Fairbrother all his right, title, and interest, in the Patent granted by His Majesty King George the First, appointing him Stationer to His Majesty in Ireland:

That his Majesty King George the Second was pleased to grant a new Patent, confirming said Abraham Bradley in said office; and in the year 1780, His present Majesty was graciously pleased to order another Patent to be made out, re-appointing said Abraham Bradley and your Memorialist, and the survivor of them, to the emoluments of the aforesaid office, a copy of which Patent and Appointment is herunto annexed.

That your Memorialist and his predecessors, Patentees (agreeable to the privileges enjoyed under similar grants in Great Britain) have heretofore supplied the office of the Serjeant at Arms, for the use of the Honourable House of Commons, and the office of the Clerk of the Parliament for the use of the Most Honourable the House of Lords, with all manner of Stationary wares:

That your Memorialist and his Predecessors, Patentees from the first period that the proceedings of the House were printed (very nearly a century) have exercised the office of Printer to the House, under the particular appointment of successive Speakers; from the Right Honourable William Connolly to the Right Honourable John Foster, which will appear by the printed Votes of the House.

That in the year 1782, Abraham Bradley, your Memorialist's grandfather died, but from the consideration that the emoluments of the office, which he had procured from him at a considerable expence, would be an ample provision (as was expressed by his will) he bequeathed his property among the rest of his grandchildren.

That your Memorialist's father enjoyed the benefits of the employment until the year 1798, when he died; and, believing the business permanent and lucrative, he was induced to make his will in favour of his other children, thereby leaving your Memorialist, and a young family, destitute of every other means of support.

That your Memorialist has only enjoyed the emoluments of the business since his father's death; little more than two years, during which period he has been obliged to expend a large sum of money in the purchase of a house and warehouses, the lease of those wherein the business had been formerly carried on expiring with his father's life.

That your Memorialist had every reason to hope, from the constant attention paid by him to public business, it would be continued to him and his children, as on all former occasions, unless forfeited by their own misconduct.

Your Memorialist humbly submits his case to the consideration of this Honourable Board, with a well-founded hope they will grant him such compensation as will reimburse him in the loss he must sustain in his annual income by the consolidation of the Parliaments, which he humbly submits will more fully appear from the Statement annexed, of the amount of his Parliamentary Accounts for the last three years.

And your Memorialist will ever pray.

Ab^m Bradley King.

Oct. 15th 1801.

William McKenzie, Printer and Stationer, being duly sworn,

Deposeth,

That the fair profit on printing the Journals of the House of Commons is from twenty to twenty-five per cent.; and that the fair profit of printing the Votes of the House of Commons (which is night-work) is or ought to be twenty-five per cent. He also deposeth, that the fair profit for stationery, taking the whole of the articles, is from ten to twelve per cent. The above deposition is to the best of Deponent's knowledge and belief.

W. McKenzie.Nathaniel Gallwell, duly sworn,

Deposeth,

Is a stationer, and is acquainted with the usual profits made upon stationery, but not so well on the profits made upon printing.

That the fair profit for a stationer to make upon stationery furnished, is fifteen per cent.

Deponent is of opinion, that upon printing work done for the House of Lords and Commons, that the Printer ought to have twenty-five per cent.

Nathl Gallwell.John Brindley, being duly sworn,

Deposeth,

Deponent has been living with Mr. Abraham Bradley King and his father, as Book-keeper and Clerk, for upwards of thirty years.

Deponent thinks that the printing work done for Parliament by Mr. King, for the last four years, amounted in value to three times the stationery furnished to Parliament.

*John Brindley.*Right Honourable John Foster, sworn, Nov. 11th 1801:

That, under the authority of the House of Commons to appoint the Printer of the Votes and Journals, he appointed Mr. King's father and him to print them; that both during his father's life, and afterwards, Mr. Abraham Bradley King continued printing of them every Session: that he never did change them, nor should he have thought it right; nor would he have changed a person who did his duty so well as Mr. King did.

The power arose from a Vote on the first and last day of each Session; that though he deemed the power of changing to rest in him, he never did, nor would he for the reasons above have changed the Printer, unless for misbehaviour.

John Foster.

That he appointed the Distributor of the Votes Mr. King printed, the Assistants, the Doorkeepers, Messengers, and many other persons under the authority of the House, as incident to the station he held, without any express vote or order.

That the distributor of those Votes, William Brown, was appointed by him in or about the time of the King of France's death, in the room of Lorenzo Sassi, whom Lord Pery had appointed, and whom he found in the office, and whom he continued, as well as every other person there, not deeming himself justified to change any officer who did his duty on account merely of his succeeding to the Chair.

Says, That Brown and his assistant, and all the other persons he alluded to, received compensation, and he supposes, but this is only his conjecture, that it was not intended by the Committee to whom compensation was referred, to consider any person in that Committee but such as received grants or fees from the House, or for the dispatch of business in it.

No. 65.—HENRY MINCHIN, Esquire.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Henry Minchin, Esquire, Second Serjeant at Arms,

Sheweth,

THAT in the last Session of Parliament, a Committee of the Lords was appointed to enquire into the amount of the grants and emoluments usually made for and enjoyed by the several Officers and other Attendants of the House of Lords; and the said Officers and Attendants were directed to lay before the said Committee a statement of each person's salary and emoluments.

That Memorialist being then and still an Officer in the North Hants regiment of militia in England, and resident there, he caused a Statement of such usual grants and emoluments appertaining to his office as Second Serjeant at Arms, to be laid before the said Committee, who were pleased to decline interfering with respect to certain Fees of honour and salary, as a State Officer, to which your Memorialist is entitled as Second Serjeant at Arms, at the same time declaring, that the consideration thereof did not come within the limits of their power; but that Commissioners would be shortly appointed under an Act of Parliament for compensating Bodies Corporate and Individuals, before whom your Memorialist's claim for compensation for any loss he might sustain on account of such Fees of honour would be properly cognizable; and at the same time the Earl of Westmeath, one of the Lords of said Committee, informed Joseph Griffith, Esquire, your Memorialist's deputy, that as to the annual sum of £. 100. your Memorialist's salary, as a State Officer, it was then supposed by said Committee the same would remain a charge upon the establishment.

Your Memorialist submits to this Honourable Board the Statement of such usual Fees of honour hereunto annexed as Memorialist has heretofore received, and now conceives himself entitled to compensation for, which his said deputy, who usually received the same for Memorialist's use, can verify; and by which said statement Memorialist also submits, that the compensation he is entitled to for such fees of honour amounts to the yearly sum of £. 59. 16s. 4½d. upon the average of the three last years, according to the mode adopted by the said Committee of the House of Lords, exclusive of his said annual salary of £. 100. as a State Officer.

Your Memorialist therefore prays, That your Honours will be pleased to grant him the said yearly sum of £. 59. 16s. 4½d. during his life as an average compensation for such his loss of said Fees of honour, or such other compensation in lieu thereof as to this Honourable Board shall seem just and reasonable.

Examined, and signed by me, this 5th day of April 1802.

Theobald Rich^d O'Flaherty.

The 5th of April 1802.

Joseph Griffith, Esquire, sworn.

As one of the Deputies appointed by Mr. Minchin, Second Serjeant at Arms, does not receive to his own use any part of the emoluments of his office, for which he now claims compensation. Mr. Minchin received from the House of Lords compensation for fees on private Bills, and on his share of a debenture, as compensation for his share on Turnpike Bills. Smith, the paper now delivered in and signed by Examinant, is, so far as this Examinant's signature at the end of the two first pages thereof, a true copy of the List of fees delivered in by Mr. Minchin to the Committee of the House of Lords, to the best of Examinant's recollection and belief. His Fees of Honour, nor his Salary as State Officer, were not granted him or included in the compensation allowed him by the Committee of the House of Lords. Mr. Minchin is in possession of the office under and by virtue of the Patent now produced by Examinant, dated 26th September 1789, and was in possession thereof the 1st of January 1802.

Joseph Griffith.

Theobald Richard O'Flaherty.

Saith, That the account now delivered in, and signed by Examinant, has been compared with the books of his Office, and is a true account of the Fees of Honour paid to Mr. Minchin as Second Serjeant at Arms for four years, ending 1st January 1801.

No. 66.—STEPHEN PHILLIPS.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Stephen Phillips, Office-keeper to the Office of the Under Secretary for the Military Department in Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist hath hereto annexed a Statement of Fees received by him on Patents for the last four years, by which it appears that on an average he hath received the sum of Four pounds four shillings and seven pence three farthings annually on that account, which emolument has ceased by reason of the Union.

May it therefore please your Honours to award unto your Memorialist Compensation for such loss of emolument.

And he will pray,

Stephen Phillips.

The 3d Day of May 1802.

Peter Le Bas, Esquire, sworn;—

Saith, That Stephen Phillips was formerly Office-keeper in the Ulster Secretary's Office: That on the new modelling of the office, by dividing the Military from the two Civil Departments in the year one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, Mr. Phillips, who was then appointed to the Military Department, still retained the Emoluments to which he had formerly been entitled, and has ever since continued to receive same, being the Fees on Peerages and Escheatorships in Ulster and Munster, the Province to be determined by the place from whence the title was taken: Saith, Examinant received the fees, and paid over the amount thereof, as mentioned in the account now given in and signed by Examinant, the amount whereof in four years is £. 16. 17 s. 11 d. and the average thereof £. 4. 4 s. 7 d. per annum, which Account is in Examinant's hand-writing, and was by him extracted from the book in which he noted the payments.

Peter Le Bas.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Henry Paine, Office-keeper of the Chief Secretary's Office to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Humbly sheweth,

THAT he has been Office-keeper in the said office upwards of twenty-six years, that in consequence of the Union he is a considerable sufferer by the discontinuance to him of certain Fees heretofore attached to his office, as will appear by the enclosed Schedule of Fees which he has received in the three years ending the first January 1801.

Your Memorials therefore prays you will be pleased to take his case into your consideration, and grant him such compensation as shall appear to you to be just and proper.

H. Paine.

Know all men by these Presents, That I the said Sir John Blaquiere do hereby constitute and appoint Mr. Henry Paine to be Office-keeper to the Chief Secretary's Office in Dublin Castle, to hold the same, with all the profits and emoluments thereunto belonging, during good behaviour. As witness my hand and seal, this 11th day of December 1775.

H. Paine.

The number of Regimental and Staff Commissions in the foregoing List are charged at the accustomed rate, and are in my opinion no more than what Mr. Paine had a right to claim for having examined the details respecting them, handed to me by Mr. Payne. The numbers are taken from the commanding Officers Returns at the landing of Regiments in Ireland, and from the Gazettes, stating the subsequent promotions and successions; and I do believe if there was any Commission charged by Mr. Paine improperly, that the Regimental Agent would not pay the fee for it.

No: 68.—THOMAS LINDSAY, Esquire.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Thomas Lindsay, Esquire, late Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod attending the House of Lords,

Sheweth,

THAT in the last Session of Parliament, Lords Committees were appointed to enquire into the amount of the Grants and Emoluments usually made for and enjoyed by the several Officers and other Attendants of the House of Lords; and the said Officers and Attendants were directed to lay before the Committee a Statement of each person's salary and emoluments.

That Memorialist accordingly laid his statement before their Lordships, who were pleased to decline taking a statement of certain Fees of Honour to which he was entitled as a State Officer, declaring that the consideration of such did not come within their province; but informed Memorialist, that he would have his remedy by applying to Commissioners who would be appointed under the Act of Parliament for compensating Bodies Corporate and Individuals.

Therefore Memorialist submits to this Honourable Board his Statement herunto annexed, which he can verify, shewing the Compensation whereof he is in this instance deficient (amounting to £. 184. 9s. 11d. yearly for his life) according to the mode adopted by their Lordships, when allowing him Compensation on part of his claim.

And prays that the said sum of £. 184. 9s. 11d. may be granted him yearly for his life, as an average compensation for such his loss of emoluments.

16th February 1801.

Fees of Honour, to be compensated for the loss whereof the said Lords Committees referred Mr. Lindsay to the Commissioners of Compensation.

Note.—Their Lordships referred in like manner two other Claimants, namely, Usher King of Arms, and the Second Serjeant at Arms, each of whom received Compensation from the Commissioners for Fees of Honour.

That the above Statements of Fees are correct can be proved by the Tables of Fees in the Parliament-office and Office of Arms, ready to produce; and the difference in the amount of said fees clearly shews, that there was not any Fee of Honour

Honour included in Mr. Lindsay's claim laid before the Lords;—for instance, to multiply the Introduction Fees by the number of Peers in the first line of the Statement laid before the Lords, and the sum will agree with the sum (£. 47. 15s.) opposite said first line; but multiply the Fees of Honour by the like number of Peers, and the sum will amount to £. 193. 17s. 7½d. which difference in proportion will be found all through said Statement, where Fees for Peers are mentioned.

Sir Chichester Fortescue,
Ulster King of Arms.

Dublin Castle, 14th Feb^r 1801.

Sir,

Col. Littlehales having delivered to me your letter of the 4th instant, relative to the office of Usher of the Black Rod, I laid it before the Lord Lieutenant; and by his Excellency's commands I am to acquaint you, that the Usher of the Black Rod is an Officer attendant on the state and person of the Chief Governor, and that his office does not cease in consequence of the Union. You are therefore to continue the payment of the Fees of Honour to which he may be entitled in the usual manner.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your most obedient humble Servant,
E. Cooke.

I do certify, That the foregoing is a true Copy taken from the Marquis of Cornwallis's second Country Letter-book in the Civil Department of the Chief Secretary's Office, Dublin Castle.

22d May 1802.

Peter Le Bas,
Deputy Clerk of the Paper-office.

I certify, That by an appointment of his Excellency Earl Camden, duly entered in my office, dated 9th June 1798, Thomas Lindsay, Esquire, was appointed Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, with all fees, salaries, profits, perquisites, emoluments, benefits, and advantages thereunto belonging, in as full and ample a manner as any other person formerly held and enjoyed the same, and which said office he still holds.

That the average upon the last four years amounts to - £. 237 0 3

That none of the said Fees of Honour were taken into consideration by the Committee.

Thosbald Richd O'Flaherty.

William Taylor, Esquire, sworn :

Saith, That Thomas Lindfay, Esquire, as Usher of the Black Rod, remains in that office in consequence of his original appointment from Lord Camden, and will continue to hold it until another may be appointed in his room, under the warrant of the Lord Lieutenant, and is entitled to Fees of Honour for same, not as an attendant on the House of Lords, but as an Officer of State, and has acted officially since the Union took place; he now continues to receive Fees of Honour for Archbishops and Bishops, Knights of Saint Patrick, and Knights Batchelors.

Will^m Taylor.

31st May 1802.

His Grace Charles Lord Archbishop of Dublin, sworn :

Was one of the Committee of the House of Lords who determined the compensation to be given to the Officers of the House of Lords in consequence of the Union. The initials "C. C." and the word "Examined," endorsed on the paper writing now produced, are this Deponent's signature, and were by him endorsed thereon—Saith, he believes the said paper writing is that upon which Mr. Lindfay's compensation was made out and granted by the Committee of the Lords, his Grace having cast up the figures, and finding the same to be right, with the exception of £.32. 10. by which it falls short.

Chas^r Dublin.

31st May 1802.

Mr. Theobald Richard O'Flaherty, sworn :

Saith, The paper writing now produced by Examinant, and signed by him, contains a true Statement of the Fees of Honour payable to Thomas Lindfay, Esquire, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, for the four last years, which was by Deponent extracted from the books in the office of the King at Arms. And Deponent saith, that there was not any part thereof allowed him by the Committee of the House of Lords; and that the Fees stated in the Account which was before said Committee, and which is endorsed by the Archbishop of Dublin, contains only Fees of Introduction, and not any Fees of Honour. Saith, he extracted a List of the Fees of Honour and the Fees of Introduction, from tables thereof in said offices: Saith, at the time Deponent prepared said List of Fees of Introduction, he had received instructions in his office not to make out any List of Fees of Honour for said Committee: Saith, That the sum of £.32. 10s. by which the said List falls short of the compensation granted Mr. Lindfay, was the fees on business done in the intermediate time between the putting in of said Statement to the Committee, and the time of their making their report.

No. 76.—JOHN Earl of GLANDORE and JOHN JOSHUA Earl of CARYSPORT.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of the Right Honourable John Earl of Glandore and John Joshua Earl of Carysport, late Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls,

Sheweth,

THAT by Letters Patent, bearing date the 12th day of August in the 29th year of His present Majesty's reign, the custody and keeping of the Rolls Records, Filazers Books, and other writings of the Court of Chancery, were given to your Memorialists; and by the said Letters Patent your Memorialists were ordained, constituted, and appointed Guardians and Keepers of the said Rolls, with all the fees, stipends, salaries, benefits, profits, privileges, and advantages to the said office of Master of the Rolls belonging; and your Memorialists were thereby empowered to appoint a sufficient Deputy or Deputies to execute the said office, as by an attested copy of the said Letters Patent, which were duly enrolled in the Rolls-office of the said Court on the 24th day of September in the year 1789, and hereunto annexed, may more fully appear.

Your Memorialists shew, that the salary annexed to the said office of Master of the Rolls, amounted only to the net sum of £. 152. 15s. 4d. but that there was a considerable patronage annexed to the said office by the appointment of a Deputy, and of the Six Clerks and Examiners of the Court of Chancery, which was a source of great emolument to the Master of the Rolls, exclusive of the fees belonging to the office of the Master of the Rolls.

Your Memorialists shew, that exclusive of the fees belonging to the office of Master of the Rolls, which are stated in a Schedule hereunto annexed; that your Memorialists received on the 25th day of January 1792, a sum of £. 866. 13s. 4d. for their permission to allow Henry Palmer, Esquire, then one of the Six Clerks of the Court of Chancery, to resign his said office of Six Clerk in favour of Thomas Spurmer, Esquire, now one of the Six Clerks of the said Court, who purchased the said office from the said Henry Palmer; that on the 25th day of June in the said year 1792, your Memorialists received the like sum of £. 866. 13s. 4d. for their permission to allow Henry Cope, Esquire, then one of the Six Clerks of the the Court of Chancery, to resign his said office of Six Clerk in favour of Michael Mills, Esquire, now one of the Six Clerks of the said Court, who purchased the said office from the said Henry Cope;—that on the 5th day of February 1795, your Memorialists received a sum of £.400. for their permission to allow Robert Warren, Esquire, then the Chief Examiner of the Court of Chancery, to resign the said office of Chief Examiner in favour of Evelyn, Esquire, now the Chief Examiner of the said Court, who purchased the said office from the said Robert Warren.

Your Memorialists shew, that in the latter end of the year 1796, Trevor Bonford, Esquire, late one of the Six Clerks of the Court of Chancery, died, by whose death his said office of Six Clerk became vacant, and at your Memorialists disposal, and that your Memorialists were offered for the said office by Walter Weldon, Esquire, one of the Solicitors of the Court of Chancery, a sum of £.4,000. for the said office; but your Memorialists shew, that before a transfer of the said office could have been made, that the French fleet appeared off the coast of Bantry; and in consequence thereof, that the said Walter Weldon declined to purchase the said employment, and that your Memorialists were obliged to dispose of the same to Francis Dwyer, Esquire, who now holds the said appointment, for a sum of £.2,500.; but your Memorialists shew, that the office of Six Clerk has not for many years been sold for a less sum than £.4,000. and that the said Thomas Spurmer paid for his said office of Six Clerk; a sum of £.4,166. 13s. 4d.; and that the said Michael Mills paid for his said office a sum of £.4,066. 13s. 4d.; and that Alexander Brennan, Esquire, now one of the Six Clerks of the said Court, who purchased his said office of Six Clerk from Richard Rigby, Esquire, a former Master of the Rolls, which had become vacant by the death of George Drew, Esquire, a former Six Clerk, paid the said Richard Rigby for his said appointment a sum of £.3,750.

Your Memorialists shew, that on the 25th day of December 1799, your Memorialists received a sum of £.400. for their permission to allow Frederick Falkner, Esquire, then the Second Examiner of the said Court of Chancery, to resign his said office of Second Examiner in favour of Mahon, Esquire, now the Second Examiner of the said Court, who purchased the said office of second Examiner from the said Frederick Falkner; and your Memorialists shew, that the said Evelyn, who was appointed to succeed the said Robert Warren as Chief Examiner of the said Court, paid for his said appointment a sum of £.2,400. and that the said Mahon paid for his said office of Second Examiner a sum of £.2,400.; and that your Memorialists would have received the like sum of £.2,400. for either of the said offices, if they had become vacant; and that your Memorialists had continued to act as Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls.

Your Memorialists shew, that by Letters Patent, dated the 15th day of June 1801, Sir Michael Smith, Baronet, was appointed Master of the Rolls pursuant to an Act of Parliament passed in consequence of the Union, and that your Memorialists are entitled to compensation under and by virtue of an Act passed in the last session of the Parliament of Ireland, intituled, "An Act to enable His Majesty to grant Annuities to the Lord High Chancellor, and to the Judges of the Courts of King's Bench, Master of the Rolls, &c. on the resignation of their respective offices, and to amend an Act, passed in the 36th year of His present Majesty, intituled, An Act for increasing the salaries of the Chief and other Judges of the Court of King's Bench and Common Pleas, and of the Chief Baron and other Barons of the Court of Exchequer in this kingdom."

May it therefore please your Honours to grant such Compensation to your Memorialists as to your Honours shall seem reasonable, for the losses which your Memorialists have sustained by being deprived of the fees and salary belonging to the said office of Master of the Rolls, and also for the value of the patronage which was annexed to the said office. And your Memorialists will pray.

Glandore, Caryfort.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The further Memorial of the Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, late Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls,

Sheweth,

That by the Letters Patent of the 12th day of August 1789, whereby your Memorialists were appointed Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, the custody and keeping of the Rolls and Records of the Court of Chancery of Ireland were given to your Memorialists, with all the fees, stipends, salaries, benefits, profits, privileges, and advantages to the office of Master of the Rolls belonging.

Your Memorialists shew, that the fees, stipends, and salary annexed to the said office were very inconsiderable, after deducting the proportion of the fees and stipends which it was necessary to allow their Deputy for doing the duties of the said office; but that there was a privilege annexed to the office of Master of the Rolls of appointing the Six Clerks and Examiners of the Court of Chancery, which was a source of great profit and advantage to the Master of the Rolls; and that the Master of the Rolls was paid a certain price upon the appointment of every Six Clerk and Examiner of the said Court, and for the sale of a Six Clerk or Examiner's place, if it became vacant during his continuance in office; and that the said sums so paid to the Master of the Rolls were paid from time immemorial, and were by usage and custom made a part of the profits and advantages belonging to the office of Master of the Rolls; and your Memorialists shew, that your Memorialists actually received a sum of £. 2,500. for the sale of one of the Six Clerk's offices which became vacant, and a sum of £. 400. upon an exchange of one of the Examiners of the said Court, both making together the sum of £. 2,900. within four years previous to the 1st of January 1801.

Your Memorialists shew, that by the Act of Parliament of the 40th year of King George the Third, intitled, "An Act to grant annuities to the Lord High Chancellor, and to the Judges of the Court of King's Bench, Master of the Rolls, &c. " on the resignation of their respective offices, and for other purposes," it was enacted, That in case His Majesty should appoint any person learned in the Law to execute the said office of Master of the Rolls, it should and might be lawful for your Honours to take into your consideration the losses that might be sustained by your Memorialists in consequence of such appointment.

Your Memorialists shew, that upon the appointment of Sir Michael Smith, Bart. to be Master of the Rolls, that the Letters Patent of the 12th of August 1789, which had been granted to your Memorialists, were revoked, and your Memorialists sustained a loss thereby by being deprived of the appointment of the Six Clerks and Examiners of the Court of Chancery; but your Memorialists shew, that in the Report which was made by your Honours upon the claim of your Memorialists for compensation in consequence of the appointment of a Master of the Rolls, that your Honours did not take into your consideration the losses that your Memorialists sustained by being deprived of the privilege annexed to the office of Master of the Rolls, by the appointment of the Six Clerks and Examiners of the Court of Chancery.

May it therefore please your Honours to take the claim of your Memorialists again into your consideration, and to report such compensation as to your Honours shall seem reasonable, for the losses that your Memorialists have sustained by being deprived of the privilege, profit, and advantage that was annexed to the office of Master of the Rolls, by the appointment of the Six Clerks and Examiners of the Court of Chancery: And your Memorialists will pray.

Glandore,
Carysfort.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Petition of the Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, late Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, and of Matthew Franks, late Deputy Keeper of the Rolls,

Sheweth,

That your Memorialists were dismissed from their respective offices on the 15th June last.

Your Petitioners, the Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, shew, that they are entitled to compensation, pursuant to a clause in an Act of Parliament, passed in this kingdom in the last session of the Parliament of Ireland, intituled, "An Act to enable His Majesty to grant annuities to the Lord High Chancellor, and to the Judges of the King's Bench, Master of the Rolls, &c. on the resignation of their respective offices, and for other purposes." And your Petitioner, the said Matthew Franks humbly submits, that it appears from the recital in the said Act of Parliament, which is in the following words, to wit: "Whereas doubts may arise, whether in case His Majesty shall think fit, in consequence of the Union, to appoint a person learned in the Law to execute the office of Master of the Rolls, &c." that the Master of the Rolls was appointed in consequence of the Union: Your Petitioners shew, that their respective Memorials for compensation were lodged with your Honours in the month of November last, and that evidence was laid before your Honours in the month of February last, to shew the losses that were sustained by the said late Commissioners of the Rolls, in consequence of the said appointment of a Master of the Rolls according to the letter of the said Act of Parliament; and evidence was also laid before your Honours, to ascertain the proportion of the Fees belonging to the said office which were payable to the Deputy, according to the usage and custom of the office; and your Petitioners are ready to lay further evidence before your Honours if it shall be required.

May it therefore please your Honours to grant such compensation to your Petitioners as to your Honours shall seem just, or to appoint a day for your Petitioners to lay further evidence before your Honours to support their respective claims for compensation: And your Petitioners will pray.

Glandore.

Carysfort.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The joint Memorial of the undersigned Pursuivants at Arms,

Sheweth,

That Memorialists, as Pursuivants at Arms, have been entitled to emoluments arising from a Fee of Honour on the creation of each Peer, Peeress, and Baronet.

That by Articles of the Legislative Union between Great Britain and Ireland, they are deprived of the continuance of such emoluments, and consequently will be great sufferers, unless redressed under the Act of Parliament passed in the last Session for compensating Bodies Corporate and Individuals.

Therefore Memorialists beg leave to submit to your consideration, the Statement hereto annexed, shewing the average sum of each Pursuivant's emoluments for the last three years, amounting to £. 16. 11s. 8½d.

And pray that the said sum of £. 16. 11s. 8½d. may be granted to each of them yearly for his life, as an average compensation for such their loss as aforesaid.

*Thomas Dawes,
James Hyde,
Henry Maryon.*

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of Thomas Dawes, James Hyde, William Breton, Thomas Poyle, and Henry Maryon, Messengers to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland;

Sheweth,

That in pursuance of your kind indulgence in giving them further time to lay before you a correct Statement of their losses in consequence of the Union, they now beg leave to submit to your consideration the enclosed account (in lieu of that now before you) stating such losses by the discontinuance of their Journeys to England during Sessions of Parliament in Ireland upon the four last years of the Irish Parliament.

And they feel confident, that, after the long and faithful services which they have gone through, frequently hazarding their lives at the most tempestuous seasons of the year at sea, and that by travelling whole nights in the most inclement weather, they will not now, in the decline of their lives, be deprived of the most principal support for themselves and families, without receiving from your justice and liberality the compensation prayed for agreeable to the annexed Account, and which, to their sorrow, they are convinced is far short of the loss of their employments in consequence of the Union.

We are with all submission,

*Thomas Dawes,
James Hyde,
Thomas Poyle,
Henry Maryon,
William Breton.*

William Taylor, Esquire, sworn,

Saith, He received from the King at Arms the fees for the Deputy Pursuivants, Messrs. Dawes and Hyde, and Pursuivant Mr. Maryon, of which the fees on Peerages and Baronets have been discontinued in consequence of the Union; he paid said fees to the senior, to be by him divided equally amongst the three. Messrs.

Dawes and Hyde are Deputy Pursuivants, with the knowledge of the Lord Lieutenant and Chief Secretary, and constant practice of the office. Dawes acts as Deputy to Mr. Boys, Hyde as Deputy to Mr. Carroll, and Maryon acts for himself under a Patent; Henry Maryon still continues a Pursuivant by Patent: he is not now a Messenger. Maryon, though a Pursuivant, did not receive Fees of Honour until he became a Messenger in ordinary; the title under which they received their fees was as Deputy Pursuivants and Messengers in ordinary: Boys and Carroll, though Pursuivants, did not receive any Fees of Honour, the three said Messengers have been Deputy Pursuivants. There are two Messengers extraordinary who never received those fees; Breton and Poyle were the extraordinary Messengers previous to the 26th December last; Breton is now a Deputy Pursuivant and Messenger in ordinary since the 26th December last, in the room of Maryon, who continues to hold the Patent of Pursuivant, although not a Messenger; Breton may now be considered as Deputy Pursuivant to Maryon.

Wm Taylor.

Mr. Knowles was, as Examinant apprehends, an extra Messenger attendant on the Secretary during the Session of Parliament; he had not any Fees of Honour, nor to Deponent's knowledge any other Fees, which ceased in consequence of the Union.

Concerning the claim for Compensation made by Thomas Dawes, James Hyde, and Henry Maryon, Pursuivants at Arms.

Theobald Richard O'Flaherty, Clerk in the office of Arms, Dublin, being sworn, deposes, That he carefully drew from and compared with books in the said office, the Statement of Fees of Honour received by said Claimants, and which Statement Deponent signed, and laid before the Commissioners for Compensation this day.

And Deponent saith, He verily believes that said Statement is perfectly correct, and that the said Claimants, as set forth therein, did receive Fees of Honour in the year 1797, amounting to Theobald Richard O'Flaherty.

Monday, 1st March 1802.

Theobald Richard O'Flaherty, sworn.

A List of Fees produced—Saith, That those are the fees which were paid to the Pursuivants at Arms, and which they divide, and that the paper writing signed by Examinant, and annexed hereto, contains a List of the fees payable to them for the four years last past. Believes Mr. Dawes generally received the amount of said fees from Mr. Taylor, to be by him distributed to the others.

Mr. Taylor received the amount of said lists from Sir Chichester Fortescue, as Examinant believes.

None other of the Messengers, except the three Pursuivants, received any such fees, to Deponent's knowledge.

Theobald Richard O'Flaherty.

The 2d day of March 1802.

Mr. Henry Paine, sworn.

Says—He is Office-keeper to the Chief Secretary's office; knows Dawes, Hyde, and Maryon to have been Messengers in ordinary—Dawes from November 1775, Hyde from 1774, Maryon from latter end 1797, or beginning of 1798; they were all in office at the time the Union took place; Maryon assigned his employment to his brother, the 26th of December last; supposes they will sustain losses in consequence of the Union; that they will not have one-half of the number of journeys to England—When they go with Bills to England, they have an allowance for chaises, which make the expences £. 83. 8s. 4½d.; when they go without a chaise, they are allowed £. 69. 7s. 6d.—It is to be supposed they do not expend the entire amount, and have some profit—Mr. Hyde, in the year one thousand eight hundred, was allowed for a journey with four horses One hundred pounds.—Cannot ascertain what profit they had on each journey; they have not any salary as Messenger.

H. Paine.(Continued.)

Knows William Knowles to have been employed for several years past as Messenger to the Chief Secretary during the Sessions of Parliament, at Five shillings and five pence per day—Does not recollect whether he was a Messenger on the first of January One thousand eight hundred and one.

H. Paine.

2d March 1802.

Mr. William Tennat, sworn,

Was a Messenger for about ten years previous to year 1790 or 1791, six years of which he was a Messenger Extraordinary; the five Messengers, three in Ordinary, and two Extraordinary, were allowed Five shillings and five pence a day for themselves, 5s. 5d. a day for a horse, and 1s. 8d. a day for hay and oats—When on a journey to England, the entire pay was stopped for three days going and three days returning; and as he best recollects, had 8s. 1½d. a day for attending the offices when in London—Does not recollect any perquisite allowed to the Messenger in lieu of the 4s. 4d. a day which they lost—They were given a stated sum for their journey, about Forty pounds English, and many other charges for passage, and so much for stage for post-boys, and also for Turnpikes; some trips were better than others, as they might get cheaper to London one time more than another—Believes the average of the profit on each journey was about Twenty pounds Irish—The journeys to London were their greatest engagements; they would not make so much on five Irish journeys; they took the journeys in rotation—Supposes they then had about three or four trips each on Bills to London during each Session; they had that number at least; as near as he can recollect, they were, one with another, £. 20. a-piece.—The office was worth to each Messenger, whether Ordinary or Extraordinary, Three hundred pounds a year, on an average.—Cannot form any opinion of what the loss may be to the office in consequence of the Union. Notwithstanding the stoppages from the Messengers, they were obliged to keep their horses here during their journeys to England, and could not have less than two horses.

W^m Tennat.

George Oakley, sworn.

Saith—He has acted as Messenger for Mr. James Hyde; that he went twice to London with Dispatches for him; that he kept an account of his expences thereon; that he did not preserve said account, but can say very closely to the amount—The first journey was in March one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, the other in March one thousand eight hundred—His expences on the latter journey from Holyhead to London, exclusive of his passage, amounted to nine pounds or thereabouts; the first time he remained three days in London, the last time, six days; his expences might have been, whilst there, about Eight or Nine shillings per day; had he been living at his own expence, his expences on the first journey were considerably greater than on the latter, being obliged to post a great part of it; the expence of the former journey, including his passage going and returning, and whilst in London, was about Thirty pounds Irish; the expence of a Messenger going and returning with Bills to London, in an economical manner, including every expence, and remaining about three days in London, would be about Twenty-three pounds Irish at the lowest; the expence of a Messenger going to and returning from London with Dispatches, riding it all the way, and remaining about three days there, would be about thirty-five pounds Irish at the utmost.

Geo. Oakley.

The 14th day of June 1802.

Mr. Henry Paine, sworn.

Saith, He conceives the Messengers, in consequence of the Union, will suffer a loss on inland Journeys; saith, that the paper writing now delivered in, and signed by Examinant, contains a true Account of the sums paid to the Messengers for inland Journeys, in four years, previous to the Union, and in one year since, the year 1801; being so immediately after the Union, they had more journeys than it is probable they will continue to have: Deponent should suppose that they will individually lose £. 50. per annum in consequence of the Union on inland Journeys alone. It is impossible for him to say for certain what the loss may be, the Messengers took the journeys in rotation.

Peter Le Bar, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, The Account of the transmisses now delivered in, and certified by Deponent, contains a true Account of the transmisses in the four years therein mentioned, except that part thereof which relates to private Bills, with which Deponent was not acquainted.

Wednesday, the 10th of March 1802.

Mr. John Connell, sworn.

Saith, He is a Measurer; resides in Great Britain-street; there are not any sworn Measurers. Examinant has viewed the house in which Miss Manfergh lived it is in the Ordnance-yard; did not measure it, merely viewed and estimated it as houses of like size would produce, forty guineas a year unfurnished; it is two stories high, consists of one parlour and a kitchen on the first floor, a drawing-room, and two bed-chambers on the second floor, and there are some out-offices to it; thinks that a house of that size, in a cheap part of the town, might be had for thirty guineas a year, if taken by lease without a fine; thinks that a person inhabiting a house of that kind, might burn about nine tons of coals in the year, which being estimated at what the Coal Company have fixed as a standard price, viz. 28s. per ton, and four shillings a ton carriage, make it 32 shillings a ton; thinks that 2s. 6d. a week the year round, being £. 6. 10s. would be a reasonable allowance for candles—Thinks that the taxes of a house worth 30 guineas a year, would amount at least to £. 15. or £. 16. a year, without speaking of what any future rise may be; estimates the repairs of such a house at 10 guineas a year, which he thinks would be under a reasonable average.

John Connell.Miss Mary Manfergh, examined.

Saith, She was not at the expence of brushes or towels to keep the offices clean; the Board paid for them, and provided a man to clean and sweep the yard, &c. she kept one Maid-servant, who swept the rooms, and did the business for her.

N. B. There were two private Bills passed in the Parliament of Ireland, in the years 1798 and 1799, which were conceived in England to be public, and were entered as such in the books of the Crown-office in England; but these two Bills were afterwards paid for as private, and in consequence of this, they were omitted in the Account Mr. Patrickson took with him from the Crown-office; these Bills are included in the above Statement, as will appear on comparing this with the Statement Mr. P. has already received from Mr. Rathleigh. Mr. Smith, in his Account, has put these two Bills in the year 1799, when they were paid for, instead of the years in which they passed, but this does not make any alteration in the annual average.

The above-named Memorialists, William Randall and Thomas Hand, severally make oath, and say: And first, this Deponent, William Randall, for himself saith, That he having for several years last past received from the Crown-office the several fees on private Bills passed in the Parliament of Ireland, and having paid or caused to be paid and distributed the same, as stated in the foregoing Account, he the said Deponent saith, that he hath carefully examined the said Account, and that the same is correctly true to the knowledge and belief of this Deponent; and that the average sum received by him this Deponent for the last four years, as stated in the said Account, doth amount to Fourteen pounds three shillings and sixpence; and the like average to the Reverend William Lloyd, the Sealer, to the sum of Five pounds one shilling and three pence; and the like average to Mr. William Bullock and Mr. Walter Pye, the Chaffers of the Wax, of Three pounds seven shillings and sixpence each; and the like average to Mr. Thomas Hand, one of the Gentlemen of the Chamber, and the said other Deponent, of Two pounds five shillings; and the like average to Mr. Joseph Vernon, the other Gentleman of the Chamber, of £. 1. 2 s. 6 d.; and the like average to Mr. George Lisbon, Porter to the Great Seal, of £. 3. 7 s. 6 d. And the said other Deponent, Thomas Hand, for himself saith, that, in addition to the before-mentioned average received by him this Deponent, he hath uniformly and regularly received the further sum of 5 s. 3 d. as his proportion of 10 s. 6 d. paid to the the Deputy Sealer on each private Bill as stated in the said Account, and that the average of this addition to him this Deponent amounts to the annual sum of £. 3. 10 s. 10 d. which, together with the said sum of £. 2. 3 s. 0 d. will make the whole average to this Deponent amount to the sum of £. 5. 15 s. 10 d. And this Deponent saith, that the average to the said Mr. Charles Dowse the Deputy Sealer, of his proportion of the said Ten shillings and sixpence on each private Bill, amounts to the sum of Three pounds ten shillings and ten pence.

NO. 87.—GAWEN LANE.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Petition of Gawen Lane, Gent. Crier of the High Court of Chancery,

Most humbly sheweth,

THAT your Petitioner hath been in possession of the office or employment of Crier of the said High Court of Chancery for thirty years last past, and upwards; and hath during that time received the ancient and settled fee of Five shillings and five pence on the hearing of each cause in said Court on which a Decree is pronounced.

That by reason of the Union, it hath been found expedient by Government to appoint an efficient Master of the Rolls in the person of the Right Honourable Sir Michael Smith, Baronet, to whom a great number of causes in the said Court, called Short Causes, hath been assigned by the Lord High Chancellor for hearing: And the said Sir Michael Smith having lately appointed another person as Crier of his Court, and such person hath claimed, and has been paid, the like sum of Five Shillings and five pence on each Decree made by the said Sir Michael, whereby your Petitioner will suffer a loss of One hundred and forty-four pounds eight shillings and five-pence annually, which more fully appears by an average of the number of causes heard in said Court in the last four years.

That your Petitioner hath acquainted the Lord High Chancellor and the Master of the Rolls of this his application.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that your Honours will take his case into consideration, and grant unto him such compensation for his said loss as to your Honours shall seem meet.

And your Petitioner will ever pray.

Thom. Liddons.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The further Memorial of Gawen Lane, Cryer of the High Court of Chancery of Ireland,

Most humbly sheweth,

That by reason of the Union, Government having found it expedient, did appoint an efficient Master of the Rolls, to whom a great number of Causes, called Short Causes, have been assigned for hearing.

That the Fees arising to your Memorialist from the hearing of Short Causes produced to him, on an average of the four last years prior to the Union, an annual sum of One hundred and forty-four pounds eight shillings and five pence, and that such fees are no longer payable to your Memorialist, inasmuch as the attendance of a fit and proper person is necessary as a Cryer to the Master of the Rolls Court.

That the Master of the Rolls appointed a Cryer to attend him, who hath, since his appointment, continued to receive the emoluments from the hearing of Short Causes.

That

That your Memorialist hath not interfered, nor hath it pleased the Lord High Chancellor so to do, it being a matter of no moment to your Memorialist, by whom such Cryer should be appointed, as it is the opinion of his Lordship, that your Memorialist should pay such Cryer a Salary such as would make him a fit officer to attend his Honour the Master of the Rolls; and his Lordship does not conceive that the fees received by the Cryer attending his Honour exceed the remuneration due to such an officer.

Your Memorialist therefore prays your Lordship and Honours to grant him compensation for his said loss.

And your Memorialist will pray.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of Gawen Lane, Cryer of the Court of Chancery,

Sheweth,

That your Memorialist presented his Memorial to your Lordship and Honours, praying compensation for loss of Fees and Emoluments of office in consequence of the Union, and appointment of the Master of the Rolls; and produced Evidence, who were examined upon oath, in support thereof.

That the Witnesses who were brought forward by Memorialist, proved, as Memorialist humbly submits, his continuation in office for upwards of thirty years last past; and that your Memorialist sustained losses by reason of the appointment of the Master of the Rolls, amounting, upon an average of the four years therein mentioned, to the sum of £. 144. 8s. 5d. per annum; but, should your Lordship and Honours be of opinion that either of these facts were not clearly and satisfactorily proved by the Witnesses who were examined in respect thereto, your Memorialist trusts that he will be able to produce many other respectable Witnesses who can establish the same.

That your Memorialist hath been informed, that your Lordship and Honours were pleased to grant compensation to John Dwyer, Esquire, Secretary to the Lord High Chancellor, and to Matthew Franks, Esquire, late Deputy-keeper of the Rolls, for losses by them respectively sustained in consequence of said appointment. And your Memorialist most humbly submits to the consideration of this Board, the similarity of his case to theirs, with the difference only, that his continuation in office has been for a much longer term than either of theirs, and that the losses sustained by him did constitute by much the greater part of his entire income; and that he is considerably reduced therein.

And humbly prays that you will grant him such relief in the premises as to your wisdom shall seem meet.

And Memorialist will ever pray.

Gawen Lane.

In consequence of the appointment by the Master of the Rolls of a Cryer to attend him, the Petitioner, who before was the only Cryer attending the Court of Chancery, has unavoidably suffered considerable loss; for, as the Master of the Rolls sits generally at the same time that the Chancellor sits, the habits of the country not admitting of distinct hours of sitting, it has become necessary to divide the business, by carrying before the Master of the Rolls all business of course, and particularly the causes called Short Causes; and, as the same fee is paid to the Cryer for a short cause as for a long one, and twenty or thirty short causes may be heard whilst one long cause is in bearing, the principal profit of the office of Cryer is necessarily transferred from the Petitioner, who attends the Chancellor, to the Cryer attending the Master of the Rolls. Whether the fees legally belong to the Petitioner for the business transacted before the Master of the Rolls, is a question which it seems to me not prudent to agitate; but unless compensation shall be allowed to the Petitioner, and provision made for the payment in future of the Cryer who shall attend the Chancellor, in some other way, the question must be agitated; as not only the Chancellor will otherwise lose an appointment hitherto belonging to his office, by its being so reduced in value that it will not be worth the acceptance of a respectable person (which it is important it should be) but the office of Chancellor will be degraded by the attendance upon him of a person very inferior to the Cryer attending the Master of the Rolls.

Redefdale, C.
15th February 1804.

To the Right Honourable John Lord Baron Redefdale, Lord High Chancellor of Ireland.

The Memorial of Gawen Lane, Cryer of your Lordship's Court,

Most humbly sheweth,

That your Memorialist presented his Petition (to which your Lordship was pleased to annex a note in Memorialist's favour) to the Commissioners of Compensation, upon consideration whereof they informed Memorialist, that a question or doubt having been suggested by your Lordship, whether your Memorialist is legally entitled to the fees for business transacted before the Master of the Rolls, they could not grant Memorialist compensation unless it should be determined that Memorialist is not entitled to such fees; and consequently, has sustained his losses by reason of the appointment of the Master of the Rolls.

Your Memorialist therefore, with all humility, submits his case to your Lordship's further consideration, and prays your interference in his behalf, in such manner as to your Lordship shall seem meet.

I feel great surprize at the question put to me: I thought it my duty to state in the certificate which I gave to Mr. Lane, "That it might be a question, Whether the fees taken by the Cryer who attends the Master of the Rolls, do not legally belong to the Petitioner as Cryer of the Court of Chancery?" but I added, "that it seemed to me not prudent to agitate that question;"—what I thought not prudent to be agitated, as it must necessarily involve me in a personal dispute with the Master of the Rolls. The Commissioners are represented to me to have thought it necessary to be agitated before they determined whether the Petitioner was entitled to any compensation, because they otherwise conceived he had sustained no loss. I cannot imagine that the Commissioners have entertained any such opinion; if the fees legally belong to the Petitioner, it must be because he is Cryer of the Court of Chancery, and bound to discharge the duties of that office, whether exercised in the presence of the Master of the Rolls or the Chancellor. But, in that case, he must find a Deputy to attend the Master of the Rolls; and the real question would be, Whether the Master of the Rolls has any power to appoint a Cryer to attend him, or must not accept of the services of a Deputy to the Cryer of the Court appointed by the Chancellor?—The Master of the Rolls has taken upon himself to appoint a Cryer, and I have not thought it prudent to object to his doing so; but, if I should, the Petitioner will nevertheless sustain a loss, because I must take care that he shall find such a Deputy as the Master of the Rolls shall approve, and pay him such a salary as will make him a fit officer to attend his Honour; and I do not conceive that the fees received by the Cryer attending his Honour exceed the remuneration due to such an officer.

Mr. William M^r Kay, sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Lane is Cryer to the Court of Chancery, and has been so during the time of Lord Chancellors Lifford and Clare, and still continues Cryer of said Court—Saith, That Sir Michael Smith now holds another Court, in which he hears short causes; and believes he has appointed a Cryer to his said Court, and that by so doing he has taken a great deal of the emoluments from Mr. Lane.—Saith, That Five shillings and five pence hath been the usual fee paid to the Cryer of the Court of Chancery on all short causes for 40 years past.

W^m M^r Kay.

Mr. Thomas Liddens, sworn.

Saith, he is a Clerk in the Register's office of the Court of Chancery; that he examined the List of Short Causes now produced to the Board, and signed by Ex-aminant, from the books of said office; saith, that same is a true List thereof; saith, that the Master of the Rolls heard every short cause in the last term, and believes he is to continue to hear short causes in future; and that he has appointed a Cryer of his own Court, to whom a list of the causes heard therein has been returned; saith, that the Master of the Rolls sat one day in the last Easter Term, and believes his Cryer is also to receive the fee on all short causes heard there by him.

Thomas Liddens.

I do hereby certify, That I have appointed John Hevey as my Cryer in the Court of Rolls, to act in that office, and receive the emoluments and perquisites belonging to it.

Harcourt-street, August 16th 1802.

6th September 1802.

*John Dwyer, Esquire, Secretary to the Lord Chancellor of Ireland sworn:—*Saith, That since Lord Redesdale came to this Kingdom, almost all the short causes have been heard by the Master of the Rolls, at the desire of the Chancellor; the Chancellor has not irrevocably fixed the short causes to be heard by the Master of the Rolls, as Deponent believes; the Master of the Rolls informed Deponent he has appointed a Cryer to his Court, by reason of which, Deponent believes Mr. Lane has sustained a considerable loss since the appointment of a Cryer. The Master of the Rolls has heard all short causes, with a very few exceptions; the Cryer is entitled to a fee fee of Five shillings on every short cause, as Deponent believes, which fee Mr. Lane loses, as same is paid to the Cryer appointed by the Master of the Rolls: John Hevey is the Master of the Rolls Cryer, and receives the same fee on all short causes, as Deponent believes: the Chancellor did not, upon his first sittings, send the short causes to be heard by the Master of the Rolls.

Je Dwyer.

Monday 6th December 1802.

Edward Woods, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That the fee of a Crown to the Cryer is a taxable fee between party and party, in the Court of Chancery; saith, Deponent is one of the Six Clerks of the Court of Chancery of Ireland; saith, that Thursday in every week is what is called Short Cause day in said Court, upon which day a list is made out of those of a particular description, regulated by the rule of the Court, which if necessary, Deponent can enumerate. There is an appeal now from the decision of the Master of the Rolls to the Chancellor; and, in order to give said appeal a speedy determination, the Chancellor has fixed the succeeding Thursday for hearing of appeals; saith, the Chancellor has fixed all causes, coming within the description of short causes, to be heard in future by the Master of the Rolls, in a court prepared for said purpose. The Cryer has not any fee on Motions; he has a fee on long and short causes. The regulation, that the Master of the Rolls shall hear all short causes, and the entire arrangement for same, has been made in last Michaelmas term by the Chancellor, and was not fixed before; Deponent considers same to be a settled rule of the Court; the Chancellor may alter said rule, and any other rule of the Court, if he thinks proper; the practice in England is the same as that now adopted by Lord Redefdale.

Edw^d Woods.

Joseph Ridgeway, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, the Master of the Rolls has appointed a Cryer in his Court; Deponent is Deputy Keeper of the Rolls; saith, the Cryer of the Master of the Rolls receives a fee of Seven shillings and seven pence upon each cause heard by the Master of the Rolls; the fee is upon every hearing, not upon every decree; it is Cryer Court-keeper and Tipstaff's fee, not upon a decree, but upon the hearing, as a reward to the Cryer for keeping a list, and calling the parties names, and Council and Solicitors therein; and to the Court-keeper and Tipstaff for their trouble, something like Cryer's fee, upon every record heard on Circuit. All short causes are generally heard by the Master of the Rolls; a decree pronounced by the Master of the Rolls on a final hearing, when signed by the Lord Chancellor, is final, unless appealed against by one of the parties. Deponent never heard the right of the Cryer of the Master of the Rolls to the fee on the hearing contested; on the contrary, his Cryer is in the undisturbed receipt of such fees: the Cryer collects the fee from the Agent concerned in the cause, and his remedy to recover it, he believes, is by summons to the Court of Conscience. The fee is Five shillings to the Cryer, One shilling to the Tipstaff, and One shilling to the Court-keeper, believes the Master of the Rolls in England appoints all his own Officers.

No. 89.—Messrs. JOHN ERCK, and EDWARD CONNOR.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Messrs. John Erck and Edward Connor, Clerks in the War-office of Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT for several years back, a List of the Army, including the Army both on the English and Irish Establishment, was published in this Kingdom, under the authority of Government, and for which the Publishers John Erck and Edward Connor, received a yearly allowance from Government of One hundred pounds in aid of their expenses in the publication.

That, previous to the Union, there being no Copy-right established in Ireland, Government were pleased, in order to secure the sole right of publishing the said Army List to your Memorialists, to cause a clause to be inserted in the Stamp Act, imposing a duty of Ten shillings on any Army List, except such as should be published with the approbation of the Lord Lieutenant General or General Governors of Ireland for the time being.

That the said List of the Army was compiled from the List of the Army published in England, which includes the Regiments both on the English and Irish establishments, and sundry other matters, and the Publishers here had only to rectify the dates of commissions, and the names of such Officers as were appointed between the date of the English List and the date of their publication in Ireland.

That from time immemorial, a List of the Army has been published in England, by a Gentleman of the War-office there, under the authority of the Secretary at War, which Publisher, it is understood, is in possession of the copy right, in consequence of his complying with the Acts of Parliament establishing the copy-right in that country.

That by the Act of Parliament, passed (in consequence of the Union of the Kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland on the 2d of July 1801) for the "further encouragement of Learning in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, by securing the copies and copy-right of printed books to the Authors of such books or their Assigns;" the copy-right of the List of the Army of the United Kingdom is exclusively vested in the Publisher in London, under the authority of the War-office, more especially as the List published in Ireland was nothing more than a transcript of the English List, with some alterations of dates and names, as before described.

That, therefore in consequence of the Union, your Memorialists will be deprived of the emoluments arising from the publication of the List of the Army in Ireland, the amount of which will appear in the inclosed Account.

Your Memorialists pray that you will take their claim into consideration, and grant them such relief as may appear to be just and reasonable.

Which is submitted,

John Erck.
E. Connor.

The Memorial delivered in by Mr. John Erck, second Clerk in the War-office, does not contain any matter relative to this Memorial, and is totally a distinct business.

John Erck's Memorial delivered in, is for the loss on the amount of Patents in the late Ordnance Department; and the within is for the loss of the amount of profits on the List of the Army, jointly with Mr. Connor.

Ab^m Bradley King.

Monday, 15th March 1802.

Abraham Bradley King, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That the Account now delivered in by Examinant, and signed and certified by him, is a true Account of the monies paid by him to Messrs. Erck and Connor, for the profit arising on the printing and sale of the Army List in Ireland, in the four years therein mentioned, which Account is taken from his books.—Saith, Examinant published the same in 1801.—It is generally published in July or August—Messrs. Erck and Connor received the profits of the year 1800—Examinant has not any privilege or authority to publish the Army List, except from Messrs. Erck and Connor; if they choose to employ Examinant this year, it will be published by Examinant. Does not recollect what may be the profits on the sale of the Edition of 1801, it not being closed yet.

Ab^m Bradley King.

Gasper Erck, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, Examinant is first Clerk in the War-office; has been employed therein for many years—One hundred pounds has been annually granted to Messrs. Erck and Connor by Government; from the year 1796 to the year 1800 inclusive, in aid of publishing the Army List. It was voted to them for the year 1801 by the Imperial Parliament; such grants have not as yet been made by the Imperial Parliament for the year 1802. If this Board will not grant compensation for same to Messrs. Erck and Connor, Examinant cannot say; whether it will be provided for or sent over in the Estimates for this year, this Board will grant it; Examinant believes it will not be sent over in the Estimates—Under the Copy-right Act, Examinant conceives Mr. Morfe, when a Clerk in the War-office in London, entitled to publish the Army List for the Empire, and that thereby Messrs. Erck and Connor will be prevented from publishing the same this year—Mr. Morfe having intimated that he would enforce his privilege thereto.

Gasper Erck.

Monday, 7th June 1802.

Gasper Erck, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That the grant of £.100. has not been sent over to England in the Army Estimates for this year; and Examinant is instructed to say, the reason is, because Government imagined that it would be allowed by this Board to Messrs. Erck and Connor.—Saith, That Examinant having asked Mr. Morfe, some years since, how he became entitled to the copy-right of the Army List, he informed Examinant, that he had entered the same at the Stationers Hall to entitle him thereto, and prevent the interference of any person therewith—And saith, That this is a part of the emoluments attached to the official situation of Messrs. Erck and Connor, as Clerks in the War-office.

Gasp Erck.

Dublin Castle, 27th August 1802.

Sir,

We received your Letter, dated the 7th of June last, acquainting us, by direction of the Right Honourable the Commissioners of Compensation, that on reconsideration of our case, they are of opinion, that the evidence which is now before them is not sufficient to authorize them to grant same; neither is it of that nature which would induce them finally to reject it. And, in answer, we therefore request you will lay before the Commissioners the enclosed letter, which we have received from Sir Edward Baker Littlehales, upon the subject.

We have the honour to be, Sir,

Daniel M^o Key, Esquire, &c. &c. &c.

Your most obedient humble Servants,
John Erck. Edw^d Connor.

Dublin Castle, 27th August 1802.

Gentlemen,

I have the Lord Lieutenant's commands to signify to you his Excellency's desire, that you will, for the future, discontinue the publication of an Army List in this part of His Majesty's United Kingdom of Ireland, and that his Excellency hereby withdraws his permission for such publication.—His Excellency has come to this determination in consequence of a letter lately received by me, and laid before his Excellency, dated the 9th instant, from the Right Honourable Charles Yorke, His Majesty's Secretary at War in London, wherein he requests I will state to his Excellency his decided opinion, That the Army in both Countries having become one by the Act of Union, and the whole business of Military Commissioners being now transacted without the participation of the Government of Ireland, the publication of a List of the Army under the professed authority of that Government, ought at all events to be discontinued; and that, if the book be of that nature on which copy-right attaches, it is also his opinion, that such publication would (according to the Act of the 41st Geo. III. chapter 107.) be an invasion of the copy-right of the Publisher of the annual List in that country, as he alone must be the original collector of the materials and compiler of the work, under competent authority, for the whole Army of the United Kingdom.

to

For the loss that may be suffered by this prohibition, you are to apply to the Commissioners of Compensation, appointed under the Act for making compensation to all those persons holding offices under Government, the emoluments of whose offices have been lessened by the Act of Union.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble servant,

E. B. Littlehales.

No. 90.—Colonel JOHN PRATT.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Colonel John Pratt, late Comptroller of the Royal Laboratory,

Humbly representeth,

THAT your Memorialist, understanding the several displaced Officers of the Ordnance Department are now preferring their claims for compensation, and that Memorialist's name (amongst others) had been given in unknown to him; humbly begs leave to state, for the information of the Board of Commissioners, that he considers his case to differ very materially from that of any other officers belonging to the late Irish Ordnance; as, by the King's order of the 25th February, last, your Memorialist was established in this office, and therefore considering it to be His Majesty's intentions that he should retain his situation as Comptroller of the Laboratory, he has accordingly written to Lord Chatham (the present Master General) praying to be re-instated in that employment, the retaining of which would be of much greater advantage to him than a pecuniary compensation equal to the return of the income given in to the Commissioners, as the salary is now increased to the officer who has been appointed to succeed him from £.200. Irish to £.300. British, besides other advantages attending the situation; consequently your Memorialist had an undoubted right to enjoy (having been so recently and solemnly established in that office by the King) whatever advantages might have arisen to him by the possession of it.

Your Memorialist, thus circumstanced, conceives it to be his duty to acquaint the Board of Commissioners, that he has preferred his claim as above-mentioned, in full confidence that (as the justice of it must appear manifest to the Master General and Board of Ordnance in England) His Majesty's gracious intentions, so clearly expressed, will be fulfilled; that he will be re-instated in his employment, and in that case, will have no claim on the Honourable Commissioners for compensation; &c. &c.

Your Memorialist begs leave to annex a copy of the above-mentioned Order of 25th February, whereby it appears that he was to retain his situation as Comptroller of the Laboratory, consequently he humbly conceives he will have a just right to complain of suffering a very great injury, if his employment is not restored to him, especially as the privilege to retain it (he being the only Officer of the Irish Ordnance so distinguished) was made a part of his Military compensation; for, had it not been intended that he should retain his employment, no notice of course would have been taken of it; he would have been placed upon the same footing with the other Ordnance Officers, and, upon being dismissed, would then have been entitled to compensation.

Your Memorialist will do himself the honour to attend the Board of Commissioners (should they require any further information) at any time they may think proper to appoint.

John Pratt,

Co^t and late Comptroller Royal Laboratory.

Ordnance Office,
11th December 1801.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Colonel John Pratt, late Comptroller of the Royal Laboratory,

Humbly representeth,

That your Memorialist, having made repeated application to the Master General and Board of Ordnance of England, either to grant him adequate compensation for the loss of his employment, or to re-instate him agreeably to the order of the February 1801 (which order has been already laid before the Board of Commissioners; and his claims having been refused in England, your Memorialist begs leave to submit his situation to the Board, and to entreat, that as his case differs very materially from that of any other Claimant, they will have the goodness to take it into their consideration, and grant such compensation as they shall judge him entitled to, for being deprived of an employment, which, had he retained it pursuant to His Majesty's Orders, would have been nearly double the value of the net salary which appears upon the Establishment.

Your Memorialist begs leave to state what the Pay and Allowances of that situation are at present; viz.

Salary - - -	£. 300.	Encrase - - -	£. 100.
Lodgings, coals, and candles, about - -	75.	- - - -	75.
Present income -	£. 375.	Encrase - - -	£. 475.

Your Memorialist has to observe, that the lodgings, coals, and candles, would have been allowed him as Comptroller of the Laboratory, had he not been provided with them in his Military capacity, as an order of the King's prohibits Officers from drawing a double allowance when holding two situations, either of which separately would have entitled him to receive it.

Your Memorialist will not presume to press this subject, but submits entirely to the known candour, liberality, and justice of the Board.

Ordnance-office, Dublin Castle, 25th February 1801.

His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant having directed a reduction of a proportion of Colonels and Field Officers, with eight companies of the Royal Irish regiment of Artillery, to take place from the 1st day of March next, the following detailed proposition has been submitted to and fully approved of by his Excellency; and, in consideration of the services and claims of the several Officers, the Lord Lieutenant has also directed that they shall be entitled to the respective compensations herein mentioned:

Second Colonel, Major General Lucius Barber, to retire upon Forty shillings a day; and Second Colonel John Pratt to retire upon £. 1. 9s. 0½d. per day, retaining the Comptrollership of the Laboratory, amounting in the whole to Forty shillings a day. In consideration of their long services, and the near prospect of a Battalion upon the present Establishment, they are also to retain their rank.

(A true Copy.)

John Pratt.

Monday, 7th June 1802.

Captain John Godfrey, sworn,

Is Deputy Firemaster in the Ordnance Department, is not Comptroller of the Laboratory, there is not any such office now in this kingdom; Deponent is Deputy under the Firemaster at Woolwich, conducts the entire business of the Laboratory of this country, in which situation as to Laboratory duties he considers himself as Colonel Pratt was; he receives £. 300. per annum pay on the Establishment, which is expressed in his warrant; receives £. 52. per annum for house rent, and £. 25. per annum for coals and candles. All Laboratory officers in England and elsewhere receive an allowance for coals, candles, and an house, or an house unless they hold a Military situation to which coals and candles are attached; is not quite certain but they may receive allowances for both situations for coals, candles, and house-rent, in some instances, but Examinant cannot speak certainly. Examinant had a company of Artillery, which he resigned previous to his appointment to that situation; Examinant came out under the expectation of there being an house for the Keeper of the Laboratory, but found there was not, in consequence whereof he got the allowance of £. 52. per annum, and £. 25. for coals and candles.

The Memorial of Thomas Burgh, Esquire, Treasurer to the Board of Ordnance,

Sheweth,

Your Memorialist not having had sufficient documents when his former Memorial was before the Board, therefore humbly hopes this Board will permit your Memorialist to lay before them his case, which he can fully establish.

29th September 1801.

T. Burgh,

Late Treasurer and Paymaster of the Ordnance.

Amended Claim of Thomas Burgh, Esquire, Treasurer of the Ordnance.

Mr. Burgh's Patent produced, by which it appears, he was appointed Treasurer and Paymaster to the Ordnance.

William Boulger, Esquire, sworn.

He deposes, That all money for the support of the Civil and Military Establishments of the Irish Ordnance before the Union, was issued and paid to Mr. Burgh from the Treasury, and by him disbursed for the purposes for which it was issued—Deponent prepared and sent in to the Board of Compensation the two first Memorials of Mr. Burgh; one claiming compensation for him as Treasurer, the other as Paymaster, as if they were distinct offices; he prepared these Memorials separately, entirely, because of the money received annually from the Treasury by Mr. Burgh, for the support of the Ordnance Establishment;—between Ninety and One hundred thousand pounds was disbursed by him for the pay of the regiment of Artillery, and for Military purposes; and Mr. Burgh was entitled to three pence in the pound, but to no poundage on the remaining sum paid to him out of the Treasury, for the support of the Ordnance Establishment.—Deponent, in the former examination of Mr. Burgh's claim before the Board of Compensation, produced a copy of a letter of Attorney from Lord Drogheda to Mr. Burgh, not witnessed, appointing Mr. Burgh Agent to the regiment; he took this paper from the Ordnance-book, in which Mr. Montgomery's name was inserted as originally Agent to the regiment appointed by Lord Drogheda, and he himself inserted Mr. Burgh's name in the room of Mr. Montgomery's. Before Mr. Burgh did the business of Paymaster to the regiment, the offices of Treasurer to the Ordnance, and Paymaster to the regiment, were distinct offices, but the Treasurer always received the whole sum from the Treasury, and handed over the necessary sums to the Paymaster; and, after Mr. Montgomery's death, the two offices remained united in Mr. Burgh.—Mr. Boulger then produced a certificate from the Auditor General's office, that there is not any letter of Attorney from the Marquis of Drogheda to Thomas Burgh, Esquire, for Agent, entered in the Auditor General's office, nor from the Earl of Carhampton, nor the Right Honourable Thomas Pakenham; the letters of Attorney from the Colonels of regiments appointing Agents to regiments must be entered in the Auditor General's office. The Auditor General's certificate of the several sums paid to Mr. Burgh, as Treasurer of the Ordnance, for four years, beginning with the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight and ending with the year one thousand eight hundred and one, was also produced by Mr. Boulger, and the average for four years, computed by Mr. Boulger, was entered on the back of it, amounting annually to Four hundred and seven thousand and six pounds.

W^m Boulger.

17th May 1801.

The allowance of three-pence in the pound, paid to Mr. Burgh, is an allowance added in the gross sum paid to each Officer and Soldier per day, and he, Mr. Burgh, deducts it from the gross pay, and puts it in his own pocket; it amounted to about One thousand one hundred pounds per annum.

The Agency of all other regiments are paid in the same way, and are two pence per pound.

The portion deducted from each man's pay amounts exactly to 3d. per pound.

And this has been the practice since the establishment of the Army in Ireland.

If Mr. Burgh was Agent to the Artillery regiment, he must have produced his letter of Attorney to the Treasurer of the Ordnance, before he could receive the subsistence of the Artillery, supposing another person to have been Treasurer of the Ordnance.

W^m Boulger.

I consider Mr. Burgh to have acted under three successive Masters General of the Ordnance under his Patent.

The appointment from Lord Drogheda was made out erroneously.

The amount paid for Military purposes may be averaged at £. 95,000. per annum.

W^m Boulger.

Deposeth—

Proves a paper as the Ordnance Establishment, and which he has signed; and says, that the same is a true List of the Establishment.

Establishment.	Date and Nature of Appointment.
Treasurer, Thomas Burgh - - £. 100. - -	Patent, 30th September 1779. 30th June 1779.

The said Thomas Burgh, Treasurer and Paymaster of the office of Our Ordinance of Our kingdom of Ireland, We do make, constitute, and ordain, by these Presents, To have, hold, and enjoy the said office of Treasurer and Paymaster of the office of Our Ordinance in Our said kingdom of Ireland, together with all fees, allowances, profits, emoluments, privileges, rewards, payments, and advantages thereunto belonging, to him the said Thomas Burgh, for and during Our pleasure, in as full, large, ample, and beneficial manner, to all intents and purposes, as the said John Chaigneau, or the Treasurer of Our Ordinance in Our kingdom of Great Britain holds and enjoys, or any person or persons heretofore held or of right ought to have held or enjoyed the said office of Treasurer of Our Ordinance in Our said kingdom of Great Britain: the said office to be executed by him the said Thomas Burgh, or his sufficient Deputy or Deputies.

And Our will and pleasure is, That these Our Letters Patent, or the enrolment thereof, shall be in all things firm, good, valid, sufficient, and effectual in the Law, unto him the said Thomas Burgh, and shall also be construed and interpreted in as favourable and benign and gracious manner and form as they may be, for the benefit and advantage of the said Thomas Burgh.

Mr. Burgh represents, That in January 1801, he had in the Ordinance Department a yearly emolument, which, on the average of the four last years, was about One thousand nine hundred pounds a year:

And that he is deprived of the said emolument in consequence of the Union, which has caused the necessity of the breaking up of the entire of the Irish Establishment of the Ordinance.

And further represents, that his Excellency Lord Cornwallis did acquaint your Memorialist, and all concerned in this measure, that their interests and situations were effectually attended to; and in the month of February his Excellency shewed your Memorialist the letter that had been written, by his directions, to the Commissioners of Compensation, and also the answer received by his Excellency to the said letter.

And your Memorialist most humbly submits, that he was perfectly convinced that no words could add to the strength of the support and protection that he enjoyed under those two letters, bearing date the twenty-fourth and twenty-eighth of January one thousand eight hundred and one; and that, from the entire of the measure, he never had conceived the smallest doubt of compensation from that time.

Your Memorialist most humbly submits, that he is desirous to make oath of the truth of his representation; which is submitted with the greatest respect and esteem.

By your obedient Servant,
Thos Burgh.

20th December 1801.

Extracts from Papers that were written prior to the dissolution of the Irish Ordinance.

Prior to the writing of the Papers marked No. 1, 2, 3, 4, much conversation passed between Government and the parties concerned, upon the subject of the Ordinance revocation; and at last, the general outline was laid down, in which every Military man was to be incorporated into the English Establishment, provided they chose it; and if he did not, he might retire on full pay, and his rank, together with the progress of rank in common with all other Officers in His Majesty's service; and Officers, who were at the head of their respective ranks, received an increase of pay, as if the event of a promotion had actually taken place.

The

The object of justice and Royal consideration was graciously fulfilled, as far as lay in the immediate prerogative of His Majesty.

The relief of the Civil institutions was referred to the Commissioners of Compensation by a letter marked, No. 1. This letter states, "That some distinct establishments and offices of the kingdom of Ireland, which were incidental to the separate institutions, would, in consequence of the Union, actually cease and determine, &c."

It states, That by the institution of Commissioners to ascertain losses that Individuals may suffer, that persons possessing offices are thereby released from the necessity of applying for compensation to the discretion of the United Parliament; and it states, that by pulling down the entire Ordinance here, a considerable saving will ultimately accrue to this country; and requests the Commissioners to state, whether they consider themselves sufficiently authorized to compensate the sufferers, and requires, that if there be any doubt upon the subject, that they will please to call for the assistance of His Majesty's Law Officers.

No. 2.—Is reply to the Letter marked No. 1, and is decidedly satisfactory.

After these two letters passed, every part of the business was deemed perfectly secure, and every man contributed his best to forward the progress of the business, relying firmly and confidentially on his provision.

Had the correspondence taken another turn, the business would not have been carried into effect until a Law had repaired any depending difficulty.

No. 3.—Called a King's warrant, which was sent from His Majesty to the Board of Ordinance in England. This warrant did not issue till His Majesty was satisfied that every body was perfectly compensated.

The warrant commences with declaring, "Whereas it has been represented to Us, that in consequence of the Union between His kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, it will be necessary to form an establishment," &c. &c. and so proceeds to describe the new system to be entirely emanating from the Ordinance of England, &c. &c.

Nos. 4 and 5.—Are the Letters Patent that did actually revoke all who had Patents in Ireland; but the number holding Patents immediately from His Majesty are but seven; all the other persons are officers deriving under the privileges and powers that have been granted to the Master General and other officers, ever since the commencement of an Ordinance in England or Ireland, the Ordinance being like the Navy, a perfect and distinct institution, under no controul or responsibility but the King's, or His Representatives.

No. 1.—Copy of Letter from Lord Lieutenant to the Commissioners for ascertaining Compensation.

Gentlemen,

Dublin Castle, January 24th 1801.

It having appeared to Government that many of the distinct establishments and offices of the kingdom of Ireland, which were incidental to the separate institutions, would, by the Union, and in consequence thereof, be rendered unnecessary, or would actually cease and determine thereby; and it further appears to Government, that the Parliament of the United Kingdom, upon incorporating the Establishments of Ireland, and making new arrangements for the Government thereof, might, in order to retrench the expences, and reduce the patronage of the Crown, decline to revive several offices and employments, which, having been supported by annual grants of the Irish Parliament, would cease from the discontinuance of those grants.

Government did in the last Session, recommend it to the Parliament of Ireland to appoint Commissioners for ascertaining the losses which Individuals might thus suffer in consequence of the Union, and the Act by which you are instituted was accordingly passed, securing all Individuals from sustaining loss of emolument in consequence of the measure which the Parliament of the United Kingdom might adopt with respect to the Establishment of Ireland, whereby the Individuals possessing offices at the time of the Union, are relieved from the necessity of applying for compensation for their losses to the discretion of the United Parliament; the Parliament

Parliament of Ireland having established a commission for ascertaining the amount, and all powers fully to compensate them.

Having stated to you the intentions of Government with regard to the Act by which you are appointed, I have my Lord Lieutenant's commands to intimate to you, that the Army and Ordnance of this country, which hitherto have been maintained within it for its defence, must, in consequence of the Union, form part of the Army and Ordnance of the United Kingdom, and will be discontinued as a separate Establishment of the Kingdom of Ireland to be maintained by the separate Parliament thereof; the distinctions of the two kingdoms being done away, this alteration of course follows, and the distinct establishment of the Army and Ordnance cease.

From this circumstance I have it in command to acquaint you, that my Lord Lieutenant has received information from his Grace the Duke of Portland, that it is His Majesty's intention, in the forming of the new arrangement of the Ordnance of the United Kingdom, to recommend it to Parliament not to revive several of the offices which stand upon the separate Establishment of the Ordnance of the Kingdom of Ireland, whereby a considerable ultimate saving will be made to the Public.

His Excellency therefore desires that you will take into your immediate consideration that part of the Act by which you are instituted, that relates to these Offices, and Officers allowances and emoluments which may cease or be discontinued by the Union, or in consequence thereof, and report to him your opinion how far you consider yourselves authorized to ascertain the compensation which will be due to the said Agent to the Forces serving abroad, and to such Officers of the Board of Ordnance whose offices, being suppressed in consequence of the Ordnance of the Kingdom of Ireland having ceased by the Union, and shall not be placed upon the establishment of the Ordnance of the United Kingdom.

And his Excellency desires, if you have any doubt upon the subject, that you will call for the assistance of His Majesty's Law Officers thereupon.

I have the honour to be,

E. Cooke.

No. 2.—Compensation Board, 28th January 1801.

May it please your Excellency,

We have received your Excellency's command, signified by Mr. Cooke's letter of the 26th, stating the purposes of the Act of the last session of Parliament in this kingdom, under which we are constituted Commissioners for ascertaining losses which Individuals may suffer in consequence of the Union:

The alteration which of course follows upon the distinction of the Kingdoms being done away, and that distinct establishments of the Army and Ordnance will cease:

And, that from this circumstance, there will be no forces maintained by the Kingdom of Ireland abroad, and that the Agent of those forces will be discontinued; and that several of the Officers which stand upon the establishment of the Ordnance of the Kingdom of Ireland will not be continued.

Your Excellency directs us to report our opinion how far we consider ourselves authorized to ascertain the compensation which will be due to the said Agent of the Forces serving abroad, and to such Officers of the Board of Ordnance, whose offices being suppressed in consequence of the Ordnance of this Kingdom of Ireland having ceased by the Union, and shall not be placed upon the establishment of the United Kingdom.

We humbly report to your Excellency our opinion, that this Board is authorized to ascertain the compensation which will be due to the persons before-mentioned.

We have the honour to be,
With the utmost duty and respect,

GEORGE R. Whereas you have represented unto Us, that, in consequence of the Union between Our kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland, it will be necessary to form an establishment for conducting the business of the Civil Department of the Ordnance in Ireland, in the same manner as that particular branch of Our service has been hitherto carried on in this kingdom: And whereas We have approved of the plan you submitted to Us for that purpose, which is detailed in the Establishment herunto annexed, Our will and pleasure therefore is, and We do hereby authorize you to cause the said Establishment to be formed forthwith, by selecting capable persons from the Ordnance Department in Great Britain and Ireland, or in any other manner as you shall think most conducive to Our service, to fill the several situations that are proposed for the better conducting of the Civil branch of Our Ordnance in Ireland: And Our further will and pleasure is, that the Establishment we have hereby approved shall be styled an Establishment of respective Officers for conducting the business of the Civil Department of the Ordnance in Ireland; that the Officers composing the same shall be subordinate to and under the immediate controul of the Master General, and the Lieutenant General and principal Officers of Our Ordnance in Great Britain, now and for the time being, and that it shall be governed by the same rules, regulations, and orders as the several Ordnance Establishments in this Our kingdom are conducted; and We do hereby authorize you to cause the expence of the aforesaid establishment, amounting to the sum of Three thousand six hundred and ninety-three pounds fifteen shillings, to be charged in the Estimates of the Ordnance, to be from time to time presented to Parliament; and We do hereby confirm the power heretofore given to the Master General, or to the Lieutenant General and Board of Ordnance, in the Master General's absence, in like cases, to make such further alterations as from time to time shall be found more advantageous to Our service, provided that the whole of the Establishment, approved and confirmed by this Our warrant, be not exceeded: and for so doing this shall be as well unto you as unto the Commissioners for auditing the Public Accounts of the kingdom, and to all other Our Officers and Ministers herein concerned, a sufficient warrant.—Given at Our Court at Saint James's, this 16th day of February 1801, in the forty-first year of Our reign.

By His Majesty's Command,

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Captain Richard Legge, Chief Firemaster of the Royal Laboratory,

Sheweth,

THAT the appointment of Chief Fire-master was purchased for Memorialist by his father Colonel Legge, of the Royal Irish Artillery, who died in the Service.

That Memorialist considered his place as his own, without privilege of selling it at any time during his life; that the annual income arising from it is £. 150. per annum—That by the late arrangements when the Royal Irish Artillery was incorporated with the English Artillery, Memorialist was the second eldest Captain in his regiment, and was obliged to retire, because, by joining English Artillery, above one hundred Captains would be put over his head.

That Memorialist was severely wounded in the Service on the Continent, and in consideration of the above circumstance, humbly prays, that, as the place of Chief Fire-master is suppressed, the value and adequate compensation may be made in lieu of it.

Which is humbly submitted.

Stow, October 18th 1803.

Sir,

In consequence of your letter of the 11th, I write to state, for the information of the Commissioners for granting Compensation in Ireland, that your salary, when employed by Mr. Jenkinson and myself, as Resident Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, amounted to a sum not less than One hundred pounds per annum, derived from an allowance granted to us for the use of a Clerk from the Government of Ireland, and also from an additional salary which we eventually paid to you to make up the amount; and you had likewise the advantage of a residence in the office (where it was found always advisable to have our Clerk) with the free use of coals, candles, stationery, and other perquisites—I have also to state, that our Messenger, Mr. Madden, has a net salary of Fifty-two guineas, with other advantages, which made his salary amount to nearly Sixty pounds. I can safely say, that this statement of your respective allowances is considerably within the value; and I trust it will satisfy the Commissioners, and induce them to grant the allowances recommended for you and Mr. Madden; indeed, every assurance was given to me at the time we surrendered the office, by Lord Castlereagh, that your compensation (unless you were continued in the office) should be £. 200. per annum, and Mr. Madden's not less than the 52 guineas.

I am, Sir,

Henry Coles, Esquire.

Stow, October 18th 1803.

Sir,

In consequence of your letter of the 11th, I write to state, for the information of the Commissioners for granting Compensation in Ireland, that your salary, when employed by Mr. Jenkinson and myself as Resident Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, amounted to a sum not less than £.100. per annum, derived from an allowance granted to us for the use of a Clerk from the Government of Ireland, and also from an additional salary which we eventually paid to you to make up the amount; and you had likewise the advantage of a residence in the office (where it was found always advisable to have our Clerk) with the free use of coals, candles, stationery, and other perquisites; I have also to state, that our Messenger, Mr. Madden, has a net salary of Fifty-two guineas, with other advantages, which made his salary amount to nearly Sixty pounds. I can safely say, that this Statement of your respective allowances is considerably within the value, and I trust it will satisfy the Commissioners, and induce them to grant the allowances recommended for you and Mr. Madden; indeed, every assurance was given to me at the time we surrendered the office, by Lord Castlereagh, that your compensation (unless you were continued in the office) should be Two hundred pounds per annum, and Mr. Madden's not less than the 52 guineas.

I am, Sir,

Your very obedient humble Servant,

Henry Coles, Esquire.

W. H. Freemantle.

This paper writing was produced, and shewn to William Henry Freemantle, and is the same mentioned and referred to in his Affidavit. Sworn this seventeenth day of January 1804. Before me,

W. Pegg.

William Henry Freemantle, of Great Stanhope-street, St. George's parish, City of Westminster, maketh oath, and saith, That the Statements in his letter to Mr. Coles, of the 18th of October 1803 (the annexed being a copy) are true.

No. 95.—CHARLES PLEYDELL JONES.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Charles Pleydell Jones, Office-keeper to His Majesty's Signet in England,

Sheweth,

THAT, previous to the Union of Great Britain and Ireland, there was annually issued from the Exchequer of Ireland, by the Commissioners of the Treasury there, pursuant to Acts of the Parliament of Ireland, and by authority of His Majesty's Royal Letters, a sum of Three thousand five hundred pounds, to pay the customary allowances to several Officers in England and Ireland for their attendance and services, and also for passing the several public Bills; out of which sum there was annually paid to the Treasury and Signet-offices in England Ten pounds fifteen shillings, one moiety whereof, amounting to Five pounds seven shillings and sixpence, was, for several years previous to the said Union, paid to your Memorialist for his services, but that since that period he has ceased to receive the same.

No. 96.—Sir CHICHESTER FORTESCUE, Knight.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Sir Chichester Fortescue, Knight, Ulster King of Arms of all Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist, as Ulster King of Arms, has been for many years in possession of a suite of apartments for his residence in the east wing of the Parliament House.

That in consequence of the Union of Great Britain and Ireland, the site and building of the Parliament House were sold by Government to the Governors and Directors of the Bank of Ireland, and Memorialist has been, under official authority, deprived of his said residence; the advantages of which residence now ceasing in consequence of the Union, composed a part of the profits of his employment, as he there resided free of rent, taxes, and repairs; and which employment extant he holds by virtue of Letters Patent.

That by said deprivation, Memorialist can prove he is a sufferer to the amount of £. 140. per annum: And therefore prays that he may be granted compensation for the same, pursuant to Act of Parliament.

Here Memorialist begs leave to remind the Commissioners, that as he was certain, immediately on the Union taking place, that he would lose the apartments, and as they were rendered useless to him by the frequent viewing thereof by persons belonging to Government and said Bank, he did propose including the loss thereof in the claim he then laid before the Commissioners; in answer to which proposal, they were pleased to mention, "That such part of his claim could not be taken into consideration till he got official notice to quit the apartments, and that his receiving an adjudication for what losses he had proved, would not be a bar to his receiving compensation for the remainder, when he could get such official notice."

That Memorialist had also an office in said building, exclusive of his apartments, for keeping the Records, and performing the duties of Ulster King of Arms department, which office he is likewise deprived of in consequence as before-mentioned: And therefore prays £. 40. per annum compensation, to enable him to hire an apartment for keeping the Records, and performing the duties of Ulster King of Arms department, he being also able to prove that sum to be the loss he sustains by being so deprived of said office apartment; and having been referred to this Board for redress, when he applied to Government on the subject.

43, Dawson-street,

Chichester Fortescue, Ulster.

3d May 1802.

Observations (on the Proofs made in support of Sir Chichester Fortescue's Claim) humbly submitted to the consideration of the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners of Compensation.

By Letters Patent, it appeared, that in the year 1788, the Claimant was appointed Ulster King of Arms, and thereby granted "all profits whatsoever then belonging or that thereafter should belong to said office."

That

That an Officer from two offices belonging to Government produced books, and office-copies from books, proving that the Claimant, as Ulster King of Arms, was by the authority of Government, in the year 1789, possessed of the apartments wherein he resided in the Parliament House, as also of the room there in which he held his office; and that consequently the advantage of said apartments and room constituted part of the profits of his employment, and is comprized in the words above quoted from his Patent; and for the loss of which profit, he presumes it is manifest, that he is specially relievable by the Statute under which he seeks to be compensated.

That an Attendant of the House of Lords proved that the Claimant resided there for ten years, and the number of apartments he occupied.

That under an Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, the entire of the building of the late Irish Parliament House has been sold to the Governor and Company of the Bank of Ireland; and, by an official letter, the Claimant is deprived of said apartments and office-room, which deprivation, it is publicly known, has occurred in consequence of the Union between Great Britain and Ireland.

That two persons of known respectability, many years conversant with the nature and value of public and private buildings, as also of houses and lodgings in the City of Dublin, declared on oath what the said apartments and office-room were worth per annum, to the best of their judgment.

That the Claimant had not any expectation of the Union till shortly before the Act was brought into Parliament, which is the cause of his not being provided with further profits; however, with all due deference, he conceives that he has thus far fully proved, namely, that he was by virtue of Letters Patent possessed of a profit of office for a number of years, which profit has ceased in consequence of the Union: And therefore he here begs leave to submit the merits of his case to the justice and wisdom of the Honourable Board.

Say, That the contents of Certificate now delivered in, and ſigned by Examinants, and dated the 6th May 1802, are, to the beſt of their knowledge and belief, true—That the apartments, excluſive of the office, are worth £. 140. per annum, conſidering ſame free from taxes or repairs, free from accidents by ſtorm or fire, and conſidering ſame free from the expence of keeping a ſervant to take care of ſame when the family holding ſame might be abſent, and free from any chance of a robbery, they being informed by Mr. O'Flaherty, that ſaid apartments are held free from thoſe riſks; under which conſiderations they have valued ſame at £. 140. And they conſider that apartments as good might be held for £. 100. per annum; and they have eſtimated the other advantages of being free from taxes, repairs, and riſks, at £. 40. per annum. They eſtimated the taxes at about £. 16. per annum, and the remaining £. 24. for repairs and other casualties, including alſo damages which might have been occaſioned by ſtorm. They have not particularized the items upon which they made up the £. 24. per annum, but made a general eſtimate of ſaid ſum for all the other casualties. They believe the like apartments might be insured for £. 4. a year; they conſider the like might be kept in repair for £. 20. a year, and believe the remaining £. 4. per annum would defray the expence of a ſervant for about three months of the year, when the family might be from town, who would be left there to take care of ſame from fire or robbery. They value the office at £. 40. a year; they do ſuppoſe that an office fit for that purpoſe could not be had under £. 40 a year in an eligible part of the city.

No. 97.—WHITMORE DAVIS.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Whitmore Davis, Commissary of Ordnance,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT he was a Commissary of Ordnance, as will appear by his warrant, dated June the 15th 1795, and that he did execute all the duties incumbent on the office, and attended the different Parks of Artillery, as occasion required, at Balinglass, Vinegar Hill, Wexford, &c. and in 1798, he attended the Artillery department, and had the head care of all the artillery, ammunition, stores, and camp equipage that was attached to the Marquis Cornwallis's Army during the whole of his Excellency's march, to the surrender of the French army; from thence to Tullamore, Athlone, and where else ordered.

Your Memorialist represents, that his pay was in all ordinary times Ten shillings per day; that when on service he was allowed bår and forage money, and other advantages, that he considered equal to six shillings per day.

Your Memorialist represents that he was suddenly called on to go from Laughlinstown camp to Balinglass, where he understood it necessary to put up his Papers, which were of value to him, to send in care of a friend, and those Papers were mislaid by his friend going to England, and were not recovered until within these few days. And Memorialist being informed, that the warrant was essential to shew the Honourable Commissioners, Memorialist did not venture to trouble them till he procured it. And Memorialist most humbly submits, that if the Ordnance Establishment had existed, that his appointment would also exist.

He therefore prays for your consideration and relief.

Saith, That the office of Commissary was not a permanent situation; a Commissary only received pay for the Job whilst he was on the special duty to which he was appointed—Saith, that a Conductor and Commissary was the same office, the nature of the duty was alike; and a Commissary received sometimes Five and sometimes Ten shillings per day. If a party of cars were sent, of suppose fifty, there were sent generally two Conductors and one Commissary, who was over the Conductors—Saith, that Mr. Henchy was an occasional Commissary, and had at one time been the Captain of an Ordnance gun-boat—Saith, that Mr. Davis was a sort of lance Commissary; he was Commissary to the Camp at Laughlinstown, and on the march to Ballinamuck; they were temporary officers only appointed for the Job, and were discontinued from time to time.

Tho. Pakenham.

19th March 1804.

Colonel Henry Rogers, sworn.

Saith, Deponent is at the head of the Civil Department of the Ordnance in Ireland; as Chief Storekeeper in Ireland, under the new establishment. Deponent commanded the British and Irish Artillery in Laughlinstown camp; knew Mr. Davis there as Commissary of Artillery under the late Board of Ordnance; he was in in that situation during the entire of Deponent's stay there, which was one year; also met Mr. Davis at Tullamore, and he was still acting as Commissary of Artillery—Saith, the Commissaries under the British Artillery are warranted, and their situation is permanent as well in peace as war, as has been the case during the last peace; and if by any reason their services should be discontinued, they consider themselves entitled to and receive half-pay—Saith, the Duty of a Commissary is themselves entitled to and receive half-pay—Saith, the Duty of a Commissary is a very important one—Saith, it may be possible that more Commissaries are requisite in war than in peace; and upon any reduction, the senior Commissaries are continued (if their conduct is unimpeached) and the juniors struck off, with an allowance of Half-pay, as he has understood—Saith, he understood Mr. Davis to have been one of the senior or higher Commissaries—Saith, if there had not been a Union, Deponent conceives that the late Board of Ordnance could not have done without a Commissary, if their establishment of Field Artillery had been preserved—Saith, the offices of Commissary and Conductor are totally distinct; the Conductor is a person acting under the command of the Commissary, and as his Clerk or Assistant, and is not entitled to Half-pay, but a Commissary is—Saith, that Mr. McClatchy is Commissary under the present Board of Ordnance—Saith, the General Officers at the Camp at Laughlinstown, and Deponent himself also, considered Mr. Davis to be a very proper person in his department as Commissary—Saith, that several of the Commissaries of the British Board were continued during the late peace—Saith, he considers that the office of Commissary could not be dispensed with even during peace, so long as the Train of Artillery should be kept up; but if upon a permanent peace, and calling in of the Train of Artillery, the office of Commissary should be reduced, Deponent is of opinion, that the Commissary would be compensated. The duty of Commissary is as a check between the Military and Civil Departments, and he must keep regular Books of Account of Receipts and Issues, the Commanding Officer of Artillery's order to him being his warrant for his issue of Stores. The pay of a Commissary is Ten shillings per day—He could not have any perquisite or emolument whatsoever: The field allowance of a Commissary is the same as that of a Captain. There is an allowance when upon service of bat and forage money.

H. Rogers.

Mr. Edward Dalton, sworn.

Saith, Mr. Lyfter was first Clerk in the Secretary's office, in the late Irish Board of Ordnance—Saith, Deponent was present, and heard Mr. Lyfter inform Mr. Davis, that he was desired by the Surveyor General to acquaint him, that his services were not further required, as his Accounts were settled. Believes this took place in February or March 1801—Does not recollect any thing further having passed; he might have said more, but Deponent does not recollect it. Does not know whether he was employed afterwards or not; believes he was afterwards employed at the Pigeon House, but cannot say positively.

Edward Dalton.

Thomas Dickinson, sworn.

Saith, That Commissaries received Ten shillings per day as pay, and an allowance of Three shillings per day for a horse—Saith, that Mr. Davis was always employed from the time he came into employment, which was in the year 1795, with a few days exceptions—Saith, that Mr. Hinchy was constantly employed from the time he came in, as Deponent believes, with some exceptions of days—Saith, that Mr. Davis was allowed Three shillings per day to provide a horse; he was always employed, and was allowed Three shillings a day at all times from his appointment, because he was always employed—Mr. Hinchy was only allowed the Three shillings per day when employed; believes he was constantly employed; employed; there might have been a suspension for a few days at any one time, but not more: possibly the entire of their suspension was not fifty days in a year.

Th. Dickinson.

15th October 1824.

Thomas Dickinson, further examined, on the Claims of Whitmore Davis and Donat Hinchy.

Saith, That Messrs. Davis and Hinchy were paid by the Board of Ordnance, by Debentures—Saith, that when in the country, they frequently and most constantly paid themselves out of the monies of the Board of Ordnance which were in their hands, advanced to them upon that Debenture by Imprest; Deponent checked their Bills, and can take upon himself to speak as to the payments which were made them; does not recollect of any deductions, except that upon some days they were not allowed for horse-hire. Deponent saith, he considers they were entitled to Ten shillings per day without deductions; saith, they were paid same without deductions; the deductions were not made until after Sir George Shee came into the Ordnance, as Deponent best recollects—Saith, Mr. Burgh acted as Surveyor General for five or six years; there were not any deductions made during said time; the deductions began whilst Sir George Shee was in office—Saith, the deductions were very trivial, and it is impossible to ascertain the amount of them, without getting the Books of the late Board of Ordnance, which Deponent believes are not easily to be got; believes they have been carried away: Sir George made frequent deductions—Saith, that if Mr. Davis or Mr. Hinchy came into town for a day or two, the horse-hire was according to Sir George Shee's deductions, stopped from them—Saith, Deponent is certain that the entire deductions could not be more in any one year than fifty days—Saith, he has read the paper writing now signed by Deponent, and believes same to be a true Account, and to contain the entire deductions—Saith, they had to find their horses, and to defray the expence of keeping them; believes their Accounts were made up and paid to the 30th September 1801, being the time of the dissolution of the old Board of Ordnance.

Mr. Dalton further examined.

Saith, He believes Mr. Hinchy had not any warrant.—Saith, there are Clerks at present in the Ordnance, some of whom have taken out warrants, and others have not, but they are equally entitled to them; saith Conductors and Commissaries are distinct distinct offices, and the duty of them differs; saith, there is a Commissary to the present Board, and that the employment is a permanent one, being a situation which the Board could not do without, and as necessary as any Clerk in the office; saith, Deponent considered Mr. Hinchy's situation as permanent under the old Board as the present Commissary is under the new Board; though Mr. Hinchy had not a warrant, he certainly might have one if he chose to take it out. Some Commissaries took out warrants, and others did not.

Saith, That Mr. Donat Hinchy was a Commissary under the late Board of Ordnance; the pay of a Commissary was Ten shillings a day; his duty was to go to any part of Ireland where ordered, and to take charge of all camp equipage, and give them out at discretion; he was also employed, at an additional allowance, in the providing and delivery of forage. His duty as a Commissary was to employ Labourers and Cars in removing camp equipage, stores, &c. and always had money in his hands for that purpose from the Board; it was an ancient office, and had been from the beginning of the Board, and was not a temporary or occasional office, but an old one, and of great trust and confidence; and the Commissary was to act as, and represented the Board in Out-quarters; the providing of forage was not a part of the duty of Commissary, but was an extra duty, for which he got an extra pay, and was besides allowed horse-hire.

Saith, That Mr. Donat Hinchy was appointed either as Commissary or Conductor under the late Board of Ordnance, when Deponent was Secretary to said Board; Deponent quitted said employment in September 1800. Mr. Hinchy had the payment of the contingencies of the Artillery Detachment, to which he was appointed, and also to provide them with forage and all contingencies, and to account for same with the Board, for which purpose he had money upon Imprest from said Board from time to time, as they thought necessary; believes Mr. Hinchy was appointed in 1797 or 1798, and that he was in same employment when Deponent quitted the Board in or about September 1800.

Saith, He was Second Clerk in the Storekeeper's office of the late Board of Ordnance, knew Mr. Donat Hinchy to be Commissary of Stores under said Board; Deponent issued Stores from the Ordnance to Mr. Hinchy as Commissary; knew Mr. Hinchy in that employment in the year 1797, in which he continued until after the Board was dissolved in 1801, as Deponent believes; saith, to the best of his recollection, he was in office after the first of January 1801. Mr. Hinchy delivered up Stores to Deponent in January 1801; to the best of Deponent's belief, that branch of the department was handed over to the Commissary General on the dissolution of the old Board; did not know of Mr. Hinchy's being dismissed whilst Deponent was in office; believes that if the Board of Ordnance had continued, they would have continued the employment of Commissary; believes that if said Board had continued, Mr. Hinchy would not have been dismissed; Mr. Hinchy was Ordnance Commissary, had the charge of Ordnance Stores; does not know whether said office was on the Establishment; his duty was to receive stores from the Ordnance Department, and to issue them to the Troops, and also to supply the Troops with those necessaries they had occasion for, and to supply the horses; the Ordnance Establishment at present have a greater number of Clerks and less duty than the former establishment; Deponent conceives Mr. Hinchy would not have made disbursements unless he were in the service.

Saith, That the office of Commissary was not a permanent situation, a Commissary only received pay for the job whilst he was on the special duty to which he was appointed; saith, that a Conductor and Commissary was the same office, the nature of the duty was alike, and a Commissary received sometimes 5 and sometimes 10 s. per day; if a party of cars were sent off, suppose 50, there were sent generally two Conductors and one Commissary, who was over the Conductors; saith, that Mr. Hinchy was an occasional Commissary, and had at one time been the Captain of an Ordnance gun-boat; saith, that Mr. Davis was a sort of lance Commissary; he was Commissary to the Camp at Laughlinstown, and on the march to Ballinacree; they were temporary Officers, only appointed for the job, and were discontinued from time to time.

Saith, Deponent is at the head of the Civil Department of the Ordnance in Ireland, as chief Storekeeper in Ireland, under the new establishment; Deponent commanded the British and Irish Artillery in Laughlinstown Camp; knew Mr. Davis there as Commissary of Artillery under the late Board of Ordnance; he was in that situation during the entire of Deponent's stay there, which was one year; also met Mr. Davis at Tullamore, and he was still acting as Commissary of Artillery; saith, the Commissaries under the British Artillery are warranted, and their situation is permanent as well in peace as war, as has been the case during the last peace; and if by any reason their services should be discontinued, they consider themselves entitled to and receive Half-pay: Saith, the duty of a Commissary is a very important one; saith, it may be possible that more Commissaries are requisite in war than in peace; and upon any reduction, the senior Commissaries are continued if their conduct is unimpeached, and the juniors struck off with an allowance of Half-pay, as he has understood: Saith, he understood Mr. Davis to have been one of the senior or higher Commissaries; saith, if there had not been an Union, Deponent conceives that the late Board of Ordnance could not have done without a Commissary, if their establishment of Field Artillery had been preserved: Saith, the offices of Commissary and Conductor are totally distinct; the Conductor is a person acting under the command of the Commissary, and as his Clerk or Assistant, and is not entitled to Half-pay, but a Commissary is: Saith, that Mr. McClatchy is Commissary under the present Board of Ordnance: Saith, the General Officers at the Camp at Laughlinstown, and Deponent himself also, considered Mr. Davis to be a very proper person in his Department as Commissary: Saith, that several of the Commissaries of the British Board were continued during the late peace: Saith, he considers that the office of Commissary could not be dispensed with even during peace, so long as the Train of Artillery should be kept up; but if upon a permanent peace, and calling in of the Train of Artillery, the office of Commissary should be reduced, Deponent is of opinion that the Commissary would be compensated; the duty of Commissary is as a cheque between the Military and Civil departments, and he must keep regular books of accounts of receipts and issues, the commanding Officer of Artillery's order to him being his warrant for his issue of stores. The pay of Commissary is 10 shillings per diem; he could not have any perquisite or emolument whatever: the field allowance of a Commissary is the same as that of a Captain; there is an allowance when upon service of bat and forage money.

Mr. Hinchy was only allowed the 3 shillings per day when employed; believes he was constantly employed; there might have been a suspension for a few days at any one time, but not more; possibly the entire of their suspensions was not fifty days in a year.

Thomas Dickinson, further examined, on the Claims of Whitmore Davis and Donat Hinchy.

Saith, That Messieurs Davis and Hinchy were paid by the Board of Ordnance by Debentures; saith, that when in the country, they frequently and most constantly paid themselves out of the monies of the Board of Ordnance which were in their hands, advanced to them upon that Debenture by Imprest, and Deponent checked their bills, and can take upon himself to speak as to the payments which were made them; does not recollect of any deductions, except that upon some days they were not allowed for horse-hire; and Deponent saith, he considers they were entitled to Ten shillings per day without deductions; saith, they were paid same without deductions; the deductions were not made until after Sir George Shee came into the Ordnance, as Deponent best recollects: Saith, Mr. Burgh acted as Surveyor General for five or six years; there was not any deductions made during said time, the deductions began whilst Sir George Shee was in office; saith, the deductions were very trivial, and it is impossible to ascertain the amount of them without getting the books of the late Board of Ordnance, which Deponent believes are not easily to be got; believes they have been carried away; Sir George Shee made frequent deductions: Saith, that if Mr. Davis or Mr. Hinchy came into town for a day or two, the horse-hire was, according to Sir George Shee's deductions, stopped from them; saith, Deponent is certain that the entire deductions could not be more in any one year than fifty days; saith, he has read the paper writing now signed by Deponent, and believes same to be a true account, and to contain the entire deductions: Saith, they had to find their horses, and to defray the expence of keeping them; believes their accounts were made up and paid to the thirtieth September one thousand eight hundred and one, being the time of the dissolution of the old Board of Ordnance.

No. 99.—GEORGE CHARLETON.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners of Compensation,

Memorial of George Charlton, Surgeon to the Ordnance,

Representeth,

THAT on the sixth of September 1796, Memorialist had the honour to be appointed by the Board of Ordnance to attend the Artificers and Labourers employed in their service at Dublin Castle; that at that time each man was allowed half-pay when sick; but finding many of them malingering, the Surveyor General represented to the Board the saving it would be to Government to have them attended by a person properly qualified. They did me the honour of this appointment, with a salary of Forty guineas per annum, and an order to give in a sick Report once a week, and no man in future to be indulged with half-pay unless included in my Report; the good effects and savings immediately appeared, the malingering was detected, and the sick men attended to.

That

That in consequence of the Union, the Irish Board was dissolved, and Memorialist lost his appointment.

Memorialist humbly prays the Board will please to take the loss of his Salary into their humane consideration, and grant him compensation, which, with profound respect, is most humbly submitted.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of William Turner, Paymaster to the late Irish Artillery and Corps of Gunner Drivers,

Humbly sheweth,

That your Memorialist did submit for your consideration, a Statement of the Emoluments that he received from the late Ordnance Department, to the yearly Amount of Three hundred pounds.

That Memorialist was recommended by the Honourable Admiral Pakenham, then Master General of the Irish Ordnance, to be placed on the Establishment of the Ordnance of the United Kingdom, in the same situation as Memorialist held under the Irish Board; but the answer given him was, that the Master General and Board had appointed to that situation Messrs. Cox and Co. to whom they would recommend Memorialist.

Cox and Co. requesting him to act for them in this Country; and notwithstanding repeated applications to them, he could not obtain any appointment either under the Board, or under them, and is obliged, after his best endeavours, for to decline all further hope from them.

Memorialist therefore requests, that your Honourable Board will take his case into your consideration, and grant him compensation for the loss he has sustained by his office having ceased in consequence of the Union:

No. 101.—GEORGE FORSTER DALTON, Gentleman.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of George Forster Dalton, Gentleman, Second or Assistant Clerk in the late Surveyor General's office of the Ordnance in Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT in the month of March 1798, Memorialist was appointed to the said Clerkship at the salary of £. 125. 12 s. 6 d. per annum, the duty of which employment he has discharged with diligence and fidelity from his appointment to the present period.

That in consequence of the Legislative Union between Great Britain and Ireland, the late Board of Ordnance in Ireland have been dissolved, and the office of the Surveyor General of the Ordnance being thereby altogether laid aside, Memorialist's Clerkship has been discontinued, by which Memorialist sustains the loss of One hundred and twenty-five pounds twelve shillings and sixpence per annum, his yearly salary therein; as may appear by the books of the Ordnance Department.

That as Memorialist's claim to compensation not only comes within the spirit and declaration of the Act of Parliament for granting Compensation to those persons whose offices are discontinued by the Union, but likewise the words of the Right Honourable Lord Castlereagh expressed in the then Parliament of Ireland, were, "That in the arrangement for Compensation, offices done away, or Individuals injured, no person should be a sufferer, but the reasonable expectation of every man should be considered and attended to,"

Your Memorialist begs leave to submit his case to your Honours, as one coming directly within the construction of the Act of Parliament, and Lord Castlereagh's solemn assurance; and your Memorialist humbly requests that your Honours will be graciously pleased to take this his Memorial into serious consideration, and grant him such compensation for the loss he has sustained by the Union as to your Honours wisdom, justice, and humanity, shall seem meet.

He was paid a salary annually of £. 80. as appears by said Minute-book, signed by Sir George Shee; knows, though Mr. Dalton was paid accordingly ingly by the Board; that said Forster was paid in addition £.45. 12s. 6d. in the same manner, and up to the same time.

Is certain the office held by Mr. Dalton, even in peace time, could not be dispensed with from the increased business of the office.

W^m Turner.

December 12th 1801.

William Turner, Esquire, being duly sworn:

Deponent—

Conducted all the Business relative to the Artillery, the Corps of Drivers, and Gun-boats, &c. for Thomas Burgh, Esquire, the Agent. A paper was produced, and signed by Deponent; saith, it is a just Account which he did make out from books of the office respecting the said Agencies, and that he paid the whole money stated in said Account to said Mr. Burgh; considered Mr. Burgh as General Agent for the whole establishment of said Corps of Artillery, but the separate Agent might have been appointed for each branch.

That the Horse Accounts were British, and did not come upon this Establishment until 1st January 1798.

The Foot Artillery were also English; and came here 1st May 1797.

Corps of Drivers were a new Establishment here, and not from England, and took place 4th November 1797.

Gun-boats are established from 1797; they remained under the Admiralty jurisdiction, officered and victualled by the Admiralty, but paid on the establishment of this country.

William Turner.

Monday 14th June 1802.

William Boulger, Esquire, sworn.

Saith,

That the Account now produced was sworn to before this Board by Mr. Turner, Clerk to Mr. Burgh, and contains an exact account of the net profits to Mr. Burgh in the four years therein mentioned.

The Horse Artillery existed but three years; and the Gun-boats but two years; Deponent was Deputy Clerk of the Ordnance, and all the money was estimated for by him; he checked all the Military Accounts of the Artillery, and particularly the Agent's Account. The Clerk of the Ordnance estimated for the expence of the Artillery in the beginning of each year, which Estimate he delivered on oath to Government; at 3d. per pound, being Mr. Burgh's fees, and which was allowed by Government and the Board of Ordnance. On the sums issued, on an average of three years, they amount to

And the average on four years, is £. 1,112 14s. 1½

No. 103.—GEORGE GRIERSON.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of George Grierson, His Majesty's Printer,

Sheweth,

THAT for a period of nearly eighty years, namely, from the first year of the reign of his late Majesty King George the Second to the present time, Memorialist's ancestors and himself, by different renewals, have held by Patent from his said late Majesty, and His present Majesty, the office of King's Printer in Ireland.

That your Memorialist had good reason to hope, from the attention he has uniformly paid to the business of Government, that the said Patent would be continued to him and his children (as on former occasions) unless forfeited by their own misconduct.

That

That upon the consolidation of the Parliaments of Great Britain and Ireland, Memorialist will be deprived of the emoluments he derived from furnishing the Members of both Houses of Parliament with said Statutes, and in future will lose the advantage of that part of his Patent which gives him the sole right of printing the Statutes, and the Abridgements of the Statutes of this kingdom, which will deprive Memorialist of a considerable annual income.

Memorialist begs leave likewise to represent, that this event, which it was impossible for him to foresee, and against the consequences of which he was of course unprepared, both as to proportioning his stock to the time at which the sale was to terminate, and other arrangements made necessary by this unexpected change in his affairs, will render unproductive a large stock of said Statutes now on his hands, and which it was absolutely necessary he should be provided with, so as to prevent the possibility of disappointment to Government or Parliament, in case of the natural or unforeseen dissolution of Parliament.

That Memorialist humbly conceives, that he has a just claim to a full Compensation for his stock and materials, as Memorialist, in case of the natural termination of his Patent (if, contrary to his expectations and ancient usage, it should pass from him) would probably be paid by his Successor the full value and amount thereof.

Memorialist likewise begs leave to represent, that he has vested great part of his paternal property and past acquisitions in said stock, and in erecting a very large and complete Printing-office, for the expeditious printing of the Statutes of this kingdom, much too extensive for the other branches of his business, and has furnished it with Materials peculiarly calculated for the printing the Statutes, such as the Old English or Black Letter, &c. &c. &c. for which there will be no occasion in any other part of his business.

And further, Memorialist finding his concerns in Dublin, extensive as they are, and as may appear by the honourable testimony of the Committee of the House of Commons in their Report on the reprinting of the Journals, and by the Note thereunto annexed*, were inadequate to his purpose, he lately laid out a large sum of money in the purchase of an extensive concern in Rathfarnham, for the purpose of carrying on his business, where he has a Printing-office of still greater magnitude than that which he built in the city, to which he last year removed a considerable portion of his stock, and to which, in the course of the present summer, he intended to have removed the remainder of his warehouse stock, and his Workmen.

Memorialist further begs leave to state, that on Memorialist's attaining the age of 21 years, and succeeding to his patentee employment, your Memorialist bound himself by article to pay an Annuity of £.600 per annum, to his mother Mrs. Mary Hay, for the joint support of her and her three Daughters, which annuity Memorialist since that period has regularly paid, and must continue to pay, it being their sole provision.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly hopes that this Right Honourable and Honourable Board will take his case into consideration, and grant Memorialist such compensation as will re-imburse him in the loss he will sustain in his annual income, and in the value of his stock, as will appear by the Statement herewith presented, as well to enable him to continue to pay said Annuity to Mrs. Mary Hay, and to provide a future livelihood for his two Sons.

And Memorialist will pray,

Dublin, Sept. 8, 1800.

George Grierson.

* "Mr. Grierson entered into an engagement with the Right Honourable the Speaker, and the Gentlemen of the Committee, to execute the above work in 3 years from August 1795 (which the majority of the Printers in Dublin supposed could not be done in any one house); and, notwithstanding the unavoidable delay in preparing Copy, procuring new Types, Presses, &c. &c. which prevented the Workmen engaged from being fully employed until February 1796; the whole work consisting of five million two hundred and ninety-three thousand five hundred and twelve sheets, was finished in January 1798."—Vide Commons Journals, vol. xviii. Appendix, page 528.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of George Grierson, His Majesty's Printer,

Sheweth,

That the suit which Memorialist some time ago had the honour to inform this Honourable Board had been instituted by him against Messrs. Eyre and Strahan, His Majesty's Printers in England, is still pending in the Court of Chancery in Great Britain, and Memorialist has reason to expect it will be finally determined in the course of next term.

That until the result of said suit shall be known, it will be impossible for Memorialist to state to your Honours to what extent he will be a loser by the Act of Union.

Memorialist therefore humbly requests that you will be pleased to postpone the consideration of his Claim until after next term.

And he will pray.

George Grierson.

Dublin, 28th March 1803.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of George Grierson, His Majesty's Printer,

Sheweth,

That Memorialist being appointed by His Majesty's Royal Patent to print (exclusively) the Statutes for Ireland, and all Abridgements thereof, did shortly after the Establishment of this Honourable Board, apply for Compensation for the loss he must sustain in consequence of the Union between Great Britain and Ireland.

That the Prayer of your Memorialist's Petition at that time was not for Compensation for the entire loss he might eventually sustain by the Act of Union, as that could not be ascertained by Memorialist until a suit, which was instituted by him in the Court of Chancery of Great Britain against Messrs. Eyre and Strahan, was determined, they having assumed to themselves the right of printing the Statutes for Ireland; but Memorialist did pray to be compensated for the loss he must sustain from a large stock of Statutes, and Abridgements of said Statutes, which remained on his hands after the two Houses of Parliament were abolished, for whose use they were ordered to be printed.

That when Memorialist was called before this Honourable Board to state the nature of his claims, your Honours were pleased to postpone the consideration thereof until the decision of the Court of Chancery should be known, in which your Memorialist cheerfully acquiesced, not doubting but the business would have been determined in the ensuing term.

That Memorialist has anxiously expected that said Question would have been decided term after term until the last, and now being informed that the multiplicity of business in that Court is so great, that probably it may not be heard next term, he is reluctantly constrained to request this Honourable Board will be pleased to take into consideration that part of his claim which relates to his said stock of Statutes, &c.

That Memorialist would not supplicate the investigation of this distinct, but in all probability, only claim, "if he was not urged by irresistible necessity; his affairs having become extremely embarrassed by the total privation of his annual profits on the Acts of three Sessions, whereby he is become at present unable to discharge heavy engagements with the Bank of Ireland, and with other Banks and Individuals.

Memorialist therefore humbly requests that this Honourable Board will be pleased to take said claim into consideration; and he will pray.

George Grierson.

City of Dublin, } Edward Keen, Clerk to George Grierson, His Majesty's Printer, Statutes in the warehouses of the said George Grierson is just and true, and was taken by Deponent within the last three days; and that to the best of his knowledge and belief, the said number of Statutes are now in said warehouses.

Copy Letter from SPEAKER of the House of Commons to Mr. Grierfon.

George Grierfon, Esq. Dominick-street.

Dear Sir,

Major Hobart is much pleased with the handsome manner in which you offered to print the Statutes in 8vo. I would advise a complete Index, well digested; and if you will tell me in what manner it may best be done, I will endeavour that it shall be no cost to you.

Mr. Dick told me of Jenkins's death, and I immediately applied to Mr. Hobart to make you the Police Stationer, but it was given to Exshaw.

The Reciprocating Corn Bill, which passed on Thursday, is very short, and I wish you could print it in small very speedily, and send me 22 copies.

Very truly your's,

John Fyler.

On the Claim of George Grierfon, Esq.

Andrew Dena, sworn:

Saith, He is Clerk and Book-keeper to Mr. Grierfon—Saith, the Account now delivered in, signed by Examinant, is a true Account of the Statutes remaining in Mr. Grierfon's warehouses, unpaid for—Saith, Mr. Grierfon is Printer to His Majesty; is obliged at all times to have the Statutes ready for sale to any of His Majesty's subjects—Saith, those Statutes inserted in the Account now delivered in were printed by order of the late Duke of Rutland, in consequence of an Address from Parliament to have the Statutes reprinted—Saith, that there was not a single set of the Statutes at large sold by Mr. Grierfon to any individual, as a common purchaser in the course of business, since the Union took place—Saith, there was sold fifty sets of the Statutes at Large since the Union, which were by an order of Government, for the offices in England, and also a few sets for public offices in Ireland, and which it is probable were more than were wanting, and that no more will be hereafter wanted as Deponent believes, and therefore those on hands are now considered as dead stock—Saith, the prices charged in said Account are those which were allowed by the Vote of the Parliament in the year one thousand seven hundred and eight, on the 4th of February, as appears by the Commons Journals of that date.

Andrew Dena.

29th August 1803.

On the Claim of Geo. Grierfon, Esq.

Andrew Dena, Gent. examined.

Saith, The Account now produced to Deponent, and signed by him, was drawn out by Deponent—Saith, that with regard to the charge of Eleven thousand pounds for two thousand sets of the Statutes at Large printed in royal octavo, eleven volumes in each set, at Ten shillings per volume, Mr. Grierfon, in March 1792, agreed with Lord Hobart for the printing of said set, as Deponent was informed, which was then began and continued printing until the year 1800, including therein the Statutes down to and for the year 1798; has heard and believes Mr. Grierfon did not make any agreement with Lord Hobart for the price, but Deponent considers the charge of Ten shillings a volume to be a fair and reasonable charge for same in quires—Believes the Statutes, up to 1792, were printed in about three years; that the price charged is for the work unbound, in sheets—Saith, there never was a set sold, nor offered for sale; Deponent was not present at the conversation between Lord Hobart and Mr. Grierfon, but believes the same took place in the Secretary's office—Saith, he always understood that as soon as said set should have been printed, application would be made to Parliament for the price thereof, and Deponent believes that was Mr. Grierfon's reason for not offering them to sale; Deponent heard and believes that same were printed by the desire of Lord Hobart, who wished to have them printed for purposes of distributing among the different Magistrates of this kingdom—Saith, that with regard to the Statutes at Large, Deponent believes Mr. Grierson would have furnished and been paid for such Statutes to the amount of the sum claimed by him for the Statutes on lands, and which would have been disposed of to new Members of Parliament before this time had not the Union taken place—Saith, that Mr. Grierson has not received any consideration whatsoever for any of the articles stated in said Account, amounting in the whole to £. 24,584. 18s. 3d.

A. Deen.

Monday, 12th September 1803.

Andrew Deen, Gent. sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Grierson frequently supplied Government with a great number of odd volumes of different Statutes, by orders of Government, and for Parliament—Saith, that if the Union had not taken place, in all probability, and almost to a certainty, a new edition of the Statutes would have been ordered, and Mr. Grierson would then only have to print such volumes as he might require to make up full sets; and upon the last printing of the Statutes, it was not requisite to print the tenth and eleventh volumes, so many having remained on hands of the former printing—Deponent conceives that it was not in the power of Government to have appointed any other person to print any new edition of the Statutes, inasmuch as Mr. Grierson holds the Patent for being His Majesty's Printer; and therefore, if the Parliament had continued, there could be no doubt of his disposing of those volumes, of which he had a large number printed—Saith, the prices of printing never since have been lower than at the time of the order for printing in February one thousand seven hundred and sixty-eight; there was a certainty of five hundred and twenty-eight copies being wanted upon every printing of the Statutes, which were disposed of as follows:

- 200 Sets to the House of Lords.
- 310 Sets to the House of Commons.
- 4 Sets to the four Courts.
- 13 Sets to the Chancellor and Judges; and
- 1 Set to the College Library,

Besides a number of odd volumes to different offices under Government.

Andrew Deen.

The Memorial of Mathew Franks, late Deputy Guardian and Keeper of the Rolls, Records, Filazers Books, and other Writings of the Court of Chancery of Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT by Letters Patent, bearing date the twelfth day of August, in the twenty-ninth year of His present Majesty's reign, the custody and keeping of the Rolls, Records, Filazers books, and other writings of the Court of Chancery, were given to the Earls of Glandore and Carysfort; and by the said Letters Patent the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort were appointed Guardians and Keepers of the said Rolls, Records, &c. and also to execute the premises as fully as the Duke of Leinster, the former Master or Keeper of the said Rolls might have done, with all the Fees, salaries, benefits, profits, privileges, and advantages to the said office of Master of the Rolls belonging, the said office to be executed by them or their their sufficient Deputy or Deputies, to be approved of by the Chief Governor or Governors of the said kingdom of Ireland for the time being, as by an attested copy of the said Letters Patent, which were duly enrolled in the Rolls-office of the said Court on the twenty-fourth day of September in the year 1789, and hereunto annexed, may more fully appear.

Your Memorialist further sheweth, That the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, by deed, bearing date the 22d day of August 1789, executed by them, appointed your Memorialist and John Fitzgerald Collis, Gent. since deceased, who was in partnership with your Memorialist in the business of an Attorney and Land Agent, to be their true and lawful Deputy and Deputies, Guardian and Guardians, and Keeper and Keepers of His Majesty's Rolls, Records, Filazers books, and other writings of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, in as ample a manner as in their power to grant the same, and in their titles to sign and execute all manner of business relative to the said office; and did also grant unto your Memorialist and the said John Fitzgerald Collis, jointly, and to either of them singly, for them and in their titles, authority to receive for their use all manner of fees and profits due or owing to them, by either Law or custom, as Guardians of the Rolls, and all other the Writings of the Court of Chancery, or which should become due to them; and in their titles generally to execute and accomplish all and whatsoever should be needful and necessary to be done about the premises, thereby ratifying whatsoever their said Deputy or Deputies should do or cause to be done in or about the premises: And your Memorialist sheweth, that the said appointment was approved of by the then Lords Justices of Ireland, by a Writing endorsed upon the Deputation, in the following words:

"By the Lords Justices General and General Governors of Ireland.

Fitzgibbon C.

"John Foster,

"Upon consideration of this Deputation from John Earl of Glandore and John Joshua Earl of Carysfort, Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, Records, Books, and other Writings of His Majesty's Court of Chancery in this kingdom, to John Fitzgerald Collis, and Mathew Franks, Gentlemen: We are pleased hereby to approve thereof, and to allow the said John Fitzgerald Collis and Mathew Franks, jointly and severally, to act as Deputy Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, Records, &c. of the said Court of Chancery accordingly, whereof all persons concerned are to take notice. Given at His Majesty's Castle of Dublin, the 19th day of September 1789.

"By his Excellency's command,

Alex. Murray."

As by an attested Copy of the said appointment, and of the approbation thereof, enrolled in the Rolls-office the twenty-fifth day of September one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine, hereunto annexed, may more fully appear.

Your Memorialist sheweth, That your Memorialist, and the said John Fitzgerald Collis, were accordingly sworn into the office of Deputy Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, by the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and that they acted as joint Deputies, and signed their names as Deputy Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, to the Copies of all Records, Pleadings, Consts, and Certificates, and the Enrolment of all Deeds and Patents, and all other business done in the said office, until the death of the said John Fitzgerald Collis, which happened in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three, the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort never having acted themselves in any part of the attendance upon, or duties of, said office: And your Memorialist sheweth, that your Memorialist continued after the death of the said John Fitzgerald Collis, to hold the said office of Deputy under the said appointment, and to do the duty thereof for said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, subject to the payment of an annuity of One hundred pounds, which your Memorialist paid to a Nominee of one of the said Earls as a consideration for his having appointed your Memorialist to the said office.

Your

Your Memorialist sheweth, That an Act was passed in the United Parliament of Great Britain and Ireland, in the 41st year of His present Majesty's reign, intituled, "An Act for the better Regulation of the office of Master of the Rolls in that part of the United Kingdom called Ireland, and for augmenting the Salary annexed to the said office:" Whereby it was enacted, among other things, that the Master of the Rolls to be appointed pursuant to the said Act, should have power to appoint a proper Officer to execute such part of the duties of the said office as had been theretofore performed by Deputy, such Officer first to be approved by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Keeper, or Lords Commissioners for the custody of the Great Seal of Ireland respectively for the time being, by Instrument under the hand and seal of such Lord Chancellor, Lord Keeper, or Lords Commissioners respectively: and your Memorialist submits, that it appears by a recital in an Act, passed in the Parliament of Ireland in the fortieth year of His present Majesty, intituled, "An Act to enable His Majesty to grant Annuities to the Lord High Chancellor, and to the Judges of the Court of King's Bench, Master of the Rolls, &c. on the resignation of their respective offices, and to amend an Act, passed in the thirty-sixth year of His present Majesty, intituled, 'An Act for increasing the Salaries of the Chief and other Judges of the Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas, and of the Chief Baron and other Barons of the Court of Exchequer in this kingdom;" that the said last-mentioned Act, which was passed in the United Parliament of Great Britain and Ireland, intituled, "An Act for the better Regulation of the office of Master of the Rolls in that part of the United Kingdom called Ireland," was passed in consequence of the Union.

Your Memorialist further sheweth, That by Letters Patent, bearing date the fifteenth day of June in the forty-first year of the reign of His present Majesty, reciting the said Act, which was passed in the United Parliament of Great Britain and Ireland; and reciting, that by Letters Patent, under the Great Seal of Ireland, they had ordained, constituted, and appointed the Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, Records, Filazers books, and other writings of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, they did, by the said Letters Patent of the fifteenth June one thousand eight hundred and one, revoke and determine the said recited Letters Patent to the Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, and every clause, article, and thing therein contained, and constituted and ordained Sir Michael Smith, Baronet, to be Master of the Rolls of Ireland, and did also give and grant unto the said Sir Michael Smith, full power and authority to appoint a Deputy for the safe keeping of the said Rolls, Books, Writs, and Records, as by an attested Copy of the said Letters Patent, which were enrolled in the Rolls office on the 24th day of June in the said year, and hereunto annexed, may appear.

Your Memorialist submits, that by the said Letters Patent, which were granted to Sir Michael Smith, pursuant to the said Act of Parliament which was passed in consequence of the Union, that the appointment which was granted to your Memorialist by the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, was revoked and determined, and that another appointment would have been necessary even if your Memorialist had been continued in the office of Deputy by the Master of the Rolls: And your Memorialist sheweth, that the said Master of the Rolls has, by virtue of the powers given unto him by the said Letters Patent, appointed Joseph Ridgeway, Gentleman, Attorney, to be his Deputy in the said office, as by an attested Copy of the said appointment enrolled in the Rolls-office, and hereunto annexed, may appear.

Your Memorialist therefore submits, that he is entitled to compensation for the loss of the emoluments arising from his office of Deputy Keeper of the Rolls, within the meaning and spirit of an Act of Parliament, intituled, "An Act for granting allowances to Bodies Corporate, and Individuals, in respect to those Cities, Towns, and Boroughs, which should cease to send any Member to Parliament after the Union; and to make compensation to those Persons whose offices may thereby be discontinued or diminished in value;" and although the said Act of Parliament, intituled, "An Act to enable His Majesty to grant Annuities to the Lord High Chancellor, and to the Judges of the Court of King's Bench, Master of the Rolls, &c. on the resignation of their respective offices, and to amend " amend an Act, passed in the thirty-sixth year of His present Majesty, intituled, " An Act for increasing the Salaries of the Chief and other Judges of the Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas, and of the Chief and other Barons of the " Court of Exchequer in this kingdom," does not provide that compensation shall be made to the Deputy Keeper of the Rolls upon the contingency therein-mentioned, yet your Memorialist submits, that the said clause was inserted in the said Act; only to remove any doubts that might have arisen, whether, in case His Majesty should have thought fit, in consequence of the Union, to have appointed a person learned in the Law to execute the said office of Master of the Rolls, the then Commissioners for the custody of the Rolls would have been entitled to have applied for compensation, but did not take away from the said Commissioners, or their Deputy, any right which they might have had to compensation under the said first-mentioned Act of Parliament, if the said other Act had not been made; but if your Honours should be of opinion that your Memorialist is not entitled to compensation for the loss of the emoluments of his said office under the said Act of Parliament, then your Memorialist submits that he will be entitled to a proportion of the allowance to be granted to the late Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, equal to the proportion of the fees belonging to the office of Master of the Rolls, which your Memorialist received, and was allowed by them to retain, according to the custom of the office, for doing the duties of the Deputy thereof, the particulars and amount of which are set forth in a Schedule hereunto annexed, and to which your Memorialist refers.

Your Memorialist sheweth, That the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort had the appointment of various offices annexed to their situation, which constituted part of its value, and that the office of their Deputy, which was one of the offices annexed to their situation, was given to your Memorialist by them in consideration of his undertaking to do the duty of the said office, and of his paying the said annuity of One hundred pounds to the nominee of one of the said Earls; and that your Memorialist, in consequence of his duty of attending said office, resigned the Agencies of four different estates which he held in partnership with the said John Fitzgerald Collis, from which your Memorialist and the said John Fitzgerald Collis received an income of £.480. a year, and particularly the Agency of the estate of Richard Saint George Mandergh St. George, Esquire, for which your Memorialist and the said John Fitzgerald Collis received a salary of Three hundred pounds a year: And your Memorialist sheweth, that shortly before the Union, your Memorialist was offered the Agency of the estate of Richard Oliver, Esquire, in the county of Limerick, with a salary of Two hundred and fifty guineas a year, which your Memorialist refused to accept, as the attendance which the said Deputyship required in the city of Dublin would have prevented your Memorialist from going to the country at the seasons of the year that would have been necessary to have received the rents of the said estate, in consequence of which refusal another person has been appointed Agent of the said estate; and your Memorialist was also prevented from his attendance to the said office, from extending his practice in the profession of an Attorney.

May it therefore please your Honours to grant such compensation to your Memorialist as to your Honours shall seem fit, for the losses that your Memorialist has sustained by being deprived of the emoluments arising from the said office of Deputy Keeper of the Rolls, or that a proportion of the allowance claimed by the Earls of Glandore and Carysfort in compensation for the loss of the entire fees belonging to the said office of Master of the Rolls, equal to the proportion to the fees of the said office which your Memorialist received, and was allowed by them to retain, according to the custom of the office, for doing the duties of the Deputy thereof, may be granted to your Memorialist, or to the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort in full for your Memorialist.

And your Memorialist will pray

Most, Pleaseth

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The further Memorial of Mathew Franks, late Deputy Guardian and Keeper of the Rolls,

Sheweth,

That by Letters Patent, bearing date the 9th day of June, in the fourth year of the reign of His present Majesty King George the Third, the offices of Treasurer's Remembrancer and Second Remembrancer of the Court of Exchequer in Ireland, were granted unto Richard Morgan and Richard Hely Hutchinson, Esquires, and the survivor of them, during pleasure, the said offices to be exercised and executed by the said Richard Morgan by himself, or by his sufficient Deputy or Deputies, to be approved of by the Lord Lieutenant General or other Chief Governor or Governors of the said kingdom of Ireland for the time being, and all salaries, fees, &c. to the said offices belonging, to be held, received, and enjoyed by the said Richard Morgan, or by his sufficient Deputy or Deputies, to the sole use and benefit of the said Richard Morgan, during his continuance in the said office; and afterwards the said offices to be exercised by the said Richard Hely Hutchinson by himself, or by his sufficient Deputy or Deputies, to be approved of in like manner, during pleasure, as by an attested copy of said Letters Patent hereunto annexed may appear.

Your Memorialist sheweth, That the said Richard Morgan, subsequent to the date of the said Patent, appointed Daniel Beere and Zachariah Dawson Williams to be Secondaries in the said office; and that the said Beere and Williams were sworn into the office of Secondaries by the Court, and continued to act as such during the life of the said Richard Morgan.

Your Memorialist sheweth, That after the death of the said Richard Morgan, the said Richard Hely Hutchinson, by Deed bearing date the day of January 1785, duly executed by him under his hand and seal, appointed Richard Waller, Esquire, his Secondary in the said office, and that the said appointment was approved of by the then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Your Memorialist further sheweth, That on the 24th day of January 1785, an application was made to the Court of Exchequer on behalf of the said Richard Waller, that he should be sworn into the office of Secondary, which was opposed by the said Daniel Beere and Zachariah Dawson Williams, and that the said Daniel Beere and Zachariah Dawson Williams presented a Memorial to the Judges of the said Court, stating their experience of the business of the office, and the great hardship of displacing them; and on debate of the motion, on Saturday the 29th of January 1785, an order was made by the Court, which is in the following words: "Whereas Arthur Wolfe, Esquire, of Counsel, with Daniel Beere and Zachariah Dawson Williams, on the 29th day of January instant, came, pursuant to the Rule of 24th January instant, to shew cause why Richard Waller, Gentleman, the appointee of the Honourable Richard Hely Hutchinson, second Remembrancer of this Court, should not be sworn into the office of Secondary in the said office; and why Messrs Beere and Williams should not be removed from said office of Secondary? And whereas the Court, upon the consideration of the premises, did not think proper to make any Rule in this cause, but mentioned that it should be understood by the parties, that Messrs Beere and Williams should continue to transact the business of Secondaries as usual, and that they should not be interrupted or disturbed in the said office, until it should be determined whether the said Richard Waller, or the said Messrs Beere and Williams, were entitled to said office of Secondary; and in order so to do the said Court ordered, that the said Richard Waller should, if he thought fit, bring his action against Messrs Beere and Williams, and that said Daniel Beere and Zachariah Dawson Williams should admit money received by them in said office as Secondary's fees, and that all matters of form should be admitted on both sides; and the questions of right be tried in the most solemn manner: Now be it remembered, That the said Richard Waller was accordingly sworn Secondary of the said Treasurer's Remembrancer's office of this Court (having first produced his appointment to the said office by the Honourable
Richard

Richard Hely Hutchinson, the present Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer of the said Court, and the approbation of Government, of the appointment of the said Richard Waller to the said office of Secondary, which appointment and approbation were read in open Court, as by an attested copy of said order hereunto annexed may appear.

Your Memorialist sheweth, That, in order to try the right to the said office, the said Richard Waller, pursuant to the said order, filed two several Declarations in the said Court of Exchequer against the said Beere and Williams, for money had and received to his use, to which the said Defendants filed pleas of non assumpsit, and that the Records were tried in the said Court on the 20th day of February 1786, when verdicts were found for the Defendants in both actions, as by attested copies of the said Records and Judgments thereon may appear.

Your Memorialist submits, That the cases of the said Daniel Beere and Zachariah Dawson Williams are exactly similar to the case of your Memorialist (they having been appointed by the said Richard Morgan, who held his said office by Patent during pleasure, with power of appointing a Deputy to be approved of by the Lord Lieutenant) and, upon the authority of their cases, your Memorialist submits, that your Memorialist could not have been removed from his said office of Deputy Keeper of the Rolls without cause, if the said office of Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls had continued to have been held by the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, as it was before the Union. Your Memorialist therefore submits, that he is entitled to a proportion of the sum that has been adjudged to the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort as compensation for the entire fees belonging to the office of Master of the Rolls, equal to the proportion of the fees belonging to the said office which your Memorialist received, and was allowed to retain, for doing the duties of his said office.

May it therefore please your Honours to report, that a proportion of the sum of £. 2,457. 3s. 7½d. which has been adjudged to the said Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, as compensation for the entire fees belonging to the office of Master of the Rolls, equal to the proportion of the fees belonging to the said office which your Memorialist received, and was allowed to retain, for doing the duties of the said office, ought to be paid to your Memorialist.

And your Memorialist will pray.

Mat. Franks.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The further Memorial of the Earls of Glandore and Carysfort, late Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls,

Sheweth,

That by the Letters Patent, bearing date the twelfth day of August one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine, whereby your Memorialists were appointed Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls and Records of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, all the fees belonging to the office of Master of the Rolls were given to your Memorialists, and your Memorialists were thereby empowered to execute the said office by themselves, or their sufficient Deputy or Deputies, to be approved of by the Chief Governor or Governors of Ireland for the time being.

Your Memorialists shew, that pursuant to the power contained in the said Letters Patent, your Memorialists, by Deed under their hands and seals, bearing date the twenty-second day of August one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine, appointed John Fitzgerald Collis (since deceased) and Mathew Franks, their true and lawful Deputy and Deputies, Guardian and Guardians, and Keeper and Keepers of the Rolls and Records of the said Court, in as ample a manner as in their power to grant the same, and did also grant unto the said John Fitzgerald Collis, and Mathew Franks, jointly and singly, authority to receive for the use of your Memorialists, all manner of fees or profits due or owing to your Memorialists, either by Law or custom, as Guardians of the Rolls: And your Memorialists shew, that the said appointment was approved of by the then Lords Justices of Ireland;

Ireland, of whom the Earl of Clare, late Lord Chancellor of Ireland, was one, by a writing under hand and seal, endorsed upon the said Deed of Appointment: And your Memorialists shew, that by the said writing, endorsed upon the said Deed of Appointment, the appointment made by your Memorialists was not only approved of, but the said John Fitzgerald Collis and Mathew Franks were thereby empowered, jointly and severally, to act as Deputy Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls and Records of the said Court, whereof all persons concerned were directed to take notice as by the said Deed of Appointment, and endorsement thereon made, may appear.

Your Memorialists shew, That by an Act of Parliament, passed in this kingdom in the fortieth year of the reign of King George the Third, intituled, "An Act to enable His Majesty to grant Annuities to the Lord High Chancellor, and to the Judges of the Court of King's Bench, Master of the Rolls, Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas and Exchequer, Judge or Commissary of the Court of Prerogative, the Judge of the Court of Admiralty, the Chairman of the Quarter Sessions of the county of Dublin, and Assistant Barristers of the several other Counties, on the resignation of their respective offices; and to amend an Act, passed in the thirty-sixth year of His present Majesty, intituled, An Act for increasing the salaries of the Chief and other Judges of the Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas, and of the Chief Baron and other Barons of the Court of Exchequer in this kingdom," it was enacted, That in case His Majesty should think fit to appoint any person learned in the Law to execute the office of Master of the Rolls, it should and might be lawful for the Commissioners of Compensation to take into their consideration the losses that might be sustained by the then Commissioners of the Rolls in consequence of such appointment, and to ascertain and report such compensation as to them might seem reasonable.

Your Memorialists shew, That, pursuant to the said Act of Parliament, your Memorialists claimed compensation for the fees belonging to the office of Master of the Rolls, which had been given to your Memorialists by the said Letters Patent of the twelfth day of August one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine, which your Memorialists had empowered their said Deputy and Deputies to receive for their use; and a Schedule of the fees which had been received by their said Deputy for their use, according to the established rate of the fees that were payable to the office of Master of the Rolls, was annexed to their Memorial; but in the adjudication which was made, compensation was given only for the proportion of the fees belonging to the said office which were actually paid to your Memorialists by the said Deputy out of the fees received by him, that were payable to the office of the Master of the Rolls, although your Memorialists humbly submit, that the entire fees belonging to the office of Master of the Rolls, having been granted to your Memorialists by the said Letters Patent of the twelfth day of August one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine, that compensation ought to have been given for the proportion of the fees belonging to the said office which the said Deputy received, and was allowed by your Memorialists to retain, as a consideration for his doing the duties of the said office, as well as for the proportion of the said fees that were received by him, and actually paid to your Memorialists, and the more so, as the proportion of the fees of the said office that their said Deputy was allowed to retain, was not only a part of the fees belonging to the said office of Master of the Rolls, which had been established by Law and custom, but that the said office of Deputy was by the said Letters Patent made a part of the said office of Guardian and Keeper of the Rolls, and that the said Deputy was by the said Deed of Appointment made in pursuance of the said Letters Patent, made one of the Guardians and Keepers of the Rolls, and was by the Certificate of the Lords Justices of Ireland endorsed upon the said Deed of Appointment, under hand and seal, empowered to act according to the said Deed of Appointment.

May it therefore please your Honours to take the case of your Memorialists again into your consideration, and to ascertain and report such compensation as to your Honours shall seem reasonable, for the proportion of the fees belonging to the office of the Master of the Rolls, which which were received and retained by the said Deputy for doing the duties of the said office, and to report that the same shall be made either to your Memorialists or their said Deputy.

And your Memorialists will pay.

February 20th 1802.

Mr. William Nash, sworn.

Says, The List given in, and signed by him, is a List of the Fees received at the Rolls-office for six years, the year one thousand eight hundred included—Says, he is Clerk in the office, and has been so for some years last past—Says, he does not receive those fees, or any similar ones, but receives Clerks fees on copies of Pleadings; is paid only for the work. The fees in the paper given in, are those which the Master of the Rolls is entitled to, and receives, as appears from the books of the office kept for the account of them, including Master's salary, and the Deputy settles with the Master for them; the books of the Pleadings were kept by the Clerks, and examined by the Deputy; the Deputy kept some of those books for the last six years, and the Clerk kept the Account of Pleadings—Witness's father made the entries; Mr. Franks, as Deputy of Master of the Rolls, acknowledged the receipts of the money for them, and settled them quarterly for the Master of the Rolls; and the List returned by Witness is an exact one as to the quarterly settlements, as appears from the books—The expence of the office is mentioned in the List, and is deducted out of the gross sum received—Says there is a yearly settlement, as appears from the List given in—Says, he received a large proportion of the fees for the Copies of Pleadings for the Master of the Rolls' use, and meant, by saying before he did not receive those fees for his, Witness's use. There was 6 d. paid for a wide sheet; the Deputy One shilling and seven pence upon every twenty sheets, the Clerk nine pence, and Witness's father two pence, and the Master of the Rolls four pence halfpenny for every wide sheet.

W. Nash.

23d February 1802.

Mathew Franks, Deputy Guardian, and Keeper of the Rolls.

Memorial read.

Appointment read.

William Nash, sworn.

Says, The paper produced and signed by him, was very accurately compared with the different office-books kept of the fees received for the Guardian and Deputy Guardians of the Rolls; and that it is a true and accurate Account of the Fees received for the Deputy Guardian for six years, each year distinctly cast up and separate. The Clerks received the fees, and accounted quarterly with the Deputy, who had distinct fees, and were customary, and as long as Witness knew the office received for him—Witness's knowledge of the office was for about nine years, and understood the same fees had been received before he came into that office, and were payable to the Deputy. Witness was in the office January one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three, and became accountable to Mr. Franks, September one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four, and those fees are now payable to Mr. Ridgeway, the present Deputy Keeper. The sums are net money, without charging Clerk's fees, which was deducted out of the gross sums charged in the Master's account, given in before, and signed by Witness.

No. 105.—JOHN MORTON, Esq.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of John Morton, Esq. Supplier of Medical Attendance to the several Detachments of the late Royal Irish Artillery, stationed through Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist, on the 1st of October 1798, paid a considerable sum of money for the advantage of supplying Medical Attendance to the several Detachments of the late Royal Irish Artillery, stationed through Ireland.

That in consequence of the Union, the Royal Irish Artillery was incorporated with the British Artillery, since which the Irish system has been superseded; and Memorialist has been thereby deprived of the emoluments attached to his said situation, purchased by him as aforesaid; which emoluments, on an average, yielded to him the sum of £. 320. 11s. 10d. per annum, as appears by the Statement hereto annexed.

And therefore he prays that the said sum of £. 320. 11s. 10d. may be granted to him yearly, for his life, pursuant to Act of Parliament.

21st August 1802.

J^{no} Morton.

Reasons in support of the Claim of John Morton, Esq. with the consideration of which Reasons he did not trespass on this Honourable Board before; having, with all deference, conceived that he had substantiated his Claim.

That Claimant having purchased his employment, has the stronger claim for Compensation; inasmuch as the justice and liberality of the Government and the Legislature determined, that Individuals who even did not purchase their employments, should get compensation for their offices discontinuing or diminishing in value by reason of the Union.

He has proved it was the employment abstracted (by yielding the emoluments for the loss whereof he claims compensation) that he purchased; and that he has lost said employment by the Union.

Claimant,

Claimant, at the time of purchasing, was Assistant Surgeon to the first Battalion of the late Royal Irish Artillery, and the Master-General of the Ordnance offered to have him appointed Surgeon to the second Battalion, free of expence, the pay of which latter appointment would be equal to that of the said 1st Battalion; of course it is further demonstrated, that he paid the purchase money with the sole view of obtaining the emoluments for the loss whereof he so claims to be compensated.

It is evident that before the Union the Claimant had a power to sell said employment, which power, in case of his health declining, would be a very great advantage to his Family, but which advantage is by the Union lost to them; and that his raising the purchase money must have been attended with considerable inconvenience and loss, owing to public pressure of the then Period.

His case will be found to be in point with that of the late Agent to the Royal Irish Artillery, only varying in some circumstances, which circumstances the Claimant pretumes will be considered to be in favour of his claim; namely, that he purchased his employment, and the Agent did not. Also, that the former could sell out, but the latter could not. And further, that the Agent was not in as permanent a situation as the Claimant, because that the Agent was appointed by the Colonel of the Regiment, and was liable to be changed by a succeeding Colonel, consequently his situation could not be considered as permanent as that of the Claimant. And that this was the case is evident, for the late Agent of the British Artillery (Mr. Adair) was displaced by the Marquis Cornwallis, when he was appointed Master-General and Colonel of the Regiment of Artillery; whereas Claimant's nomination was confirmed by an Act of the Board of Ordnance.

That with respect to any deficiency which may appear of positive proofs in point of Law, it is humbly conceived that it would be misconstruing (but of such misconstruing he is not in the least apprehensive) the equitable intentions of the Legislature, to require that a person applying to be redressed under an Act of Parliament, should be prepared with proofs four years previous to any expectation of the event on account of which such Act was passed, and would cause an Individual with a family to be, contrary to the pledged faith of Government and the Legislature, a considerable sufferer by a public measure intended for, and proving to be, a great National service.

When the Claimant purchased his employment, and was in possession of the immunities thereof, he had not any cause to seek for proofs of his being in office, or of his right to hold that office; and consequently it would be a peculiar hardship if such proofs should be deemed indispensable, to prevent the intention of the Act above alluded to proving nugatory in respect of him; which Act expresses its intention in the following just and forcible words:—"And whereas it is reasonable to make Compensation to those Persons whose Offices shall thereby (meaning the Union) be discontinued or diminished in value."

And therefore the Claimant awaits, with humble confidence, of being adjudged by this Honourable Board the Compensation he is conscious of being justly entitled to.

Je Morten.

EXTRACT from the Minutes of the late Irish Board of Ordnance; dated Tuesday 4th March 1794.

Present;—Lieutenant General, Deputy Surveyor General, principal Store-keeper, Clerk of Deliveries.

Read a Letter dated 7th January last, from Mr. Alexander Lindsay, Surgeon to the Royal Irish Regiment of Artillery, stating, that from the number of Detachments at the different Posts in this kingdom, and the consequent attendance of Surgeons necessary to each, the expence of which he is obliged to defray, that he finds it impossible, either from his medicine money or pay, to have the proper and necessary care taken of them, and requesting the Board to adopt some system for his relief: And the Board having taken the same into consideration;

Ordered,

That Mr. Lindsay be allowed Two shillings and sixpence per day in lieu of medicine money and surgical attendance for each Detachment, consisting of a Sergeant's Guard, or upwards, which has or may be ordered to the different Posts in this kingdom till further orders; said allowance to commence from the 1st day of January last.

Extract from the Minutes of the late Irish Board of Ordnance, dated Tuesday, 25th June 1799.

Present;—Master General, Surveyor General, principal Store keeper, Clerk of the Deliveries.

The Board having taken into consideration their order of the 4th March 1794 (see Minutes of that day) which directed, that the "Surgeon to the Artillery Regiment should be allowed Two shillings and sixpence per day in lieu of medicine money and surgical attendance for each Detachment, consisting of a Serjeant's Guard or upwards, which has or may be ordered to the different posts in this Kingdom," judge it right to revoke said order, and in lieu thereof to direct, that the Surgeon's allowance for such service be One shilling and seven pence halfpenny per day, to be payable from the 1st day of October 1798, being the date of the commission of the Surgeon of the Regiment.

(A true Copy.)

John Morton, Esquire, states,—

That he paid £.500. to Doctor Lindley for the appointment of supplying medical attendance to the Ordnance Board, at a reduced rate of 1 s. 7½d. per day, pursuant to an agreement with Lord Carhampton:—Said allowance is to discontinue from the 30th September instant.

Monday, 13th September 1801.

On the claim of John Morton, Esquire.

Mr. Edward Dalton, sworn.

Saith, he is Clerk under the respective Officers in the Ordnance Department.—Saith, the book now produced is the Minute-book belonging to the late Irish Board of Ordnance.

Reads—Tuesday 25th June, 1799.—An order of “1 s. 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to the Surgeon of the Artillery per day, payable from 1st October 1798, being the day of the date of the commission,” in lieu of 2 s. 6 d. per day, which had been allowed from 1st March 1794.

The allowance of 1 s. 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. appears from the Minute-book to have been granted for supplying medical attendance and medicines for each Detachment, consisting of a Serjeant's Guard or upwards, which has or may be ordered to the different posts in this kingdom.

Edward Dalton.

Monday, 13th September 1801.

Mr. Thomas Dickinson, sworn.

Saith, The Surgeon of the Artillery, from the year 1794, supplied medicines to the different Detachments of the Artillery quartered in Ireland, where there was not a Surgeon's Mate quartered. Saith, Examinant prepared the bills for payment of the Surgeon of the Artillery; he prepared them for Surgeon Lindsay, and for Surgeon Morton, who succeeded Mr. Lindsay, under a warrant from the Master General of the Ordnance, and a commission from His Majesty. Mr. Morton was, by virtue of an entry now read, possessed of the employment of Supplier of Medicines and medical attendance to the late Royal Irish Artillery, conformable to the directions of the Board.

Thos' Dickinson.

Robert Coleman, Esquire, sworn.

Is Clerk of the Survey of the Board of Ordnance in Ireland. Saith, the accounts of Mr. Morton since the present Board commenced, which was on the 1st October 1801, have passed through Deponent's hands. The account for December quarter amounts to £. 171. 18s. 6d.; and for March quarter to £. 127. 14s. 6d. The accounts of Mr. Morton for June quarter have not yet been settled. The Extract of the Letter now produced from Mr. Secretary Crew to John Morton, Esquire, from the office of Ordnance, was in consequence of the Board of Ordnance in England ordering him to discontinue supplying the medical attendance, &c. as he did under the Irish Board of Ordnance.

Mr. Morton is to discontinue from the 30th September instant. A certificate is required to be annexed to Mr. Morton's bills in the following words, signed by the Commanding Officers of Artillery in Ireland: “I certify, that each of the above-mentioned stations of detachments of the Artillery and Driver's Corps, amounting to upwards of twelve men, and that the medical attendance was regular, and that it was performed by substitutes employed by Mr. Morton, there being no Artillery Surgeon at any of the stations.” Believes, that the British Ordnance considered as distinct Mr. Morton's duty of supplying medical attendance, &c. from his duty as Surgeon in the Artillery, by having removed him from one, and continued him in the other. Believes the order of discontinuance was issued in consequence of the Union, as otherwise the British Board would not have had power to issue same.

R. Coleman.

Arthur Guinness, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, Deponent accepted a Bill for £. 500 for Mr. Morton, which Deponent understood was the consideration money for the purchase of an employment from Doctor Lindley, to be handed over to him.

Arthur Guinness, jun^r.

Lieutenant-General John Stratton sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Morton had an allowance of 1s. 7½d. per day, for supplying Medical Attendance and Assistance to the Out-posts of Artillery in Ireland, which was a distinct duty and employment from that of Surgeon to the Artillery, as Deponent believes: Saith, that Lord Drogheda had it in contemplation to employ a separate person for said duty—not binding or pledging himself to appoint that the succeeding Surgeon should have those advantages.

J. Stratton.

20th September 1802.

Mr. Edward Dalton, on oath,

Saith, That the signatures at the foot of the paper writing, entitled "Extract of a Letter received from Mr. Secretary Crew, dated Office of Ordnance, 29 June 1802," are the proper hand-writing of the respective Officers of Ordnance in Ireland. Saith, that Deponent extracted from the Minute-books of the late Irish Board of Ordnance the paper writing, entitled "Extract from the Minutes of the late Irish Board of Ordnance, dated Tuesday, 25th June 1799;" and also, the paper writing, entitled "Extract from the Minutes of the late Irish Board of Ordnance, dated Tuesday, 4th March 1794;" both of which are signed by Deponent, and are true copies of the said Minutes.

Edward Dalton.

The 20th September 1802.

Mr. Thomas Dickinson, on oath,

Saith, That the Account now delivered in, and signed by Examinant, was taken by him from the books of the late Board of Ordnance, and is a true Account of the quarterly Payments made by said Board to Doctor Morton in the period therein mentioned; said Account being entitled "An Abstract of the Quarterly Payments made by the late Board of Ordnance to Doctor Morton, for Medical Attendance and Medicines to Artillery Detachments at the different Out-posts; consisting of a Sergeant and twelve privates, and upwards; pursuant to the Board's order; dated 25th June 1799."

Peter H. Kelly.

27th September 1802.

Mr. Thomas Dickinson, on oath,

Saith, that the paper writing now delivered in, and signed by Examinant, contains a true Account of the sum allowed to Doctor Lindsay between the 1st of April and the 30th of September 1793, by the Board of Ordnance, for Medical and Surgical Expenses at the Out-posts of Detachments of the late Royal Irish Artillery therein mentioned.

The Dickinson.

6th December 1802.

In the matter of the Claim for Compensation made by John Morton, Esq. } General John Straton, on oath, Saith, That he this Deponent was authorized by the Marquis of Dogheda, when his Lordship was Master-General of the Ordnance; to propose to Mr. Morton, then Senior Assistant Surgeon in the late Royal Irish Artillery, to agree to pay the sum of Three hundred pounds to the Marquis, upon being appointed full Surgeon in the Regiment (but that he, Claimant) was not to expect any extra situation held by Doctor Lindsay, as by any means consequent on his so purchasing; as the Marquis should reserve such extra matters (alluding to the supplying of Medicines and Medical Attendance to Artillery Detachments, for another person who his Lordship wished to serve) and that Claimant therefore was not to expect any thing further than the difference of pay; whereupon the Claimant absolutely refused to pay any money, stating that he considered the Surgency to be his right in a succession Corps.

Saith, the Earl of Carhampton, when Master-General, set his face against buying and selling Staff Commissions in such a Corps as the Artillery, a succession one; and that it was in consequence of Dr. Lindsay's permission to retire on the King's allowance that the Claimant succeeded to the Surgency.

Saith, he believes that Lord Carhampton had determined, prior to the Claimant's purchasing, to have appointed him (said Claimant) Surgeon to the 2d Battalion, free of expence, the pay of which would be equal to that of his present Surgency; and verily believes that it was for and on account of the emoluments known to be derived from the particular employment of Supplier of Medicines, &c. that the Claimant paid the Five hundred pounds: and Deponent is induced to be the more positive in such his belief, from his own certain knowledge, that, considering the situation the Claimant then held in the Regiment, it could not have been his interest to pay the £ 500. except for the said employment.

Saith, he believes that the supplying Medicines and Medical Attendance to Artillery Detachments was abstract from, and independent of (though made consequent on) the Military situation, the respective duties of each being distinct; and that the Claimant did not hold that situation immediately by virtue of his Military Commission, inasmuch as the Master-General of the Ordnance might have appointed any other person, who was neither a Military or a Medical Man, to be such Supplier. And that therefore, the Claimant does not come within the description of Military sufferers by the Union between Great Britain and Ireland, but of persons in general whose offices have been discontinued by reason of the said Union.

Saith, he verily believes that, only for the Union, the Claimant would have continued in that office during his life, unless he chose to retire from it; and Deponent is positive that such his office was discontinued by reason of said Union.

J. Straton.

If the present Board of respective Officers had thought fit to continue Mr. Morton Deponent believes they might have done so; but saith, same is contrary to the British system. If the late Board of Ordnance had thought fit to abolish said employment, Deponent believes they might have done so, but Deponent is convinced that if they had done so, they would have given Mr. Morton compensation; the purchase money of Five hundred pounds having been paid by Mr. Morton with the knowledge knowledge and approbation of the Board; and Deponent is convinced that same was paid in consideration of the emoluments arising from that particular branch of the business entirely, because he must have succeeded to the Surgency in a corps of succession, such as the Artillery was.

J. Straton.

6th December 1802.

Joseph Hudson, sworn.

Saith, that Deponent is Inspector of the Hibernian School for Soldiers' Children. Saith, this Deponent knew Surgeon Morton to be in possession of the employment of Supplier of Medicines and Medical Attendance to Artillery Detachments; believes he purchased said employment, and that he lost same by reason of the Union of Great Britain and Ireland; his reason for thinking so is because of the change in the Artillery department, and the appointment of the Board of respective Officers, and that same was incompatible with the British system, having been informed so by Mr. Morton. Saith, his knowledge of the purchase-money having been paid, and of the entire business, was merely what he had heard from Mr. Morton and other persons of the Regiment, and that he has not any knowledge of his own respecting it.

J. Hudson.

December 18th, 1801.

Fielding Lytton, Esq. being duly sworn,

Deponent

Was first Clerk to the Secretary of Ordnance; to the best of Deponent's recollection, and as appears by a Minute-book of the late Ordnance Board, Mr. Richard Writson was employed as Assistant Clerk in the office of principal Store-keeper, at 4s. 4d. per day; appointment dated 8th June 1798; it also appears by said book, that his salary was raised half-a-crown (2s. 8½d. in addition to 4s. 4d.) on the 14th January 1800; that said Writson was in possession of his said employment on the 1st January last.

That said half-crown was granted for additional trouble in the hurry of business, as appears by said Minute-book; believes the dearness of provisions might have been a reason.

Fielding Lytton.

That Edward Dalton was employed as Assistant Clerk in the office of Secretary of the late Ordnance Board, as appears by the said Minute-book, at £. 80. a year; appointment dated 30 June 1798; this appointment, as appears by said Minute-book, took place on account of increase of business, and to continue during the pleasure of the Board. On 2d May 1800, the Board granted an additional half-crown (2s. 8½d.) to said Edward Dalton, and said additional allowance commenced on 1st day of January 1800; recollects the said additional allowance of 2s. 8½d. was granted on account of the increased price of provisions and every other article; the said Mr. Dalton was so employed on 1st January last.

Fielding Lytton.

Deponent saith, that James Reilly was appointed Assistant Clerk in Surveyor-General's office of late Ordnance Board, at the salary of 4s. 4d. per day; the appointment took place on 21st January 1799, as appears by said Minute-book; that on 22d July 1800, an additional allowance of half-a-crown (2s. 8½d.) was granted to said Mr. Reilly, in same manner as had been granted to said Dalton and Writson.

Fielding Lytton.

December 19th, 1801.

Fielding Lytton, Esq. being duly sworn:

Deponent was an extra Clerk, and preceded Mr. Edward Dalton in the office of Secretary of the Ordnance.

Thinks the business, in any case, would have required said Mr. Dalton's being continued, or if he had been removed another person being appointed in his place, whether in peace or war.

The Petition of Thomas Rylands,

Most humbly sheweth,

That Petitioner received his employment of Master Furber in the Ordnance for his life, and was told he should get compensation for it if it should be taken from him. Petitioner humbly sheweth, that as the Honourable Board of Ordnance did recommend him on the Establishment, that the mistake of his name not being entered in time, which is well known to Admiral Pakenham, and to Mr. Boulger, Deputy Clerk of the Ordnance, will induce the Commissioners to grant him compensation: Petitioner has a large family, and has not received any money for one whole year.

Petitioner will pray.

Mr. Thomas Rylands, examined.

Saith, That he was under pay from the 1st day of January 1801; believes he was under pay for a day or two before, but cannot recollect, not having kept any account thereof—Saith, his appointment was not in 1800 but in 1801, to the best of his recollection—Saith, his pay commenced on the 1st January 1801.—Saith, he never was paid a quarter in advance—Saith, that Ellison was turned out some days before, he got his dismissal.

January 2nd, 1804.

Mr. Thomas Rylands, on his own claim,

Saith, His warrant commenced the first of January 1801; his appointment, he believes, was of a few days before. He held another employment for three years before, which he was obliged to resign in consequence of his being appointed Master Furber; and for the last quarter of the former employment, he never received any salary whatever—Saith, the employment he before held was, Clerk to the Master General, at a salary of Fifty pounds per annum, in which employment he was succeeded by a son of Admiral Pakenham.

23d January 1804.

William Turner, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, He recollects that Thomas Rylands held an employment in the Ordnance, which ceased on his appointment to the office of Master Furber; and saith, it was in consequence of the Union that he lost the office of Master Furber. He was appointed Master Furber on the dismissal of Mr. Ellison, the 6th of January 1801. Admiral Pakenham informed Deponent, that he had given directions that Rylands should have been appointed prior to his leaving Dublin; but that on his return, about the 6th January 1801, he found the same had been neglected by the person to whom he gave such directions, and that he then had the appointment made out to Mr. Rylands—And Deponent saith, that Mr. Ellison was only paid up to the 31st December before; and Mr. Rylands was paid for the quarter commencing the 1st January 1801—Saith, that Admiral Pakenham had the power of dismissing in himself, without the controul of any other person, he having the patronage of the place, and power to direct any Clerk to do any act he pleased, which act it was necessary that such Clerk should register; every principal Officer had the power of appointment of his own Clerks, but it was necessary that such appointment should be ratified by the Master General.

William Turner.

The Honourable Thomas Pakenham, sworn.

Saith, That to the best of Deponent's recollection, some time previous to Christmas 1800, Deponent received information of improper conduct having been committed by Mr. Ellison, Deponent therefore directed Messrs. Hobson, Lyfter, and Eustace, to enquire into the charges, and they almost instantly found him guilty; and Deponent thereupon directed Mr. Lyfter to give notice to Mr. Ellison of his dismissal—Deponent then left town, and on his return, in the month of January, Deponent, on seeing Ellison in the yard, discovered that Mr. Lyfter had neglected to notify his dismissal to him, which Deponent again gave directions should be done, and he was accordingly forthwith dismissed—Saith, that before Christmas 1800 (at the time he gave the first orders to dismiss Ellison) Deponent made enquiry, and found that Rylands was a proper person for the appointment of Master Furber; and Deponent had given a promise to Lord Carhampton to promote Rylands as soon as opportunity offered—Saith, that Deponent had the nomination to all the inferior offices; and that on Deponent's giving directions to remove Ellison, he this Deponent appointed Rylands to said situation. Saith, that Deponent, although he had the power to appoint, yet gave the power of nomination to Mr. Uniacke, of a person to fill Rylands place—Deponent then left town, and on his return, Mr. Uniacke informed Deponent, that he, Mr. Uniacke, had appointed Deponent's son to fill Rylands place—Saith, that Deponent believes he gave directions to Mr. Turner before he left town, that he, Mr. Turner, should not pay the ensuing quarter in advance to any of the Clerks; although Deponent appointed Rylands to Ellison's place on his removal, yet Deponent did not give any warrant to Rylands until he made enquiry, and found he was fit to fill the place.

Dublin, May 15th 1801.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Lieutenant Colonel Henry Eustace,

Humbly represents,

That in January one thousand eight hundred and one, Memorialist had in the Ordnance Department a yearly emolument, which, on the average of the four last years, was about £. 332. 18 s. a year, and that he is deprived of said emolument in consequence of the Union, which has caused the necessity of breaking up the entire of the Establishment of the Ordnance of Ireland.

And further represents, that his Excellency Lord Cornwallis did acquaint your Memorialist, and all concerned in this measure, that their interest and situations were effectually attended to; and his Excellency shewed your Memorialist the letter that had been written, by his direction, to the Commissioners of Compensation, and also the answer received by his Excellency to the said letter: And your Memorialist most humbly submits, that he was perfectly convinced that no words could add to the strength of the support and protection that he enjoyed under those two letters, bearing date the twenty-fourth and twenty-eighth of January 1801, and that he never had conceived the smallest doubt of compensation until he learned by letter from Mr. McKay, that his case did not come under the Act for granting compensation, &c.

Memorialist requests leave to lay such Statements before you as appear essential to him; and he trusts will induce your Honourable Board to consider his case as coming most immediately under your consideration.

Your Memorialist having been for some time past in England on particular business, was prevented from sooner submitting himself to your consideration.

All which is submitted,

By your most humble and obedient Servant,

Henry Eustace.

Ordnance-office, May 15th 1801.

Gentlemen,

The final arrangement with respect to the incorporation of the Royal Irish Artillery, in all its Military branches, having been carried into complete effect, makes the office of Aid de Camp to the Master General of the Ordnance no longer a necessary place upon the Establishment of the British Artillery, nor can it be longer continued upon it; I have therefore the honour to present to you Major Eustace, who has discharged the duty of my Aid de Camp ever since my filling the station of Master General, and of Aid de Camp to Lord Carhampton while he held it, with my fullest testimony of his having fulfilled his duties to the public advantage, and our highest approbation, and with the most sincere assurance to you, that while I remained Master General of the Ordnance, I should never have felt disposed to have changed from private esteem for him; nor could I, from motives of consideration for the public Service, have dispensed with the services of so useful and intelligent an assistant. I do therefore humbly submit his case to your consideration for compensation, and shall be ready at all times to obey your summons to give my testimony to these points upon oath.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

Thos Pakenham.

November 13th 1801.

William Boulger, Esq. being duly sworn,

Deponent :

Is acquainted with Major Eustace; he was Aid de Camp to the Master-General of the Ordnance; that he was so appointed 29th August 1800, when the Master-General was appointed, as he believes, and was in possession on 1st January; that Major Eustace is not on the Ordnance Establishment, and that his appointment was by said Master-General, under the approbation of Government; his pay was ten shillings per day, lodging-money one guinea per week, and five shillings per day for two horses. Deponent issued the order upon the Treasurer of Ordnance for the above sums regularly, to 13th September last; as for all the offices of the Ordnance being in like manner entered in the books, does not recollect any Aid de Camp in time of Peace; does not recollect any Peace Establishment: the first Aid de Camp was appointed in 1797, as Deponent believes.

The Ordnance Establishment, by the King's Letter.

William Boulger.

Mr. Moore the first Aid de Camp that was appointed to the Master-General of the Ordnance was paid ten shillings per day, from the 4th August 1795 to the 3d of December 1797.

Major Eustace succeeded Mr. Moore on the third of December one thousand seven hundred and ninety-seven, at Ten shillings per day, which he received till the 24th September 1800, when, by an order of the Board and Master-General, he was paid One guinea per week lodging-money, and 5s. 3d. per day for forage of two horses, from the date of his appointment; and he has received these allowances to the 30th of September 1801.

The pay to Mr. Moore was in consequence of Mr. Pelham's letter to the Board.

19th Feb. 1796.

W^m B.

The orders for the allowances were made by the Master.

8th November 1802.

Admiral Thomas Pakenham, sworn.

Saith, Deponent always considered Major Eustace (he being on the Ordnance Establishment) entitled to compensation as a Civil Officer from this Board; Deponent applied to Lord Cornwallis for a Lieutenant-Colonelcy to Major Eustace, as compensation for the loss of his Military prospects, and Lord Cornwallis informed him that Major Eustace's claims would come before this Board, and that he could not entertain his Military prospects. Major Eustace was a confidential Officer under Deponent, and conducted the Civil business, and assisted in the Military and Laboratory departments under Examinant; he was Aid de Camp to Lord Carhampton, and could not have been removed by Deponent, Lord Carhampton having made a stipulation in Examinant's appointment that Major Eustace should be continued as Aid de Camp. He was of the utmost service to Deponent in conducting the entire of his business; Deponent transmitted all orders by Major Eustace to the Board, and they have been always complied with; Major Eustace also frequently communicated Examinant's orders to storekeepers and other officers in the Civil department; he was on the Civil department of the Board of Ordnance, and was constantly paid thereout. The British Artillery and Ordnance do conceive that he was to have been compensated by this Board; all the Military Officers were compensated by themselves, but Major Eustace, being a Civil Officer, was not included in the list of Military Officers. If the Ordnance had continued in this kingdom, the office of Aid de Camp to the Master-General of Ordnance would also have continued, inasmuch as the Master-General of Ordnance ranks higher than the Commander in Chief, and his Aid de Camps are not discontinued: his appointment partook of both Civil and Military business, and Deponent oftener employed him in the Civil branch than in the Military, that being principally conducted through the Brigade-Major.

Thos Pakenham.

Lieutenant Colonel Eustace most respectfully begs leave to submit the inclosed Papers and Documents to the Commissioners of Compensation, to which he alluded in his Memorial of the 28th of May.

The following is a List of the papers herewith annexed :

No. 1.—The Act of Union, which states, compensation to those persons whose offices may thereby be discontinued or diminished in value.

No. 2.—The King's Warrant, which states in direct words, that the Ordinance of Ireland is put down in consequence of the Union.

No. 3.—Shews, that Lord Carhampton, Master-General of the Ordnance, did not quit the department until he was convinced of compensation to Major Eustace, as Aid de Camp, &c.

No. 4.—The Letter of Government, written by order of Lord Cornwallis, and signed "E. Cooke," to the Commissioners of Compensation, relative to the Ordinance.

No. 5.—The Answer of the Commissioners of Compensation to the above-named Letter.

No. 6.—A List of the Officers of the Military branch of the Ordnance, who received compensation from the Lord Lieutenant, all of whom held King's commissions.

No. 7.—A List of the Officers of the Civil branch of the Ordnance, who had neither patents or commissions, but held their appointments by the nomination of the Master-General of the Ordnance, all of whom have received compensation from the Commissioners. Compensation to Colonel Eustace, as Captain of Engineers, which was a Military commission signed by the King, was accordingly placed on the Military List above-named, but the office of Aid de Camp was considered to be more applicable to the Civil capacity, because a private Gentleman, as the Duke of Leinster or Lord Shannon, might be Master-General of Ordnance, and had been so, and would be equally entitled to an Aid de Camp; the ceremony of the appointment of an Aid de Camp is never more than signifying it to the agent and to all whom it may concern, in order that he may be officially known.

No. 8.—Contains Mr. Pitt's and Lord Castlereagh's sentiments on the principle of granting compensation,

50, Stephen's Green, Dublin,
June 2, 1804.

An Act for granting certain annuities to the Officers and Attendants of both Houses of Parliament, whose offices and attendance shall cease after the Union, or whose offices shall be diminished in value thereby.

To Our Right trusty and well-beloved Cousin and Counsellor William Lord Viscount Howe, K. B. Lieutenant-General of Our Ordnance; and to the Master-General and Lieutenant-General, and principal Officers of the same, now and for the time being.

G. R.

WHEREAS you have represented unto Us, that, in consequence of the Union between Our kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland, it will be necessary to form an Establishment for conducting the business of the Civil Department of the Ordnance in Ireland, in the same manner as that particular branch of our Service has been hitherto carried on in this kingdom: And whereas We have approved of the Plan you submitted to us for that purpose, which is detailed in the Establishment herewith annexed; Our will and pleasure therefore is, and We hereby authorize you, to cause the said Establishment to be formed forthwith, by selecting capable persons from the Ordnance Department in Great Britain and Ireland, or in any other manner, as you shall think most conducive to Our Service, to fill the several situations that are proposed for the better conducting of the Civil Branch of Our Ordnance in Ireland. And Our further will and pleasure is, that the Establishment We have hereby hereby approved shall be styled "An Establishment of respective Officers for conducting the business of the Civil Department of the Ordnance in Ireland;" that the officers composing the same shall be subordinate to, and under the immediate control of the Master-General and the Lieutenant-General, and principal Officers of Our Ordnance in Great Britain, now and for the time being; and that it shall be governed by the same rules, regulations, and orders as the several Ordnance Establishments in this Our Kingdom are conducted. And We do hereby authorize you to cause the expence of the aforesaid Establishment, amounting to the sum of Three thousand six hundred and ninety-three pounds fifteen shillings, to be charged in the Estimate of the Ordnance, to be from time to time presented to Parliament; and We do hereby confirm the power heretofore given to the Master-General, or to the Lieutenant-General and Board of Ordnance in the Master-General's absence, in like cases, to make such further alterations as from time to time shall be found more advantageous to Our Service, provided that the whole Establishment, approved and confirmed by this Our Warrant, be not exceeded; and for so doing this shall be as well unto you as unto the Commissioners for auditing the public Accounts of the Kingdom, and to all other our Officers and Ministers herein concerned, a sufficient Warrant.

Given at Our Court at Saint James's, this sixteenth day of February 1801, in the forty-first year of Our Reign.

By His Majesty's Command,

Portland.

Extract from a Letter of Lord Carhampton, Master-General of the Ordnance, to Admiral Pakenham, dated 17th July 1800.

"Lord Carhampton, though content with these terms as to himself, will not have those friends left in the lurch that his resignation might hurt: Major Eustace to continue Aid de Camp until compensation is made to him, and Mr. Burgh to continue Agent to the Artillery and drivers, &c."

Dublin Castle, January 26th 1801.

Gentlemen,

It having appeared to Government that many of the distinct Establishments and offices of the kingdom of Ireland, which were incidental to the separate Institutions, would, by the Union, and in consequence thereof, be rendered unnecessary, or would actually cease and determine thereby: And it further appears to Government that the Parliament of the United Kingdom, upon incorporating the different Establishments of Ireland, and making new arrangements for the Government thereof, might, in order to retrench the expences, and reduce the patronage of the Crown, decline to revive several offices and employments which, having been supported by annual grants of the Irish Parliament, would cease from the discontinuance of those grants; Government did in the last Session recommend it to the Parliament of Ireland, to appoint Commissioners for ascertaining the losses which individuals might thus suffer in consequence of the Union; and the Act by which you are instituted was accordingly passed, securing all individuals from sustaining loss of emolument in consequence of the measure which the Parliament of the United Kingdom might adopt with respect to the Establishment of Ireland, whereby individuals possessing offices at the time of the Union are relieved from the necessity of applying for compensation for their losses, at the discretion of the United Parliament; the Parliament of Ireland having established a commission for ascertaining the amount, and all powers fully to compensate them.

Having fiat d. to you the intentions of Government with regard to the Act by which you are appointed, I have my Lord Lieutenant's commands to intimate to you, that the Army and Ordnance of this country, which hitherto have been maintained within it for its defence, must, in consequence of the Union, form part of the Army

Army and Ordnance of the United Kingdom, and will be discontinued as a separate Establishment of the kingdom of Ireland, to be maintained by the separate Parliament thereof. The distinction of the two kingdoms being done away, this alteration of course follows, and the distinct Establishment of the Army and Ordnance cease.

From this circumstance I have it in command to acquaint you, that my Lord Lieutenant has received information from his Grace the Duke of Portland, that it is his Majesty's intention, in forming the new arrangement of the Ordnance of the United Kingdom, to recommend it to Parliament not to revive several offices which stand upon the separate Establishment of the Ordnance of the kingdom of Ireland, whereby a considerable ultimate saving will be made to the Public.

His Excellency therefore desires that you will take into your immediate consideration that part of the Act by which you are instituted, that relates to those offices, Officers allowances, and emoluments, which may cease or be discontinued by the Union, or in consequence thereof; and report to him your opinion, how far you consider yourselves authorized to ascertain the compensation which will be due to the said Agent of the Forces serving abroad, or to such Officers of the Board of Ordnance whose offices being suppressed in consequence of the Ordnance of the kingdom of Ireland having ceased by the Union, and shall not be placed upon the Establishment of the Ordnance of the United Kingdom. And his Excellency desires, if you have any doubt upon the subject, that you will call for the assistance of His Majesty's Law Officers thereupon.

I have the honour to be,

E. Cooke.

Compensation Board.

Parliament House, Dublin, January 28th 1801.

May it please your Excellency,

We have received your Excellency's commands, signified by Mr. Secretary Cooke's letter of the 26th instant, stating the purposes of the Act of the last session of Parliament in this kingdom, under which we are constituted Commissioners for ascertaining the losses which Individuals may suffer in consequence of the Union: the alteration which of course followed upon the distinction of the two kingdoms being done away, and that the distinct Establishments of the Army and Ordnance will cease: that from this circumstance, there will be no Forces maintained by the kingdom of Ireland abroad; and the Agent for those forces will be discontinued; and that several of the Offices which stand upon the separate Establishment of the Ordnance of the kingdom of Ireland will not be revived: and your Excellency directing us to report our opinion, how far we consider ourselves authorized to ascertain the compensation which will be due to the said Agent of the Forces serving abroad, and to such Officers of the Board of Ordnance, whose offices being suppressed in consequence of the Ordnance of the kingdom of Ireland having ceased by the Union, shall not be placed on the Establishment of the United Kingdom.

We humbly report to your Excellency our opinion, That the Board is authorized to ascertain the compensation which will be due to the persons before-mentioned.

We have the honour to be,

England—Sessions, 1801—Imperial Parliament.

Lord CASTLEREAGH's Speech:

"The Compensation was the result of a principle adopted and acted upon by the last Irish Parliament, that all the Offices, which, in their nature or emoluments, would be affected by the Union, should have the full Amount allowed for the lives of the actual possessors."

Mr. PITT's Speech:

"The principle of granting full Compensation to those holding offices in Ireland at the time of the Union, had been adopted by the last Irish Parliament; and it was therefore impossible that this Parliament could trench upon this testamentary disposition of the Irish Parliament, without a direct violation of faith, and of the principles on which the Union was founded."

The Memorial of Robert Grant, Clerk of the Works of the Ordnance in Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT from the year 1795 to the year 1799, he acted as Clerk of the Cheque, and from the year 1799 to this period as Clerk of the Works in the Ordnance Department, and received pay on the Establishment at the rate of £. 160. per annum, with a further allowance of £. 85. 3s. yearly, or £. 1. 12s. 9d. per week, for the extra duties of his office, and attendance there from six o'clock in the morning to six o'clock in the evening (being six hours attendance more than any of the other Officers had) this established pay and allowance making Memorialist's yearly pay under the late Board of Ordnance, £. 245. 3s.

That on the dissolution of the late Board of Ordnance, Memorialist would have retired from the Ordnance with the other Officers, but that he was assured by the Master General that every allowance belonging to the Clerk of the Works would be continued to him under the new Board; however, Memorialist finds by the new arrangement now made, he is only to have the yearly salary of £. 146. per annum, whereby he sustains the loss of £. 99. 3s. yearly; and as Memorialist had also an allowance under the late Board of Ordnance of 10s. per month for one day's attendance each month, mustering the Officers and Men of the Royal Irish Artillery, which allowance has been discontinued to him by the present Board, his losses by the change in the Ordnance in consequence of the Union amount to the before-mentioned sum of £. 99. 3s. and 10s. a month, or £. 6. yearly, making together £. 105. 3s. yearly loss to Memorialist.

He therefore humbly begs leave to submit his case to your Honours, and to request that you will be graciously pleased to take the same into your consideration, and grant him such compensation for the losses he has sustained by the Union as to your Honours wisdom, justice, and humanity, shall seem meet.

And your Memorialist will pray.

Ordnance,
Dublin, 23d May 1802.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Robert Grant, Clerk of the Works on the Establishment of the late Irish Ordnance,

Sheweth,

That your Memorialist has laid before your Honourable Board a Memorial, shewing the situation in which he was, and is placed, by the Union; and having been dismissed without any adjudication for the sum he has lost by accepting of a situation under the British Board of Ordnance, Memorialist begs leave to be reheard, and will substantiate the following; viz.

That Memorialist, on his being first appointed Clerk of the Works under the late Irish Board of Ordnance, received One hundred pounds per annum salary, as likewise, in conformity to the order of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, Memorialist received, in addition to same, the sum of Sixty-six pounds per annum, all of which was on the Irish Establishment.

That in consequence of the Union, the respective Officers having taken charge of the Ordnance Department in Ireland, Memorialist tendered his services, knowing the duties he was and still is employed in, without any salary being fixed, but solely for the good of the Service.

That Memorialist's salary has, since the Union, been fixed at £. 146. per annum, whereby your Memorialist has sustained the loss of Twenty pounds per annum for having tendered his exertions for the good of the Service.

That Memorialist begs leave to submit that he is situated in the same manner as others belonging to the Ordnance Department have been, who received compensation for the losses they have sustained.

That Memorialist humbly presumes to call your attention to this remark; viz. that the situation he enjoyed under the late Irish Board was on the Establishment, and that which he now possesses is held at the pleasure of the British Board.

That Memorialist throws himself on the justice and humanity of your Honourable Board, and prays to be reheard, having no doubt but that on a rehearing you will readily grant his claim.

And he will ever pray.

38, Great Ship-street,
January 1803.

Robt Grant.

Office of Ordnance,

29th January 1803.

Sir,

The Master General and Board having had under their consideration the letter which you addressed to Lieutenant Colonel Fisher, the Commanding Royal Engineer at Dublin, regarding your pay and allowances as Clerk of the Works there;

I am commanded to acquaint you, that his Lordship and the Board have ordered, that you should be allowed the pay of Five shillings per day as Clerk of the Works in the Engineers Department in Dublin, and also the additional allowance of Three shillings per day for acting as Overseer of the Carriage-yard, commencing from the time the allowance granted by the late Board of Ordnance in Ireland ceased.

I am, Sir,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

R. H. Grew, Secy.

Mr. Grant,
Clerk of the Works,
Dublin.

14th March 1800.

On the Claim of Robert Grant.

Thomas Dickinson, sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Grant received £. 160. per annum on the late Ordnance Establishment, and had £. 6. per annum paid him by order of Government for mustering the Artillery Regiment on the first Monday in each month: Saith, he also was paid, as Clerk of the Works, £. 1. 12s. 9d. per week extra pay on the Carriage-yard List—same first arose for extra attendance; commenced in 1793 or 1794, immediately after the beginning of the late War; it continued so long as the Board existed. The Clerk of the Works for the time being, from said year 1793 or 1794, was allowed £. 1. 12s. 9d. per week, and his Assistant was allowed £. 1. 8s. per week. The allowances were always paid, with the approbation and consent of the Surveyor General, for extra attendance, early and late, and on Sundays.

On the Claim of Robert Grant.

Major James Allen, sworn.

Deponent is Paymaster and Treasurer to the Board of respective Officers and Ordnance of Ireland; Deponent was ordered to pay Mr. Robert Grant, and has paid him from the time of Deponent's commencing to act, at the rate of Eight shillings Irish per day, making £. 146. per annum—Does not know why Mr. Grant's allowances were reduced by the present Board lower than it was under the former Board; had been informed by several of the respective Officers that the agreement had been made with Mr. Grant, that his allowances and pay should be the same under under the present as under the former Board.—Does not know the reason that said agreement was not preserved.

James Allen,

18th April 1803.

Mr. Thomas Dickinson, sworn.

Saith, There was a general sum, by order of Government of 29th March 1790, granted to the Board of Ordnance, whereof a sum of £. 6. sterling was allowed to the Clerk of the Works for mustering the Regiment of Artillery at Chapel Izad.

Thomas Dickinson.

Book of Payments of Surveyor General produced.

Entry of Payments for mustering Artillery Regiments. R.

Saith, The payments originally were made by the Board without any order of Government, and upon Mr. Corry's coming into said office in August 1788, he applied for and obtained the order above-mentioned, which was sent to the Board in March 1790, and which said order this Deponent positively saith he did see; and further saith he, this Deponent, hath searched for the book, in which said order is entered, and has not found same; saith, it was Deponent's business to make out the orders for payment under said general orders of Government; and that Deponent prepared the order to pay Mr. Grant the yearly sum of Six pounds under the authority of said original order of Government.

Saith, as Deponent recollects, the first words of the order of the Board were, "For the travelling charges of going to Chapel Izad to muster the Artillery."

Saith, the order from Government to the Board did specify in person to whom the sum thereby ordered was to be paid, and the purpose for which same was ordered.

Tho^r Dickinson.

William Turner, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, It hath always been the practice that the Clerk of the Works should muster the Artillery Regiment in conjunction with the Deputy Store keeper, for which the Clerk of the Works received the yearly sum of £. 6.—Deponent hath been fourteen years in the Ordnance, and said sum was paid during that period to the Clerk of the Works for the time being; Mr. Grant was appointed to that office in 1799, and continues therein to the present; saith, said allowance was paid him up to the 30th September 1801; saith, the respective Officers, or one of them, do now muster said Regiment, and Mr. Grant does not now muster them.

No. 115.—JOHN BELFON.

Dublin, October 28th 1804.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of John Belfon, Commissary of Ordnance.

Humbly sheweth,

THAT he was early in the year 1797 appointed Commissary of Ordnance to the Northern District; that in that situation he received pay Ten shillings per day; that he was allowed 3*s.* 3*d.* per day for horse-hire, and had several other emoluments, forage, coals, and candles; that he was paid at the rate of 5*s.* per day for paying Artificers and Drivers attached to his department; that he served under General Barber, late Royal Irish Artillery, who commanded the Artillery in said District, and that he remained in the Department until the late Irish Board of Ordnance was dissolved by Act of the Union, at which period all prospects of promotion vanished; That Memorialist refers the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners to Colonel Rogers, Royal Artillery, the principal Civil Officer of the Ordnance Department in Ireland, for his knowledge of the situation of an Ordnance Commissary.

Memorialist also takes the liberty of stating, that he was situated in the department in every respect similar to Commissaries Davis and Hinchy.

He trusts the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners will take his case into their consideration, and Memorialist will ever pray;

5th Nov. 1804.

John Belfon,

25, Great Ship-street.

On the Claim of John Belfon, Ordnance Commissary.

John Armit, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, The paper writing now delivered in by Deponent, contains the written instructions given by Deponent, dated 9th May 1797, at which time Deponent was Secretary to the Ordnance Board, to Mr. John Belfon; and Deponent saith, that same was the usual mode by which Ordnance Commissaries were appointed—Saith, that Deponent resigned the office of Secretary to said Board before the Union took place, therefore cannot say whether Mr. Belfon remained in office up to the time of the Union; believes his pay was Ten shillings per day, and his allowances about Five shillings per day, but cannot say positively as to the allowances—Mr. Belfon was not on the Ordnance Establishment; he was paid on the list of incidental expences of the Artillery Regiment.

J. Armit.Robert Samuel Francis, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Belfon came down to Blaris Camp in May 1797, as Commissary of Ordnance, and continued to act there as Commissary for two years, from whence he proceeded to Belfast, and acted there as Commissary under General Barber—Does not know, but has heard and believes, that he was in office as a Commissary up to the 1st January 1801.

R^t S. Francis.

Instructions for Mr. John Belfon, Ordnance Commissary:

You are to proceed forthwith to Hillsborough, and attach yourself to the Flying Brigade of Artillery now there, to which you are to be Commissary; previous to your taking charge, you are to have the Accounts for feeding of horses, payment of Artificers, Drivers, &c. settled by the Officer commanding; upon which you are to take charge, and superintend the providing horses, &c. and pay their expence, and the expence of Artificers, Drivers, &c. attending the Brigade.

By order of the Board,

J. Armit, Secy.

Office of Ordnance.

5th November 1804.

General Lucius Barber, sworn.

Saith, That Deponent commanded the Northern District of Artillery in the year 1797; knew Mr. Belfon to have been Ordnance Commissary at that time; he acted as such for upwards of three years, and Mr. Belfon conducted his business in the best manner.

Lucius Barber.

Colonel Henry Rogers, sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Belfon acted as Commissary in the Civil Department of the office in charge of Stores under Deponent at Barr, where Deponent was Commanding Officer of the British Artillery; he was a Civil Officer, and had the charge of Stores; believes Mr. Belfon held his civil employment of Commissary from the time of his appointment in 1797 up to the dissolution of the late Board of Ordnance; saith, that Mr. Belfon acted under Deponent as a Commissary prior to January 1801, and continued to act as such up to the time of the dissolution of the late Board of Ordnance, at which time he was dismissed from said employment: saith, that in England, when Commissaries were put upon half-pay, they only received the half of their pay of ten shillings per day without any allowance: saith, that the most essential part of the Service is the appointment of Commissaries; they are Civil officers, acting between the Government and the Artillery; their's is an office of great trust: saith, that Mr. Belfon's duty when with Deponent was extended to the entire district in which Deponent commanded, to wit, the Western district, and Mr. Belfon had the charge and issuing of all stores; he issued all the stores as Clerk of Stores.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Nash, of the City of Dublin, Gentleman, Enrolling Clerk to the Rolls-office of His Majesty's High Court of Chancery in Ireland,

Sheweth,

That Memorialist, on or about the month of February 1802, presented his claim by Memorial to this Honourable Board, praying compensation for such diminution

nation as he sustained in the profits and emoluments of his office on account of the Union.

That Memorialist was soon afterwards ordered by said Board to produce proofs as to his said claim, and that in pursuance thereof he did accordingly produce several witnesses before this Honourable Board, who fully proved the same; but that said Board have not as yet made up their Report thereon.

That Memorialist has been upwards of thirteen years in the quiet, peaceable, and undisturbed possession of his said office, and the profits thereof, and that during said period, the principal if not the whole burden of the entire business of the Rolls-office devolved upon him without any salary or compensation whatever for same, save and except the regular and stated fees annexed to his said office of Enrolling Clerk, and which said fees have been very much lessened in value since the Union, much more than Memorialist had been able to state in his said Memorial, as he had never kept any regular entries of his profits in said office.

That Memorialist has a very large family, consisting of a wife and nine children, all of whom (save only one) depend principally for their support upon the profits accruing to Memorialist out of his said office, and which profits have been considerably injured and lessened in value since the Union by reason thereof.

Therefore Memorialist humbly prays, that the Right Honourable and Honourable the said Commissioners will be pleased to take his case into their consideration, and that thereupon they will grant him such compensation as their Honours shall think him entitled to.

And Memorialist will pray.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Nash, of the City of Dublin, Gentleman,
Enrolling Clerk to the Rolls-office of His Majesty's High Court of Chancery in Ireland,

Sheweth,

That Memorialist did, on or about the month of February 1802, present his claim by Memorial to this Honourable Board, praying compensation for such diminution as he sustained in the profits and emoluments of his office on account of the Union.

That Memorialist was soon afterwards ordered by said Board to produce proofs as to his said claim, and that in pursuance thereof he did accordingly produce before this Honourable Board several witnesses, who proved the same; but that the said Board, as he heard and believes, have not as yet made up their Report thereon.

That Memorialist has been almost thirteen years in the quiet, peaceable, and undisturbed possession of said office, and that during that period, the principal burthen of the entire business of the Rolls-office devolved upon him, without any salary or compensation whatever from any person for same, save and except the regular fees annexed to his said office of Enrolling Clerk, and which were very much lessened in value since the Union, much more than Memorialist had been able to state in his Memorial, as he had never kept any entries of his profits in said office.

That Memorialist has a very large family, consisting of a wife and nine children, all of whom (save one only) depend principally for their support upon the profits accruing to Memorialist out of his said office, which have been very considerably injured and lessened in value since the Union.

Memorialist therefore humbly prays, that the Right Honourable and Honourable the said Commissioners will be pleased to take his case into consideration, and grant him such compensation as their Honours shall think him entitled unto.

And Memorialist will pray.

Rich^d Nash.

I, Peter Le Bas, have examined a Schedule of Fees, for which Mr. Richard Nash, Clerk in the Rolls-office, claims compensation; and do find that the fees upon Barons, Viscounts, Earls, Marquiffes, Baronets, and Escheatorships therein specified, amounted to £. 48. 12 s. 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. for the four years therein stated, which, upon an average of the four years, ending 1st January 1801, amounts to £. 12. 3 s. 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. and which fees I received from the Individuals, and paid over to Mr. Nash aforesaid.

Peter Le Bas.

The 3d March 1802.

Saith, he paid Mr. Nash the fee of Half-a-guinea each on the Patents appointing Sir Fitzgerald Hill Clerk of the House of Commons, and on Mr. Cooke's appointment thereto in reversion, both in the year 1798, as his own personal fees as Enrolling Clerk.

Peter Le Bas.

Mathew Franks, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, He compared the List of Fees now handed in, and signed by him, which is hereto annexed, with his books, and that the two first columns are a true copy thereof. Saith, it was a constant practice in the Rolls-office to have an Enrolling Clerk, who was always appointed by the Deputy, as Deponent believes; and Examinant appointed Mr. Nash to said employment about nine or ten years ago. He did not give him any written appointment, but he appointed him in the manner his predecessors had been appointed, and allowed him the same fees as they had received. Said allowance was at the discretion of Examinant; it was the same allowance as had been always given; he could not have got a respectable Clerk to do the business lower.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Nash, of the City of Dublin, Gentleman,
Enrolling Clerk to the Rolls-office of His Majesty's High Court of Chancery in Ireland,

Sheweth,

That Memorialist, at the time of proving his claim, omitted to produce any proof as to the charge of £. 3. 19 s. 7 d. mentioned in his Schedule to have been paid to him by the Earl of Roscommon, for his attendance at the House of Lords with the Chancery Roll of the Earldom of Roscommon, upon that Nobleman's claim to that honour, on account of Memorialist's not knowing where his Lordship then resided, in order to obtain his Certificate thereof.

That Memorialist hath since obtained his Lordship's Certificate of having paid said sum, which he now hopes their Honours will permit him to prove, if their Honours have not already decreed upon his claim; in which case Memorialist, with great deference, is ready and willing humbly to submit.

Richard Nash.

I certify, That I have paid unto Mr. Richard Nash, Enrolling Clerk at the Rolls-office, Dublin, the sum of Three pounds nineteen shillings and seven pence half-penny sterling, for and on account of his attendance at the House of Lords in the year 1798 with the Patent Roll of the dignity of Earl of Roscommon, upon the trial of my claim to that dignity.

Roscommon.

4th April 1803.

Mr. William Nash, sworn,

Saith, That Lord Roscommon delivered the Certificate, now produced, to this Deponent as his hand-writing; and Deponent believes the same was signed by him.

Mathew Franks, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, There always has been an Enrolling Clerk in the Rolls-office. It is an office of importance, and at all times necessary in the office; as necessary in the office as that of Deputy. Saith, Deponent never knew nor heard of an Enrolling Clerk having been removed in the office. Mr. Perry succeeded Mr. Warburton, as Deponent believes; and Deponent would have continued Mr. Perry, if he, Mr. Perry, would have remained. Mr. Nash succeeded Mr. Perry, and received the fees, which have always been payable. The Enrolling Clerk was acknowledged by the Houses of Lords and Com-

No. 118.—THOMAS DAWES, JAMES HYDE, and HENRY MARYON, &c.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Thomas Dawes, James Hyde, and Henry Maryon, Pursuivants at Arms, and of William Breton and Thomas Poyle, Extra Messengers.

Sheweth,

THAT it was heretofore Petitioners duty to convey to London the Transmisses of the Acts of the Irish Parliament, and a variety of dispatches connected therewith, the profits on which journeys composed a great part of Memorialists' income.

That by reason of the Union, Memorialists' emoluments have been curtailed, owing to the consequent discontinuance of such journeys; the average annual loss of which, to each of your Memorialists, amounts to the sum of £. 88. 6s. 8d. as may appear by the annexed Statement.

That Memorialists have also respectively sustained a loss of £. 10. 18s. 4d. each annually, by reason of the Union, being the annual average amount of Fees received by them on private Bills in the three last years.

That Memorialists have herunto annexed Statements of their aforesaid emoluments for the last three years.

May it therefore please your Honours to award to each of your Memorialists the sum of £. 88. 6s. 8d. being loss incurred by the discontinuance of Journeys to England; and the sum of £. 10. 18s. 4d. being loss of Fees on private Bills; both sums amounting to £. 99. 5s. during their respective natural lives, so that they may not be losers by means of the Union.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The joint Memorial of the undersigned Pursuivants at Arms,

Sheweth,

That Memorialists, as Pursuivants at Arms, have been entitled to emoluments arising from Fees of Honour on the creation of each Peer, Peeress, and Baronet.

That by Articles of the Legislative Union between Great Britain and Ireland, they are deprived of the continuance of such emoluments, and consequently will be great sufferers, unless redressed under the Act of Parliament, passed in the last Session, for compensating Bodies Corporate and Individuals.

Therefore Memorialists beg leave to submit to your consideration the Statement hereto annexed, shewing the average sum of each Pursuivant's emoluments for the last three years, amounting to Sixteen pounds eleven shillings and eight pence half-penny.

And pray that the said sum of £. 16 11 s. 8½ d. may be granted to each of them yearly, for his life, as an average compensation for their loss as aforesaid.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of Thomas Dawes, James Hyde, W^m Breton, Thomas Poyle, and Henry Maryon, Messengers to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland,

Sheweth,

That in pursuance of your kind indulgence, in giving them further time to lay before you a correct Statement of their Losses, in consequence of the Union, they now beg leave to submit to your consideration the inclosed Account, in lieu of that now before you; stating such Losses by the discontinuance of their Journeys to England, during Sessions of Parliament in Ireland, upon the four last years of the Irish Parliament.

And they feel confident, that, after the long and faithful services which they have gone through, frequently hazarding their lives at the most tempestuous seasons of the year at sea, and by travelling whole nights in the most inclement weather, they will not now, in the decline of their lives, be deprived of the most principal support for themselves and families, without receiving from your justice and liberality the compensation prayed for, agreeably to the annexed Account; and which, to their sorrow, they are convinced is far short of the loss of their employments, in consequence of the Union.

We are, with all submission,

*Tho^s Dawes.

I have examined the inclosed Statement with the entries in the books of the Chief Secretary's office, and find that the number of transmisses herein mentioned are correctly stated, excepting that part which relates to private Bills, which I am not acquainted with.

21st June 1802.

Monday 1st March 1802.

William Taylor, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, He received from the King at Arms the fees for the Deputy Pursuivants, Messrs. Dawes and Hyde, and Pursuivant Mr. Maryon, of which the fees on Peers and Baronets have been discontinued in consequence of the Union. He paid said fees to the senior, to be by him divided equally amongst the three. Messrs. Dawes and Hyde are Deputy Pursuivants, with the knowledge of the Lord Lieutenant and Chief Secretary, and constant practice of the office: Dawes acts as Deputy to Mr. Boys; Hyde as Deputy to Mr. Carroll; and Maryon acts for himself under a patent—Henry Maryon still continues a Pursuivant by patent; he is now a Messenger. Maryon, though a Pursuivant, did not receive fees of honour until he became Messenger in ordinary; the title under which they received their fees was as Deputy Pursuivants and Messengers in ordinary. Boys and Carroll, though Pursuivants, did not receive any fees of honour. The three senior Messengers have been Deputy Pursuivants; there are two Messengers extraordinary who never received those fees; Breton and Poyle were the Extraordinary Messengers previous to the 26th December last; Breton is now a Deputy Pursuivant and Messenger in ordinary since the 26th December last, in the room of Maryon, who continues to hold the patent of Pursuivant; although not a Messenger, Breton may now be considered as Deputy Pursuivant to Maryon.

Will Taylor.

Mr. Knowles was, as Examinant apprehends, an extra Messenger, attendant on the Secretary during the sessions of Parliament. He had not any fees of honour, nor, to Deponent's knowledge, any other fees which ceased in consequence of the Union.

Theobald Richard O'Flaherty, Clerk in the Office of Arms, Dublin, being sworn, Deposeth:

A List of Fees produced:—Saith, That those are the fees which were paid to the Pursuivants at Arms, and which they divide; and that the paper-writing signed by Examinans, and annexed hereto, contains a List of the Fees payable to them for the four years last past. Believes Mr. Dawes generally received the amount of said fees from Mr. Taylor, to be by him distributed to the other.

Mr. Taylor received the amount of said Lists from Sir Chichester Fortescue, as Examinant believes; none other of the Messengers, except the three Pursuivants, received any such fees to Deponent's knowledge.

The 2d day of March 1802.

Mr. Henry Paine, sworn.

Says, He is Office-keeper to the Chief Secretary's office; knows Dawes, Hyde, and Maryon to have been Messengers in ordinary; Dawes from November 1775; Hyde from 1784; Maryon from latter end of 1797 or beginning of 1798: they were all in office at the time the Union took place; Maryon assigned his employment to his brother the 26th of December last—Supposes they will sustain losses in consequence of the Union; that they will not have one-half of the number of journeys to England. When they go with Bills to England they have an allowance for chaises, which make the expence £. 83. 8 s. 4 ÷ d.; when they go without a chaise they are allowed £. 69. 7 s. 6 d. It is to be supposed they do not expend the entire amount, and have some profit. Mr. Hyde in the year 1800, was allowed for a journey with four horses £. 100.; cannot ascertain what profit they had on each journey; they have not any salary as Messengers.

H. Paine.

Knows William Knowles to have been employed for several years past as Messenger to the Chief Secretary during the sessions of Parliament, at 5 s. 5 d. per day; does not recollect whether he was a Messenger on the 1st of January 1801.

H. Paine.

2d March 1802.

Mr. William Tennant, sworn.

Was a Messenger for about ten years previous to the year 1790 or 1791, six years of which he was a Messenger extraordinary. The five Messengers, three in ordinary, and two extraordinary, were allowed Five shillings and five pence a day for themselves, 5 s. 5 d. a day for a horse, and 1 s. 8 d. a day for hay and oats; when on a journey to England the entire pay was stopped for three days going and three days returning, and as he best recollects, they had 8 s. 1 ½ d. a day for attending the offices when in London; does not recollect any perquisite allowed to the Messenger in lieu of the 4 s. 4 ½ d. a day, which they lost; they were given a stated sum for their journey, about £. 40. English, and many other charges for passage, and so much per stage for post-boys, and also for turnpikes. Some trips were better than others, as they might get cheaper to London one time more than another. Believes the average of the profit on each journey was about £. 20. Irish. The journeys to London were their greatest emoluments; they would not make so much on five Irish journeys; they took the journeys in rotation—Supposes they then had about three or four trips each on Bills to London; during each Session they had that number at least; as near as he can recollect they were one with another worth £. 20. a piece. The office was then worth to each Messenger, whether ordinary or extraordinary, £. 300. a year on an average; cannot form any opinion of what the loss may be to the office in consequence of the Union: notwithstanding the stoppages from the Messengers, they were obliged to keep their horses here during their journeys to England, and could not have less than two horses.

Willm Tennant.

George Oakley, sworn.

Smith, He has acted as Messenger for Mr. James Hyde: that he went twice to London with dispatches for him: that he kept an account of his expences thereon: that he did not preserve said accounts, but can say very closely to the amount. The first journey was in March 1798, the other in March 1800: his expences on the latter journey from Holyhead to London, exclusive of his passage, amounted to £. 9. or thereabouts. The first time he remained three days in London, the last time six days: his expences might have been, whilst there, about eight or nine shillings per day, had he been living at his own expence. His expences on the first journey were considerably greater than on the latter, being obliged to post a great part of it. The expence of the former journey, including his passage, going and returning, and whilst in London, was about £. 30. Irish. The expence of a Messenger going and returning with Bills to London, in an economical way, including every expence, and remaining about three days in London, would be about £. 23. Irish at the lowest. The expence of a Messenger going to, and returning from London with dispatches, riding it all the way, and remaining about three days there, would be about £. 35. Irish at the least.

George Oakley.

Chief Secretary's Office, 3d March 1802.

Note.—Indisposition hath prevented Breton from performing English Journeys ever since the above period.

The 14th day of June 1802.

Mr. Henry Paine, sworn.

Saith, He conceives the Messengers, in consequence of the Union, will suffer a loss on inland Journeys; saith, that the paper writing now delivered in, and signed by Examinaut, contains a true Account of the sums paid to the Messengers for inland Journeys, in four years, previous to the Union, and in one year since, the year 1801; being so immediately after the Union, they had more journeys than it is probable they will continue to have. Deponent should suppose that they will individually lose £. 50. per annum in consequence of the Union on inland Journeys alone. It is impossible for him to say for certain what the loss may be; the Messengers took the journeys in rotation.

H. Paine.

The 21st June 1802.

Peter Le Bas, sworn.

Saith, The Account of the transmisses now delivered in, and certified by Deponent, contains a true Account of the transmisses in the four years therein mentioned, except that part thereof which relates to private Bills, with which Deponent was not acquainted.

Peter Le Bas.

Henry Paine, on oath,

Saith, That the Account of the inland Journeys now delivered in, and signed by Deponent, contains a true Account of the number of inland Journeys taken by the King's Messengers, in the four years therein mentioned.

H. Paine.

William McKay, sworn.

Saith, That in all cases where private Bills were sent to London in any transmiss, the Messenger carrying same received from the party sending same, Four guineas each; and that the Account of the private Bills now delivered in, and signed by Deponent, contains a true Statement of the number of private Bills which were sent over in the four years therein mentioned.

W^m McKay.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Petition of Henry Maryon,

Humbly sheweth,

That in the year 1801, your Petitioner laid before your Lordship and Honour a Memorial, stating, that he was on the first of January 1801, and for several years previous to that date, one of the Pursuivants at Arms, and one of the King's Messengers in ordinary; that in consequence of the Union, he was deprived of certain emoluments, which amounted, on an average of four years, to £. 64. 15 s. 6 d. per annum, as proved before your Lordship and Honours.

That your Petitioner being informed that he would be entitled to an annuity for his life, in compensation for the said emoluments so lost in consequence of the Union, in like manner as was granted in similar cases; and that the same would not cease by his surrendering the office he held as aforesaid; and being in a very bad state of health, he did surrender his said office some time after making his said claim, but before he obtained the certificate of his losses from your Lordship and Honours.

That he afterwards obtained your Honours certificate, but the same was for the amount of one year's loss only, and not for £. 64. 15 s. 6 d. per annum, as for the other Pursuivants and Messengers in ordinary.

That had not your Petitioner been assured that he was entitled to an annuity for life, equal to the amount of the annual loss sustained by him, in consequence of the Union, and that the same would certainly be granted to him (as to others similarly circumstanced) he would not have resigned his office.

Your Petitioner therefore most humbly prays your Lordship and Honours will reconsider his case, and grant him a certificate of the annual Amount of his Losses, in consequence of the Union, in like manner as granted to the other Claimants.

Hen. Maryon.

I certify, That by Letters Patent, dated the second day of May 1783, Henry Maryon, Gentleman, was appointed to the office and place of one of the Pursuivants at Arms attending the State and Government in Ireland, during His Majesty's pleasure, with all fees, salaries, profits, perquisites, emoluments, benefits, and advantages thereto belonging, in as full and ample a manner as any other person formerly held and enjoyed the same; and which said office he still holds.

For the Auditor-General.

Auditor-General's office,

23th February 1803.

Mr. William Maryon,

States,

That he attends on behalf of the Memorial presented by his Brother Henry Maryon, who is now in England; that he has not any further argument to lay before the Board than those contained in said Memorial; that the signature to the Memorial now presented is not signed by his Brother, the Memorialist, but is signed by Examinant himself: his Brother was informed by Examinant of his having laid same before this Board, but has not since instructed Examinant relative thereto.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

I humbly certify, I did request and authorize my Brother William Maryon to have a Petition presented to your Honours, and to sign it for me; I requested my certificate

certificate should be kept back for that purpose; and that I resigned my situation as Messenger on the prospect I should be allowed compensation on account of the Union, and being in a bad state of health, brought on by the execution in the business of Government. When the original Petition was given in to your Honours, it was signed by Dawes, Hyde, and Maryon, Breton and Poyle. I further certify, this is all the claim I have to lay before your Honours.

Hen. Maryon.

4th March 1803.

Monday, 30th April 1804.

William Taylor, Esquire,

States,

Henry Maryon quitted his office, having made terms with his Brother William, who was appointed Messenger on the vacancy being made by his resignation; the present Messenger, William, is under an agreement with his Brother Henry, to whom he makes some allowance during his life, in consideration of his having resigned as aforesaid.

No. 120.—RICHARD WADDY.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Waddy, of Merrion-square, in the city of Dublin, Gentleman,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist for upwards of seven years last past hath held, and still holds, the office of Solicitor to His Majesty's General Post-office of Ireland; and that your Memorialist, in right of his said office, annually prepared and solicited, through both Houses of Parliament, the Bill for granting to His Majesty, His Heirs, and Successors, the Rates and Duties of Postage throughout Ireland.

That

That your Memorialist's fees for preparing and soliciting said Bill amounted to the sum of Forty-seven pounds seven shillings and ten pence annually, which was regularly paid to your Memorialist.

That in consequence of the Union your Memorialist is deprived of the fees to which he had been so entitled, and which he had uniformly received in right of his said office, which office is thereby diminished in value annually to the amount before specified.

May it therefore please your Honours to adjudge that your Memorialist be paid, during his natural life, the said sum of Forty-seven pounds seven shillings and ten pence annually, being the loss sustained by your Memorialist, by the diminution in value to that amount of his said office, in consequence of the Union.

Rich^d Waddy.

Dear Sir,

I shall take the earliest opportunity of laying your Letter before the Executors of the late Mr. Waddy, and will inform you of their determination.

Dame-street,

April 13th 1803.

Your obedient Servant,

Am^b. Harvey.

Don^t McKay, Esquire.

Sir,

On the part of the Executors of the late Richard Waddy, Esquire, I have been desired to inform you that they do not mean to proceed upon the Petition presented by him to the Commissioners for Compensation, Mr. Waddy having died before any loss was sustained.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

Clare-street,

No. 121.—Reverend JOHN ASHE, Vice-Sovereign of Athlone.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of the Reverend John Ashe,

Respectfully sheweth,

THAT in the year 1796 he was Vice-Sovereign of the Town of Athlone, and in consequence of a circumstance, which he deems it necessary to mention, he was put to an extraordinary expence, amounting to £. 14. 10s. sterling, for which, in the year 1798, he procured an Order of Council to the following effect: "Ordered, by a majority of this Council, That the sum of £. 14. 10s. be paid to the Reverend John Ashe, out of the Revenues of this Corporation, whenever a redundancy remains to that amount in the Sovereign's hands."

Your Memorialist further states, that annually, since the above period, until the Union took place, your Memorialist regularly applied for the above-mentioned sum, and was generally told that no such redundancy existed, which your Memorialist verily believes, as the revenues of the Corporation were materially injured by the disturbed situation of the Country about that time.

Your

Your Memorialist also states, That since the Union he repeatedly applied to different Members of the Corporation, but could procure no satisfactory answer; and indeed, was generally given to understand, that the Union had made so material an alteration in the Corporation, that any future application must be useless. This your Memorialist will be able to prove, as those Members of the Corporation for whom he acted, by withdrawing themselves in consequence of the Union, now possess no influence, and, he has no method left of compelling the existing Members to give him redress.

Your Memorialist therefore respectfully trusts, that the Right Honourable the Commissioners will have the goodness to take his case into their consideration; and if they will be pleased to grant him the object of this Memorial, he will ever remain,

Their most obliged humble Servant,

John Ashe.

P. S.—Mr. Ashe takes the liberty of acquainting the Right Honourable the Commissioners, that he waited upon them on Monday last in order to present this Memorial, and unfortunately was a few minutes too late. As it would be very inconvenient to him to be obliged to remain in Town until Monday next, he will be very grateful if they will have the goodness to give him a hearing this day.

No. 122.—The Right Honourable HENRY EARL BATHURST, and the Honourable APSLEY BATHURST.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of the Right Honourable Henry Earl Bathurst, and the Honourable Apsley Bathurst, Clerk of the Crown in the Chancery of England, in reversion after the decease of the Honourable John Yorke,

Sheweth,

THAT by the Act for the Union of Great Britain and Ireland, passed in the last Session of the Parliament of Ireland, your Memorialists have sustained a considerable reduction in the emoluments of their office, as will appear by an Account thereof transmitted to Ireland with the Memorial of the Honourable John Yorke, the late Clerk of the Crown, deceased, and to which your Memorialists beg leave to refer.

Your Memorialists therefore request, that the Commissioners will be pleased to take the premises into consideration, and make such order therein as to them shall seem proper.

Bathurst.

A. Bathurst.

23 July, } Letters Patent, under the Great Seal of Great Britain, bearing date at Westminster, the 23d day of July, in the 11th year of King George the Third, after reciting, that his late Majesty King George the 2d, by His Letters Patent under the Great Seal of Great Britain, bearing date at Westminster the 27th day of June, in the 20th year of His Reign, did give and grant unto His trusty and well-beloved Charles Yorke, Esquire, and John Yorke, Esquire, sons of Philip Lord Hardwicke Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, the office of Clerk of the Crown in the Chancery of England, To have, enjoy, occupy, and exercise the said office of Clerk of the Crown, to the said Charles Yorke and John Yorke, from and immediately after the death of Stephen Bisse, Esquire, for and during the term of their natural lives, and the life of the longest liver of them: And reciting, that the said Stephen Bisse and Charles Yorke were both since dead, and the said John Yorke was the survivor, and in possession of the said office; His Majesty, by the said now abstracting Letters Patent, did give and grant unto *Henry Bathurst, Esquire, and Apsley Bathurst, Esquire, sons of Henry Lord Apsley, then Lord Chancellor of Great Britain, the said office of Clerk of the Crown in the Chancery of England; to have, hold, exercise, and enjoy the said office from and immediately after the death, &c. of the said John Yorke, for and during the term of their natural lives, and the life of the longest liver of them.

A true Extract from the Patent.

Deputy Clerk of the Crown.

10th September 1801.

Search whether the Letters Patent, appointing Earl Bathurst and the Hon. Apsley Bathurst, Clerks of the Crown of the Chancery of Great Britain, in reversion, after the death of the Hon. J. Yorke, has been enrolled in the High Court of Chancery in Ireland.

For Mr. McKay, Council-office.

I searched for the above the day Mr. McKay spoke to me about it, but do not find any enrolment of it.

R. Nisby,

Search, 3s. 4d.

Dublin, 29th January 1802.

William McKay, of the City of Dublin, Gent. being sworn, and examined before the Commissioners of Compensation, upon his oath, saith, that he this Deponent applied to the acting Clerk of the Rolls-office of the High Court of Chancery of Ireland, for him the said Clerk to search for the enrolment of any Patent granted to the Earl Bathurst and the Honourable Apsley Bathurst, of the office of Clerk of the Crown in Chancery in Great Britain, when the said Clerk informed this Deponent, that he would make such search; and this Deponent saith, he hath been advised by the said Clerk, that no such Patent of Clerk of the Crown as aforesaid hath been entered in the said Rolls-office; and this Deponent produces to the said Commissioners the Certificate of the said Clerk, that no such Patent hath been enrolled in Ireland:

Wm McKay.

Dublin, 1st February 1802.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

We are informed by our Deputy, Mr. Raffleigh, that you have allowed to the Executors of the Honourable John Yorke, deceased, our Predecessor, the late Clerk of the Crown in the Chancery of England, a compensation for the loss in that office in consequence of the Union, up to the time of his death; but that you conceive we are not entitled to the like compensation, though the persons in reversion are expressly named in the Act.

The objection we understand to be, that we hold our office of Clerk of the Crown by Patent under the Great Seal of Great Britain, and not under the Great Seal of Ireland; to this we answer, that we hold our office by virtue of a reversionary Grant under the Great Seal of Great Britain, precisely in the same manner as Mr. Yorke held the office before us; and we presume that our claim as Reversioners stands exactly on the same footing as his; unless, therefore, we are furnished with some other objection, which we are not at present aware of, we trust you will, upon a reconsideration, think our claim well founded, and adjudge us such compensation as you may deem just.

We are,

My Lords and Gentlemen,

Apsley-House, London,
Dec. 15th 1801.

Your humble Servants,

Bathurst,

A. Bathurst.

Clerks of the Crown in the Chancery of England.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners of Compensation in Ireland.

* Now Henry Earl Bathurst.

CASE.

27 June. } By Letters Patent of this date, under the Great Seal of Great Britain, 20th Geo. II. } His Majesty did give and grant unto His trusty and well-beloved Charles Yorke, Esquire, and John Yorke, Esquire, sons of Philip Lord Hardwicke, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, the office of Clerk of the Crown in the Chancery of England, to have, enjoy, occupy, and exercise the said office of Clerk of the Crown to the said Charles Yorke and John Yorke, from and immediately after the death of Stephen Bisse, Esquire, for and during the term of their natural lives, and the life of the longest liver of them.

23d July. } By Letters Patent of this date, under the Great Seal of Great 11 Geo. III. } Britain, reciting the aforesaid Letters Patent, and also, that Stephen Bisse and Charles Yorke were both since dead, and the said John Yorke was then surviving and in possession of the said office, His Majesty, by the said now abstracting Letters Patent, did give and grant unto Henry Bathurst, Esquire (now Earl Bathurst) and Apsey Bathurst, Esquire, sons of Henry Lord Apsey, then Lord Chancellor of Great Britain, the said office of Clerk of the Crown in the Chancery of England, to have, hold, exercise, and enjoy the said office, from and immediately after the death of the said John Yorke, for and during the term of their natural lives, and the life of the longest liver of them.

On the death of Mr. John Yorke, which happened on the 4th of September last, the said Henry Earl Bathurst and Apsey Bathurst, by virtue of the said Patent, took upon them the office of Clerk of the Crown in Chancery.

Mr. Yorke finding that, by the Union of Great Britain and Ireland, the said office of Clerk of the Crown would be considerably diminished in value, applied to the Commissioners of Compensation in Ireland; appointed under the Act of Consensation made in the Parliament of Ireland (a copy of which is left herewith); and the Commissioners have actually adjudged to said Mr. Yorke a clear Annuity for his life of £. 330. Irish currency, as a compensation for the loss he sustained by the Union, and the same hath been received up to the day of Mr. Yorke's death.

The Earl and Mr. Bathurst, the present Clerk of the Crown, and at the time of the Union, the Clerk of the Crown in reversion, conceiving themselves equally entitled to a compensation for the loss of their reversionary interest in the said office, have accordingly, by Memorial, submitted their claim to the said Commissioners of Compensation in Ireland, who have expressed doubts whether they can entertain or take cognizance of the said Memorial, the Patent of the Claimants being under the Great Seal of Great Britain, and not under the Great Seal of Ireland; and they rely upon the clause in folios 9—10, of the Act left herewith.

The same objection, if a good one, might, it is presumed, have applied to the claim of Mr. Yorke; but no such was ever thought of, and the full compensation was immediately adjudged to him.

Your opinion therefore is desired, Whether, according to the true construction of the Act of Parliament, any distinction ought to be made between the case of Mr. Yorke, as entitled in possession, and that of the Earl and Mr. Bathurst as entitled in reversion, to the office in question; and whether the claim of compensation made by the Rever-sioners does not stand on the same ground as the claim made by, and allowed to, the person in possession?

I am of opinion, that the Act of Parliament affords no ground for any distinction between Mr. Yorke as in possession, and the Earl and Mr. Bathurst as entitled to the reversion, and that the claim of compensation made by the latter stands on the same ground as that made by, and allowed to, Mr. Yorke.

J. Mansfield.

Temple, July 8th 1802.

Lord Bathurst and Mr. Bathurst have communicated, to His Majesty's Solicitor General, the observations of the Commissioners on the opinion he delivered on the claim which Lord Bathurst and Mr. Bathurst make for compensation, in consequence of that which had been allowed to their predecessor, Mr. Yorke.

His Majesty's Solicitor General is, they find, decidedly of opinion, that there is no difference between their case and Mr. Yorke's; that the Commissioners have no power to allow compensation to those in possession of offices which have been injured by the Union, except what they derive from the same clause in the same Bill, which also gives them the power of allowing compensation for offices in reversion; that the objection arising from the limitation of Grants passed under the Great Seal of Ireland (a limitation which in the opinion of the framer of the Bill, Lord Castlereagh, was certainly never intended) applies precisely as much to offices in possession as to those in reversion, and that consequently, if that objection did not induce the Commissioners to reject Mr. Yorke's application, it ought not in common justice be brought against the present Claimants, as the words which occasion this objection do, according to all legal construction, apply equally to both; and in this opinion they have the satisfaction of finding that all the Lawyers agree to whom they have hitherto submitted their Case. But, before they proceed to trouble the Commissioners with any further legal opinions, Lord Bathurst and Mr. Bathurst are desirous of ascertaining, Whether, if it should be made to appear that the two Cases are, in the opinion of the first Law authorities, precisely similar, the decision of the Commissioners on this case will then be in conformity with the first?

Dear Sir,

By the direction of the Earl and Mr. Bathurst, I am to request you will lay the inclosed Letter before the Commissioners of Compensation, and transmit to me an authentic document of their decision, whatever it may be.

Crown-office in Chancery, London,

3d August 1802.

John Patrickson, Esq.

Dear Sir,

Your's very truly,

Thos. Rightleigh.

August 2d 1802.

Sir,

We are sorry, and rather surprized to find, by your Letter of the 30th ult. that the Commissioners are not satisfied with our having proved, even to their own conviction, that our case is similar to that of Mr. Yorke, in whose favour they granted a compensation; they do not, we now understand, think it material to the question; it would however surely have been more candid in them to have made this declaration sooner: instead of this, they encouraged us to obtain fresh legal opinions, which, it now appears, they were at the time determined should have no effect on their decision. We are however happy in having had it in our power to prove so satisfactorily, that our case is so precisely the same as that of Mr. Yorke; at all events, it shews our application not to be unreasonable; it made us confident of success; our respect for the Commissioners did not permit us to imagine that they would deliberately decide differently in two Cases, between which they were aware there was no distinction.

You however tell us, that they wish to be satisfied of the justice of our claim; the equity of it is indisputable; the framer of the Bill under which the act expressly declares, that the distinction between the Great Seal of England and Ireland was never in the contemplation of the Legislature; and a Case, in which this very objection existed in full force, has already received a favourable decision. But they wish for a legal opinion: we take the liberty of referring them to the legal opinion, it is presumed they had, when they decided the Case of Mr. Yorke. Is it usual for Commissioners to decide first, and then to call on the next suitor to prove the legality of their own decision? we are persuaded their conduct is directly the reverse. They are cautious indeed before they establish a precedent; but, having once decided, they deal out the same measure of justice without partiality or distinction: all that is required of those who come after, is, to prove their Case comes under the precedent which has been established: if this be so, we have gained our cause; we have proved our Case to be precisely similar to that of Mr. Yorke. Should however the Commissioners choose to decide differently, we must submit, and content ourselves with observing, that the sincere respect which we have long entertained for the public virtues and private worth of the Lord Lieutenant, will not hereafter be our only reason for regretting that we are not his Excellency's near relations.

We beg you would transmit the above, in the usual manner, to be laid before the Commissioners of Compensation in Ireland.

We are, Sir,

Your humble Servants,

Bathurst.

Tho. Rashleigh, Esquire.

Sir,

The Commissioners for Compensation have read the Letter of the 2d instant which you sent me, to be laid before them, addressed from Earl Bathurst and the Honourable Mr. Bathurst to Thomas Rashleigh, Esquire, and have directed me to acquaint you, That, from the beginning to the end, the performance is so thoroughly ill founded, and so very inconsiderate, that the Board, in respect to the quality of those Noble Personages, forbear to give it an answer.

But as they appear to be ignorant of, or not to comprehend the point upon which the doubt in their Case stands, I am directed to send you the inclosed Memorandum, which, with this Letter, you are desired to transmit to Mr. Rashleigh, to be laid before them.

I am, Sir,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

To John Patrickeon, Esq.

Dan. McKey, Secy.

The Commissioners derive their authority solely under the Act of Parliament, and do not conceive themselves to be at liberty either to adjudge compensation on a case which does not appear to them to come within the statute, or to give the Law an interpretation against the express words; from hence arose the difficulty which they stated to the Earl and Mr. Bathurst, and agent. The statute in no part prescribes the limitation with respect to offices in possession, but, with respect to reversions, it expressly limits the compensation to such as are granted by Patent under the Great Seal of Ireland.

The point of doubt therefore upon the Earl and Mr. Bathurst's claim, is, Whether the Commissioners are empowered by the statute to allow compensation upon a grant of reversion which is not under the Great Seal of Ireland? and this was distinctly and repeatedly stated to the Gentleman who solicited the claim. In the course of communication upon the subject, he said, that Law opinions could be had in support of the claim, and the Board answered, that they would readily receive and consider any arguments that might inform their judgments; but the questions stated, and the opinions thereon, which have been shewn to the Board, constantly avoid the point, and merely assert that the Earl and Mr. Bathurst have as good a title to compensation as Mr. Yorke had.

From this manner of putting the question, and from the little peevish insinuations, which the Commissioners are persuaded the Earl and Mr. Bathurst are now ashamed at having suffered to escape their pen, all that can be gathered is, that the Board are charged to have committed one error respecting Mr. Yorke's claim, and are therefore required to commit another. Neither to the charge, or the requisition, do the Board assent.

Dear Quin,

I shall readily sign any Certificate that may be wanted of Mr. Jephson's having been Master of the Horse to me in Ireland, during the time I was Lord Lieutenant; but such a Certificate seems to me quite unnecessary, as Treasury Receipts for his salary would seem a decisive evidence.

The Memorial of Robert Jephson, Esquire, Master of Horse to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.

Sheweth,

That having received, through his Agent, Joseph Atkinson, Esquire, an intimation from your Board that his claim for compensation for the Fees of honour for the office he holds, agreeable to the Act of Union, has not been admitted by you, the amount of which was duly substantiated by the proper Officer, which was refused, as Memorialist understands, because his appointment was not produced :

Memorialist having in his possession his nomination to the office he holds from the different Viceroy's of this Kingdom, from the time the Earl of Westmorland became Lord Lieutenant to the time of the Union :

Memorialist therefore prays, that you will be pleased to order a re-consideration of his claim, when Mr. Atkinson will attend with the proper documents, which he has invested him with for that purpose.

No. 124.—PATRICK HALFPENNY.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Petition of Patrick Halfpenny, of the City of Dublin, Attorney, Clerk of the late Court of Exchequer Chamber in Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT your Petitioner was, in the year 1776, appointed Clerk of the Errors of the said Court, and so continued till the first day of August 1800.

That in consequence of the Act of Union a difficulty was foreseen as likely to arise from Writs of Error from Judgments of the Court of King's Bench in Ireland to the King in Parliament, by the appellant Jurisdiction following the sittings of Parliament to Great Britain.

That, in order to remove or obviate such difficulty in as great a degree as possible, an Act was passed in co-operation of the Act of Union, intituled "An Act for the more speedy correction of erroneous Judgments given in the Courts of Law in Ireland," in which Act there is contained a clause abolishing the Court of Exchequer Chamber which then existed, of which your Petitioner was Officer, as aforesaid, and gave power to His Majesty to appoint a Clerk of the Errors of the said new created Court, with a salary of £. 300. a year.

That by the abolishing of the said Court, and the establishing of such new Court, Petitioner is totally deprived of all emoluments arising from his said office.

That Petitioner's emoluments from the same amounted to the annual sum of £. 150. and upwards.

That by virtue of a Letter under the King's Sign Manual, Letters Patent have been passed under the Great Seal of Ireland, appointing James Galbraith, Esquire, Clerk of the Errors of the said Court of Exchequer.

That your Petitioner is now in the 66th year of his age, and has no means of providing for himself and family, consisting of a wife and eight children.

May it therefore please your Honours to consider the premises, and order your Petitioner such compensation for the loss of his said office, and the fees belonging thereto, consequent on the passing of the Act of Union.

And your Petitioner will pray.

Patr. Halfpenny.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Patrick Halfpenny, of the City of Dublin, Attorney, Clerk of the Court of Exchequer Chamber in Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist was, in the year 1776, appointed Clerk of the Errors of the said Court by the late Lord Viscount Lifford, then Lord Chancellor.

That, in consequence of the Act of Union, a difficulty was foreseen, as likely to arise from Writs of Error from Judgments of the Court of King's Bench in Ireland to the King in Parliament, by the appellant Jurisdiction following the sittings of Parliament to Great Britain.

That, in order to remove or obviate such difficulty in as great a degree as possible, an Act was passed, in co-operation of the Act of Union, intituled "An Act for the more speedy correction of erroneous Judgments given in the Courts of Law in Ireland," in which Act there is contained a clause, discontinuing any business which should in future, after the passing thereof, arise from the Jurisdiction of the Court of Exchequer Chamber to a new Court, to be composed of the twelve Judges, under and in pursuance of the said Act; and also gave power to His Majesty to appoint a Clerk of the Errors of the said thereby newly created Court, with a salary not exceeding £. 300. a year.

That upon the 1st day of August 1800, the Royal Assent was given, among other Acts of the last Sessions of the Parliament of Ireland, to the Act of Union, the Act for granting Compensation for losses sustained in consequence of the Union, and also the before-recited Act.

That by the abolishing of the said Court, and the establishment of such new Court, Memorialist some time after the passing of said Act became deprived of all emoluments arising from his said office, save and except those arising from causes at that time depending in said Court, and which causes have thence progressively been disposed of; and there are not at present more than two Appeals undetermined, and which said Appeals have been taken from the jurisdiction of said Court of Exchequer Chamber to the House of Lords.

That the emoluments arising to Memorialist from the said office amounted to the annual sum of £. 150. sterling, or thereabouts, the net amount of which Memorialist's books will prove; and the emoluments of said office have, in consequence of the Union, been discontinued, and diminished in value in the said amount, and are now totally and completely reduced.

That by virtue of a Letter under the King's Sign Manual, Letters Patent have been passed under the Great Seal of Ireland, appointing a Clerk of the Errors of the said Court, at a salary of £. 300. a year, besides emoluments arising from said Court.

That your Memorialist theretofore presented his Petition to this Honourable Board, and did not examine any witnesses with respect thereto, by reason that he was not then prepared with such; but now feels assured that Memorialist will be able to adduce sufficient testimony to your Lordship and Honours to satisfy you of his appointment and continuation in office, and also of the yearly amount of his emoluments, and of the diminution in value thereof; and that such diminution took place in consequence of the Union.

That your Memorialist is now in the 68th year of his age, and has no means of providing for himself and family, consisting of a wife and eight children.

That your Memorialist is desirous of examining James Galbraith and William McKay, both of the City of Dublin, Esquires, to substantiate the fact contained in this Memorial.

May it therefore please your Lordship and Honours to take the premises into your consideration, and order your Memorialist such compensation for the loss of the fees and emoluments arising from said office, as your Memorialist shall be able to prove that he has sustained in consequence of the passing said Act, and of the Act of Union.

And your Memorialist will pray.

Pat. Halpenny.

17th December 1804.

James Galbraith, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That Deponent remembers the former Court of Exchequer Chamber for several years, and that Mr. Patrick Halpenny was Clerk of said Court, and still continues Clerk thereto, which said Court still exists, quo ad certain causes which were pending on the 1st of August 1800, and on which final judgment has not since been pronounced. Saith, that the former Court of Exchequer Chamber was abolished by the Act of Parliament creating the present Court of Exchequer Chamber, and which Act creating the present Court, Deponent entertains no doubt was enacted in contemplation of the Union. Deponent saith, that if said Act had not passed, the operation of the new Court of Exchequer Chamber would not have taken place under the Act of Union.

Saith, That Deponent has understood, and entertains no doubt, but that the new Court of Exchequer Chamber, so created by the said Act, was created to prevent Writs of Error from the Court of King's Bench in Ireland to the King in Parliament, which would have become necessary under the operation of the Act of Union; and and that this Deponent has had conversation and information on the subject, and to the effect aforesaid, with the late Lord Kilwarden, Lord Chief Justice of the Court of King's Bench in Ireland, and respecting the Petitioner's claim for compensation, to which the said Lord Kilwarden thought the Petitioner, Patrick Halpenny, was entitled; and that Lord Castlereagh had informed him that Mr. Halpenny was to be compensated to the amount of £. 150. per annum for life; but whether he meant that the compensation was to be granted by this Board or not, Deponent did not precisely understand.

Saith, That Lord Kilwarden informed Deponent, that it was his intention to have spoken to the Commissioners of this Board, to have represented to them his opinion of the justice of the Petitioner's claim to compensation for the loss of his said office, as this Deponent best recollects.

James Galbraith,

17th December 1804.

William M^r Kay, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That the signature to the paper writing now produced, signed "Lifford, C." is of the hand-writing of the late Lord Chancellor Lifford; and the name affixed, as witness to the execution thereof, is of the hand-writing of the late William Williams Hewett, Esquire, his son. Saith, that Mr. Patrick Halpenny hath continued, from the date of said appointment, to act as Clerk to the late Court of Exchequer Chamber, and that he had the full benefit of the emoluments arising from said office; and saith, that the emoluments thereof are now reduced by reason of the appointment of the new Court of Exchequer Chamber, to which Mr. Galbraith is Clerk.

And saith, he believes the said new Court was appointed in consequence of the arrangements which were at that time preparing for the Union; and in consequence of the Union, the Act for appointing the new Court of Exchequer Chamber was passed.

Saith, that if the Act for appointing the new Court of Exchequer Chamber had not been passed, he believes that the said Court would not have been appointed in consequence of the Act of Union, because it was not provided for in the said Act of Union.

Saith, he imagines that the new Court would not have been appointed but for the passing of the Union Bill.

W^m M^r Kay.

Monday, 31st December 1804.

William M^r Kay, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That the paper writing now delivered in, and signed by this Examinant, containing an Account of the profits arising to Patrick Halpenny upon proceedings in the late Court of Exchequer Chamber, for the four years therein mentioned, was compared by this Deponent with the book of the office-business of the said Court of Exchequer Chamber, and is a true extract from the business done in said Court, and entered in his book, and which entries this Deponent believes are true.

W^m M^r Kay.

An ACCOUNT of the Profits arising out of the proceedings in the Court of Exchequer Chamber in Ireland, to Patrick Halfpenny, Clerk of the Errors of said Court, in the year beginning first day of August 1796, and ending the first of August 1800.

No. 125.—GEORGE BONHAM.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of George Bonham, of the City of Dublin,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT Memorialist executed the Printing business of the House of Commons of Ireland upwards of twenty-five years for Abraham Bradley James King, and Abraham Bradley King, successively appointed Printers thereof.

That the stock of materials, &c. necessary to carry on this extensive business, cost upwards of £. 5,000.

That, from the extent of the business, Memorialist was necessarily obliged to confine himself altogether thereto, and to give up every other pursuit in his line.

That his large stock of materials, purchased solely for the use of the House of Commons, is rendered totally useless by the change of Legislature which has taken place, being inapplicable to general business, for a variety of reasons of a technical nature, as can be proved in any manner your Honours may be pleased to order.

That Memorialist does not presume to solicit compensation for the loss of business he had carried on for such number of years, and which he naturally looked upon as an establishment for his family, but for the immediate loss of materials purchased with the savings obtained by twenty-five years of uncommonly hard labour; materials inapplicable to general business, and adapted to the service of the House of Commons alone.

That Memorialist begs leave to represent to your Honours, that his is a peculiar case, standing entirely by itself, and which cannot be drawn into precedent, as no other person employed in the business of the House of Commons stands on the same footing, Memorialist claiming for the loss on materials, not for the loss of business; that this loss is not partial, but total; not gradual, but immediate, and solely caused by the change of Legislature; that unless compensated, Memorialist will be reduced from a state of comparative affluence to poverty, and a large family left destitute.

Under these considerations Memorialist ventures to appeal to your Honours, that you will grant him such compensation as his case shall seem to deserve.

68, Great Georges-street South,
October 10th 1801.

George Bonham.

No. 126.—MOSES BARNETT.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Moses Barnett, Gatekeeper to His Majesty's Ordnance-yard, Dublin Castle,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT in consequence of the Union, he has sustained a loss of his coats and candles, which have been allowed for many years, with other losses, to the amount of Thirty pounds pounds per annum; your Memorialist humbly prays such compensation as your Lordships may judge proper.

I hereby certify, That the Gatekeepers to the Ordnance-yard, Dublin Castle, were always allowed coals and candles from the year 1785 to the year 1799, the period which I acted in the service of His Majesty's Ordnance.

For Stokes,
late Clerk of the Works.

Dublin,
14th Nov. 1802.

Ordnance Gatekeepers heretofore had an allowance of coals and candles.

Robt Grant,
Clerk of the Works.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Moses Barnett, Gatekeeper to His Majesty's Ordnance-yard, Castle-yard, Dublin,

Humbly sheweth,

That Memorialist was appointed Gatekeeper to His Majesty's Ordnance upwards of seven years ago, and was regularly paid the sum of One pound four shillings and nine pence weekly.

That on account of the Union between Great Britain and Ireland, Memorialist has sustained a loss of Nine shillings per week, amounting to the yearly sum of Twenty-three pounds eight shillings, which can be proved before your Honours by Mr. Grant, Clerk of the Works, who always paid Memorialist the above sum.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly prays your Honours will grant unto Memorialist such compensation for his losses as to your Honours shall seem meet.

And Memorialist will ever pray.

Moses Barnett.

The 12th of April 1802.

Mr. Robert Grant, sworn.

Saith,

That Moses Barnett was paid by the Ordnance Establishment as it formerly stood, the sum of £. 1. 4s. 9d. per week, and has been paid by the new Board the sum of 15s. 9d. per week as Gatekeeper; he had not any other salary from the Board. Saith, Examinant paid him the allowance of £. 1. 4s. 9d. prior to the appointment of Admiral Pakenham to be Master-General; Examinant paid it to him for upwards of two years past; He succeeded Joseph Haughton, as Gatekeeper of the Carriage-yard gate, and he still retains said situation; he was appointed in the place of Joseph Haughton, who died in the service, on his being sent over to the Board from Admiral Pakenham; and Examinant believes that if the old Board had continued, his salary never would have been diminished, as he was paid regularly every week, and the pay lists were always signed and certified by the Surveyor-General.

Robt Grant.

29th November 1802.

Anthony Coghrow, sworn.

Was a Clerk in the Ordnance department; supplied coals to the Gatekeeper of the late Board of Ordnance; knows Moses Barnett, never supplied him with coals; he is still a gate-keeper.

Deponent paid Moses Barnett by order of the Surveyor-General, for a great coat; and hat, Two pounds sixteen shillings and ten pence halfpenny; only supplied him once

once therewith; it was in January one thousand eight hundred, and in February one thousand eight hundred and one; Deponent paid him £. 6. 5s. 1½ d. for his Christmas-box, by order of the Board, and never but that once.

Auth^r Cosgrave.

20th December 1802.

For the Stoker, sworn.

Saith,

That Moses Barnett was allowed coals and candles, and a hat and coat at Christmas; he was supplied with coals and candles by the orders issued by Deponent, there was not any particular limitation to the quantity he got; as Deponent believes, a candle per night, and coals for his fire.

For Stoker.

No. 127.—THOMAS LINDSAY, Esquire, BRYAN CONNOR, &c.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Thomas Lindsay, Esquire, late Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, and of Bryan Connor, late Deputy Usher, on behalf of themselves, and the seven Doorkeepers and four Messengers attending the House of Lords,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT in consequence of the Union of these Kingdoms, Memorialists are now deprived of fees from such Peers as have been created since the last session of the Irish Parliament, or that might have sat in the next session of the Irish Parliament.

That Memorialists humbly beg leave to state, that when they were before the Committee of the House of Lords (appointed to enquire into the amount of the grants and emoluments usually made for, and enjoyed by, the several Officers and other attendants of that House) they did humbly state the fees they would be entitled to by a certain number of Peers who were then expected to be, and have since been, created; and that the Committee informed Memorialists they would hereafter be compensated for them by Government; but until they were Gazetted, they could not include their fees in their Statement.

That, upon application having been made to the Right Honourable Lord Viscount Castlereagh, they were referred to this Honourable Court for redress.

They also beg leave to state, that their loss is not only the sum they would have received from the Peers on taking their seats, but that, by its not having been brought into their Statement, it has affected their annuities for life, which were made by taking the average of the three last years.

That Memorialists have annexed a Schedule of the Peers, and the fees they humbly conceive themselves entitled to, and which were admitted by the said Committee.

Memorialists therefore humbly submit their case to this Honourable Board:

Praying the compensation which they would have been entitled to if the said Lords Committee had not sat until after the said year of one thousand eight hundred had expired, which was one of the years of average, and would have been to the Gentleman Usher, £. 42. 12s. 6d. annuity, and a sum in hand of £. 114. 15s. 0d.; to the Deputy Usher, £. 21. 6s. 3d. annuity, and a sum in hand of £. 57. 7s. 6d.; Doorkeeper or Messenger, £. 8. 5s. 5d. annuity, and a sum in hand of £. 21. 3s. 11d.

No. 128.—ANTHONY COSGRAVE.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Anthony Cosgrave, late principal Messenger to the Honourable Board of Ordnance,

Sheweth,

THAT by the recommendation of the Right Honourable the Earl of Mornington (now Marquis of Wellesley) to his Excellency the Earl of Camden, your Memorialist was appointed to the office of principal Messenger to the Honourable Board of Ordnance, in which situation, Memorialist continued until shortly after the Act of Union, when said office was suppressed.

That the duty of your Memorialist's office was to supply all such stores of war as the Honourable Board of Ordnance should be pleased to order, which consisted of of such a vast variety of articles, that it is impossible for Memorialist here to set out, or to ascertain the exact amount of the allowances made to Memorialist by the different Manufacturers, &c. on the purchase of said articles, or stores of war.

That your Memorialist humbly begs leave to refer your Honours to the book of Orders, and also to the book of Disbursements for said supplies, as audited and settled by the Surveyor General for the time being, and approving thereof, as appears by his signatures thereto.

That in some short time after the Act of Union, your Memorialist had the honour of presenting a Memorial to your Honours to obtain compensation, but your Memorialist had not at that time the necessary evidence fully to establish his claim, in consequence of the recent deaths of Colonel Uniacke and Mr. Hobson; and also of the absence from Ireland of Sir George Shee, Baronet.

Therefore, your Memorialist humbly requests your Honours will be pleased to grant him a rehearing, when he trusts he will be able to lay such additional Evidence before your Honours as will entitle him to further compensation.

And your Memorialist will ever pray.

The Duty of the Messenger of the Office of Our Ordnance.

To attend duly and carefully on office-days upon the Master General of Our Ordnance, and principal Officers at the Board of Our Office, and to observe and follow all such Orders and Directions as he shall receive from Our said Master General, or the principal Officers; and to carry all such Letters as shall be written on post-days, or other days, for Our Service, and carefully see the same delivered at the Post-office, or otherwise, as they shall be directed, paying the usual postage for the same, and bring it to account.

To carry out all warrants signed by the principal Officers of Our Ordnance for stores and provisions of war, to such Artificers as the same shall be directed to, to come to the Board, and contract for the same at the best and reasonable rates for Our Service, as the occasion of Our affairs in that Our Office shall require; and, when the same are contracted for, he shall frequently call upon those Artificers to hasten and dispatch the said provisions into our stores, as the emergency of Our Service shall require.

To give summons to all persons whatsoever that he shall have directions from time to time, from the Master General of Our Ordnance, or the principal Officers of the same, to attend the Board, and to execute all warrants that he shall receive from time to time, signed by Our said Master General of the Ordnance, or the principal Officers, for taking any persons into custody for misdemeanors or otherwise, and so keep them in safe custody until such time as they have given satisfaction, and paid their fees, and shall be discharged from that detainment by the order of Our said Master General of the Ordnance, or principal Officers of the same, and not otherwise.

To inform himself, from time to time, of the market price of all such stores and provisions of war as there shall be occasion for recruiting and furnishing Our Stores, and to give in the lowest rates thereof to the principal Officers of Our Ordnance, to the end they may the better contract for the same, at the reasonable rates, for Our Service.

By His Majesty's Command.

Thomas Dickinson, sworn.

Saith, The Messenger to the Board of Ordnance supplied the Board, as Messenger, with certain small stores of war, on receiving instructions and orders specially; it was a part of his duty to do so, and it was considered a part of the profits of his office that he had the supplying thereof.

Saith,

Saith, That from April 1797, to the 30th September 1801, he supplied the Board therewith.—Saith, That the Book now produced by Deponent, contains an Account of the different Stores supplied by him during said term :—Examinant doth not know of any profits he had thereon :—Saith, he frequently got orders from the Board to provide sundry small articles, at certain prices, which he did accordingly supply :—Saith, he also had directions to buy certain articles, and he then produced the Bills for same, which were allowed him in his monthly Bills :—Saith, that by order of the Board, he supplied certain articles at prices fixed on, and approved of by the Board ; and if Mr. Colgrave could get them at a lower price, the profit thereon was his, and he had the advantage thereof, as Deponent believes.—Saith, that those prices were the lowest prices for which the like articles could be had in Dublin.

John Armit, Esquire, sworn.

Saith,

That Anthony Colgrave succeeded Mr. Thornton, as Ordnance Messenger :—Saith, that it had been the usage of the Board, that the Messenger should supply it with small articles :—Saith, Examinant always understood that the Messenger had some profit, as a reward for the trouble he might have in procuring same ; but what the amount of that profit might be was not known by Deponent :—Saith, the Messenger to the Board had a Fee on Powder-warrants, of sixpence each :—Saith, that he believes same was under the King's order :—Saith, that all the Messengers of the Board were allowed a suit of cloaths annually ; the under Messengers got uniform suits, but the head Messenger got what sort he pleased.

On the Claim of Anthony Colgrave.

Sir George Sider, Baronet, sworn.

Saith,

That Anthony Colgrave's Accounts always appeared to Examinant to be exceedingly moderate and reasonable, and Examinant found that his prices were at a lower rate than those formerly charged by his predecessor :—Saith, Examinant thinks it was owing to the particular care of the Messenger, that the prices were lower than those charged by his predecessor :—Saith, Examinant found Mr. Colgrave was of the most essential use to the Board, and a most useful active Officer :—Saith, that Mr. Colgrave might have had advantages in the purchases made by him, but they were not tolerated advantages :—Saith, Examinant wished Mr. Colgrave to have the enjoyment of every advantage to which he was entitled.

George Sider.

Courty of the City } John Dickson and William Conolly, both of the said that, on averaging one year with another of the three last years of said period, that is to say, from September 1798 to September 1801, the said Colgrave's profits on such supplies as aforesaid, amounted to the sum of Four hundred pounds a year and upwards.

On the Claim of Anthony Colgrave.

Mr. John Dickson, sworn.

Saith,

That Deponent found, upon examining the books and papers of Mr. Anthony Colgrave, that he had been a considerable loser by the Union;—saith, that upon an average of three years before the Union, that the losses sustained by Mr. Colgrave, amount annually to a sum considerably exceeding Four hundred pounds per annum. Saith, that Deponent is not in any trade, but is a Clerk in the Ordnance;—saith, that the profits arising to Mr. Colgrave were upon the purchase of Bridles, Saddles, Bedding, House Furniture, Oils, and there might be two hundred other different articles;—saith, Deponent is not a judge of the prices of the said articles;—saith, that Deponent compared the Tradesmen's Bills with the prices allowed to Mr. Colgrave, and that the profits arose to Mr. Colgrave by the difference between the prices he paid and the prices he charged, and was allowed, for said articles;—saith, that Deponent cannot ascertain what the annual amount of the money was which was allowed to him to lay out in the purchase of such articles. In ascertaining the amount of Mr. Colgrave's profits, Deponent only took an account of the profits upon the articles supplied, being the difference between the sum charged by him, and allowed by the Board, and the sum paid to the Tradesmen for such articles; and Deponent did not take any note of the annual amount of the sums allowed him by the Board.

William Cusally, sworn.

Saith,

That Deponent is a Clerk in the Ordnance;—saith, he hath read the foregoing affidavit of John Dickson, and saith, that this Deponent compared the several Accounts referred to in said affidavit, and the foregoing is true in every respect.

John Dickson.

Mr. John Dickson, sworn, and examined.

7th January 1805.

Saith,

That the paper writing now produced, signed by this Examinant, was compared by him with the books of Mr. Anthony Colgrave, and the same contains a true extract therefrom of the payments made to him in the period therein stated, and of the money he was advanced; out of which, his Expenditures for account of the Ordnance were made, and for which he charges; that his profits were at the rate, rate of Four hundred pounds per annum. Saith, the list contains the total amount of each month's charge, in which is included the sums paid by him for account of the Ordnance, and by their order, as well as the amount of his charges for goods and articles supplied.

Saith, it appears by his books that, at the commencement of the month, there was a sum of money advanced to him, to the credit of the Ordnance, and that at the end of the month there was a balance due to him, after allowing the sums advanced and expended by him, in which balance was included Mr. Colgrave's profits, but which profits were not distinguished.

John Dickson,

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of Anthony Colgrave, late principal Messenger of His Majesty's late Board of Ordnance in Ireland,

Sheweth,

That your Memorialist having a wife and family at the time your Memorialist's Patron, the present Marquis of Wellesley, was appointed Governor General of India, he was on account of his said family induced to relinquish a very lucrative engagement to go out to India under his said Patron, whereupon your Memorialist was, through the influence of his Lordship, appointed by Government to the said office of principal Messenger to the said late Board of Ordnance.

That your Memorialist humbly begs leave to state to your Honours, that it was the intention of the Marquis of Wellesley, when he had your Memorialist appointed to said office, to make a permanent provision for your Memorialist for life; but in consequence of the Act of Union, your Memorialist has been deprived of that support which his Patron kindly intended to make for him and his family.

That the Imprest Money received by your Memorialist from said Board of Ordnance was solely for the purpose of paying all small Bills under £. 10; such as postage of letters, &c. &c. for said department, and not for the purpose of paying or discharging Manufacturers Bills who contracted with your Memorialist to supply such stores of war as should be ordered by said Board from time to time.

That your Memorialist humbly begs leave briefly to explain the precise nature and duty of his said office:

That your Memorialist, by virtue of his warrant appointing him to said office, (to which he begs leave to refer) is specifically pointed out therein as the person to supply all small stores of war for the use of said Board, therefore, when your Memorialist received an order from said Board to supply such stores of war, it was your Memorialist's duty immediately to repair to the respective Manufacturers thereof, and, on his own credit, solely to contract with them for said articles at the lowest and fairest price of the day, which he constantly did, as appears by the evidence of Sir George Shee, Baronet.

That your Memorialist uniformly, once a month, furnished his account to said Board, of all such stores as he supplied within that period, which were audited and passed by the Surveyor General of said Board, as appears by his signatures thereto in the books kept by your Memorialist, and to which he begs leave to refer.

Therefore, your Memorialist humbly hopes your Honours will be pleased to take his Case into your consideration, and that you will be graciously pleased to allow him such reasonable compensation for the loss he has sustained, by being deprived (by the Act of Union as aforesaid) of the advantages arising to him from supplying such stores of war as aforesaid, for the use of His Majesty's said late Board of Ordnance, and which is already in evidence before your Honours.

And your Memorialist will ever pray.

NO. 129.—PETER DOWLING.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Peter Dowling, of Nassau-street, Dublin,

Most humbly sheweth,

THAT Memorialist had been employed during the last fifteen years in making the patent lamps and globes used in and about the House of Lords, the House of Commons, and the avenues and passages leading thereto; and in providing the same with oil, cotton, workmen, &c.

That during that entire period, Memorialist and his workmen paid the most particular attention to all the different branches of this business, so much so, that there never was the smallest neglect, complaints, or cause of complaint, at any hour, early or late; and for the punctual and proper execution of the said business in all its various branches, Memorialist, at considerable expence, erected cisterns, press, dies, and machinery adapted thereto.

That, from the opinion that this business would be continued to Memorialist as long as he lived, and considering it an object of importance, Memorialist directed his sole attention thereto, to the neglect of the other branches of his trade, confining himself chiefly to the patent lamp and oil business.

That Memorialist finds it now too late in life to commence a new establishment in any other line of business; and, as the measure of Union must put a total stop to his present one, he most humbly prays that your Honours may grant him some compensation in lieu of the reasonable profits of his said business.

And your Memorialist will ever pray.

No. 131.—LAURENCE DURACK.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Laurence Durack, late Storekeeper to the Board of Ordnance for the City of Limerick,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT Memorialist was appointed to the office of Storekeeper on the 11th day of March 1797, by the Earl of Drogheda, by warrant, at a salary of £. 70. per annum, and continued said office until lately, when the Establishment was suppressed.

And your Memorialist will pray.

Dublin,
10th Nov. 1801.

Law^r Durack,
No. 2, Grafton-Street,

Dublin, 26th December 1801.

Gentlemen,

I had the honour of receiving both your Letters of the 21st and 24th, the first advising me that you had referred my conduct to the Master General and Board for their determination, on the information of Captain O'Brien, of my quitting my duty on pretended leave of absence from Sir James Duff; and your other letter, ordering me forthwith to proceed to Limerick, to take charge of the Stores.

I beg leave to acquaint you, in answer to them, that I did not quit my duty on pretended leave of absence, as represented to you by Captain O'Brien. I came to Dublin by leave of absence from Lieutenant General Sir James Duff, to settle an account due of the late Board of Ordnance (under whose warrant I act) to Edy Lacy, of Limerick, Ship-chandler, for sundry articles supplied for the Brigade of Artillery, &c. &c. at Limerick, in the years 1797, 1798, and 1799; and for the amount of said accounts—Mr. Lacy has now an execution against my property at Limerick. I am perfectly satisfied that General Sir James Duff's leave of absence is sufficient authority for me to come here to settle that account, and receive the amount of it from the late Board of Ordnance; and until such time as I receive the amount of the accounts, and costs to discharge the execution, I cannot return to Limerick.

I request you will be pleased to grant me an Imprest for £. 50. for account of my advance for the Artillery at Limerick for this quarter.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

Your most humble obedient Servant,

Respective Officers, &c. &c.

L. D.

Dublin, 16th January 1802.

My Lords and Gentlemen.

I had the honour of receiving R. H. Crew's, Esquire, letter of the 5th July, signifying to me your Honours commands to suspend me from my situation as Ordnance Storekeeper at Limerick, for having absented myself from my duty without leave from your Honours, or the respective Officers in Dublin, and most humbly submit to your Honours determination. Allow me to lay before your Honours the papers sent herewith (Nos. 1, 2, 3,) and the situation I am in at present; and when you take the same into consideration, I am sure you have too much humanity to place me in a worse situation, after my five years servitude during Invasion and Rebellion, than every other Officer who has lost his situation on this Establishment, but went out on compensation, which I will get on your Honours being pleased to appoint a Storekeeper for Limerick, and advising me you have done so, without any other remark. I have every hopes you will be induced to do this act of humanity; on your being satisfied that my statement is true, which I will prove by affidavit, or in any other manner your Honours are pleased to point out, otherwise I most humbly submit to your determination, whatever it may be. As Lieutenant General Sir James Duff is, I hope, now safe arrived in London, I refer you to him for my general line of conduct during the five years I served as Storekeeper, when he commanded. I came to Dublin in consequence of the leave of absence (No. 1.) and on my arrival in Dublin to settle the account (No. 2.) due to Mr. Lacy, I found that Mr. Lacy had got the execution against my person, and not against my property, for the amount of his accounts and costs, and if I went to Limerick he would have me arrested for it. Since I came to Dublin I got from the Board the debenture (No. 3.) part of Mr. Lacy's account; but Mr. Burgh, the Treasurer, cannot pay it, not having any money on hands, nor can he say when he will. Under all these circumstances, I hope your Honours will not consider my conduct as blameable, as at first appeared to you to be.

I am, my Lords and Gentlemen,

Yours, &c. &c.

Said Mr. Dickinson examined.

Saith, That Mr. Laurence Durack, late Storekeeper at Limerick, was allowed by the Board of Ordnance four bushels of coals, at 2 s. 1 d. per bushel, and two pounds of candles, at 1 s. per pound, weekly; he was allowed the said quantity if they cost less; he should only charge what they cost, but that was the usual price of same; four bushels of coals in each barrel, and eight barrels to every ton. It was a constant allowance for several years past.

30th August 1802.

Mr. James Reilly, sworn.

Saith, Examinant is a Clerk under the respective Officers of the present Board of Ordnance in the Clerk of the Surveys office. Saith, that Mr. Laurence Durack did formerly supply coals and candles for the use of the Brigade of Artillery quartered at Limerick. That the respective Officers have appointed Laurence Kidgion to supply same by contract, in consequence of public advertisement, to the lowest offer. That Mr. Durack, from the year 1798, being the time Deponent came into office, supplied same for the old Board, and for the new Board up to the 31st of December last. Mr. Durack did not deliver in any proposal in consequence of said advertisement; advertisement; it would not have been agreed to if he had. The present Board do not suffer Storekeepers to contract for coals and candles. The present Contractor supplied Mr. Durack, whilst Storekeeper, with coals and candles, and same were disallowed by the present Board in his account. J. Reilly.

4th October 1802.

Mr. Patrick Maher, sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Laurence Durack was Storekeeper at Limerick, and had for five years the supplying of the Brigade of Artillery quartered there with coals and candles, and that the supplying thereof has been taken from him, as Deponent heard, by the respective Officers, and that Mr. Kidgall does now supply them, and has done so from some short time after September 1801. Saith, he believes Mr. Durack lost his employment in consequence of his declining to act under, or obey the orders of the respective Officers. Deponent applied for the employment of Storekeeper by a friend, who was informed that it had been promised to Mr. Belfon, and said Mr. Belfon does now act in that employment. Believes, that if the old Board of Ordnance had continued, Mr. Durack would have also continued to make the supplies, because Deponent does not think there would have been any alteration from the usual practice; so long as Mr. Durack was employed under the old Board, he supplied the coals and candles. Has heard there is money due to Mr. Durack by the old Board. His property at Limerick was advertised for sale, for debts contracted by him for the old Board of Ordnance. Has heard, and believes, said debts have not been since discharged by said Board.

Patrick Maher.

Mr. Durack, examined.

Saith, It was a part of the duty of his office, as Storekeeper to the original Board of Ordnance, to supply the Artillery stationed at Limerick with bedding, coals, and candles, and to supply the gun-boats, and was also allowed coals and candles for his own use. That, on the appointment of the new Board, they discontinued Examinant from the supplying of coals and candles, and from getting same for his own use; and appointed a Contractor there to furnish the coals and candles. That from the dissolution of the old Artillery, Examinant received his salary, at the rate of £. 70. a year, under the new Board, but was not allowed coals and candles. Examinant wrote to the Master General of Ordnance in England upon the 10th day of November last (being the day upon which he lodged his Memorial to this Board) that he did not wish to remain longer under the new Board, and desired him to appoint a person in his place. Examinant succeeded Major Burton Bindon in the office of Storekeeper.

Saith, That on Examinant's arrival in Dublin last November, the respective Officers conceiving Examinant should have applied to them for leave of absence, wrote to him, desiring him to go back to Limerick, and take charge of the Stores. Examinant wrote to them, that he had come to Dublin on the leave of absence of General Duff; that he conceived same fully sufficient to authorize him in doing so; that he had come up to town to settle his accounts with the Board of Ordnance, under whose appointment he acted; that he (Examinant) held no appointment from them, the present Board; and that he settled with the old Board. He would not go back, as an execution was against his person in Limerick for debts contracted for the old Board, whereupon they suspended Examinant at said time. Examinant wrote to the Master General in England, requesting him to appoint a person in his place.

Examinant was afterwards, in the month of December last, restored by the present Board of Ordnance. Len. Durack.

The Memorial of William Bower, Deputy Supervisor and Corrector of His Majesty's Printing Press,

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist has held said employment upwards of twenty years under Henry Meredith, Esquire, the late Supervisor and Corrector, and under the present one, Charles Berkeley, Esquire.

That the duty of Memorialist was to compare all Acts of Parliament, previous to their being printed, with the original Roll remaining on record in the House of Lords. Memorialist's duty also was, and still is, to compare all Proclamations in like manner, previous to their being published in the Gazette, for which respective laborious duties Memorialist was paid a salary of £. 40. a year.

That, by the Union, the correcting the Acts of Parliament has ceased, and the Principal, in consequence thereof, has reduced Memorialist's salary to Ten pounds a year, for which he is to execute the other duties of said office.

Memorialist therefore, in consequence of the Union, suffers an annual loss of Thirty pounds net, which he humbly hopes your Honours will take into your most serious consideration, and order that he may be granted said sum of Thirty pounds net yearly during his life, humbly relying that he comes within the meaning of the Act of Parliament for Compensation, he being, to all intents and purposes, a sufferer by the Union to the annual amount before-mentioned.

And Memorialist, as in duty bound, will every pray.

Whereas his Excellency John Earl of Westmoreland, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland, has, by his warrant bearing date the third day of April one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three, constituted and appointed me, Charles Berkeley, Esquire, Supervisor and Corrector of His Majesty's Printing Press in the kingdom of Ireland, To have and to hold the same during His Majesty's pleasure, as by entry of said appointment in the office of His Majesty's Auditor-General may more at large appear: And whereas I the said Charles Berkeley, reposing special confidence in the ability and integrity of William Bower, of the City of Dublin, Gentleman, do hereby nominate, constitute, and appoint him my Deputy in the said office, during my will and pleasure, giving and granting unto him the same powers and authorities which I, by virtue of said office, enjoy; hereby ratifying, allowing, and confirming what my said Deputy shall legally do in and about the premises by virtue hereof. And also, I do hereby authorize him, for me and in my behalf, to receive my salary as the same shall become payable; he duly to account to me for the same. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and affixed my seal, this twenty-fifth day of March one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four.

CASE of Mr. Bower.

The Superintendent of the King's Press has a salary of £. 200. per annum, and no other emolument whatsoever. Part of his duty before the Union was to compare the Acts of Parliament with the Parliamentary Roll, when printed; the Superintendent allowed Mr. Bower, as his Deputy, before the Union, for comparing these Acts of Parliament, and also all Proclamations that were to be printed, £. 40. per annum; as, since the Union, there are no Irish Acts of Parliament to compare, Mr. Berkeley, the present Superintendent, allows Mr. Bower now only Ten pounds per annum for comparing the Proclamations. Mr. Bower has therefore lost £. 30. per annum by the Union; and prays compensation as a public Officer whose emoluments are diminished by the Union.

No. 134.—JOSEPH DUFF.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

Claim of Joseph Duff, late second or Assistant Clerk in the Clerk of Deliveries Office of Ordnance, in Ireland.

Your Claimant begs to state to your Honours, that he had been several times appointed to the care and conduct of very valuable Stores, so far back as the years one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five and ninety-six, such as gunpowder, ammunition, arms, &c.; all such commands were executed by your Claimant, to the full satisfaction of the late Board of Ordnance.

Your Claimant also begs to state particularly, that he was appointed as second or Assistant Clerk in the office of the Clerk of Deliveries of Ordnance, in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety-seven, at a yearly salary of One hundred and twenty-five pounds twelve shillings and sixpence, and continued therein without any official complaint whatever, with loyalty, fidelity, and the most constant attention; within the space of which time, your Claimant had often been selected to particular trusts reposed in him, and discharged his duty to the entire satisfaction of the late Board of Ordnance; and during said time, the Act of Union with Great Britain and Ireland took place.

Your Claimant humbly begs to state to your Honours, that on the twenty-fifth day of January one thousand eight hundred and one, your Claimant was put out of said office by the said Clerk of Deliveries (after the Act of Union had taken effect) and that Compensation should be made, and at such time as your Claimant humbly submits he was fully entitled to his compensation as by the Act of Union on a trifling excuse, without any official misconduct whatever; but as your Claimant verily believes, in order to establish another person, whom the said Clerk of Deliveries wished more particularly to serve, and to reap the benefit of your Claimant's long services and situation; but your Honours were pleased, on said Claimant's Memorial or Claim being presented to your Honours, totally to disallow it, although the utmost endeavours (as your Claimant has heard, and does believe) were used to procure the said compensation for the said Claimant.

Your Claimant humbly begs also to state, that he would have lodged his said claim before your Honours long before this period, but particular circumstances (of money affairs) obliged your Claimant to proceed to the Continent, from whence he has but very lately returned; humbly trusts the delay may be of no detriment to your Claimant, inasmuch as it was absolute necessity that required and caused your Claimant's absence.

Your Claimant therefore humbly prays your Honours to take your Claimant's case into consideration, and grant him such compensation as your Honours may think just and right.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

CLAIM of Joseph Duff, late second or Assistant Clerk in the Clerk of Deliveries Office of Ordnance, in Ireland.

Your Claimant humbly begs to state to your Honours, that he had been oftentimes appointed to the care and conduct of very valuable stores of war, (so far back as the years one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five, and one thousand seven hundred and ninety-six) such as gunpowder, arms, ammunition, &c.; all such commands were duly and faithfully executed by your Claimant, to the full satisfaction of the late Honourable Board of Ordnance.

Your Claimant begs particularly to state to your Honours, that he was appointed second or Assistant Clerk in the office of the Clerk of Deliveries of Ordnance, in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety-seven, at a yearly salary of Eighty pounds, and in the year following, with an additional salary of Forty-five pounds twelve shillings and sixpence, making in the whole the sum of One hundred and twenty-five pounds twelve shillings and sixpence annually, and continued therein without any official complaint whatsoever, with loyalty, fidelity, and the most constant attention; within the space of said time, your Claimant had often been selected to many particular trusts reposed in him, and discharged his duty to the entire satisfaction of the late Honourable Board of Ordnance; and during said time, the Act of Union with Great Britain and Ireland took place.

Your Claimant humbly begs to state to your Honours, that, on or about the twenty-fifth day of January one thousand eight hundred and one, your Claimant was put out of said office by Robert Wynne, Esquire, late Clerk of Deliveries, on a matter merely of a private nature, no official complaint of any nature whatever, ever being made against your Claimant (after the Act of Union had taken effect, and that compensation should be made, and at such time as your Claimant humbly submits to your Honours he was justly entitled to his compensation, as by the Act of Union) the department of the Ordnance having been discontinued by the Act of Union, where your Claimant might have hoped to have got some reward for his diligence, fidelity, and attention.

Your Claimant begs leave also to state to your Honours, he humbly hopes fully to prove to your Honours satisfaction, that he is entitled to your Honours consideration, and to the benefit of the said Act of Union, inasmuch, as your Claimant was in possession of his said employment, and continued therein to the time of the Act of Union, for several years before the Act took place, and for a considerable time after the Act had actually taken effect; and that your Claimant had no official complaint of any kind whatever made against your Claimant, but, on the contrary, had the honour of the approbation of the whole Honourable Board for activity, fidelity, and attention.

Your Claimant humbly begs leave also to state, that he would have lodged his said Claim before your Honours long before this period, but particular circumstances (of money affairs) obliged your Claimant to proceed to the Continent, from whence he has but very lately returned; therefore, humbly trusts the delay may be no detriment to your Claimant, inasmuch as it was absolute necessity that required and caused your Claimant's absence.

Your Claimant therefore humbly prays your Honours to take your Claimant's Case into consideration, and grant him such compensation as your Honours may think just and right.

Mr. Bomford succeeded Mr. Duff; some Officers of the Garrison made a complaint to the Board, that Mr. Duff had ill-conducted himself to them at a gambling-house, upon which Examinant informed him, that he could not consider himself safe in keeping a person who frequented such places, and therefore did remove him; he was in every respect a very active diligent good Officer whilst in his office.—The Board and Master General were inclined to pass it over, if Examinant would likewise; but Examinant being personally accountable for him, did remove him.

No. 135.—MICHAEL DOYLE.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Michael Doyle, Cooper,

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist, from having a general knowledge of his business, a very good character, and being highly recommended, he was in consequence thereof appointed Cooper to His Majesty's Irish Board of Ordnance, on the 6th of April 1797, per warrant signed by Marquis Drogheda.

That Memorialist, in order to prevent delay in procuring materials, took twenty-six acres of land planted with Sullys at Monastereven, at the yearly rent of £. 100. (begs leave to refer to lease); and it being thought necessary by the members of the Board that Memorialist should live contiguous to the Ordnance for the purpose of expediting His Majesty's Service, Memorialist took a house in Crampton-court at the yearly rent of £. 40. (as appears by lease) as also a yard adjacent thereto, at £. 20. per annum.

That, prior to Memorialist being appointed Cooper to His Majesty's Ordnance, he carried on a profitable and extensive trade in town and country, but in consequence of Memorialist's having dedicated the whole of his time and attention in executing the orders of the Honourable Board of Ordnance, his customers were obliged to employ other coopers to execute their orders.

That Memorialist humbly begs leave to submit to your Honourable Board the following Statement of the sums of money which he received from the Irish Board of Ordnance, in the annexed years; viz,

In the year 1798	577	0	2

Received from Alderman Reed, for ball-kegs supplied him for use of the Ordnance,	67	4	4

That, in consequence of the Union, the Irish Board of Ordnance has been dissolved, thereby annulling Memorialist's warrant of appointment.

Memorialist therefore most humbly prays, that your Honourable Board will be graciously pleased to take his Case into your consideration, and grant him such compensation as to your Honours justice and humanity may seem meet, on account of the heavy rent he lies under of £. 160. per annum for the house, yard, and plantation of Sullys, that Memorialist took for the purpose of dispatching His Majesty's business, as also for the business he has lost by said Union, he having a large family to support.

Was first Clerk in the Storekeepers-office under the late Board of Ordnance; saith, he knew Michael Doyle to have been employed under the warrant as Cooper to said Board in the year 1797, and to have continued as such until the dissolution of said Board; he had not any salary, he was paid his bills for the work done for said Board, and was not on the Establishment; in the time of war, and hurry of business in the Ordnance, he had a great deal of work to do; cannot say whether he was thereby prevented from following any other branch of his business in working for the Public.

Saith, Deponent extracted the Account now delivered in, and signed by Deponent, from the books of the late Board of Ordnance, and that same is a true extract from said books of the gross sums paid to Michael Doyle, Cooper, in the four years therein mentioned; saith, Deponent entered all said Doyle's bills in the books of the Board kept by Deponent.

No. 136.—The Doorkeepers and Messengers of the House of Lords in Ireland.

The CASE of the Doorkeepers and Messengers of the House of Lords, Ireland, Claimants of Compensation :

THAT the Claimants, with the produce of their industry, purchased their employments, which employments ceased by the Act of Union, and for the loss whereof they now seek a balance of compensation promised them by a Committee of the said House of Lords, his Grace the Archbishop of Cashell (now Archbishop of Dublin) then in the chair, which promise is hereinafter more fully set forth.

In the year 1800 a Committee of the House of Lords was appointed to enquire into the amount of the grants and emoluments belonging to the Officers and Attendants of that House, and the Claimants were ordered to send in their Statements for compensation to said Committee.

That owing to public business limiting said Committee in point of time, their Lordships were pleased to determine on reporting in the month of July in said year, upon an average of grants for that year, and emoluments which had been received in part of that year, and the entire of the two preceding years; but their Lordships refused to include in their Report the average of fees expected to be (and which afterwards were) payable between the period of reporting in the said month of July and the remainder of that year; at same time assuring the different persons, who stated the loss they would sustain thereby, that they would get compensation for the same from the Commissioners who were to be appointed by Government, under the Act of Parliament for granting allowances to Bodies Corporate, and Individuals; and accordingly, when the said last-mentioned year was expired, application was made to the then Lord Lieutenant's Secretary, who declared the claims on such account to be fair, and referred the Claimants to said Commissioners.

The compensation they have been awarded by said Report is deficient considerably more than the sum they now seek; but understanding that proofs would be required, which, from the unexpectedness of the Act of Union, they are not provided with, they therefore only claim what can be fully proved to be their right.

REASONS in support of said Claims.

It was the intention of Government and the Legislature that each person in office should receive compensation for his salary and emoluments ceasing or diminishing in value, in consequence of the Union.

Where an average is to be struck upon the amount of emoluments of a certain number of years, the entire of the amount of the emoluments of each of such years ought to be consolidated, in order to ascertain the fair average thereof.

Public business having caused the Report within mentioned of to be made before the entire amount of the emoluments of the year one thousand eight hundred could be proved, the third part of the amount of such remaining emoluments (when same could be proved) became the undoubted right of each individual entitled to such average, as said year was one of the three years on the emoluments of which the average was to be struck, and as the emoluments of the other two years were very inconsiderable.

If the Report of the Lords Committees could have been kept open until the expiration of the said year 1800, the sum the Lords reported, and the sum now claimed, would most certainly have been included in said Report; or, if the matter had not been proceeded upon by their Lordships, the two sums last alluded to could not (the allowing same being only an act of justice) be refused to be adjudicated by the said Commissioners to each Claimant, and consequently the Committee and Commissioners were equally competent and bound to allow the entire of each claim, when duly proved; and public business only affording time to some Claimants to prove part of their claims before the Committee, such Claimants ought, it is humbly presumed, be allowed the remainder of their claims, when they they can clearly prove the same, no part whereof is for compensation on any additional or new fee, but merely the remainder of the fees, which would have been allowed by the Committee if they could have been proved at that time in the satisfactory manner in which they can now.

That in justice, the entire of the emoluments of said year ought to be included in the average, is further proved by the Lords including fees which were received between the time of the Officers sending in their Statements to their Lordships and the time of making the Report.

It was not at the election of the Claimants whether to apply to the Committee or the Commissioners in the first instance, and consequently they ought not to suffer by being obliged to apply to the Committee, who (by the very Act on account of which compensation was to be granted) was prevented sitting till the amount of such compensation could be fully proved; and as it was determined to allow compensation on an average of emoluments of three years, but that owing to the time of making the Report, as before explained, the average was struck on the emoluments of two years and an half instead of three years, it is evident, that, to obtain compensation for the third part of the remaining half year's emoluments, as an equity to each Claimant, it ought to be only necessary to prove the amount thereof.

No. 137.—PATRICK MAHER.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Patrick Maher, late Clerk of the Ordnance Stores at Tarbert,

Most humbly represents,

THAT your Memorialist has been employed in confidential situations under the late Irish Board of Ordnance for upwards of 14 years; and in April 1798, on occasion of the indisposition of Charles Coote Bindon, then Storekeeper at Tarbert, he was appointed by that Board as acting Storekeeper; and on the decease of said Bindon, which happened the March following, he succeeded him as principal Storekeeper there, and his warrant was made out by the Board for that purpose at a salary of Five shillings per day, at which salary he was continued until, by the Act of Union, the Board was dissolved, and your Memorialist has not since that period received either place, salary, or any other allowance whatsoever.

Your Memorialist therefore begs you will take his case into your consideration, and grant him such compensation as to your Honours clemency and justice may seem meet.

And your Memorialist, as in duty bound, will ever pray,
Patrick Maher.

13th February 1804.

Mr. William Mullin, sworn.

Saith, That Deponent was second Clerk to the Clerk of the Ordnance. Saith, that Deponent recollects to have made out a written warrant of appointment of Mr. Maher to the place of Storekeeper at Tarbert, to the best of Deponent's recollection.

Saith, The salary allowed him was Five shillings per day, as Deponent believes.

Saith, It was usual for Storekeepers not to take out any warrant. Mr. Noble, at Enniskillen, was Storekeeper for several years, and never took his warrant out. Believes Mr. Maher's warrant, although made out, never was signed, nor entered in the books, because no entry ever was made in the books until the warrant was signed; the order to make out said warrant came to Deponent through Mr. Boulger. Believes it came to him from Admiral Pakenham. Cannot recollect whether it was after or before the year 1801 that Deponent made out said warrant. Believes it was long before the Union took place; cannot well recollect the month. Deponent does not know, and cannot tell, whether the Storekeepers who had not warrants were considered so permanent as those who had: only knew of Mr. Noble's case.

W^m Mullin.

13th February 1804.

Thomas Dickinso, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Maher was principal Storekeeper at Tarbert, and continued so for some time; he was not Storekeeper on the 1st January 1801; but was considered as the acting man. Saith, that John L. Crawford was appointed Storekeeper at Tarbert. Saith, that some short time after Mr. Maher's appointment by Admiral Pakenham, Lord Carhampton, who was then Master-General, and Admiral Pakenham, had some difference on the subject, as Deponent heard and believes; and Mr. Crawford was appointed Storekeeper, and had the pay on the Establishment by Mr. Maher; had the pay of Five shillings per day on the contingencies; he did all the duty as Storekeeper, as far as came to Deponent's knowledge from the Accounts, though Mr. Crawford had been appointed. Saith, that Mr. Maher was called Clerk of the Stores there, and, to the best of Deponent's recollection, was paid on to the time of the Union. Deponent got instructions from the Board of Ordnance, and sent a circular Letter (among others) to Mr. Maher, to furnish his Accounts to the 30th September 1801. Mr. Maher had an allowance, when upon duty distant from Tarbert, of Ten shillings per day, and One shilling a mile travelling expences. It was allowed him when necessary that he should go to Limerick to provide Stores, and the said allowance always was in addition to his regular pay. Believes Mr. Maher might have been continued were it not for the Union; knows nothing to the contrary. Saith, from the time of the death of Mr. Bindon to the time of the appointment, by Lord Carhampton, of Mr. Crawford, that Mr. Maher was principal Storekeeper at Tarbert, and afterwards as acting person there. Cannot take upon himself to say whether Mr. Maher would, or would not, have been continued in the event of Peace.

Saith, he was continued during the Peace, and furnished his Accounts to the thirtieth of September, which was time of Peace.

Thomas Dickinso.

13th February 1804.

Mrs. Sarah Bindon, sworn.

Saith, Deponent is widow of the late Charles Coote Bindon, who was Storekeeper at Tarbert.

Saith, that Mr. Maher was appointed by the Board of Ordnance acting Storekeeper at Tarbert during his indisposition, in one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, and continued so until his death, which happened on the eleventh of February 1799; and he immediately succeeded Mr. Bindon in that office.

Saith, Deponent knew Captain Jackson, of the Artillery, who waited on Deponent to inform her that Mr. Maher had been appointed Storekeeper, and gave directions that the keys and all the Stores should be forthwith handed over to Mr. Maher, and accordingly they were handed over to him; he was about ten months acting Storekeeper before he was appointed full Storekeeper, and he continued Storekeeper in said office down to the dissolution of the Ordnance Board, as Deponent believes, she having been in Dublin at the time Mr. Maher, whilst only acting Storekeeper, did all the duty, except keeping the keys; Deponent kept them. Admiral Pakenham appointed Mr. Bindon to be Storekeeper: he had not any warrant; Admiral Pakenham said it was not necessary that he should have a warrant. Saith, that Admiral Pakenham was Surveyor General of the Ordnance when he appointed Mr. Bindon.

Saith, That Lieutenant-General Sir James Duff, who commanded the District at the time, highly approved of Mr. Maher's being appointed to succeed Mr. Bindon.

Saith, That Mr. Maher had been employed three years by the late Board of Ordnance, prior to his being appointed acting Storekeeper. He was principal Overseer of the Works and Fortifications erecting at Tarbert.

Saith, The salary of Storekeeper was Five shillings per day.

Sarah Bindon.

28th May 1804.

Thomas Ellison, sworn.

Saith, That Deponent knew Patrick Maher to have acted and done the duty of Clerk of Stores at Tarbert, from the time Deponent received the command of the Artillery there until the dissolution of the old Board of Ordnance. Deponent went there in October 1800, and remained there until May 1802. Saith, Mr. Maher was in office until the late Board of Ordnance was dissolved. Deponent commanded a Brigade of Artillery and the batteries there. Mr. Maher supplied Deponent with all articles necessary for the brigade or Batteries, as Storekeepers usually do.

Thos Ellison.

Bath, April 24th 1802.

Sirs,

As you request a Certificate of your Services while under my command, I think it my duty to say to the most Honourable the Commissioners (as I wish every old deserving servant to be rewarded for their past services) when I commanded the district of Munster, I visited the Works at Tarbert, when I found you the most intelligent person, and the only man ready to obey my orders. I found the rear of the Fort so badly constructed, that a lame or blind man could enter with ease; I set you to work, which was speedily altered. The hill above the Fort commanding it at all points most shamefully neglected. Captain Hill, an excellent Officer, who accompanied me, witnessed all those neglects. The Fort was daily supplied with water by a horse and cart. I found out water, and set you to that work, which was soon performed, by plenty of good water, which saved much expence, as no horse or cart was employed after. I found the back room, or rather house, in the Fort, occupied by a man who kept the keys, where the round shot and shells were piled, which I instantly ordered to be piled near the guns or the battery, and found it done as an excuse to keep that house for the fellow's own goods: the keys I instantly ordered to be delivered to the Artillery Officers, to make the proper use of. All this Maher assisted me in; and if I had my Journal here, I could say much more of Mr. Maher's attention to the service of our King and Country: but I must say I found him useful in all respects I employed him in, and Captain Hill reported to me it was his general character.

I am, Gentlemen,
with much esteem,

Your most obedient most humble Servant,

Clarina,

General and Colonel, Enniskillen Infantry.

To the Earl of Annesley, the Right Honourable Sackville Hamilton, Counsellor French, and
C. Rowley, Esquire.

6th August 1804.

Major-General James Ferrier, sworn.

Saith, He knows Patrick Maher, of Tarbert: he was employed under Deponent's Directions as principal Overseer of Ordnance Works at different times and places: he gave complete satisfaction to Deponent in the discharge of his duty: he did the duty of Storekeeper at Tarbert immediately after the death of Mr. Bindon, and did Bindon's duty as Storekeeper during Bindon's illness: after Bindon's death he did the duty, and Mr. Crawford having been appointed Storekeeper, Maher notwithstanding continued to do the duty, and was paid by the Board of Ordnance: he was not Storekeeper, he only did the duty of the office of Storekeeper. Saith, that his warrant was at one time made out, and afterwards stopped, Deponent cannot say why: knows that Admiral Pakenham had a good opinion of him, and would have appointed him to be a Storekeeper, if the Ordnance Board had continued.

Ferrier,

No. 139.—EDMOND STANLEY, Esquire.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Edmond Stanley, Esq. late Prime Serjeant,

Sheweth,

THAT he was appointed His Majesty's Prime Serjeant at Law by patent, bearing date 1st July last.

That

That the emoluments of the said office have been greatly diminished in value in consequence of the Union, inasmuch that the loss of fees thereby have been ascertained before the Commissioners to amount to a sum of £. 1,375. a year, or thereabouts.

That Mr. Daly, the late Prime Serjeant, has obtained compensation at the rate of £. 1,375. per annum, to cease upon his being promoted; and that he has since been advanced to the station of one of the Barons of the Exchequer.

That your Memorialist's having obtained the reversion of the said office after Mr. Daly's promotion, he conceives that, in equity and justice, he is entitled to the compensation for the loss of the profits of the office, under the Act, for life; and therefore submits it to the Commissioners to make such adjudication thereon as may be just and equitable.

NO. 140.—THOMAS PRENDERGAST.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of Thomas Prendergast, Gentleman, late Deputy Register of the High Court of Chancery of Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist being, in and before the year 1780, an Attorney in extensive and lucrative practice, by which he made an income of One thousand pounds yearly, was induced to accept of the appointment of Deputy Register of the said Court, and it was then stipulated with your Memorialist that he should relinquish the profession of an Attorney.

That he did so, supposing the office of Deputy Register would be a permanent substitute to him for the professional profits which he, as aforesaid, relinquished.

That the appointment of your Memorialist was approved of by the then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

That from that period to the present, near twenty years, he hath given all his labour and assiduity to the regulation and business of said office, in such a manner as to gain not only the approbation of the late and present Lord Chancellor, but also the approbation of the Honourable House of Commons, on an inspection, by order of that House, of the Records there; and also the approbation of those whose avocations led them to an official intercourse with your Memorialist; and in every respect discharged, with honour and integrity, the trust reposed in him.

That your Memorialist had twenty-two children by his present wife, thirteen of whom are living; they are still chiefly dependant on your Memorialist, the said office being their only and chief support, in which, by his great assiduity, care, and attention, he gained a yearly income of £. 800. and upwards.

That the principal Register in the said office (under and by whom your Memorialist's appointment existed) hath been removed from the said office on account of his opposing the Union measure; and the successor to said office hath suddenly, and totally, deprived your Memorialist of the means of supporting his numerous family, without any reason ever alledged, or the smallest allowance out of said office.

That your Memorialist has arrived to such a stage of life as makes it fruitless to seek bread by his former profession.

May it therefore please your Honours to take your Memorialist's case into consideration, and to order such compensation for the relief of him and his numerous family, as, in your wisdom and humane consideration, shall seem just and reasonable.

And he will pray.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Humble Petition of Henry Ormsby, Esquire, Marshal of the Four Courts,

Sheweth,

THAT since your Petitioner's appointment as Marshal of the said Marshalsea, your Petitioner, by reason of the several Acts of Parliament that had been passed in favour of Debtors, has been deprived of rent, and fees legally due and payable by them to your Petitioner, to the amount in the whole of £. 1,111. 12 s. 1½ d. as appears by the abstracts of their Accounts herunto annexed.

That your Petitioner has only £. 180. a year salary, out of which, your Petitioner is obliged to provide a Deputy, and three Hatchmen; and pay house rent, taxes, and other charges, amounting in the whole to £. 163. 8 s. 8 d. exclusive of casual repairs on the roof of the whole Marshalsea, as may also appear by Schedule, No. 1, herunto annexed.

That your Petitioner has therefore now only remaining for his very great public responsibility, and the entire employment of his time, a balance from his salary of only £. 116. 11 s. 3½ d.

That your Petitioner has received compensation, at three different times, from the Parliament of this Kingdom, amounting to the sum of £. 2,089. 10 s. 9½ d. as will appear by Schedule, No. 2, herunto annexed.

That your Petitioner not having the Parliament in this Kingdom to apply to for compensation, most humbly prays that you will be pleased to take Petitioner's case into your consideration, and make him such compensation for his above-mentioned losses, in such manner as shall seem best.

No. 143.—ELIZABETH LEONARD.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Elizabeth Leonard, Widow, Servant Maid to the House of Lords,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT she was Servant Maid to the House of Lords previous to, and at the time of the Union taking place; and since has been continued in the care of the different apartments belonging thereto.

That in consequence of the Union, the said House has been sold, whereby she is deprived of an advantageous station, yielding to her £. 12. 10s. 3d. per annum, and which station she would have been sure of holding for her life, only for the Union.

That owing to different circumstances, she cannot procure an adequate situation; and being a widow advanced in years, with two small children to support, she would be a considerable sufferer unless redressed by your Honours, upon whose justice and wisdom she humbly waits with confidence to behold equity fulfilling the promise made by Government and the Legislature; namely, that no person in employment should be injured by the Act of Union.

And therefore prays, that the said sum of £. 12. 10s. 3d. may be granted to her yearly for her life.

No. 146.—WILLIAM KNOWLES.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of William Knowles, late Extra Messenger attending on the Chief Secretary to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, &c. &c. &c.

Humbly sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist had been appointed Extra Messenger by Lord Pelham, at the commencement of Lord Camden's administration, and continued so until the Act of Union took place, in consequence of which, and Sessions of Parliament not meeting here as usual, it was found necessary to abolish said place; your Memorialist begs leave to state to your Honours, that the situation of Extra Messenger to the Chief Secretary has been established for many years, which will appear appear by referring to the Chief Secretary's office, or by the payments made at the Treasury; the allowance from Government to the Extra Messenger was Five shillings per day during the Session of Parliament, but Memorialist had been continued yearly at said 5*s.* 5*d.* per, since the first appointment: but Memorialist begs leave to mention to your Honours, that he only claims compensation for the sessions of Parliament, to be averaged as your Honours may think most proper, as there is a precedent for allowing an Extra Messenger for years back; Memorialist in every other respect can satisfy your Honours, both by writings and documents that may be necessary.—Memorialist therefore, with the utmost humility, submits his claim to your Honours wisdom and consideration, and hopes you will allow him such compensation as your Honours in your wisdom may think meet, for which, as in duty bound, Memorialist will pray.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

Honourable Sirs,

I humbly beg leave to state to your Honours, before your final decision on my claims, that after the last Session of the Irish Parliament, which ended the 2d day of August 1800, I still continued as Extra Messenger at the usual allowance from Government at 5*s.* 5*d.* per day, which was paid at the Treasury to the 25th day of December, being the last quarter-day of payments in the Civil List Establishment for the year 1800. Should your Honours wish to examine the proper Officer of the Treasury, he will attend, and shew the entire yearly payments since my first appointment on the face of the Treasury books; and that your Honours will see the entire payments made me far exceeds the claim I have made, of only compensation for the Sessions of Parliament on average of the four last. Humbly submit this to your Honours wisdom and humanity.

And am, Honourable Sirs,

With the most profound respect,

Your obedient Servant,

William Knowles.

Mr. Henry Paine, sworn.

Knows William Knowles to have been employed for several years past as Messenger to the Chief Secretary during the Sessions of Parliament, at 5s. 5d. per day; does not recollect whether he was a Messenger on the 1st of January 1801.

H. Paine.

The 9th day of March 1802.

John Byrne, sworn.

Saith, he thinks it was in consequence of the Union that William Knowles, who was appointed an Extra Messenger to the Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant during the Sessions of Parliament, lost his place. Examinant was one of the first who ever held that situation; he was appointed in Lord Harcourt's administration; succeeded on a vacancy made by one Smith, and it had been continued ever since, for the Sessions only. Examinant saith, that Knowles was continued for a longer time than any before him; cannot say whether he was in employment the 1st January 1801: saith, he was paid, as he thinks, to the Christmas after the last Sessions of Parliament. When the Sessions ended, the employment generally ended with it; the person who held the employment one Session was continued the following Session; they had not any payment in that situation for the intermediate time between one Session and another. If the Sessions of Parliament had been continued in the year 1801, Examinant believes that Knowles would have been then employed as in former Sessions, if the Union had not taken place; Examinant is certain that the office of Messenger to the Chief Secretary would have continued, and that Mr. Knowles would have held same.

John Byrne.

Monday, 8th March 1802.

William Bower, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, That William Knowles was a Messenger, and paid for his attendance at the rate of Five shillings per day, as attending on the Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant during the Sessions of Parliament; he was also employed occasionally at the same allowance, and was paid up to the 25th December 1800, and Examinant has not paid him since. Said Knowles was not on the Civil List Establishment. The Messengers are all paid quarterly, in like manner as those on the Civil List Establishment; their accounts are made up every quarter, and they are never paid any broken periods, unless there may be a change.

William Bower.

The allowance had been granted for several years before for the Sessions of Parliament, at the same rate of Five shillings a day.

NO. 147.—WILLIAM SLEATER.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Humble Petition of William Sleater, Printer to the House of Lords,

Most humbly sheweth,

THAT William Sleater, your Petitioner's Father, deceased, was in the year 1775 appointed Printer to the House of Lords of Ireland, which office he exercised alone until the year 1780, when your Petitioner was joined with him in the exercise of said office; that your Petitioner and his said Father continued to exercise the said office jointly, until the year 1789, when the said William Sleater died; and from and since his death, your Petitioner hath alone exercised the said office.

That your Petitioner humbly begs leave to refer your Honours to the 5th vol. of the Journals of the House of Lords, pages 11. 35. 38. 39. 40. 69. and 372; from which your Petitioner hopes it will manifestly appear, that the said office of Printer of the said House became an object of their Lordship's anxious attention, and was exercised and enjoyed under their Lordship's express sanction and authority, with the concurrence of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland;—and your Petitioner also prays leave to refer your Honours to a Warrant, bearing date the 14th September 1782, directed to the said William Sleater, from his Grace the Duke of Portland, then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, by which your Petitioner hopes it will appear to your Honours, that the appointment of the said William Sleater to the said office of Printer was recognized, and approved of by his Grace.

That the said William Sleater and your Petitioner, respectively and successively performed the duties of the said office for and during all the time aforesaid, to the satisfaction, and with the approbation of their Lordships, and of every Lord Lieutenant of Ireland during that time.

That from the nature of that office, it would be impossible for any man to discharge the duty of it without giving it the preference of every other pursuit in the line of his profession, which your Petitioner accordingly did, and likewise sunk his capital in the purchase of materials entirely adapted to Parliamentary Printing, and which are now rendered useless to him.

That your Petitioner humbly hopes it will appear, upon enquiry, that he has invariably exercised the profession of a Printer as a faithful and loyal subject, preferring the interest of the State to his own pecuniary advantage.

That

That your Petitioner, upon investigating the account of Printing Work for the House of Lords, finds, that for the last five years, the average amount to be upwards of Sixteen hundred pounds per annum, which afforded a profit to your Petitioner of Four hundred pounds per annum, which, he humbly submits, is the best criterion by which the loss he must sustain by the Union of the British and Irish Legislatures, can be ascertained.

That your Petitioner would be reduced thereby, if not compensated, from a situation of moderate competence to a state of inevitable destruction.

May it therefore please your Honours to grant to your Petitioner such compensation, as, in your great wisdom and justice, shall seem meet.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Wm^r Sleater.

18th February 1801.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Petition of Agnes Sleater, Widow of the late William Sleater, Printer to the House of Lords,

Most humbly sheweth,

That your Petitioner is the widow of the late William Sleater, Printer to the House of Lords.

That your Petitioner's late husband had presented a Petition to your Honours, stating, as he humbly conceived, his claim to entitle him to receive compensation for the loss he would sustain by the Union of the British and Irish Legislatures.

That he had received your Honour's directions to obtain a Certificate of his appointment to the office of Printer to the House of Lords, from the Clerk of the Parliament; also, a Certificate from the proper Officer, of a copy of the Lord Lieutenant's warrant served on the late William Sleater, senior, in the year 1782, directing and requiring him to print the Journals of the House of Lords of Ireland, under the direction of the Clerk of the Parliament, which Certificates your Petitioner requests permission to lay before your Honours.

That your Petitioner, on her late husband's death, was appointed his successor as Printer of the Proceedings of the House of Lords, which were then unfinished; in consequence of which appointment, she has completed the printing of the last volume of the Journals; and she begs leave to state to your Honours, that she would remain Printer to the House of Lords, if the office was not discontinued in consequence of the Union.

That your Petitioner's late husband had sunk his capital in the purchase of materials entirely adapted to Parliamentary printing, which are by the Union rendered useless, and which would have afforded to your Petitioner a comfortable subsistence had it not been for that circumstance.

May it therefore please your Honours to grant to your Petitioner such compensation, as to you, in your great wisdom and justice, shall seem meet.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Mr. Sleater's father and himself were originally appointed by Doctor Gayer; and Mr. Sleater was continued by Examinant, and was in office on the 1st January 1801; the appointment was in the Clerk of Parliament; all the under Clerks of the House were verbally appointed by the Clerk of Parliament, and received compensation for their offices as such from the Committee of the House of Lords; they were attending on the House, some of them in the House, and others in the offices; Mr. Sleater was continued after the Union, to finish the works then on hand, and unfinished; Mrs. Sleater was continued after the death of Mr. Sleater, and the business is now entirely finished, and at an end. Mr. Sleater was recognized as the Printer at the Treasury, where he was paid the amount of the Bills, which were certified to be right by Examinant; those were for the Sessional work, the other bills for Journals were not certified by Examinant.—Does not know why the Committee of the House of Lords did not take Mr. Sleater's claim into their consideration. Out of the grant of the House in 1799, of £. 940. 8s. 0½d. the sum of £. 669. 11s. 8½d. was paid to Mr. Sleater.

Is a Printer; carries on business for himself; is not in the employment of Mrs. Sleater. The lowest profit on printing is a clear net profit of £. 25. per cent; Printers get 50 per cent. on jobs; work done at night or in a hurry, is charged at 50 per cent. greater allowances being made to the tradesmen; ten per cent. thereof is in general given additional to the men, and on an average there is 40 per cent profit on such job work, as the men receive about ten per cent. additional on jobs.—On common business there is a profit of £. 25. per cent.; on jobs they expect ten per cent. additional for themselves, and ten per cent. additional for the men. There is a profit of twenty-five per cent. on Bookfelling business, and not so much on Stationary; does not suppose the profit on Stationary amounts to more than twenty per cent. Stationers not having so much profit on English as on Irish paper.

Is a Printer and Bookfeller; on large works, or any thing considerable, the smallest net profit to which they think themselves entitled is a net profit of 25 per cent.; the profit on Bookfelling is the same.—If there is a certain price set on any book, and that another Bookfeller wanted some of the work, Examinant would charge him less by 25 per cent. for it than he would charge the Public; the profit on Stationary is not so much; averaging Stationary at the price charged the Public, he would average the profit about 25 per cent. Stationers seldom take stationary one from the other as they get books or other work.

No. 149.—WILLIAM SMITH.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of William Smith, Stationer to the Ordnance,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT, at the first establishment of the Ordnance in Ireland, Memorialist's grandfather was appointed Master Stationer thereto.

That it has remained in the family of Memorialist, under the warrants of the different Masters General, to the present time, and that Memorialist in the year 1788 succeeded thereto ; since which time, from the various circumstances that have arisen, and the increased establishment of the department, the emoluments of Memorialist's employment were considerably greater than they had hitherto been.

That the event of the Union having done away the Board of Ordnance, Memorialist is thrown out of a situation by which he maintained himself and large family ; and for which he prays compensation.

Average of Money for Printing and Stationary received out of the Ordnance, for the last four years, from £. 1,800. to £. 2,200. per annum.

No. 150.—Mr. HENRY UPTON.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Mr. Henry Upton, Deputy Purse-bearer to Lord Clare,

Sheweth,

THAT on his return to England after the siege of Gibraltar, he was induced, by bad health, to accept the humble office of a Deputy Purse-bearer to Lord Lifford, then Chancellor of Ireland, at £. 100. per year, on his assurance, that in the course of two years something better and more permanent should be done for him. At the end of seven years Lord Lifford died, and left Memorialist some hundreds in debt from the necessary expences attending that situation, and without performing his promise.

That Lord Clare was then appointed Chancellor, and Memorialist continued, with an addition of £. 150. per year, as a Messenger of Bankrupts; but, on the measure of Union taking place, the original £. 100. was struck off, there being no further attendance necessary in the House of Lords.

Shortly after the Union Lord Clare died, and Memorialist was the only person unjustly neglected in the arrangement for compensation, or under any other consideration, after twenty years attendance on two Lords High Chancellors.

On Lord Rodolph's appointment, Memorialist stated his situation, and his Lordship consented to continue Memorialist in the Bankrupt Office, upon condition of residing entirely in Dublin, for a small emolument received in half-crowns, uncertain in its amount and in its duration, which obliged Memorialist to give it up, not being adequate to the expence of a residence in that City, and with no better views or expectations.

Memorialist humbly hopes his case will be taken into consideration.

Henry Upton.

Henry Upton, late of the City of Dublin, Gentleman, maketh oath, That he did the duty of Purse-bearer to Lord Lifford for near seven years, and after his Lordship's death was appointed to the same office by Lord Clare, and continued in it about twelve years, until shortly after the passing of the Union Act, which rendered any further attendance on the House of Lords unnecessary. Deponent was then deprived of the original £. 100. per annum allowed by Lord Lifford, which, since that time, amounts to the sum of £. 300. and upwards, in addition to the £. 100. per year, which loss Deponent has suffered by means of the Union, and nearly double as much, which he was obliged to give up, in consequence of being deprived of so material a part.

Henry Upton.

Sworn at the Public-office in Southampton Buildings, Chancery-lane, London, this 30th day of June 1804, before me, a Master in Chancery,

J. S. Harvey.

Sir,

I had the honour of your letter, informing me, that the Commissioners of Compensation had appointed Monday the 22d instant, on which day they would be ready to hear evidence in support of the Memorial, presented by my Nephew for compensation. In support of this Memorial, he made an affidavit, by order of the Commissioners, sworn before a Master in Chancery in London, which have been lodged in your office, and which I believe is the only evidence he can produce.

I am, Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

No. 151.—GEORGE ELLISON.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation,

The Memorial of George Ellison, late Furbisher of His Majesty's Ordnance,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist was appointed Furbisher of His Majesty's Ordnance in Ireland, in the month of July 1799, with the salary of Eighty pounds per annum, by warrant under the hand and seal of the Right Honourable the Earl of Carhampton, then Master General of the Ordnance.

That Memorialist held said employment, and discharged the duties thereof till after the Union took place, when he received a letter dated the 6th of January 1801, from the Secretary of the Ordnance, informing him, that "The Board had no further occasion for his services; and that his salary was discontinued from the first day of that month;" in the arrangement that followed in the Ordnance Department, in consequence of the Union, the small arms were placed under the superintendence of the Deputy Firemaster.

That Memorialist thus losing his employment, has thereby sustained a loss of Eighty pounds per annum.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly submits his case to the consideration of your Honours, and prays compensation.

George Ellison,
28, Cuff-street.

Henry Lawes Earl of Carhampton, one of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, General of His Majesty's Forces, Colonel of the sixth Regiment of Dragoon Guards, and Master General of the Ordnance in Ireland,

To George Ellison, Gent.

By virtue of the Authority to me by the King's Most Excellent Majesty in this behalf given: Upon the good testimony and assurance which I have received of your loyalty, integrity, and ability, I do hereby nominate, constitute, and appoint you, the said George Ellison, to be Master Furbisher to the Ordnance, you are therefore carefully and diligently to discharge the duty of a Master Furbisher, by doing and performing all manner of things thereunto belonging; likewise, to follow such orders and directions as you shall from time to time receive from me or the Master General of the Ordnance for the time being, the Lieutenant General and principal Officers of the same, or any other your superior Officer, in pursuance of the trust hereby reposed in you; and, for your care and diligence to be taken herein, you are to have and receive the allowance of Eighty pounds per annum, to be paid you quarterly by equal portions, out of the Treasury of said office; the said allowance to commence the first day of July 1799, and to continue so long as shall be thought requisite and necessary for His Majesty's service.

Given at the office of Ordnance, under my hand and seal, this 1st day of July, in the thirty-ninth year of His Majesty's reign.

Carhampton.

By command of Earl Carhampton,
Master General of the Ordnance.

Henry Esdaile,
Secy.

Mr. Ellison,

Let the 600 barrels delivered by Mrs. Segrave be given to be proved by the Proof-master, and the 100 locks that have been viewed be returned to her; and the 50 sets of brass mounting that have been examined, be also returned to her; of the 100 repaired muskets lent in by her, let her get ten of them back at a time, till they are all brought in completely repaired.

Dated this 20th day of August 1800.

John Hobson, v. s. x.

In an Envelope, directed,

To the Master Furber.

(A true copy.)

Which I attest,

Geo. Ellison.

Pursuant to the Board's order, you are to examine the old arms, and any unfit for service, that cannot be repaired, you are to break up to supply Mr. Langdon with 500 barrels.

Ordnance-office,

Sir,

I am directed by the Master General, and Board, to acquaint you, that they have no further occasion for your services, and that your salary is discontinued from the first day of this month.

Joseph Atkinson, Sec^y.

Mr. Ellison.

Which I attest,

Joseph Atkinson, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, Deponent was Secretary to the late Board of Ordnance from the 30th September 1800, until the said Board was dissolved in the month of September 1801—Saith, that the appointment now produced of George Ellison to be Master Furber to said Board, is an Ordnance document, and that the signatures thereto are the hand-writing of Lord Carhampton, and of Mr. Eustace, his Secretary and Aid de Camp—Saith, that Mr. Lyfster was first Clerk in Deponent's office, and had authority to sign Deponent's name to official letters in his absence—Saith, that the letter of dismissal of Mr. Ellison, now produced, is the hand-writing of said Mr. Lyfster, as Deponent believes.

Joseph Atkinson.

5th December 1803.

William Boulger, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, The list of the Establishment now produced was made out by Deponent from the King's books of the late Board of Ordnance—Saith, there was but one Master Furbisher—Saith, that Mr. Ellifon was turned out of the office of Master Furbisher in December 1800, as Deponent believes—Saith, the letter now produced is, to the best of Deponent's knowledge, the hand-writing of Mr. Hobson, and the envelope directed to the Master Furbisher, is of the same hand-writing, as Deponent believes;—believes Ellifon was in employment until December 1800, but was then turned out, as Deponent believes—Thinks the return of the date of Ryland's appointment in the list of the Establishment is wrong, and that Deponent's former affidavit is also wrong by mistake, and the appointment ought to bear date 1st January 1801, instead of 1800—Saith, that Mr. Ellifon was turned out long before it was notified to the Board of Ordinance that they were to be dissolved, and therefore the loss of his employment could not have been in consequence of the Union.

W^m Boulger,

12th December 1803.

Mr. Edward Dalton, sworn.

Saith, He believes the signature and date of the letter now produced, is of the hand-writing of Mr. Lyfter—Saith, there was a complaint before the Board, as he has heard and believes, and that in consequence thereof he was dismissed—Saith, that to Deponent's own knowledge, Mr. Ellifon was dismissed—Saith, that the cause of dismissal is sometimes entered in the Minute-book.

Edw^d Dalton.

19th December 1803.

Mr. Dalton, further examined.

Saith, The book now produced is a Minute-book of the late Board of Ordinance, in which the following Minute is entered, bearing date the 6th January 1801:

“ It having been represented to the Master General and Board, that Mr.
 “ Ellifon, the Master Furbisher, has been very incorrect in the execution “ of his duty; they, having taken the said representation into consideration,
 “ and finding the charges alledged against him to be true :

“ Ordered, That notice be given to Mr. Ellifon, that his services are no “ longer required in this department; and also that the Treasurer be “ acquainted that the salary of Mr. Ellifon is discontinued from the “ 1st instant.”

Saith, That Mr. Rylands succeeded Mr. Ellifon.

E. Dalton.

12th December 1803.

Mr. William Mollay, sworn.

Saith, Deponent made out the list of the Ordinance Establishment now produced; Deponent was second Clerk to the Clerk of the Ordinance—Saith, he made out the list now produced from the original book in Mr. Boulger's office—Saith, the entry therein of the date of the appointment of Mr. Rylands, is a palpable mistake, and ought to have been 1801 instead of 1800.

W^m Mollay.

12th December 1803.

William Turner, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, He knows Mr. George Ellifon, who held the office of Master Furbisher until between the 1st October and 31st December 1800, as Deponent does suppose, he he having been paid up to the 31st of December 1800; Deponent understood that his discontinuance was not in consequence of the Union, and that if the Union had not taken place, he would have been discontinued. Mr. Rylands succeeded Mr. Ellison, and his pay commenced from 1st January 1801. Deponent conceives that Mr. Ellison was dismissed; he was only paid up to 31st December 1800. Does not recollect whether any notification of his dismissal was sent to Deponent. The Ordinance always paid one quarter in advance, and never paid any odd days; if an Officer was dismissed in any quarter, he carried with him the salary of the entire quarter in which he was so dismissed. Deponent having produced the receipt-book of the Ordinance, saith, it appears therefrom that Mr. Ellison was paid up to 31st December 1800, and Mr. Ryland was paid for the quarter commencing 1st January 1801, and ending 31st March 1801. The Ordinance Establishment was not dissolved until the 30th September following. The quarters salaries always were paid by the month, commencing on the 1st of the month and ending on the last, according to the Military establishment, and not as upon the usual quarter days—Saith, there are not any dates to the payments entered in the book now produced—Saith, that Deponent might have been applied to by Mr. Ellison for salary of the quarter commencing 1st January 1801, and ending 31st March 1801, before Deponent knew of the dismissal of Mr. Ellison—Saith, he does not know, but believes the Board might have antedated the appointment of Mr. Rylands—Saith, the removal of Officers in consequence of the Union, did not take place until the 30th day of September 1801—Saith, he cannot swear whether the paper now produced, signed “J. Lyfter,” is or is not the hand-writing of Mr. Lyfter—Saith, that in case an inferior Officer of the Board died, or was dismissed in the middle or any broken part of the quarter, the Officer succeeding usually was allowed the pay for such part of the quarter as he was in office, out of the incidental account of the office

W^m Turner.

The Honourable Thomas Pakenham, sworn.

Saith, That to the best of Deponent's recollection, some time previous to Christmas 1800, Deponent received information of improper conduct having been committed by Mr. Ellison, Deponent therefore directed Messrs. Hobson, Lyfter, and Eustace, to enquire into the charges, and they almost instantly found him guilty, and Deponent thereupon directed Mr. Lyfter to give notice to Mr. Ellison of his dismissal. Deponent then left town, and on his return in the month of January, Deponent, on seeing Ellison in the yard, discovered that Mr. Lyfter had neglected to notify his dismissal to him, which Deponent again gave directions should be done; and he was accordingly forthwith dismissed—Saith, that before Christmas 1800 (at the time he gave the first orders to dismiss Ellison) Deponent made enquiry, and found that Rylands was a proper person for the appointment of Master Furbisher; and Deponent had given a promise to Lord Carhampton to promote Rylands as soon as opportunity offered—Saith, that Deponent had the nomination to all the inferior offices; and that, on Deponent's giving directions to remove Ellison, he, this Deponent, appointed Rylands to said situation—Saith, that Deponent, although he had the power to appoint, yet gave the power of nomination to Mr. Uniacke, of a person to fill Rylands place; Deponent then left town, and on his return, Mr. Uniacke informed Deponent, that he, Mr. Uniacke, had appointed Deponent's son to fill Rylands place—Saith, that Deponent believes he gave directions to Mr. Turner, before he left town, that he Mr. Turner should not pay the ensuing quarter in advance to any of the Clerks; although Deponent appointed Rylands to Ellison's place on his removal, yet Deponent did not give any warrant to Rylands until he made enquiry, and found he was fit to fill the place.

Thos Pakenham.

The Honourable Thomas Pakenham, on oath,

Saith, To the best of Deponent's memory, Mr. Ellison was removed prior to the 1st January 1801—Saith, that Mr. Ellison was not removed in consequence of the Union; he was put out because the Gentlemen to whom Deponent referred it, found that Mr. Ellison was guilty of receiving some pecuniary consideration from one of the tradesmen employed by the Board, who had been supplying pikes, and who paid Mr. Ellison, as Deponent best recollects, half a crown on each pike out of the price of it, which was half a guinea, to the best of Deponent's recollection—Saith, Deponent gave directions that Mr. Ellison should be removed prior to the 6th January 1801.

Thos Pakenham.

Saith, That Lawrence Owens was paid (as Examinant believes) Fees of honour, as Porter, by Sir Chichester Fortescue, separately, and for himself only, for the four years stated in the Account hereunto annexed, and signed by Examinant. Examinant made the Accounts up from the books where said Owens, Account of Fees were were inserted. Saith, the List now given in, and signed by Examinant, contains a full and true account of the Fees of Honour in the four years therein mentioned, which were paid by Sir Chichester Fortescue, King at Arms, to the servants of the Lord Lieutenants.

Theobald Richards O'Raherty.

Charles Stewart, sworn.

From 1785 to a short while before Lord Hardwicke came here, Examinant held the employment of Clerk of the Larder to the Lord Lieutenant: knows most of the Lord Lieutenant's servants. Robert Mostyn is House Steward and Yeoman of the Stirrup; came with Lord Cornwallis, and has continued in that employment from that time to the present. The Lord Lieutenant appoints verbally, which is notified through the Steward of the Household. Mr. Croftie was Steward at that time, and Mr. Wynne Comptroller of the Household. Does not know James Heweller; he came over with Lord Hardwicke. Eugene Moriarty was appointed by Lord Camden. James Sutherland was appointed by Lord Hardwicke; and Charles Sorig also. Daniel Regan was appointed in Lord Westmorland's time, as Yeoman of the Wine-cellar, and has continued so until January one thousand eight hundred and two. Charles Butts and Robert Robinson are both appointed by Lord Hardwicke. Faltano Segro was appointed Confectioner, and one of the Yeomen Uihers, in one thousand seven hundred and ninety-six, and still continues such. Thomas Gould and James Flanagan appointed in 1798 by Lord Cornwallis, as Footman, and still continues such. Moses Trantor, appointed by Lord Hardwicke. Charles Osborne, appointed Footman in 1795, and continued so until January 1802. Charles Webster and Redmond Foley, appointed by Lord Hardwicke. James Lavin, Footman, appointed by Lord Westmorland. Mathew Donough, Henry Rice, and Thomas Grady, appointed by Lord Hardwicke.—Examinant considers that all these appointments are notified to the Steward or Comptroller of the Household, by the Lord Lieutenant.

G. Stewart.

22d March 1802.

Robert Wynne, Esquire, sworn.

Was Comptroller of the Household during the administration of Lord Cornwallis. Several of the servants of the Lord Lieutenant remained here from the administration, before others were continued by the Lord Lieutenant. Robert Maystou was House Steward and Yeoman of the Stirrup to Lord Cornwallis, and continued so during his administration; Eugene Moriarty was Butler of the Green Cloth during Lord Cornwallis's administration, and has since been continued by Lord Hardwicke; Daniel Regan was Wine Butler to Lords Camden and Cornwallis, and continued such to Lord Hardwicke until within three weeks since, when he was discharged; Faltano Segro was Confectioner to Lords Camden and Cornwallis, and has been continued such by Lord Hardwicke.—Examinant considers that their appointment or removal was completely optional with the Lord Lieutenant coming in, whether he continues any, and which of them; the same alteration may be made by the Lord Lieutenant coming in as to the entire Household. The Servants are not included as such in the list of the Household, which is sent down to the Treasury. All the Yeomen and Footmen are appointed and removed at the pleasure of the Lord Lieutenant. The Wine Butler, the Uihir of the Hall, the Cook, and many other received, in virtue of their offices, certain fees. Thomas Gould had been Lady Camden's Chairman, and was appointed one of Lord Cornwallis's Footmen, and still continues such. Charles Osborne was under Butler to Lords Camden and Cornwallis, and continued such to Lord Hardwicke until the removal of Regan, Wine Butler, when he was promoted to his place; all the Household, whether superior or inferior, were equally removable at the pleasure of the Lord Lieutenant.

The

The appointment of the Household was sent down to the Treasury by the Lord Lieutenant; the Servants were all paid by Examinant in like manner as any other Nobleman's Servants might be.

No. 154.—Major General FERRIER.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Major General Ferrier, late Lieutenant-Colonel of the Corps of Engineers upon the Establishment of Ireland, most respectfully represents,

THAT being employed at his post and station of Athlone, in April 1801, it was then officially notified to your Memorialist, by command of the Marquis Cornwallis, then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, that the Corps to which he belonged was, on account of the Union, dissolved; and that your Memorialist retaining his rank in the army, was to retire on his ordinary pay as Lieutenant-Colonel of the same.

That on coming afterwards to Dublin, your Memorialist was informed, that the chief Engineers, the Colonel, the Major, the Captain, and Captain Lieutenant of his Corps, had been all made to retire in the same manner, and at the same time; but, in consideration of the loss to be sustained by them in retiring, of the additional appointments and other emoluments they receive when employed as Engineers in the Service, as well as in compensation for their being thus stopped short in the course of their promotion in the Corps; there had been spontaneously granted to them additional allowances of pay per day, over and above their ordinary pay, with which they retired, and which they now actually receive, and have ever since received, in the following proportions; viz. Lieutenant-General Vallancey, as chief Engineer, receives the same, or nearly the same allowances, he received when employed in the Service, amounting, with the ordinary pay with which he retired, to upwards of £. 1,600. a year;—Major-General Tarrant, as Colonel of the Corps, over and above his ordinary pay, which is 18*s.* per day, receives 22*s.* additional, making in the whole 40*s.* per day;—Lieutenant Colonel Browne, as Major of the Corps, over and above his ordinary pay, which is 15*s.* per day, receives as nominal Surveyor of Ordnance lands, 12*s.* additional, making in the whole, 27*s.* per day;—Major Taylor, as Captain of the Corps, over and above his ordinary pay, which is 10*s.* per day, receives as nominal Surveyor of Military roads, 10*s.* additional, making in the whole 20*s.* per day, while your Memorialist, as Lieutenant-Colonel (as well as Captain-Lieutenant Henry Eustace) was not considered, or contemplated in this arrangement, and receives nothing but his ordinary pay, which is 17*s.* per day.

That without presuming here to comment upon the cruelty and injustice of said treatment (after a continued series of active service, counted from the eighth of February one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight) which your Memorialist believes to be owing to imposition and misinformation given to the Marquis Cornwallis respecting him, and after his making repeated but ineffectual efforts, both here and in England, to obtain due relief and redress of such severe and long supported grievances; and observing, moreover, that the justice and equity of this Honourable Board has been already extended to Captain-Lieutenant Henry Eustace, who was left in a situation exactly similar to that of your Memorialist, by their having granted him an adequate compensation for the loss he has sustained; and considering further, that the length and nature of your Memorialist's services in the Army, a brief statement of which, he with great respect, begs leave to submit in the annexed most abridged form, to the perusal of this Honourable Board, entitle him in a more urgent and recommendatory degree to their consideration; he most respectfully presumes to pray,

That this Honourable Board will be pleased to take his case into due consideration, and after verifying, as their prudence will suggest, the circumstances set forth in this Memorial, will be pleased to grant him such adequate compensation as they shall judge consistent with his present rank and distinction, and with the time and nature of his past services; contemplating and allowing at the same time for the great loss he has sustained ever since April 1801, by not having received the additional allowances spontaneously granted to the other above specified Officers of his Corps,

And your Memorialist, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

Ferrier,

Major General,

Late Lieut. Col. of Engineers.

Dublin, July 23d, 1804.

A brief Statement of the time and nature of Major General Ferrier's Services.

He came to Woolwich in the beginning of the year 1758, with the intention of applying for a warrant as a Cadet of the Royal Academy there; but, on his undergoing the necessary examinations by the Professors, and on their report to the Master General, he immediately received a commission in the regiment.

He was ordered with the detachment of the Royal Artillery, which accompanied the army sent from England in the same year to the West Indies, which first attacked the Island of Martinico, and afterwards took the Islands of Guadaloupe and Mariegalante, in the year 1759, and where he acted as Adjutant to the detachment on the death of the Officer appointed to that duty in England.

That being immediately after ordered back to Europe, he was appointed Lieutenant of the Company of Cadets at Woolwich, and in the Spring of 1760, was sent to join the detachment of the Royal Artillery, then acting with the Allied Army in Germany, and was appointed Aid de Camp, and served in the family and under the direction of the late celebrated Count La Lippe, then chief Engineer, and Grand Master of the Artillery of that army, and was present and acting at the battles of Warburgh, Kirch, Denkeren, and Closter Campen, and at the siege of Wesel, on the Rhine, which was raised by the loss of this battle;—all this during the campaigns of 1760 and 1761.

That on the said Count La Lippe's being directed by our Most gracious Sovereign to take the command of the Combined Army to act in Portugal in 1762, by the Count's particular desire he accompanied him thither, where he served the campaign of that year; and after the peace of that period, in 1763, he remained, by His Majesty's permission, in that service, and was employed in new-modelling the Army of that country, by the regulations then established, according to which he formed and disciplined one new Regiment of Infantry, and consecutively three new Regiments of Artillery; besides directing the construction of the new strong Fortrels of La Lippe, upon the Eastern Frontier of Portugal; in the course of all which he was successively promoted from the rank of Captain to that of Brigadier General inclusive, and appointed Governor of one of their Frontier Garrison Towns.

That in the beginning of the year 1779, on occasion of the late American war, he was, by His Majesty's special command to Sir John Irvine, then Commander in Chief of the Army in this country, directed to come and serve as an Engineer in Ireland, under the special promise and engagement, that on his arrival in Ireland, he was to be put upon the Establishment of the Corps of Engineers, as Major of the same; that he accordingly came here from Portugal, and was employed as confidential Engineer to the Commander in Chief, and paid as Major of Engineers, by His Majesty's special instruction to the Earl of Buckingham, then Lord Lieutenant here; but the engagement and promise of putting him on the Establishment was not made good until a long time after.

And

And that after the peace of 1783, he was employed under Lord Tyrawly and by order of the Marquis of Buckingham, in chusing the site and laying out the plan for the Establishment of a Colony of Emigrants from Geneva; and in 1787 was ordered by Government to lay out and execute a new Military Road through the County of Waterford, under the direction of the late Marquis of Waterford; and in the year 1791, was occasionally employed by the late Board of Ordnance in Cork Harbour, and in 1793 stationed and constantly employed by the said Board at Tarbert, Limerick, and Athlone, till the dissolution of the Corps to which he belonged, on account of the Union of Great Britain and Ireland, as specified in the inclosed Memorial.

That finally, his name, as distinguished in the service of Portugal, has been mentioned in a very creditable manner by that very competent judge of Military affairs, General Dumourier, in his last publication upon the State of that Country, where he became acquainted with that General, then on his travels through Spain and Portugal; and corresponded occasionally with him afterwards, as well as since he arrived in London in July of last year.

J. Ferrier.

Dublin,
July 23d 1804.

6th August 1804.

Wm Turner, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, that General Ferrier was, previous to the Union, Lieutenant Colonel of the Engineers; he had extra pay when employed, but Deponent does not know the amount of it; saith, that General Ferrier was on the Military Establishment, and was on the Civil Establishment.

Wm Turner.

NO. 155.—HENRY GRIFFITH.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Henry Griffith, Deputy Serjeant at Arms,
Humbly sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist hath for near thirteen years past, acted as Deputy Serjeant at Arms to the House of Lords, and has during that time constantly attended the duties of his office.

That your Memorialist has not received any compensation whatsoever.

Your Memorialist therefore most humbly prays that Honourable Board will please to take his case into consideration, and award to Memorialist such compensation as in your judgment may seem meet.

And your Memorialist will pray, &c.

Henry Griffith.

Dear Sir,

Yesterday I was favoured with yours, by the direction of the Commissioners; from what I understand with respect to other Claimants, and the manner of proceedings, I shall withdraw my claim, though there was not many in the House of Lords earned proper compensation that I did.

I am, Sir,

No. 156.—JANE GIFFARD.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Petition of Jane Giffard, Supplier of Coopers work to both Houses of Parliament,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT your Petitioner has supplied both Houses of Parliament with Cooper's work for the space of near forty years; by the profits on which work, amounting to £10. a year and upwards, with other industry, your Petitioner was enabled to support herself in decency.

That, by the Act of Union, your Petitioner is deprived of the above sum annually, which, with old age and other infirmities, has prevented your Petitioner from following any industry, and reduced her to the greatest distress.

May it therefore please your Honours to take your Petitioner's case into your humane consideration, and grant her such compensation as in your wisdom you shall think her entitled to.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Jane Giffard.

Monday 15th March 1802.

Sarah Connor, sworn.

Saith, That on the 1st of January 1801, and for fourteen years previous thereto, Mrs. Jane Giffard supplied the House of Commons with Cooper's Work. Examinant was Housekeeper to the House of Commons during said period.

Sarah Connor.

Mary Forster, sworn.

Was Sessional Housekeeper to the House of Lords; she found Mrs. Giffard in the employment of Cooper to the House, and Examinant continued her in said employment; Examinant was Housekeeper for near eighteen years; Mrs. Giffard acted by order of Examinant, and not under any appointment of the House: Examinant considered it as her own right to appoint or remove the Cooper. Mrs. Giffard always conducted herself well, but if she had not done so, Examinant would have removed her, and appointed another. Examinant could not ascertain her profits, but knows that Mrs. Giffard supported herself thereon; and that since the loss of same by the Union, she has been in actual want.

Mary Forster.

(Mrs. Connor continued.)

The Serjeant at Arms paid the bills for Cooper's work; Examinant believes that the appointment to that situation lay in the power of the Serjeant at Arms, to whom Examinant always certified her Bills, among many others.

Sarah Connor.

No. 157.—JAMES STAPLETON.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of James Stapleton, late Foreman Artificer to His Majesty's Board of Ordnance in Cork Harbour,

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist was sent by the late Honourable Board of Ordnance to Cork Harbour, as Foreman Artificer, and from thence to Bantry, and back again to Cork Harbour, under the command of General Vallancy, chief of Engineers, Colonel Brown of the same, and Colonel Arabin of the Artillery, for the purpose of making and mounting gun-carriages of different descriptions, wooden barracks, magazines, &c. &c. according to plans laid down by the said Officers; and that Memorialist was allowed Five shillings per day on said service.

That Memorialist while on this service received a hurt in his leg, by the fall of a twenty-four pounder gun carriage, which has disabled him, and renders him incapable of earning bread for his family.

That at the time of the reduction of the Board, Memorialist was discharged with only an allowance of six shillings per week, which he humbly submits is totally inadequate to his support.

May it therefore please the Right Honourable Board to take poor Memorialist's case into your gracious consideration and protection, and grant him such further compensation and subsistence as to your Honours shall seem meet.

And Memorialist will ever pray.

James Stapleton.

James Stapleton was Foreman and Overseeer of Artificers of the Ordnance, under my command, in Cork Harbour, for the space of three years during the late war, during which time he discharged his duty much to my satisfaction, and is hereby recommended to the Commissioners of Compensation.

Ch. Vallancy,

Deponent got a verbal direction to put him on the Pay List at the rate of Five shillings per week. He was employed to destroy the rats, which had done much damage in the stores.

No. 161.—JAMES POOLE.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of James Poole, late Paymaster of Duncannon Fort;

Most humbly sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist, while on half-pay as Waggon-master General to the Army on the Continent, was, by a letter from the War-office, dated 22d November 1798, offered the Paymastership of Duncannon-Fort (afterwards removed to Geneva) which, as he understood, was a permanent situation, and accepted it as such; although another, not choosing to encounter with those irregularities mentioned in the above letter, had given it up.

That your Memorialist continued in this situation till the 24th October 1802, when the dépôt was entirely abolished, in consequence of the Union; when your Memorialist was ordered by a letter from the War-office to repair immediately to London, to attend the investigation of the Accounts of several levies, raised for general service, prior to your Memorialist's appointment; in which he has pointed out impositions on the Public to a very considerable amount (upwards of thirty or forty

forty thousand pounds) exclusive of his having embarked, during his stay at the Depot, upwards of 2,000 convicts, and commuted men for general Service; your Memorialist did not know till within these few days, when making out his annual accounts, that he was not still on full pay; but finds that he has been placed on Half-pay ever since the Depot was done away (24th October 1802) by which your Memorialist sustains a loss of Five hundred pounds per annum; that your Memorialist had also the whole of the Recruiting Service to attend to, which now occupies eight or ten District Paymasters; that other Officers attached to the Depot, particularly the Fort Major and Adjutant, are allowed now to receive their full pay and allowances of house, fire, candles, &c. from the Irish Government, to whom alone, I understand, I am to look up for remuneration.

That your Memorialist during his stay at the Depot, and since, has met with the frequent approbation not only of the Inspecting Generals, but also of the Secretary at War, some testimonials of which are inclosed.

Your Memorialist therefore most humbly hopes, that your Honours will be pleased to take all these circumstances into consideration; and that you will be pleased to direct, that such a compensation may be made to him for the loss of his situation, as to you may seem proper.

And your Memorialist will ever pray.

My dear Poole,

Having put my signature to the Pay Lists I return them to you by express, which I conceive to be the safest mode of conveyance. On Thursday next I hope to take you by the hand, the Dean being wonderfully better.

(Private.)—By a letter I yesterday received from Brownrigg, I fear for the stability of the Dépôt; his letter runs thus:—"Ever since the Union it has been the intention of Government, or rather the Duke of York, to abolish the situation of the Inspector General of the Recruiting Service, and to place the Recruiting Service in the United Kingdom under the Inspector General in England; that the arrangements would be concluded forthwith, as it connects with that system of public economy which must be adhered to in framing the Peace Establishment of the Kingdom. No doubt you have had some accounts how far it may affect you; most sincerely do I wish it may be confined to myself, as I shall not repine, being long since heartily tired of the employment. If you should have occasion to call on me, be assured I shall be happy in following up any plan you may point out for your benefit.

You have the sincere regards of Mrs. J. &c. &c. united to those of

Sir,

The King having been pleased to appoint you to be one of the District Paymasters, and the Dépôt at Duncannon Fort being fixed upon for your station, I am to acquaint you therewith; and to desire that you will forthwith repair thither, and proceed to make up monthly Pay Lists of the Detachments of Regiments on foreign Service, stationed at the said Dépôt, and in every other part of Ireland, from the 25th of December last; conforming for the period that shall have already elapsed, as nearly to the Instructions to Paymasters of Recruiting Districts (Copies of which are inclosed, as specified in the margin) as the present circumstances will admit of.

Dear Major,

It will give me infinite pleasure to hear of your receiving compensation for the loss of your situation as Paymaster, to which I think you have a just claim, from your strict attention to so laborious a duty.

I have every reason to think that the Union of the two Kingdoms, added to the opinion of Government, that it was connected with the system of public economy was the occasion of the breaking up of the Recruiting Depot.

Wishing you every success,

6th February 1804.

Mr. John Kearns, sworn.

Saith, Deponent was chief Clerk to Mr. Poole, at the Depôt at Geneva—Saith, about the month of January 1799, Mr. Poole arrived at Geneva from England, having been appointed Paymaster to the Depôt, and to the Recruiting Service on the British Establishment—Saith, that Mr. Poole had the King's commission to appoint him to that duty; he also had the letter of appointment of Mr. Windham, which letter is now produced by Deponent, but Deponent has not the King's commission before stated—Saith, Mr. Poole was struck off from said office the 24th of last October twelvemonth, viz. 1802, and has half-pay arising from the office before-mentioned; the said half-pay is from the British Establishment. When in office he was paid Twenty shillings per day on the British Establishment, and Ten shillings per day on the Irish Establishment, which was for his charge of the convicts—Saith, the recruits were men raised for Regiments of the line, and Fencibles, on the British Establishment only; he had not any thing to do with the recruits for the Irish Establishments—Saith, a letter went to General Johnson, directing the total dissolution of the Depôt to take place the 24th of October 1802; and it was then accordingly laid down—Saith, Deponent has not any document to shew that said office was laid down in consequence of the Union, further than a letter from General Johnson, inclosing an extract of General Brownrigg's letter to him, and which are now produced.

John Kearns.

20th February 1804.

Mr. George Goodman, sworn.

Saith, That Major Poole was appointed Paymaster on the British Establishment for the English forces at the Depôt at Geneva, on the 25th December 1798, and came to Geneva about the latter end of January or beginning of February following; he received pay of Twenty shillings per day on the British Establishment—Deponent was Adjutant of the garrison there, and did the duty of Adjutant and Paymaster in and for the year 1798, until the new Establishment; and Deponent also continued to act as Adjutant after Major Poole's appointment. Mr. Poole, upon his arrival, conceived he had not any thing to do with the Irish Establishment, yet he afterwards did the duty of Paymaster of convicts and deserters who were confined there for the Irish Establishment; the Irish detachment had their own Paymasters; he also paid the recruits who were raised for general Service, and who were to be drafted into regiments at the Isle of Wight and Chatham barracks; he paid and supplied Officers on that Service throughout Ireland; he paid all the British recruiting service carried on here; he afterwards drew it from the respective Agents in London. The only Irish business paid by him was for convicts, and the Adjutant and six Staff Sergeants who were on, and paid and clothed by the Irish Establishment. Messrs. Atkinson and Woodward were Agents for the Depôt, and they remitted the pay for the convicts, Adjutant, Sergeants, and his own, 10s. per day, to Mr. Poole, which was then paid off by him. Cannot say, but has heard, that that Major Poole continued to do such duty to the 24th October 1802, and supposes he received pay to that time—Saith, that when Mr. Poole came over to Ireland, upon an application by him through General Johnson, he got liberty to charge 10s. per day on the Irish Establishment, for paying the convicts, Geneva having been made at that time the Dépôt of convicts—Saith, Deponent, prior to the new arrangement, received Five shillings per day for the duty of Adjutant, and paid the convicts there; always, during Deponent's stay, were convicts there—Saith, that Deponent resigned 24th April 1803, and Mr. Rochfort succeeded Deponent, and now receives 10s. per day for the care of prisoners as Fort-Adjutant and Fort-Major, although there is not any prisoner there—Saith, Mr. Poole received his pay of 10s. per day as Paymaster of convicts, which was a distinct duty from that of Fort-Major and Adjutant—Deponent cannot say how Major Poole lost his office by reason of the Union; nor can he say that the Dépôt was broken up in consequence of the Union—Deponent only believes that if the Dépôt had continued there, that Major Poole would have been continued.

George Goodhue.

Mr. John Kearns, examined,

Saith, Deponent received the two paper documents, and the envelope, inclosing same to James Poole, Esquire, this day, in a letter from Mr. Poole, dated the 1st instant, and saith, the said Documents are in the hand-writing of one of the Clerks in the Commander in Chief's office—Saith, he believes they are in the hand-writing of Colonel Clinton's Secretary, because Deponent hath received several letters in said hand-writing from him.

No. 162.—RICHARD WRIGHTSON.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Wrightson, Clerk in the office of Storekeeper of Ordnance,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist has been for some years a Clerk in the office of the principal Storekeeper of His Majesty's Ordnance in Ireland, for the faithful discharge of which duty he received a salary of £. 129. 6s. 8d. per annum.

That, upon the late arrangements in consequence of the Union, your Memorialist has been continued in the discharge of the same duties as heretofore, being the receipts and issues of His Majesty's stores under the British Board of Ordnance.

That, by established regulations of said British Board, the present salary of your Memorialist is £. 90. per annum, by which means your Memorialist suffers a loss of £. 39. 6s. 8d. per annum, being the difference between his late and present salaries.

Your Memorialist therefore prays, that your Honourable Board will order him the said difference of £. 39. 6s. 8d. per annum, or such other compensation as to your wisdom shall seem meet.

And your Memorialist shall pray.

I do hereby certify, That the salary of Mr. Richard Wrightson, late a Clerk in the office of the principal Storekeeper, as extracted from the Minutes of the Board, was £. 129. 6 s. 8 d. per annum.

Joseph Atkinson, Sec^r.

We, the Board of respective Officers of His Majesty's Ordnance in Ireland, do hereby certify, That Ninety pounds per annum is the salary allowed to Mr. Richard Wrightson, who is continued under us as a Clerk in the receipt and issue of stores.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Wrightson,

Humbly sheweth,

That Memorialist was for several years an Assistant Clerk to the principal Storekeeper of the Ordnance, for the discharge of which duty he received from the Board a salary of £. 129. 6 s. 8 d. per annum.

That, by the dissolution of the late Board in consequence of the Union, the services of Memorialist have become no longer necessary, and Memorialist has thereby suffered a loss of his salary, being £. 129. 6 s. 8 d. per annum.

Memorialist therefore prays, that your Honourable Board will take his case into consideration, and order him such compensation as to your wisdom shall seem meet.

Trinity College,
Dec. 16th 1801.

Rich^d Wrightson.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Wrightson,

Humbly sheweth,

That Memorialist has been employed under the late Board of Ordnance, as an Assistant Clerk in the department of the Storekeeper; that on the change which was occasioned by the Union, his salary having been reduced from £. 128. 10 s. 2½ d. to £. 90. per annum, he presented a Memorial to this Honourable Board, praying Compensation for such diminution, being £. 38. 10 s. 2½ d. per annum, which was not allowed him by the Honourable Commissioners.

That Memorialist humbly hopes he will not be considered as too presumptuous in soliciting a rehearing from this Honourable Board, and entreating that they will attend to the circumstances which induce him to hope for their favour.

That the letter which Memorialist had the honour of receiving from the Secretary of this Honourable Board, not having mentioned the circumstances in Memorialist's case on which the opinion that Memorialist was not entitled to compensation had been formed, Memorialist was led to compare his situation with that of Mr. Edward Dalton, whose application (in what Memorialist flatters himself was not an essentially different case) had been complied with.

That from such comparison, it appears, that Mr. Dalton and Memorialist were each appointed in consequence of the increased business of the Ordnance department.

That Memorialist's salary was to be paid at the rate of 4 s. British per day; Mr. Dalton's at that of £. 80. per annum; that in consequence of Memorialist's faithful conduct in his office, he received an augmentation of Half-a-crown per day; which augmentation was afterwards granted to Mr. Dalton in similar terms, and for the same reasons assigned for granting it to Memorialist.

That

That from this review, it appears that the additional allowance of Half-a-crown a day, which this Honourable Board has been pleased to continue as a compensation to Mr. Dalton for his diminution of salary, had been granted to Memorialist by the late Board of Ordnance, previous to its having been granted to Mr. Dalton, and that the nature and terms of that grant were similar to each; that in other respects their appointments were of the same kind, excepting that a part of Memorialist's salary, though paid at the same periods with that of Mr. Dalton, was paid at a certain rate per day, amounting to £. 79. 1 s. 8 d. per annum, whereas Mr. Dalton's was rated at an annual sum of £. 80.

Memorialist therefore humbly conceives that the decision of this Honourable Board was chiefly founded on the difference of expression in determining the first part of the salaries of Mr. Dalton and Memorialist; which difference, he with all respect submits to this Honourable Board not to be essential, for which he begs leave to offer the under-mentioned reasons, humbly hoping that this Honourable Board will admit the severity of his situation, as an excuse for the trespass he is sensible he is committing.

1st.—Memorialist's salary was paid quarterly, as that of all the other Clerks; and, though rated by a certain sum per day, was by no means of the same nature with those daily allowances refused in certain cases to be admitted by this Honourable Board: his was ratified, by an Act of the Board, perpetual, unless revoked by a similar act; the others were paid from the order of the Surveyor General alone, whose signature it was necessary should be renewed every week.

2d.—For the improbability of Memorialist's appointment being so revoked, he begs leave to appeal to the inclosed letter from Sir George Shee, the then Surveyor General of the Irish Ordnance.

3d.—That the nature of Memorialist's appointment was considered also by the British Ordnance as the same with that of Mr. Edward Dalton, who received compensation for the difference of his salaries, is proved by Memorialist being now appointed the second Clerk, Mr. Dalton but the third; Memorialist with a salary of Ninety pounds, Mr. Dalton with only Eighty pounds in the present arrangement, which was determined by the British Board solely from a comparison of their appointments by the late Irish Board: Memorialist was preferred, his appointment having been antecedent by a few days.

Memorialist therefore humbly hopes that this Honourable Board will take his case into their humane consideration, and allow him such redress as to their wisdom shall seem meet.

And he will ever pray.

Rich^d Wrightson.

Ordnance-office, Sept^r. 3d 1802.

Mr. John Hughes, sworn.

Saith, He was first Clerk to the principal Storekeeper of the late Board of Ordnance in Ireland. There were two Clerks under Examinant in said department. Three Clerks would have been as few as possibly could do the duty of said department. If the office had not been done away, Examinant is of opinion that Mr. Wrightson would have been continued. The salary was increased in consequence of the pressure of the business, as Deponent believes. The business in the Storekeeper's department is still greater than it had originally been, and same will continue, as Deponent believes.

John Hughes.

Monday, 11th October 1802.

Robert Coleman, Esquire, Clerk of the Survey of the Ordnance, sworn.

Saith, That the present salary of Mr. Richard Wrightson is Ninety pounds per annum. Saith, that the two papers now delivered in, and signed, and certified by Examinant, were by him copied from the Minutes of the late Board of Ordnance in Ireland, and are true copies thereof; and it appears thereby, that Mr. Wrightson's salary under said Board was at the rate of £. 129. 6 s. 8 d. per annum. Saith, that in consequence of the comparison of the dates of the appointments of Mr. Wrightson and Mr. Dalton, Mr. Wrightson having had a prior appointment under the late Board, the present one did appoint Mr. Wrightson to be second Clerk, and Mr. Dalton third Clerk. Saith, there are at present four Clerks in the Storekeeper's office, and has heard there were but three Clerks in the said office under the late Board. Mr. Wrightson was one of said Clerks; but Examinant has appointed Mr. Wrightson to his own office, and removed him from the Storekeeper's department. It appears to Examinant that Mr. Wrightson's former salary was discontinued in consequence of the Union. Examinant considers that Mr. Wrightson's salary under the late Board would have been permanent had said Board continued. It is the rule of the present Board to take their Clerks at a low salary, and to increase same according as they deserve it, or according to their lengths of service.

R. Coleman.

December 18th 1801.

Fielding Lytton, Esquire, being duly sworn.

Deponent was first Clerk to Secretary of Ordnance; to the best of Deponent's recollection, and, as appears by a Minute-book of the late Ordnance Board, Mr. Richard Wrightson was employed as Assistant Clerk in the office of principal Storekeeper, at Four shillings and four pence per day; appointment dated eighth June 1798: it also appears by said book that his salary was raised Half-a-crown (2 s. 8 d.) in addition to Four shillings and four pence, on the 1st January 1800. That said Wrightson was in possession of his said employment on the 1st January left.

That said Half-crown was granted for additional trouble in the hurry of business, as appears from said Minute-book. Believes that the dearth of provisions might have been a reason.

That Edward Dalton was employed as Assistant Clerk in the office of Secretary of the late Ordnance Board, as appears by the said Minute-book, at £. 80. a year; appointment dated 30th June 1798: this appointment, as appears by said Minute-book, took place on account of increase of business, and to continue during the pleasure of the Board. On 2d May 1800, the Board granted an additional Half-crown (2 s. 8 d.) to said Edward Dalton; said additional allowance commenced on 1st day of January 1800. Recollects that said additional allowance of 2 s. 8 d. was granted on account of the increased price of provisions, and every other article.

Deponent saith, that James Riely was appointed Assistant Clerk in Surveyor General's office of the Ordnance Board at the salary of Four shillings and four-pence per day; the appointment took place on 21st January 1799, as appears by said Minute-book. That on 22d July 1800, an additional allowance of Half-a-crown (2 s. 8 d.) was granted to said Mr. Riely in same manner as had been granted to said Dalton and Wrightson.

Fielding Lytton.

Extract from the Minutes, 30th June 1798.

The Secretary having represented, that, owing to the increase of business in his department, he found it impossible to keep up the business of correspondence, &c. with any degree of satisfaction to himself, and therefore requested that an Assistant Clerk may be added to his office during the pleasure of the Board:

Approved thereof; and that, agreeable to the request of the Secretary, Mr. Edward Dalton be his Assistant Clerk, at £. 80. per annum.

The principal Storekeeper having reported that an additional Clerk, during the present increase of business in his department, is actually necessary, and conceiving the Board would not object to the appointment of one for the period of such increase, he had taken Mr. Richard Wrighton into his office on the 8th of June last.

Approved, that Mr. Wrighton be employed accordingly, at the rate of 4 s. 4 d. per day, and be paid at such rate from said day.

No. 163.—WILLIAM MONKS.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of William Monks, late Assistant Clerk of the Works in the Irish Ordnance,

Sheweth,

Memorialist has received a judication, wherein he is allowed but £. 80. per annum compensation, and Memorialist's claim being £. 153. which he humbly conceived he had proved to the satisfaction of your Honours, by the testimony of Mr. Thomas Dickinson, first Clerk to the Surveyor General, Memorialist not receiving any information to the contrary.

Memorialist's claim has been allowed many years before the additional salary stated in the returns made by Mr. Boulger; it commenced on the 28th September tember 1793, to Mr. John Stokes, then Assistant Clerk of Works, and was regularly continued by the different Surveyor Generals to the persons filling that office to the 30th September 1801, being eight years.

The cause of so small a sum as £20. only being added to the Assistant Clerk of Works salary, as stated by Mr. Boulger, was in consequence of the Board knowing that he received out of the Carriage-yard Department, the sum of £. 73. per annum.

Memorialist begs leave to state, that the duty of Assistant Clerk of Works was the severest in the Ordnance Department, and in consequence thereof, your Memorialist would not take on him such duty for £. 80. per annum, when Memorialist was allowed a greater salary as an extra Clerk for doing little more than half the duty.

Memorialist also begs leave to observe, that he claims no kind of compensation, but his bare salary which he received from the day of his appointment to the day of his dismissal.

Memorialist therefore humbly prays your Honours will take his case again under consideration, and allow Memorialist the amount of his original claim, which he with the greatest diligence earned, was regularly paid, and is now deprived of by the Act of Union, and suppression of the Irish Ordnance.

And Memorialist will pray.

Will^m Monks.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of William Monks, late Assistant Clerk of the Works, and Clerk of the Checque to the late Board of Ordnance in Ireland,

Humbly sheweth,

That Memorialist has received an adjudication, wherein he is allowed but £. 80. per annum compensation; his claim being for £. 153. which he humbly conceived he had proved to the satisfaction of your Honours, by the testimony of Mr. Thomas Dickinson, first Clerk to the Surveyor General (Memorialist not receiving any information to the contrary, or he could have produced many more to substantiate his claim) your Memorialist's claim being so many years longer allowed than any additional salaries that have been stated in the returns made by Mr. Boulger. Memorialist conceives, that during his service in the Ordnance, he has done not only the duty attached to the employment which Memorialist claims restitution for, but also has done the duty of three other persons who were attached to the Clerk of the Works office, when Memorialist was appointed to his situation, the salary of whom has been saved to Government through Memorialist's constant attention and application to business; and here Memorialist is sorry to state, he has been deprived of his health in said service, and which he is afraid will never be reinstated. For the truth of those assertions, he begs leave to refer your Honours to the Master General.

Your Memorialist therefore humbly prays your Honours will reconsider his case, and allow him the amount of his original claim, which he with the greatest diligence earned, was regularly paid, and is now deprived of by the Act of Union, and the dissolution of the Ordnance.

And Memorialist will ever pray.

Will^m Monks.

Thomas Dickinson, Esquire, being duly sworn.

Deponent was first Clerk to the Surveyor General of Ordnance.

That since the latter end of the year 1793, the Assistant Clerk to the Clerk of the Works of Ordnance was allowed and paid £. 1. 8 s. additional allowance per week; week; that he was paid by the Treasurer of the Ordnance on the weekly abstract up to May 1797, as far as Deponent checked the Bills; the said Bills were afterwards checked by the Surveyor General of the Ordnance. Deponent knoweth of the same allowance being continued up to the 30th September last, from the Treasurer's account, which Deponent examined.

Deponent believes the said allowance was first granted for superintending workmen at over hours, after six o'clock in the evening, and also the said allowance was made in consequence of the war, having never been given before.

Thomas Dickinson.

On the Claim of William Monks.

14th March 1803.

Robert Grant, sworn.

Saith, That Mr. William Monks was allowed £ 1. 8 s. weekly, as Assistant Clerk of the Works; saith, he was also Clerk of the Checque; does not know whether he had any appointment for it; knows he was Clerk of the Checque, because he did the duty, and assisted Deponent: Deponent was Assistant Clerk of the Works and Clerk of the Checque before Mr. Monks. The Assistant Clerk of the Works and Clerk of the Checque was always held by one person, and was one office; Deponent came to the office in 1795; the same person who was on the Establishment as Assistant Clerk of the Works at £. 80. a year, was also Clerk of the Checque, and received £. 1. 8 s. per week extra pay; on both; does not know of Mr. Monks having done the duty of three Officers. Saith, that when Messrs. Stokes, Pilsworth, and Clark, were dismissed from the Ordnance, there were not any new Officers brought in; Deponent did not consider those persons as Officers; Clark and Pilsworth were Foremen labourers; when they went out Mr. Monks had to prepare the bills, which they used to prepare, at the time there was so much hurry; when Mr. Stokes went out Deponent got his office, but no new Clerk was brought in. Deponent understands it thus: that the additional pay was granted Mr. Monks not as distinctly holding the offices of Assistant Clerk of the Works and Clerk of the Checque, but as for holding same jointly, and as one office, before Mr. Monks was put on the Establishment, that is to say, when he came in as third Assistant Clerk in that office, he had an allowance of £. 1. 11 s. 6 d. per week; the extra Clerks in Deponent's office in that assistance was paid more than those, on the Establishment; that was the case with him. He was an extra Clerk called in upon the hurry of business during the Rebellion; when he was put on the Establishment said pay ceased; when he was put on the Establishment at £. 80. a year, he had an extra pay of £. 1. 8 s. per week for filling the duty of Assistant Clerk of Works and Clerk of Checque, both in one; Deponent had same in 1795, and Mr. Monks came in in July 1799. Mr. Stokes had same allowance; Deponent succeeded him; does not know when Stokes was appointed; Mr. Monks did receive from the day of his appointment to his dismissal out of the Carriage-yard, £. 73. per annum, which is at the rate of £. 1. 8 s. per week; Deponent cannot say whether, if the Irish Board of Ordnance had continued, Mr. Monks would have continued to hold said salaries or not. Is convinced the two offices of Assistant Clerk of Works and Clerk of the Checque were in one.

On the Claim of William Monks.

22d October 1804.

William Turner, Esquire, sworn.

Saith,

That Mr. William Monks was Assistant Clerk of the Works, and lost said employment in consequence of the Union; saith, in virtue of said office he was paid £. 1. 8 s. per week, in addition to £. 80. per annum on the Establishment; the £. 1. 8 s. was extra pay for the same office; Mr. Monks had been appointed about the first day of July 1799 to be Assistant Clerk of the Works; saith, that the pay of £. 80. per annum on the Establishment, and £. 1. 8 s. per week extra pay, was at that time the pay attached to said office. Mr. Monks had been a Clerk in the Clerk of Works office prior to his appointment of Assistant Clerk of Works; the £. 1. 8 s. was on the weekly list. Mr. Monks succeeded Mr. Grant, and Mr. Grant had been allowed the £. 1. 8 s. per-week, and £. 80. per annum.

No. 164.—THOMAS WATSON.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The humble Memorial of Thomas Watson, late Foreman or Master Cutler to His Majesty's late Board of Ordnance in Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist was employed in the above department at the time of, and for upwards of nine years previous to the dissolution of the late Board of Ordnance in this Kingdom, which took place in consequence of the Union, at a salary of £. 67. 12 s. per annum.

That by reason of the dissolution of said Board, the said employment of Foreman or Master Cutler, which was, and that would have continued to exist had said Board remained as before the Union, was, by order of the Surveyor General of the British Ordnance, totally abolished from the first day of September instant.

That in consideration of the long and faithful service of your Memorialist, in which your Memorialist was afflicted with the loss of his health by a paralytic stroke, at the time of the Rebellion, in consequence of severe duty, which will render Memorialist for ever incapable of earning bread for himself and his family in any other line of business, the present Board were graciously pleased to order that an allowance from said Board be granted to Memorialist, commencing from the first day of September instant, at the rate of Thirty-nine pounds ten shillings and ten pence per annum.

That under said new arrangement Memorialist will suffer a loss of Twenty-eight pounds one shilling and two pence per annum during his life, unless compensated by this Honourable Board for same, which Memorialist humbly submits to this Honourable Board he is entitled to.

And therefore Memorialist humbly prays your Honours to take his case into consideration, and grant him such compensation as to your Honours shall seem meet.

Saith, Deponent was Assistant Clerk of the Works in the Ordnance Department in 1793, at which time, or thereabouts, Watson was first employed in the Ordnance-yard as Cutler, Deponent believes at the recommendation of Admiral Pakenham; and Deponent was full-Clerk of the Works in 1796, when Mr. Burgh, as Surveyor General of Ordnance, and at the head of the Ordnance, promoted him to be Master Cutler; Mr. Burgh signified his appointment to Deponent: In the beginning of 1797 he was ordered to duty in the stores; his pay was augmented three or four four different times; about the month of May 1798 Watfon had a paralytic ftroke and Deponent was ordered by Sir George Shee, then Surveyor of Ordnance, not to ftroke him off to half-pay during his illnefs, but to continue to him his full pay, which was accordingly done. It was the conftant practice to allow Foremen their full pay when unwell; he was, as Deponent believes, continued in full pay during the remainder of the time that Deponent continued in the employment of the Board; Deponent believes, had faid Board continued to exift, they would in confideration of his character, which was extremely good, have continued to him his full pay; he was permitted to keep an apprentice, the benefit arifing from whole labour faid Watfon received, until he difmiffed faid apprentice for bad conduct; believes his pay was Four fhillings and four pence per day for fix days in the week.

The prefent Board continued Watfon from the time they commenced to faid firft of September laft.

On the Claim of Thomas Watfon.

Mr. Robert Grant, sworn.

Saith, Deponent is still Clerk of the Works in the Ordnance department; knows Thomas Watfon; he was employed by the late Board of Ordnance as Foreman Cutler, at 4*s.* 4*d.* per day for six days in the week; Deponent paid him his full pay to the 30th September 1801, as Deponent recollects, at which time the payment ceased by the old Board. It was the custom of the late Board to allow to Foremen when sick their full pay, and to working men half-pay; he recollects two Foremen who enjoyed their full pay; to wit, William Bourke, Foreman Harness-maker, who got his pay for three years, until his death; and William Morton, View-Master, who got his up to the time of his death.

Robert Grant.John Cooke, sworn.

Saith, the employment which Thomas Watfon held in the Ordnance has been totally dissolved; saith, that Watfon now receives Fifteen shillings and two pence per week, and has lost Ten shillings and ten pence per week; does not think that would have been the case had the old Board continued; never heard of their having discontinued any man; he believes the old Board would not have discontinued him, because they considered him a very steady faithful servant; there was not any person put into his office from the time of his getting the paralytic stroke; he attended as often as he could; he attended the new Board constantly until they abolished his office entirely, they having so few men employed in his line, and believes it was not by reason of his ill health that they discontinued him, but that it was for the reason aforesaid.

John Cooke.

To the Right Honourable Richard Earl Annesley, First Commissioner of Compensation, &c. &c.

The humble Petition of Thomas Watfon, Foreman or Master Cutler, to the late Board of Ordnance at Dublin,

Sheweth,

That your Petitioner on or about the 8th day of September 1802, did present a Memorial to the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners of Compensation, praying to be compensated for the loss sustained by your Petitioner in being removed from said place, in consequence of the Union; and that on Monday the 21st day of December 1802, your Lordship and their Honours were pleased to hear and examine the Witnesses produced by your Petitioner in support of his said claim.

That having heard the Honourable Admiral Pakenham, and examined, on oath, Mr. John Hughes, Mr. John Stokes, and Doctor Charleton, on behalf of Petitioner, your Lordship was pleased to say that you thought Petitioner had proved every thing that was necessary, save only that his pay was Four shillings and four pence per day.

That on the Monday following your Petitioner proved by Mr. John Cooke, the Master Furber to the Board of Ordnance, that his pay was 4*s.* 4*d.* per day, and it having appeared on the examination of said Cooke, that Petitioner was retained eleven months by the new Board after they commenced (and which Petitioner apprehends was the cause his Memorial was dismissed) although your Petitioner, if it had not slipped his memory, was prepared, and would have shewn by the testimony of the said Cooke, that immediately after the change, Mr. Charles Hochstetter, who was then Clerk of the Checque, and one of the respective officers, gave notice to said Cooke, who was the officer immediately over Petitioner, that that Petitioner's place of Master Cutler was to be abolished, and your Petitioner discharged.

That all other Foremen in the employment of said Board had their pay raised, and were continued, save only Mr. Benjamin Hepenstall, who was Master Wheeler, and he was discharged on his full pay.

That by reason of the very high price of every necessary of life, your Petitioner and his family are reduced from a comfortable situation to great poverty and want, your Petitioner's half-pay being but Two shillings and two pence per day, and which, as Petitioner has no other property, and is totally disabled by a paralytic stroke as hereinafter mentioned, from earning any thing, he finds to be wholly inadequate to support himself and family, consisting of a wife and two daughters.

That your Petitioner, who was a strong robust man, and having in the prime of his life lost the use of one side, and brought on a premature old age by his exertions in the service of His Majesty, he humbly prays that, by your Lordship's goodness, his case may be reconsidered.

May it therefore please your Lordship to take Petitioner's case into consideration, and grant, or obtain for him such relief, as to your Lordship shall seem fit.

And your Petitioner will pray.

Thos Watson.

John Cooke, sworn.

Saith, Deponent was View-Master to the late Board of Ordnance at the time Thomas Watson was Foreman to the Artificers; saith, that about the time the new Board of Ordnance was instituted, Mr. Hochstetter informed Deponent that it was the intention of the new Board to abolish the office of Foreman, as it was unnecessary to keep one to look after so few men as they had; saith, that Mr. Watson was continued for about eleven months by the new Board on full pay; saith, that Mr. Watson's office has been laid down by the new Board, and Deponent now has to do the duty of it along with other business; Deponent is Master Furber in said department; saith, it is Deponent's opinion that Mr. Watson having been dismissed is owing to an arrangement of the new Board, and not to any neglect of duty on his part; saith, he knew Mr. Ben. Hepenstall was a Foreman, and was dismissed by the new Board, and he now gets his full pay, viz. Five shillings and five pence per day for six days in the week, and believes that it was upon the interference of Lord Carhampton that his pay was enlarged from Half-a-crown per day, at which he was put out. Hepenstall had been forty years in the service.

No. 165.—JAMES REILLY.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of James Reilly, Assistant Clerk in the Surveyor General of the late Board of Ordnance office,

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist was several years an Assistant Clerk in the Surveyor General's office, for which he received a salary of £. 128. 10 s. 2½ d. per annum.

83.

That

That in consequence of the late changes in said department, occasioned by a Legislative Union between Great Britain and Ireland, the office of Surveyor General has been dissolved, and Memorialist has thereby suffered a loss of his salary, being £. 128. 10s. 2½d. per annum.

Memorialist therefore humbly prays that your Honourable Board will take his case into consideration, and order him such compensation as to your wisdom and humanity shall seem meet.

James Reilly.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of James Reilly, Assistant Clerk in the Surveyor General's office of the late Irish Board of Ordnance,

Sheweth,

That Memorialist some time since humbly addressed your Honours on the subject of compensation, for the loss which he sustained in consequence of the changes that took place in said department, occasioned by the Union, namely, £. 58. 10s. 2d. per annum.

That Memorialist, to his great mortification, and indeed not a little disappointed, was told, that his claim was dismissed, but upon what grounds he knows not.

Memorialist, impressed with the idea that the Honourable Board of Compensation is composed of men of too strict honour and tender feelings, to deprive an Individual of the smallest relief, when they are given to understand that he merits their support :

Memorialist therefore humbly hopes, that on a reinvestigation of his claim, it will appear to your Honourable Board that he is as justly entitled to compensation as any Assistant Clerk who acted under the late Board of Ordnance, and who have experienced your liberality.

Memorialist trusts your Honourable Board will be pleased to take his case once more into consideration, and grant him such compensation as to your wisdom and humanity shall seem meet.

Which is humbly submitted.

James Reilly.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of James Reilly, Assistant Clerk in the late Surveyor General of the Ordnance office,

Sheweth,

That Memorialist has been for some years employed in the late Surveyor General's office, at a salary of One hundred and twenty-eight pounds ten shillings and two pence halfpenny per annum.

That in consequence of the late changes in said department, occasioned by the Union, which deprived Memorialist of every future prospect under the late Board, it was thought necessary to continue Memorialist on the new Establishment for the discharge of his former duty, which employment Memorialist accepted of at the salary of £. 70. per annum, being given to understand that he would be allowed the difference between this present and former salary, on application to the Honourable Board of Compensation.

Memorialist therefore humbly prays the Board will be pleased to grant him the loss which he has sustained by the Incorporation, being Fifty-eight pounds ten shillings and two pence halfpenny per annum, which is most humbly submitted.

Ordnance-office,
December.

James Reilly.

We,

We, the Board of respective Officers of His Majesty's Ordnance in Ireland, do certify, That Mr. James Reilly, late Assistant Clerk in the Surveyor General's office, is continued under us, at the salary of Seventy pounds per annum.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of James Reilly,

Humbly sheweth,

That Memorialist had been employed under the late Irish Board of Ordnance, as a Clerk in the office of the Surveyor General, for the discharge of the duties of which employment he received a salary of £. 128. 10s. 2d. per annum.

That, on the changes which were occasioned by the Union, Memorialist was employed under the English Board, and that his salary at present is £. 70. per annum, by which Memorialist's income has been diminished in value £. 58. 10s. 2d.

That Memorialist did some time since apply to your Honourable Board on the subject of the loss he sustained, but did not at that time complete his evidence, so as to enable your Honourable Board to grant him an adjudication; but humbly solicits that your Honourable Board, with their usual indulgence, will allow him now to produce such evidence as he then omitted, and which he trusts will, without trespassing but a short time on their goodness, complete his case to their satisfaction.

And Memorialist will for ever pray.

On the Claim of James Reilly.

Captain Robert Coleman, sworn.

Saith, Deponent hath been a Member of the present Board of Ordnance from the month of September 1801: saith, that Mr. Reilly receives under same £. 70. per annum; saith, that Mr. Reilly received from the late Board £. 128. 10s. 2d. per annum; saith, he hath not any perquisite or emolument whatsoever to make up the difference; saith, that there are only four Clerks under the respective Officers on the establishment of present Clerks; saith, that Deponent hath the books of the old Board of Ordnance, and from them it appears that Mr. Reilly was so employed, and paid, by the old Board; saith, that there never was any agreement made either with Mr. Reilly, Mr. Wrightson, or Mr. Dalton, that they should give up their claims to compensation upon getting a reduced salary from the present Board; but on the contrary, Deponent saith, it was always understood that they would have a claim for compensation for the reduction of salaries. It was always to be understood by the present Board of Ordnance; and in a conversation which Deponent had with Admiral Pakenham, late Master General of the Ordnance, a few days since, he informed Deponent that they always understood so likewise, and that they never made any agreement with him not to apply for compensation.

Thomas Dickinson, sworn.

Saith, That Mr. Reilly's salary from the late Board of Ordnance was £. 128. 10s. 2d. per annum, which was paid him quarterly; saith, that the paper-writing now delivered and signed by Examinant, contains true extracts from the books of the late Board of Ordnance, which extracts were taken therefrom by Examinant:

minant: faith, that Mr. Reilly continued to receive the salaries specified in and by the said extracts, from the respective times upon which same were granted him, up to the time of the dissolution of said Board on the 30th September 1801; faith, that Mr. Reilly was brought in during the Rebellion in 1798, at which time there was a considerable increase of business in the office, and he continued in office from thenceforth. Believes the reason of his getting an increased salary was, that the Board thought the first salary not sufficient. Saith, all the other Clerks of the Board got an additional salary; faith, the other Clerks had received the additional salary, as Examinant believes, about five or six years back.

Tho^t Dickinson.

James Reilly, Assistant Clerk in the Surveyor General's office, Commenced his salary from 22d July 1798, at 4*s.* 4*d.* per day.—Extract from Minutes dated 21st January 1799.

Approved, That the second Assistant Clerk in the Surveyor General's office do receive an allowance of 4*s.* 4*d.* per day, while employed as aforesaid.

Commenced his additional salary from 1st January 1800—from Minutes, dated 22d July 1800.

Agreed, To allow Mr. James Reilly the extra pay of 2*s.* 8½*d.* per day, which has been granted other Assistant Clerks in this department, to commence from the 1st of January last.

1804, Nov. 12th.

December 18th 1801.

Fielding Lytler, Esquire, being duly sworn.

Deponent was first Clerk to Secretary of Ordnance, to the best of Deponent's recollection; and, as appears by a Minute-book of the late Ordnance Board, Mr. Richard Wrightson was employed as Assistant Clerk in the office of principal Store-keeper, at 4*s.* 4*d.* per day; appointment dated 8th June 1798. It also appears by said book, that his salary was raised 2*s.* 8½*d.* in addition to 4*s.* 4*d.* on the 10th June 1800. That said Wrightson was in possession of his said employment on 10th January last.

That said Half-crown was granted for additional trouble on the hurry of business, as appears by said Minute-book. Believes that the dearth of provisions might have been a reason.

That Edward Dalton was employed as Assistant Clerk in the office of Secretary of the late Ordnance Board, as appears by the said Minute-book, at £. 80. a year; appointment dated 30th June 1798. This appointment, as appears by said Minute-book, took place on account of increase of business, and to continue during the pleasure of the Board. On 2d May 1800, the Board granted an additional Half-crown to said Edward Dalton; said additional allowance commenced on first day of January 1800. Recollects that said additional allowance of 2*s.* 8½*d.* was granted on account of the increased price of provision, and every other article.

Deponent faith, that James Reilly was appointed Assistant Clerk in Surveyor-General's office of the Ordnance Board, at the salary of 4*s.* 4*d.* per day; the appointment took place on 21st January 1799, as appears by said Minute-book. That on 22d July 1800, an additional allowance of Half-a-crown was granted to said Mr. Reilly, in same manner as had been granted to said Dalton and Wrightson.

No. 166.—THOMAS TOWNSEND.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Thomas Townsend,

Sheweth,

THAT Memorialist was in the month of March one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, duly appointed Clerk of Stores to the Artillery at Mallow, in the county of Cork, at a salary of Five shillings a day, besides Six shillings a week for lodging-money, and Seven pounds a year for coals and candles, making together One hundred guineas and two shillings yearly; which salary and emoluments he has regularly received.

That the Ordnance Establishment in this country having been discontinued on the Union, the appointment of Memorialist thereby ceased, and he has in consequence altogether lost and been deprived of the said salary and emoluments, and has not obtained any office, profits, or emoluments in lieu thereof.

Your Memorialist therefore prays, that you will take his case into consideration, and award him such compensation as to your wisdom shall seem meet.

Monday 15th March 1802.

Theobald Richard O'Flaherty, twcn.

Saith, That Laurence Owens was paid (as Examinant believes) Fees of honour as Porter, by Sir Chichester Fortescue, separately and for himself only, for the four years stated in the Account hereunto annexed, and signed by Examinant.—Examinant made the accounts up from the books wherein said Owens accounts of fees were inserted.

Saith, That the list now given in, and signed by Examinant, contains a full and true account of the Fees of honour in the four years therein mentioned, which were paid by Sir Chichester Fortescue, King at Arms, to the Servants of the Lord Lieutenant.

Threshold Rick O'Flaherty.

The 22d March 1802.

Mr. Richard Braughton, sworn.

Is a Clerk in the office of Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant; Laurence Owens was returned to Examinant about March 1796, in a list of the Lord Lieutenant's Servants.

Servants, as his Porter, to whom Examinant paid certain allowances as such from that time. He was Porter in January 1801; does not know from what fund he was paid. Examinant received the money, and pays a certain list of the Lord Lieutenant's servants; viz. a person of the name of Michael Perrell, a Gentleman Porter; the Assignee of the Manager of the Theatre Royal, Mr. Daly. Robert Moynton is not on the list; James Hewflor is not; Eugene Moriarty is not; James Sutherland, Charles Sorie, Patrick Regan, Charles Butts, Robert Robinson, Estano Gro, Thomas Goold, James Flanagan, Moses Thaxter, Charles Osborne, Thomas Webster, Redmond Foley, James Lavin, Matthew Donohoo, Henry Rice, and Thomas O'Grady, are not any of them on the list. Cannot tell by whom Owens was referred to Examinant; believes it was by the Steward of the Household. Examinant cannot recollect by what, but did receive some authority to pay him; it is a quarterly allowance Examinant pays him. Examinant makes out an account every quarter from the former list, and does not make any alteration therein without a notice to that effect from the Steward of the Household; does not get a fresh list upon the appointment of a new Lord Lieutenant, but makes it out according to the former list, except that on a vacancy, and appointment of a new person in his place, there is an alteration. Owens is the only servant whom Examinant pays; unless Perrell, who holds by Patent, may be considered as one. Owens was paid up to September last.

Richard Broughton.

The 19th day of April 1801.

William Taylor, Esquire, sworn.

Saith, He knows Laurence Owens to be Porter to the Lord Lieutenant at the Portico, and to have been so for many years; believes he had not any written appointment, but that he is an Officer not removable by the change of any administration, but his employment being Porter at the Portico is a permanent situation, and he is paid of course, not requiring any new notification of his appointment; he is paid a certain allowance out of the Chief Secretary's office, and board-wages when the Lord Lieutenant is not in town.

NO. 168.—CHARLES CROKER.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Charles Croker, late Assistant Clerk of the Checque, in the Clerk of Works office, Ordnance department,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist is the son of the late Lieutenant Thomas Croker, who had served more than thirty years in the army, died in the year 1796 on half-pay, leaving six children unprovided for. Your Memorialist at that time being the only one capable of business, was appointed Assistant Clerk of Checque in Clerk of Works office, Ordnance department.

That your Memorialist continued Assistant Clerk of Checque from the month of October 1796, to the month of 1802, at which time the suppression of the late Board, with a number of Clerkships, took place, occasioned by the Union.

That your Memorialist's father and mother died within a few hours of each other, (by the putrid fever) on the 3d of September 1796, and Memorialist was appointed the subsequent month, to the aforesaid situation.

Your Memorialist hopes, in consideration of his father's long services, the situation of his family, and your Memorialist's early appointment at thirteen years old, that you you will be pleased to take into consideration the unpleasantness of his case, and compensate him as you may think proper.

And Memorialist will pray.

Mr. Robert Grant, sworn.

Is Clerk of the Works in the Ordnance department. Saith, Mr. Monks was his Assistant Clerk: he was allowed a second Clerk; Mr. Croker was appointed to that employment by Mr. Burgh, at the time stated in his Memorial; he was in said office at the time Deponent came into fame, in the year 1799: his salary was Forty-eight pounds ten shillings and eight pence per annum, otherwise Eighteen shillings and eight pence per week: he had same from the year 1799 until the time the respective Officers took the payments in their hands; he was an Assistant Clerk in the office; he had not any predecessor in his office. The respective Officers discontinued Mr. Croker on their taking the payments into their hands. General Boë stated to Deponent, that the Clerk of the Works in England was allowed but one Assistant, and that no more should be kept here.

Deponent now has but one Clerk under him. The Engineer has three or four Clerks in his office; and the business of Clerk of the Works and Engineer are now combined together, the business being mixed together.

Robert Grant,

William Monks, sworn.

Mr. Croker did, preparatory to Deponent's going out of his office of Deputy to Mr. Grant upon Compensation, inform Deponent, that he would apply for Deponent's employment, which Deponent believes he would have obtained had Deponent gone out, and the Irish Board of Ordnance continued. Mr. Croker did frequently act in Deponent's absence as Assistant Clerk of the Checque. Mr. Croker acted in Deponent's absence frequently as Assistant Clerk of the Works and Clerk of the Checque. He was an Assistant in the office, and did Deponent's business in his absence.

No. 170.—RICHARD GRIFFITH.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Griffith, Esquire, Forage-master to His Majesty's Board of Ordnance in Ireland,

Sheweth,

THAT your Memorialist was appointed to the office of Forage-master to the Board of Ordnance in this kingdom on the 31st July 1798, as appears more fully by a letter from the Secretary of said Board, bearing date as above, a copy whereof (No. 1.) is annexed to this Memorial.

That ever since the date of said appointment, your Memorialist hath performed the duties of said office to the satisfaction of said Board, and hath received the just and fair emoluments belonging to the same; that, in consequence of the Union of the two Kingdoms, the abolition of the said Board of Ordnance, and that of the office of Forage-master held by your Memorialist, have been deemed necessary; and your Memorialist, being desirous of receiving compensation for the loss of said office, and not understanding that the proper mode of applying for the same was to this Honourable Court in the first instance, memorialized his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of this kingdom for compensation for the loss of said office, and received in answer to said Memorial a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Littlehales, private Secretary to his Excellency, a copy of which (No. 2.) is hereunto annexed.

That in said letter the following objections are made to the claim of your Memorialist for compensation; viz. That the appointment of Forage-master was made by the Master General and the Board of Ordnance of Ireland, and not by His Majesty or the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; that it was purely an arrangement of a local nature, formed by the Board of Ordnance, and does not belong to the regular establishment; and that no such situation exists in Great Britain.

To which your Memorialist begs leave to answer, that no distinction, as to the mode whereby offices are created, or the nature of the tenure by which they are held, is made by the Act for granting compensation; that it is sufficient that the office of Forage-master to the Board of Ordnance was one out of which certain allowances or emoluments arose to the person holding the same, which office allowance or emoluments have ceased by and in consequence of the Union; that is to say, the whole establishment of the Irish Board of Ordnance is abolished (in consequence of the Union) and with it the office of Forage-master. That, with respect to the nomination being made by the Master General, and not by His Majesty or the Lord Lieutenant, or (as it is termed) derived under the Government, your Memorialist hath been informed, that several persons in similar circumstances have received, or are to receive, compensation under this Act; one instance, directly in point, your Memorialist conceives to be a complete answer to this objection:—Thomas Burgh, Esquire, held the office of Agent to the Royal Irish Artillery by the sole nomination and appointment of the Master General of the Irish Ordnance, and revokable at his will and pleasure; Mr. Burgh could not have any claim for compensation for the loss of said office, except under the provisions of the Compensation Act, which provisions apply with precisely equal force and effect to the claim made by your Memorialist.

That whether the office of Forage-master belong to the regular establishment or not is immaterial, as the Act on which the claim of your Memorialist is founded makes no distinction whether the office for which compensation is to be made be on a fixed or extra establishment; and that, as to the objection that no such situation exists in Great Britain, your Memorialist presumes that this may be the cause of the abolition of said office, but cannot be considered as an argument against compensation for the loss thereof: That, in the letter of the Secretary to the Board of Ordnance (No. 1.) above alluded to, it is stated, that the appointment of Forage-master was an experiment only, and that no claim was to be founded on the Board's thinking thinking proper to discontinue it at any time, however sudden their determination in this respect may be.

That, in answer to this objection, your Memorialist begs leave to state, that, although his office was originally an experiment, it ceased to be so after the experiment had been fully proved, upon trial, both in respect to the system and the individual; that it was continued for years, until the abolition of the Power that created it, and would have lasted as long as that Power should have had existence, had not the Union of the two Ordnance Departments in Great Britain and Ireland necessarily followed that of the Union of the two Kingdoms; and your Memorialist further submits to the consideration of this Honourable Court, that new appointments or arrangements in general are experiments also, whether of the man or of the system, or both; and that, as to the inhibition of founding a claim, it may be observed, that no servant of the Crown has a right to found a claim for compensation on the discontinuance of his office, in consequence of the mere will and pleasure of those set in authority over him, however sudden their determination in this respect may be; and that, consequently, the inhibition above alluded to does not create any distinction between the office of your Memorialist, and that of any other office held under His Majesty's Government.

That your Memorialist begs leave further to observe, that if claims for compensation for the loss of office had been a principle recognized by the Irish Government, the Act, under the authority of which this Honourable Court sits, would have been unnecessary; that the said Act recognizes the principle of granting compensation to all persons, without distinction, for any office or allowance, or any emolument arising from any office, which shall cease or be diminished by the Union, or in consequence thereof; and that it is solely under the authority of said Act, that your Memorialist now claims compensation for the loss of his said office of Forage-master to the Board of Ordnance of Ireland, and that without said Act, your Memorialist could make no claim.

And your Memorialist begs leave to acquaint this Honourable Court, that the foregoing part of this Memorial was prepared for, and would have been laid before this Honourable Court immediately on the dissolution of the Irish Board of Ordnance, had it not been that General Ross, Surveyor General of the British Ordnance (deeming the temporary assistance of your Memorialist as Forage-master, in the then situation of this kingdom, necessary to His Majesty's service) desired your Memorialist to continue in said office, under the direction of the respective officers of Ordnance, until further arrangements should be made in the department; and your Memorialist continued to fill said office until the present time, to the entire satisfaction of the said respective officers, as will appear (your Memorialist confidently trusts) by the testimony of said officers, when called upon.

That an intimation has now been given to Memorialist by General Ross, that no such office as that of Forage-master belonging to or being recognized on the establishment of the British Ordnance, that said office will of course be discontinued; but your Memorialist hath not yet received any official notice thereof from the proper officer, although your Memorialist is in daily expectation thereof; and your Memorialist seeing a late advertisement, desiring all persons who had claims on this Honourable Court to prefer the same, and fearful lest this Honourable Court should close its proceedings to the exclusion of your Memorialist's claim for compensation, your Memorialist craves permission to prefer the same to this Honourable Court, as soon as he shall have received official notification that his said office of Forage Master is discontinued, by the Master General of the Board of Ordnance of the United Kingdom.

Richard Griffith.

Merrion square,
30th August 1802.

Instructions proposed by the Board, and approved of by the Master General, for the Forage-master to the Ordnance Department, referred to in the Board's letter to his Lordship of this date.

Ordnance-office, 31st July 1798.

Sir,

The Master General having been pleased to nominate you to be Forage-master to the horses employed by this Department, the following are the conditions and instructions to which such nomination is subject :

1st. You are to consider this arrangement as an experiment only; and that no claim is to be founded on the Board's thinking proper to discontinue it at any time, however sudden their determination in this respect may be.

2d. You are to be allowed one halfpenny per night for each horse actually foraged, in consideration of your trouble, and in lieu of travelling and incidental charges; also the salary for a clerk in Dublin.

3d. Such occasional assistants in the different stations in the country as may be necessary, will be paid by the Board; but the expence is on no account to exceed one farthing per horse at most, and to be subject to the controul of the Board.

4th. You are to superintend the accounts, regular and incidental, of the Contractors and others supplying forage for horses provided by the Board, including those attached to regiments; and, in short, all matters in the Horse department referred to the superintendence of the Board, and subject to their controul.

5th. You are to prepare all accounts for the inspection of the Surveyor General, and to be otherwise assisting as far as in your power.

6th. You are to observe, that, when favourable contracts cannot be entered into, forage must be provided under your inspection to the most advantage; and it will be your particular duty to visit the different stations occasionally, as well as to take special care that justice be done to the horses.

N. B. The further duties which you are to execute cannot be detailed now, but will be explained to you more fully hereafter, either by the Surveyor General, or by the Board, through their Secretary.

A true copy, which I certify.

To Richard Griffith, Esq. Dublin.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of Richard Griffith, Esquire, Forage-master to His Majesty's Board of Ordnance in Ireland, and Assistant to the Surveyor General of said Ordnance,

Sheweth,

That your Memorialist was appointed to the office of Forage-master to the Board of Ordnance in this kingdom, and Assistant to the Surveyor General of said Ordnance, in matters of account and otherwise, on the 31st July 1798, as appears more fully by a letter from the Secretary of said Board, bearing date as above; a Copy whereof (No. 1.) is annexed to this Memorial.

That ever since the date of said appointment, until the dissolution of said Board, your Memorialist performed the duties of said offices to the satisfaction of said Board, and received the just and fair emoluments belonging to the same.

That in consequence of the Union of the two Kingdoms, the said Board of Ordnance hath been abolished, and with it the offices held under said Board by your Memorialist.

That some time in the month of August 1801, upon the dissolution of the Irish Board of Ordnance, the Board of Ordnance of Great Britain being extended to this kingdom, and the said latter Board having employed General Rois, Surveyor General of the British Ordnance, to make such temporary arrangements for that department in in Ireland as he should deem expedient, he thought fit to desire by word of mouth only, and not by any written order or document whatever received by your Memorialist, that your Memorialist should continue to act for the British Board in the same manner as he had done for the Irish Board, until further arrangements should be made in the department; and your Memorialist hath continued to perform the duties of said office from that time until the end of October last, when your Memorialist received a letter from R. H. Crew, Esquire, Secretary to the Board of Ordnance in England (herewith laid before this Honourable Court, No. 2,) and of which the following is a copy:

Sir,

The Board of Ordnance being of opinion that the employment of Forge-master to the Ordnance department in Ireland, which you have held during the war, is no longer requisite in consequence of the peace; I have in command from them to signify the same to you, and to desire you will consider the appointment as annulled from the receipt of this order, which you will acknowledge.

I am likewise to desire you will make up and deliver in your accounts with all possible dispatch.

I am, Sir,
Your most obedient humble Servant,
(Signed) R. H. Crew,

Mr. Griffiths,
Forge-master, Dublin.

And your Memorialist begs leave to observe, that by the tenor of the foregoing letter, it should seem as if your Memorialist had been originally appointed for and during the war only, whereas no such limitation is contained in the order for his appointment by the Irish Board of Ordnance, as will appear by said order, a copy whereof your Memorialist hath now laid before this Honourable Court, and to which your Memorialist begs leave to refer; and your Memorialist begs leave to observe, that his original appointment was not for or during the war, as stated in the foregoing letter, but during the pleasure of the Irish Board of Ordnance who appointed him; and that his office was not merely that of Forge-master to said Board, but also that of Assistant to the Surveyor General of the Ordnance in matter of account and otherwise; and your Memorialist submits, that it is evident, that his employment was affected by the Union, inasmuch as a material part of the duties, which, by his original appointment, he was required to discharge, depended upon the existence of an office not in anywise affected by peace or war, and which was abolished in consequence of the Union, and the possessor of which (Lieutenant Colonel Unisacke) received full compensation; and your Memorialist presumes, that upon the extension of the British Board of Ordnance to Ireland, in consequence of the Union of the two kingdoms, the office of your Memorialist, as well as every other office in the Irish Ordnance department was virtually annulled, and that ever since the dissolution of the Irish Ordnance department, he hath acted as Forge-master to the British Department, under a new but temporary appointment made by General Ross in the manner already mentioned, to which latter appointment only, your Memorialist conceives the foregoing letter of the Secretary to the British Ordnance can apply. And your Memorialist begs leave to observe, that his office of Forge-master, under the Board of Ordnance of Ireland, was an office peculiar to this country, there being no such office held under the British Board of Ordnance, and that it became necessary here, in consequence of a material difference in the mode of supplying the horses with forage in the two countries, and that said office must have lasted in this kingdom as long as the Board of Ordnance of Ireland should have had existence; and that, although the value thereof might have been diminished by peace, yet the contingencies of war or invasion in this kingdom might increase the value thereof, in a very considerable degree, more than the amount which your Memorialist ever received, or than he demands compensation for.

That your Memorialist's office of Assistant to the Surveyor General, depended not at all on the existence of peace or war, and that the suppression of both said offices was clearly owing to the dissolution of the Irish Board of Ordnance, in consequence of the Union between the two Countries.

And

And further, your Memorialist presumes to observe, that if upon the dissolution of the Irish Board of Ordnance, he had come before this Honourable Court for compensation, he could not have failed to obtain the same, upon the like principles of equity and justice which have induced this Court, as your Memorialist is informed, to adjudge the same to sundry other persons under similar circumstances with your Memorialist; and your Memorialist ventures to assert, that his would be a case of unexampled severity and hardship, if, because a portion of his services were required by the British Board of Ordnance for a few months during the war, or until their general arrangement should take place, that he should be deprived of compensation, which would doubtless have been granted to him if he had been found a useful officer, and consequently dismissed immediately upon the Union of the two Boards.

Your Memorialist begs leave to submit to this Honourable Court, that the papers and documents necessary to prove the extent and nature of the loss sustained by him are not in the possession of your Memorialist, but in the keeping of the respective Officers of Ordnance, and are as follow; viz.

The Minutes of the Irish Board of Ordnance, on the 31st July 1798, respecting the appointment of your Memorialist;—the Account of imposts or advances made by the Irish Board of Ordnance to your Memorialist;—the Account of imposts or advances made by the respective Officers of Ordnance to your Memorialist; the several Accounts furnished by your Memorialist to the Irish Board of Ordnance, from the time of his appointment until the 20th of August 1801;—also, the several Accounts furnished by him to the respective Officers of the British Ordnance, from the 21st August 1801 to the time of his dismissal (in consequence of the letter already quoted) ending 31st October 1802. And your Memorialist entreats this Honourable Court to cause application to be made to the respective Officers of Ordnance, that the proper officer may attend this Court with the said books and papers, and that you will please to summon Mr. Edward Dalton, Clerk to the said respective Officers of Ordnance, and Mr. Thomas Dickinson, formerly Clerk to the Surveyor General of the Irish Ordnance, to attend this Court.

And your Memorialist, being in possession of correct copies of said Accounts, begs leave to state the actual profits and benefits derived by him from his said offices of Forage-master and Assistant to the Surveyor General of the Ordnance, which will fully appear on the production of the said Accounts and Books to be as follow; viz.

Amount of commission received by your Memorialist from the Irish Board of Ordnance, for Horses foraged under the superintendence of your Memorialist, commencing 1st August 1798 and ending 30th September 1801, being 3 years and 2 months, as per annexed Account	£.	s.	d.
	3,070	9	9

Amount of commission received by your Memorialist from the respective Officers of the British Ordnance, for Horses foraged under the superintendence of your Memorialist, commencing 1st October 1801, and ending 31st October 1802, being 1 year and 1 month	£.	s.	d.
	764	0	11

Total Amount of commission received by your Memorialist	£.	3,834	10	8

from 1st August 1798 to 31st October 1802, being a period of 4 years and 3 months, equal to about £.900. per annum.

And it will further appear by the said Books and Accounts, that the several sums advanced to your Memorialist for the payment of the Forage Department during the above period of four years and 3 months, amounted, in the whole, to the sum of £. 148,000. and upwards; and that the whole amount thereof was from time to time paid one month in advance to your Memorialist, and that your Memorialist had thereby the further advantage of the use and occupation of the said advances, for one month previous to the time that your Memorialist was called upon by the Contractors and others for payment of the Forage supplied by them; and the said sum of £. 148,000. being divided by 51 (the number of months that your Memorialist held said office) the average advance for each month during that period will be found to amount to £. 2,900. per month, which sum, at the rate of 6 per cent. per per annum, amounts to £. 175. per annum; and the same being added to the sum of £. 900. already stated as the average amount of the commission received by your Memorialist, makes in the whole the sum of £. 1,075 per annum, which your Memorialist states, and verily believes to be the true amount of the fair and just emoluments of your Memorialist's office, and for the loss of which, in consequence of the Union, your Memorialist prays compensation from this Honourable Court.

Richard Griffith.

Dublin, 27th November 1802.

P.S. Your Memorialist has already laid a Memorial before this Honourable Court, to which he begs leave to refer; and he now incloses the original letter from Colonel Littlehales, adverted to in said Memorial.

Richard Griffith.

(No. 1.)

Ordnance-office, 31st July 1798.

Sir,

The Master General having been pleased to nominate you to be Forgemaster to the Horses employed by this department, the following are the conditions and instructions to which such nomination is subject:

1st. You are to consider this arrangement as an experiment only, and that no claim is to be founded on the Board's thinking proper to discontinue it at any time, however sudden their determination in this respect may be.

2d. You are to be allowed one halfpenny a night for each horse actually foraged, in consideration of your trouble, and in lieu of travelling and incidental charges, also the salary for a Clerk in Dublin.

3d. Such occasional Assistants in the different stations in the country as may be considered necessary, will be paid by the Board, but the expence is on no account to exceed one farthing a horse at most, and to be subject to the controul of the Board.

4th. You are to superintend the accounts, regular and incidental, of the Contractors and others supplying forage for horses provided by the Board, including those attached to Regiments, and in short, all matters in the Horse department, referred to the superintendence of the Board, and subject to their controul.

5th. You are to prepare all accounts for the inspection of the Surveyor General, and to be otherwise assisting as far as in your power.

6th. You are to observe, that where favourable contracts cannot be entered into, forage must be provided under your inspection to the most advantage; and it will be your particular duty to visit the different stations occasionally, and as well as to take special care that justice be done to the horses.

N. B. The further duties which you are to execute cannot be detailed now, but will be explained to you more fully hereafter, either by the Surveyor General, or by the Board by their Secretary.

Office of Ordnance, 26th October 1802.

Sir,

The Board of Ordnance being of opinion, that the employment of Forgemaster to the Ordnance Department in Ireland, which you have held during the war, is no longer requisite in consequence of the peace;

I have it in command from them to signify the same to you, and to desire you will consider the appointment as annulled from the receipt of this order, which you will acknowledge.

Mr. Griffiths,
Forgemaster, Dublin.

Dublin Castle, 26th March 1801.

Dear Sir,

The Lord Lieutenant having maturely considered the Memorial to his Excellency, which you transmitted to me in your letter of the 10th instant, directs me to acquaint you, that, as the appointment to which you allude of Forage-master does not belong to the regular establishment of the Board of Ordnance, and as no such situation exists in Great Britain, his Excellency, with the sincerest desire to promote any wish of yours within his power, does not see, consistent with his public duty, the possibility of granting you any pecuniary recompense in consequence of the abolition of your temporary office, which was not derived under the Government, but purely an arrangement of a local nature, formed by the Board of Ordnance.

His Excellency will be always ready to bear testimony of your zeal and patriotic spirit, which have been manifest in many instances within his knowledge.

I have the honour to be,

Dear Sir,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

E. B. Littlehales.

Saith, That Deponent compared the paper writing now delivered in, and signed by Deponent, and that same is a true extract from the Minute-book of the late Board of Ordnance of Ireland, of the appointment of a Forage-master, bearing date the 31st July 1798—Deponent saith, that same is not directed in the Minute-book to any person, but Deponent hath not any doubt but that same was intended for Mr. Griffith, he having acted under same, and the correspondence with the Forage-master ever since being addressed to Mr. Griffith, and believes the direction was an omission by mistake of the Clerk who entered same—Deponent is one of the respective Officers of Ordnance in Ireland, saith, he hath not any doubt but that the signature R. H. Crew, at the foot of a letter of 26th October, 1802, directed to Mr. Griffith, is the proper hand-writing of Mr. Crew, the Secretary to the English Board of Ordnance—Saith, that the paper writing now produced by Deponent, was extracted from the books of the respective Officers of Ordnance; and Deponent believes same is a true copy. It contains a statement of Mr. Griffith's accounts with said respective Officers, commencing 31st October 1801, and ending 22d November 1802, and is now signed by Deponent—Saith the respective Officers ceased to have any new account with Mr. Griffith after the 31st October 1802.

Saith, that the office of Forage-master is abolished; the duty of said office is performed by the Storekeeper, at the station of Artillery, and in one instance, is performed by the commanding Officer where there is not any Storekeeper. The stations are at Cork, Athlone, and Charlemont, at each of which about 16 horses are kept, and there are at present 128 horses attached to the station in Dublin—Believes there is not any office of Forage-master attached to the British Ordnance; the contracts are made by the respective Officers; they are paid in Dublin by the Board, and in the country by the Storekeepers. Mr. Griffith gave every satisfaction to the respective Officers in the exercise of his duty as Forage-master.

Saith, He is Clerk to Mr. Griffith, and kept the Ordnance Accounts and private Accounts of his office; saith, the Board of Ordnance constantly advanced money to Mr. Griffith. They were from Two to Three thousand pounds per month in advance to him. Mr. Griffith made a profit on said advance; his general line of business required that he should expend large sums of money from time to time, as well on his own account, as for the account of the Board. He lodged the advances in the Bank, and drew same as he required it, by which means he avoided the expence of discount, which he would have been put to had he not the same in the Bank. He generally paid the persons for advance business by Bills at 21, 31, and 61 days. He usually furnished the Ordnance with an Estimate of the expence of the ensuing month, which was accordingly advanced to him.

Charles Hochstetter, Esquire, examined.

Saith, That the Imprests granted by the Board of respective Officers to Mr. Griffith were paid him from time to time for the expenses of the ensuing month, to enable him to make advances to the Contractors where same were necessary: same were made on his giving in his Accounts, which generally was once in each month.

C. Hochstetter.

Said advances were made by the respective Officers from the instructions of the Surveyor General of the present Board, who directed same to be advanced to Mr. Griffith in like manner as they had been by the former Board, who advanced same, as Deponent believes, in like manner.

C. Hochstetter.

3d January 1803.

Admiral Thomas Pakenham, sworn.

Saith, he considers the office of Forage-master to the late Board of Ordnance one from which the Public derived much benefit, and one which Deponent would have continued so long as he had the power of doing so; he thinks the office would have continued in time of peace, as he considers it would have been advantageous to the Public to have it continued, inasmuch as there was not any salary annexed to it, and the profits arising from the allowance of one halfpenny per horse might have been continued, let the number of horses be more or less; there was a considerable saving by reason of the office of Forage-master in horses, the forage having been found better, and the diminution in horses not so great. He believes the expenses of the Horse establishment of the present Board of Ordnance is, in proportion, greater than of the late Board.

There is not, as Deponent believes, any office of Forage-master now subsisting here or in England. If Ireland had been the scene of war, there must have been a considerable addition to the number of horses employed by the ordnance. The appearance of the horses, as well as the high price at which they sold on the cessation, proved that the duty of Forage-master was well administered, so far as Deponent believes. There was not any difference of opinion between Deponent and the other members of the Board, as to the propriety of the conduct of the Forage-master, or as to the necessity of the employment; but, if they had differed with him, they had not any power to alter it: Mr. Griffith was appointed by Lord Carhampton, and continued by Deponent.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

I have had the honour to receive a letter from your Secretary, dated 14th instant, acquainting me that you had considered the Memorial presented by me, and that you did not conceive the same to come within the powers granted to you by the Act of Parliament.

It is with great concern that I find myself under the necessity of again trespassing on your time; but, as I am apprehensive from the tenor of the above letter, that I have failed to state my claim with that clearness and precision which are required in matters of this nature, I entreat your permission to say a few words in explanation. I had the honour to lay two Memorials before you at different times, to both of which I entreat you will have the goodness to refer, as all the circumstances of my claim are diffused through the two Memorials, and are not fully condensed in either.

As you have not deemed it necessary to intimate the circumstances in my case, which you conceived to preclude me from being comprehended in the Compensation Act, I hope you will not think me presumptuous in endeavouring to shew that I stand perfectly within both the letter and the spirit of the said Act; and, if I should succeed in convincing you on this point, I doubt not you will, without reluctance, admit the justice of my claim.

The Act in question grants compensation for any office, or allowance for any emolument arising from any office, that shall cease or be diminished by the Union, and in consequence thereof; and this clause is so general and comprehensive in its operation, as to level all distinctions in respect to the manner how such office or emolument was acquired; it being only necessary to prove that such an office, or such and such emoluments arising from such an office, had a fair and honest existence before the Union, and that the same ceased, or was diminished by the Union, and in consequence thereof.

I have, I presume, laid before you sufficient evidence that I held the offices of Forage-master to the Board of Ordnance of Ireland, and of Assistant in matter of account, and otherwise, to the Surveyor General of said Ordnance, and that I was fairly and justly entitled to certain emoluments arising from said offices, the amount whereof I conceive to have been satisfactorily proved. There remains therefore only for me to shew, that the said offices, or the emoluments arising therefrom, have ceased, or been diminished by the Union, and in consequence thereof.

First

First then, I may presume it will not be denied, that the Board of Ordnance of Ireland was dissolved in consequence of the Union.

Secondly, that the offices of Forage-master to the said Board, and of Assistant to the Surveyor General of said Ordnance, belonged to and were solely dependent on said Board, and could not have existence one moment after the dissolution thereof; and that consequently, the said offices held by me, and the emoluments arising therefrom, ceased by the Union, and in consequence thereof.

It may however be alleged, that after the dissolution of the said Board, I continued to act as Forage-master to the British Board of Ordnance: To which I beg leave to answer, that I never accepted, or received, any commission or appointment whatever under the British Board: That the said Board did not recognize any such office as that of Forage-master in the British establishment, and that I continued to act for the said Board at the mere verbal desire of General Rofs in a temporary manner only, and until the general arrangements of the said Board should take effect; and I venture to repeat, that mine would be a case of unexampled severity and hardship, if, because a portion of my services were required by the British Board of Ordnance for a few months during the war, or until their general arrangements should take place, that I should therefore be deprived of compensation, which would doubtless have been granted me had I been so unworthy as to have refused to act for the good of His Majesty's service in such an exigency.

Can it be imagined, that my having under such circumstances given a temporary use of my services, should change the nature and effect of the Union upon the offices which I held. I maintain, that the offices of Forage-master and Assistant to the Surveyor General, as held by me under the Irish Board of Ordnance, never were transferred to, or placed upon the British Ordnance establishment, and that consequently, I do not stand in the same predicament with some officers of the Irish Ordnance, who were placed in statu quo upon the British establishment.

In order to prove this assertion, it is only necessary to recur to the following words in the letter of the Secretary to the British Board of Ordnance, annulling the office of Forage-master, viz. "The Board of Ordnance being of opinion, that the employment of Forage-master, which you held during the war, is no longer requisite in consequence of the peace, I have in command from them to signify the same to you, and to desire you will consider the appointment as annulled from the receipt of this order, which you will acknowledge."

One of two facts must be evident; either that I was transferred to the establishment of the British Board of Ordnance, pursuant to the letter and spirit of my original appointments under the Irish Board, or that the nature and existence of my original appointments were changed by the Union. To make this point perfectly clear, it will be proper to recur to the original letter of appointment under the Irish Board (now before this Honourable Court) and to compare it with the above-cited letter of annulment. No limitation, as relating to war or peace, nor even the remotest reference to such events, is to be found in the letter from the Irish Board; whereas on the contrary, in the letter from the British Ordnance, the very nature and existence of the office of Forage-master is limited to the duration of the war, and consequently annulled by the peace. And I beg leave to remind this Honourable Court, that Admiral Pakenham, late Master General of the Irish Ordnance, has told you, upon oath, that the Irish Board of Ordnance (after full experience of its use and efficacy) considered the office of Forage-master as a permanent office, and in no way dependent on peace or war. Is it not evident therefore, that the nature of my office of Forage-master was changed by the Union, inasmuch as the most essential part thereof, viz. its permanency, was destroyed thereby; and does it not appear equally evident, that the office of Forage-master, not being consonant to the system or establishment of the British Board of Ordnance (a circumstance in evidence before this Honourable Court) they did not transfer said office to, or place it on this establishment in a permanent manner, but, not wishing to make any sudden change in a moment of external and internal danger, they merely suffered the office to endure while invasion from abroad, and disaffection at home, threatened this country with ruin? and that, as soon as peace gave them time to complete their own system and establishment, they did not dismiss me, but they annulled the office of Forage-master?

If you will have the goodness to read over the evidence of Admiral Pakenham, and compare it with my original appointment, and will then ask the following question, I am content to rest the merits of my claim upon the answer which you yourselves shall give to it. Question: If the Irish Board of Ordnance had not been abolished, would the office of Forage-master be at this moment in existence?

If you can give a negative to the foregoing question, I will admit that my claim does not come within the scope and meaning of the Act. But if, on the contrary, you must declare, that if the Irish Board of Ordnance were now in being, my office (now annulled) would have remained in existence also, you cannot, I humbly conceive, refuse to grant me compensation for the loss of it by, and in consequence of, the Union.

I have the honour to be, with great respect,

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

Richard Griffith.

Millicent,
17th February 1803.

At the desire of Mr. Griffith, the following Observations on the subject of his Claim, are, with deference, submitted to the Commissioners for Compensation.

It is conceived that the Compensation Act comes clearly under the description of Remedial Statutes, and should be expounded according to the rule which obtains in the construction of this class of Laws. The rule is, that, whereas Penal Acts ought to receive a strict construction, and such as will rather confine than extend their operation; Remedial Statutes, on the contrary, should be liberally construed, and with a view to rendering the cure which they dispense so comprehensive, that none of those mischiefs, which the Legislature may have wished to obviate or redress, shall elude the remedial operation of their Law. Nay, it is further conceived, that the Act under consideration is, amongst remedial Statutes, one to which the maxim that regulates their exposition peculiarly and emphatically applies, and this on the following, amongst other grounds:—First, that this must be considered to be a fundamental and constitutional Law, intimately connected with the Act of Union, and asserting a principle which the Commissioners are called upon to render widely operative and efficacious. The principle I mean is this: That the great political change effected by the Union should be brought about without the slightest injury to the vested rights or interests of individuals; for that this measure should be accompanied by the Act of Compensation, repairing on the moment every damage, however trifling, which the Union produced; a principle of obvious wisdom; since, what can be more incumbent on a Government than to hold sacred, and even superstitiously inviolate, in all its ramifications, that private property which Governments were originally instituted to protect from violation. Claimants under the Compensation Act are therefore eminently entitled to the benefit of that rule, which governs the construction of all remedial Acts. To special plead upon their claims, would be to defeat the beneficent intentions of Parliament, and to subvert the Union from a conditional to an absolute, from a just to an iniquitous Law. The Legislature enacted it, not absolutely, but conditionally. The conditions are contained in the Act of Compensation, and are these: That the vested interests of individuals, however slight or precarious, be not in the smallest degree impaired. Nay, Parliament has almost in terms prescribed to the Board of Commissioners a liberal, and, as it were, generous construction; for it has ordained, that those who lose an office which they hold but during pleasure, shall be more than indemnified by compensation for life. Thus the Legislature has unequivocally announced the intention with which the Law was passed, and the spirit in which it ought to be administered. Parliament, in the provision just alluded to, has said, We will give an individual much more than he has lost by the Union, rather than hazard the withholding an equivalent for any loss, however trifling, which may have been sustained.

The

The Commissioners therefore will rather be astute to include the case of Mr. Griffith within the operation of this remedial Statute, than to exclude him from its benefits, even if they shall consider his right as somewhat doubtful, and shall not agree with the Writer of these Remarks that he is entitled, though the principle of liberal exposition should be rejected, and the Statute receive a strict and rigorously literal construction.

Having introduced the consideration by the above preliminary suggestions, let us now examine the claim of Mr. Griffith. To be entitled to compensation it is necessary that he should have held an office, and that this office should have been discontinued in consequence of the Union. These two grounds of claim we shall consider in succession; and, if both be established, his title (to an unascertained quantum of compensation) is made out.

First, Did he, previously to the Union, hold an office?—The answer to this question is to be collected from the letter of Mr. Armit, and the evidence of Admiral Pakenham; and I can have no hesitation in answering in the affirmative.

(A.) Was Mr. Griffith's situation an official one, or that of a Contractor?—Let those who maintain the latter position produce the contract under the seal or signature of Mr. Griffith; or if they have it not to produce, let them explain how he who has entered into no contract, can be deemed a Contractor by accepting the appointment. He indeed impliedly contracted for a due performance of its functions, so long as he should retain it; but, if he failed to perform this undertaking, could he be sued as for a breach of contract? No, he could only be removed, or so proceeded against at law, as that the very form and nature of the proceeding would mark him as an officer and he might at any time resign his situation, without being chargeable for a breach of contract in so doing.

Are the King's Attorney or Solicitor General, Officers or Contractors?—Officers, it may be presumed; for the persons who held those places at the time of the Union were deemed fit objects for compensation; yet, at the time of their appointment, they contract, not impliedly, but expressly, and upon oath, for a faithful performance of the duties of their situations. In this sense, the King's Judges may likewise be termed Contractors, and hold their places quasi deo. They perform the undertaking; but it is conceived they are officers, notwithstanding this undertaking to do their duty.

If this were a penal, not a remedial Act, which we were construing, an Act which would be so construed as to restrict rather than enlarge its operation; yet, could Mr. Griffith screen himself one moment from the penalty, by alledging that the Act was levelled against officers, and that he was only a Contractor? The letter of Mr. Armit, when produced in evidence against him, would be found to contain no contract, but a mere official communication by the Secretary to the Ordnance Board, that the head of that Board had nominated him to the place of Forage-master in that department.

I cannot nominate a man a Contractor, for this would be to enter into a contract for him. I cannot nominate a man my debtor in £. 1,000, and then sue him on my nomination, and miscall it his contract. Mr. Armit's letter notifies, that the Master General has been pleased to nominate Mr. G. Forage-master. It states the instructions to which such nomination is subject: It mentions the allowance to be made; and gives the salary of a Clerk, a subordinate officer, in Dublin. It gives him the superintendence of all matters in the Horse department, subject to the control of the Board; it apprises him, that he is to visit the different stations, &c. (the plain function of an officer or servant) and it promises a further detail and explanation of the duties he is to execute. This letter is an official communication, made by Mr. Armit, as Secretary to the Ordnance Board. Admiral Pakenham, the head of that Board, in his evidence, delivered on oath, terms this an office, and treats it as such throughout; and can we seriously doubt, that, so far as the character of Officer and Contractor are distinguished, Mr. Griffith's situation was that of an Officer or servant.

(B.) But he was not an Officer under the Government, he was the mere appointee of the Master General of the Ordnance.—What clause in the Act will justify this distinction? Where is an immediate nomination by Government made a jure quo?

now to an officer's title to compensation: Sub-sheriffs are recognized officers under the Crown; yet they are nominated not by the Government, but by the High Sheriffs. Masters in Chancery, and Six Clerks, are officers; yet I apprehend the former are appointed by the Lord Chancellor, and the latter by the Master of the Rolls. This latter nominates his Deputy Keeper of the Rolls; and the person who held this situation at the period of the Union has received compensation.

If this were a penal Law (to recur to a former illustration) could Mr. Griffith shelter himself an instant from the penalty by such a plea as this? It is true, I was an Officer in the Ordnance Department, but I was appointed by the Master General.

This part of the question need not however be dwelt upon, as the Commissioners have, in the case of Mr. Burgh, and of the supernumerary Clerks, very properly decided the point, that the nomination of a Master General shall be sufficient to constitute an Officer within the meaning of the Act of Compensation.

(C.) Mr. Griffith then, as Forage-master, was the holder of an office under the Board of Ordnance, at the period of the Union; but the creation of this office was a merely experimental arrangement, as appears from Mr. Armit's letter. Shall this circumstance affect Mr. Griffith's claim? It is apprehended that clearly it cannot. In what clause of the Act are the holders of experimental offices excluded from compensation? The words of this Act are as comprehensive as possible; "any office." Where the Legislature has used such general words as any office (an expression completely equivalent to all offices) should we be warranted, even if the Act were penal, to exclude certain offices from its operation? Clearly not. A fortiori then, are we precluded from thus abridging the effect of a remedial Law? It is indeed with deference conceived, that the absurdity of such a doctrine will appear to the Commissioners from the mere statement of it.

The Legislature enacts, that the holders of all offices, &c. shall receive compensation.

The Expounders pronounce, that the holders of some offices shall receive none.

This would not be to construe, it would be to repeal. But let us—though at the same time protesting against the necessity for doing so, and relying on the maxim, that the general words of a remedial Statute must not be restrained for the purpose of abridging its operation;—let us, I say, examine the principle of the objection.

This office was experimental in its creation: What then? Forsooth—the result of the experiment might have been a discovery, that it would be inexpedient to continue the office, and it might have been abolished. It is all true: but what does it prove? No more than this—That Mr. Griffith's tenure of his emoluments was precarious: he might have lost them, either by removal from the situation, or by the abolition of the place itself. But, has the Legislature pronounced, that persons losing precarious emoluments shall not be compensated? Quite the contrary. They have enacted, that, rather than not receive a full equivalent, they shall have what may be more than compensation—the holder during pleasure shall receive compensation for life. Will a wise and liberal tribunal thwart and frustrate the politic and just intentions of Parliament, and say you shall not have compensation, because your office might have been abolished? This at most would only go to diminish the quantum of compensation, not to negative the fact of loss. Nay, it ought not to go even thus far, for this would be higgling away the beneficence of Parliament, which has said, though the duration of your emoluments be precarious, your compensation for their loss shall be permanent. You might have been deprived of them, by removal, within an hour; yet you shall be retributed for life. We will not shackle our generous intention by groping out an obscure estimate of the chances which there were against your holding for life an office, from which you were removable at pleasure. To conclude; Will the Commissioners act on the possibility that the office of Forage-master would have been abolished, in the teeth of the evidence given by the Master of the Ordnance of the probability that it would have been continued?—Having thus endeavoured to prove that Mr. Griffith was possessed at the period of the Union of an office, within the meaning of the Act of Compensation, let us enquire whether the emoluments which he held have ceased in consequence of that measure; and, and, in this enquiry, as throughout, let us recollect that we are expounding and applying a remedial Statute.

Was his situation abolished because the experiment was tried, and the arrangement found inexpedient? No such thing. If the experiment had proceeded, it is likely that the office would have continued. But the Union intervened; and, by inducing an abolition of the Irish Board of Ordnance, put an end to all appointments under it.

What then did Mr. Griffith lose by the Union? He lost the progress of the experiment, and the chance of its result. He lost the likelihood of continuing to be Forage-master. Shall he be compensated for the loss of a mere chance? The question is easily and conclusively answered by another. Of what more could the Union deprive the possessor of any place, held during pleasure, than of the chance that he would not have been removed? Yet all such are compensated, and so should Mr. Griffith be, though the chance which he lost, instead of being a likelihood, were no more than a possibility. It is true there is but one chance against the person who is removable at pleasure, viz. the hazard of removal; whereas there was against Mr. G. the additional risk of an abolition of the very office which he held. What follows? Merely, and at most, that his situation was more precarious than the others. And will the Board, administering a remedial Law, measure the degrees of precariousness and uncertainty? Is it possible for them to do so? or, if they could, would they attempt it? Where the Legislature has even declined to make a distinction between certain and precarious tenures, and has liberally advanced the latter to the secure footing of the first, would the Commissioners undertake to calculate chances in the dark? to ascertain the more or less, where all is uncertain? and to pronounce how much precariousness should rob a Claimant of his compensation? Above all, would they enter upon the metaphysical enquiry, for the purpose of abridging (which, pro tanto, is defeating) the salutary effects of a remedial Law.

If then, but for the Union, his office might have continued to him, and it has ceased in consequence of that measure, I hold it clear, both in principle and on the authority of past decisions of the Board, that Mr. G. is entitled to compensation. Nor would it prejudice his claim to shew that, notwithstanding the Union, his place and appurtenant emoluments might have remained. It is sufficient that it has been discontinued in consequence of the Union; and is not requisite to prove that the consequence was inevitable. The abolition of the Irish Board of Ordnance, I apprehend to have been a measure which the Union rendered not inevitable but expedient; yet the Officers of that Board have, very properly, been compensated. Though the offices of Prime Serjeant, Attorney, and Solicitor General, were diminished in value by the Union, yet this was not an inevitable consequence of the measure; for the Crown might have held them up at and perhaps will restore them to their former value. Yet the possessors of those offices were, very properly, compensated, on account of the diminution. On this part of the subject I would remark, that an objection which has been raised to the title of Mr. Griffith, rather strikes me as an argument in favour of his claims. It is objected, that the appointment of Forage-master was an arrangement of a local nature, and that no such situation exists in Great Britain; now I conceive, that, if it has been deemed necessary or expedient to suppress the office of Forage-master on account of the incongruity of this local arrangement with the incorporating principle of Union, the motive furnishes a conclusive argument to shew that Mr. Griffith's emoluments have ceased in consequence of the Union. In a word, it is no objection to Mr. Griffith's claim, either that he might have left his office without the Union, or that, notwithstanding that measure, he might have retained it.

I shall only add, first, that even if this were not an office, yet it was an allowance. Mr. Armit, in the name of the Ordnance Board, promises Mr. Griffith that he shall be allowed one halfpenny a night for each horse, &c. &c. Now the Act of Compensation extends (sect. 10. and passim) to allowances, as well as offices, as if to preclude narrowing circumstances.

Secondly, it is not necessary to argue that the proviso in Mr. Armit's letter, against any pretensions of Mr. Griffith, can have the effect upon his present claims; the the passage was merely calculated and directed to preclude demands upon the Board of Ordnance; but neither the Board of Compensation, nor any other tribunal, was, or could be, in the contemplation of the parties. The paragraph was inserted, ex seorsu canteld, to secure to the Ordnance a right of abolishing the office, if the experiment should ultimately prove the arrangement to be inexpedient. But as to the Union, or its effects, it cannot be intended to have been within the view or contemplation of the parties; it therefore appears idle in the extreme to alledge, as in any way affecting Mr. Griffith's present claims, a passage not introduced, ex intente, at all.

What passed between General Roß and him, I conceive to be equally irrelevant. If, under this new arrangement, Mr. Griffith still continued in office, he of course would not now be injured by the Union, and therefore could not be entitled to compensation; but he is not in office. And what is the amount of the negotiation between General Roß and him? the Union, by dissolving the Irish Board of Ordnance, put an end to the office and emoluments of Mr. Griffith. The British Board provisionally re-established the situation in his person, and made at most a new experiment; viz. Whether the existence of such a place would be compatible with the plans and systems flowing from the Union? It has been found on trial, that it would not, and Mr. Griffith is displaced; therefore, if any thing can be collected from the transactions, the inference is strongly favourable to Mr. Griffith's claim. The inference is, that his situation, having been of a distinct and local nature, has ceased in consequence of the Union; a measure of incorporation, whose principles are therefore repugnant to locality and distinctness; and which, so far as it can, tends to their abolition. As for the letter, signed R. H. Crew, if it should not be considered as a weak attempt to delude and to give a false colouring to the transaction of Mr. Griffith's appointment, it seems to me to prove nothing but the ignorance of the writer.

The letter of Mr. Armit, and the evidence of Admiral Pakenham, alike contradict the unfounded statement of Mr. Crew, that Mr. Griffith's term in his office was the duration of the war. Having committed this error, he proceeds gravely to annul a place already abolished, and absurdly to imply that the accessory does not follow the principle; and that offices, founded on the existence of an Irish Board of Ordnance, remain after their foundation has been removed. It therefore is submitted, on the whole, that Mr. Griffith's station was that of an Officer, not a Contractor;—that the Act for granting compensation, neither makes nor authorizes any distinction between offices, which can defeat his claim;—that the Union has manifestly deprived him of a valuable chance of the permanent continuance of office and emoluments;—and therefore that he is a proper object for compensation.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

I have had the honour to receive your letter of the 27th ult. acquainting me that you had read the several papers laid before you in support of my claim; and, having maturely considered the same, you are unanimously of opinion that I am not entitled to compensation.

After having, with your concurrence, stated a Case without the reservation of a single circumstance that could make against my claim, and pointed the attention of counsel to the particular objections made by you; after having obtained the decided opinions thereon, in my favour, of some of the most eminent Lawyers in England and Ireland; and, what is still of more importance, after having, as I conceive, the sanction of several of your own decisions on claims exactly similar to mine, I confess I am at a loss to conjecture upon what untoward circumstances in my case you have formed your decision; but as I entertain no doubt that it has been made upon grounds perfectly satisfactory to your own minds, I presume to entreat that you will have the goodness to communicate to me the particular circumstance in my case, which (under an Act so broad and general as that constituting your tribunal) deprives me of a title to compensation. Give me leave, my Lord, and Gentlemen, to assure you, that I do not make this request from any motive of idle or impertinent curiosity, curiosity, but merely for the purpose of removing, if possible, your objections; and if not, of grounding thereon an application to His Majesty's Government for compensation in some other way. I also request you will be pleased to return to me the opinions of the several Lawyers on my case, which I have laid before you.

I am, with great respect,

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

Rich^d Griffith.

Dublin,

No. 32, Dawson-street,

9th July 1803.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

In consequence of the intimation which you were pleased to give me, that you would reconsider my case, if I laid before you the opinions and arguments of counsel respecting it; I have now the honour to submit to your consideration the opinions and arguments of Mr. John Ball, Mr. Peter Burrowes, and Mr. Archibald Redford, Gentlemen whose learning and talents entitle them to very high consideration in their profession; I also lay before you the opinion and arguments of an eminent Lawyer now on the Bench, whose name for that reason cannot be subscribed; but as you have with great propriety intimated, that arguments, and not the authority of names, must guide your judgment, you will, I doubt not, give as much consideration to the argument of the Gentleman alluded to, as if his name were subscribed at full length.

After the patience with which you have been pleased to listen to my claim, I shall not intrude farther upon you, than to make one remark, viz. that if my office had depended on peace or war, as alledged in the letter of the Secretary of the British Board of Ordnance, the offers of service which I recently made to that Board, to resume the office of Forge-master, in consequence of their extensive preparations for war, would have been accepted, or the office of Forge-master restored in the person of some other Gentleman; but on the contrary, notwithstanding that a considerable augmentation has been lately made to the number of horses in the Ordnance department, and that every other preparation has been adopted for placing that department on a war establishment, the answer I received to the above-mentioned application from the Honourable Wellesley Pole (who is deputed with full authority to arrange the Ordnance Department in Ireland) was, that "he did not believe that the Master General and Board of Ordnance had any intention to appoint a Forge-master." Herewith I have the honour to lay before you a copy of Mr. Pole's letter, which will suffice to prove that my office was abolished, not on account of the peace, but because it was incompatible with the British Ordnance establishment.

When therefore the above circumstances are compared with the evidence of Admiral Pakenham, it will clearly appear, that the abolition of my office was in consequence of the Union, and I humbly presume to hope you will not any longer hesitate to grant me compensation for the loss thereof, to which, if I were not perfectly convinced that I am as well entitled, both in law and equity, as any other man to whom compensation has been granted, I should not have appeared before you to demand it.

I have also laid my case before some other Gentlemen of eminence at the Bar, who have not yet been able to furnish me with their opinions; as soon as I receive them, I must request your indulgence to lay them before you, if any doubt should still remain upon your mind as to the justice of my claim.

I have the honour to be, with great respect,

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

Richard Griffith.

Sir,

I had the honour of receiving your letter, dated the 5th instant, and return my answer by your Messenger. In reply to your former letter, I merely stated what I afterwards said to you in the Engineer's office viz. that I was very much obliged to you for the information you had given me, and that I did not believe the Master General and Board of Ordnance had any intention of appointing a Forage-master in the Ordnance Department.

Upon the present occasion, I have nothing to add.

I am, Sir,

Your very obedient humble Servant,

Richard Griffith, Esquire.

W. W. Pole.

Gentlemen,

As I am fully persuaded that, in all your decisions, you are desirous of weighing every fact and argument which can be adduced to throw light on every claim which comes before you, I hope you will not reject my earnest entreaty to give my case a reconsideration, as in addition to the arguments already urged by me, to prove that I was deprived of the office of Forage-master, not, as was stated by the British Board of Ordnance, "in consequence of the peace," but solely on account of the abolition of the Irish Board of Ordnance, and the transferring of its powers to the British Board in consequence of the Union.

I beg leave to state, that the ink was scarcely dry on the letter of the British Board, alledging that the office of Forage-master was "no longer requisite in consequence of the peace," when the same Board were under the necessity of issuing orders for the augmenting their establishment, and purchasing horses, in consequence of impending war; but they never have since thought fit, either in my person or that of any other Gentleman, to restore the office of Forage-master, which they must have done, had the same been abolished, in consequence of the peace. The truth is, as it manifestly appears by the foregoing circumstance, that the said office was abolished for no other reason, than because it was not found consistent with the general arrangements of the British Board of Ordnance, which Board could not have had any controul over the said office "but by means of the Union, and in consequence thereof." You have the evidence of the late Master General of the Irish Ordnance before you, to prove, that had the Irish Board of Ordnance continued, the said office would not have been abolished. In addition to his evidence, I earnestly intreat you will have the goodness to summon and examine Sir George Skee, who was Surveyor General of the Irish Ordnance at the time of my appointment, and who is, I conceive, minutely acquainted with many circumstances relating thereto. This Gentleman was not in Ireland at the time I before troubled you on the subject of my claim, otherwise I should have requested that he might then have been examined: In the reconsideration that you may think fit to give this subject, you will observe, that I am willing to admit, that I am not entitled to compensation for life to the full amount of the average profits of the office while I held it, but to an average of those profits on the comparative establishment of horses in years of war and peace; together with a reference to the relative number of years in which these countries are engaged in the one, or enjoying the other.

If you should have the goodness to comply with my earnest entreaty, to give my claim another hearing, I hope you will be pleased to re-peruse my two Memorials, together with such papers and arguments as I have from time to time laid before you; and, in this expectation, I refrain from troubling you with a recapitulation of the arguments already urged on the subject.

I entreat you will believe, Gentlemen, that it is not merely the anxiety I feel to obtain compensation, but the internal conviction with which I am impressed, of my just claim to it, that induces me again to solicit your attention; and in truth, this conviction is so strong, from the nature of the case, and so powerfully fortified by your own decisions in the case of Mr. Burgh, the supernumerary Clerks, Surgeon Moreton, &c. &c. &c. that I entertain the most sanguine expectation, that, when you have the whole of my case before you in one view, and that you have fully considered the arguments which I have laid before you, you will grant me compensation; but should I be so unfortunate as to find myself mistaken in this consideration, I hope you will not consider it as derogatory in any degree from the high respect to which every member of your Board is individually entitled, if, still convinced (as I must ever remain) of the justice of my claim, I should, however reluctantly, appeal against your judgment to the wisdom and liberality of the Legislature for redress. Herewith I take the liberty of returning, for your perusal, the opinions and arguments of the following Lawyers, which, at my request, you were pleased to restore to me when you decided on my claim :

Stanislaus O'Grady, Esquire, Attorney General for Ireland.

Mr. Sergeant Hill,
Mr. Hargrave.
Mr. A. Redford.
Mr. Peter Barrington.
Mr. J. W. Bransford.
Mr. J. W. Stokes, and
Mr. John Ball.

I have the honour to be, with great respect,
Gentlemen,
Your most obedient humble Servant,

Dublin, 2d November 1804.

R. Griffith.

The Commissioners for granting Compensation, &c. &c. &c.

13th November 1804.

On the claim of Richard Griffith, Esquire.

Sir George Shee, Baronet, sworn.

Saith, That the original cause of the appointment of a Forage-master to the late Board of Ordnance, was, they found some such establishment indispensably necessary.

Saith, the office perfectly answered the intention of the Board, in constituting it, as far as Examinant could judge—Saith, he thinks that was the general sentiment of the Board.

Saith, he conceives that if the Irish Board of Ordnance had continued, that the office would have been continued, provided the supplying of horses for the Artillery had continued; but if the old plan, which was not to keep up an extensive Horse establishment had been again resorted to, then Examinant conceives that the office would have been discontinued.

Saith, that inasmuch as the said plan of keeping up an Horse establishment hath been continued, and as the prevailing sentiments of the Board then were, Examinant conceives, that if said Board had continued, the office also would.

Cannot answer from his own knowledge, but apprehends it was by reason of the Union, that said Board of Ordnance was discontinued.

Saith, that considering the office of Forage-master as an experiment, this Examinant, as far as he can judge, is of opinion that the experiment answered.

G. Shee.

On the Claim of Richard Griffith, Esquire.

Thomas Dickinson, sworn.

Saith, the whole payments and accounts relative to the Forage Department of the late Board of Ordnance were managed by Mr. Griffith, up to the 30th of September 1801.

Saith, It was in Deponent's office to examine his accounts, and compare same with the vouchers; and saith that Mr. Griffith made up and settled his accounts monthly.

On the Claim of Richard Griffith, Esquire.

George Foster Dalton, Esquire.

Saith, That Deponent drew the contracts for the Forage Department of the late Board of Ordnance—Saith, the printed paper now signed by Deponent, contains the regulations of the late Board of Ordnance, and the foundations of the contracts—Saith, that Deponent recollects entering Accounts of Mr. Griffith monthly, to a large amount—Deponent was Law Agent to the late Board.

George Foster Dalton.

The Board of Ordnance having approved the following Resolutions for carrying on the business of supplying the Artillery Horses with Forage:

Has ordered them to be printed for the information of such persons as may be disposed to contract for the same.

First, Security is to be given by the Contractor, and two other responsible persons (who are to be forthwith named) for the due performance of his engagement, in a sum equal to one-fourth of the amount of the sum to be drawn during the time of the contract.

The contract to commence on 1st December next, and to continue for one year; the Contractor to supply the horses with good sound hay, oats, and straw; the hay and oats to be of superior quality, and the produce of the year 1799; no hay or oats, the produce of the year 1800, to be accepted during the term of the contract.

2d. If bad or indifferent forage shall be offered by the Contractor or his Agent, the Officer commanding the detachment is bound to reject it, and if good forage be not forthwith provided, he is to send the horses to livery; at the expence of the Contractor, or to provide, at the expence of the Contractor, the best forage the country produces; and this is to continue until the Commanding Officer shall be satisfied by the Contractor that he has provided a sufficient quantity of unexceptionable forage; and whenever circumstances of this kind shall occur, the Commanding Officer is to give immediate notice in writing thereof to the Forage-master, who, is without delay, to send an Agent to take charge of foraging the horses, and the whole expence of such agent, together with the price of the forage so provided, is to be paid by the Contractor; and if any dispute shall arise on the subject of the quality of the forage, so rejected as aforesaid, the judgment of the Forage-master, on inspection of the forage, is to be conclusive between the Contractor and the Officer commanding.

3d. If it should appear that the Commanding Officer should in any case reject good forage, the difference in price between the rate of the contract, and the expence incurred at livery, or in the purchase of forage, must fall on the Board of Ordnance, and the Contractor is to commence foraging as soon as decision in the case shall be made by the Forage-master.

4th. And, in order to ascertain the identity of forage that may from time to time be rejected, the Commanding Officer shall cause a fair sample of such forage to be tied up, and sealed in presence of the Contractor or his Agent, and of the Officer of the Drivers Corps belonging to the Detachment; which parcel of forage is to be immediately transmitted to the Forage-master for his judgment thereon.

5th. No more than three days forage is to be received at one time by any Officer on the part of the Board, and that Officer is to be responsible to the Contractor, and to the Board of Ordnance, for the due delivery of such forage, and he is to pass regular receipts for, and make regular entries in his Forage-book, of the same.

6th. No Officer, Quarter-master, or Serjeant, is to act as Agent for the Contractor, under pain of being brought to a Court Martial, and broke for disobedience of orders.

7th. A warrant or a non-commissioned Officer at each station is to be ready at a fixed hour, between nine o'clock in the morning and one o'clock in the afternoon of each day, to receive the forage for horses; and no forage will be accepted from the Contractor after the last-mentioned hour, as it would be impossible, in case of failure on his part, to make proper provision for the horses on that day.

8th. As it is the intention of the Board of Ordnance, in entering into contract, to provide the horses with a regular supply of good forage, the Contractors are to understand, that if they or their Agents shall fail to supply good and sufficient forage three several times at any of the stations, according to the regulations herein set forth, that in that case they are to be considered as having failed in their contract for such station; and they or their sureties are to forfeit to the Board of Ordnance a penalty of one shilling per horse per day, during the term of the contract, for every horse belonging to the Artillery at such station at the time of such failure; and the contract for such station is from that moment to be considered null and void, except inasmuch as relates to the penalty above mentioned.

9th. Regular returns of the horses foraged, are to be made to the Forage-master at the end of every month by the Officer commanding the several detachments of Artillery, countersigned by the Officer or Quarter-master of the Dragoon's Corps; and the Forage-master is to pay the Contractor regularly at the end of each month, either in Dublin, or at the station where the horses are supplied, and to take a receipt in full for the same. The Forage-master will supply the several Commanding Officers with printed and blank returns, whereon they are to fill the diary of the horses under their command.

10th. Horses at grass in travels, or in service, are not included in the contract; the Board reserves to itself full power to withdraw the horses from one station to another, and to send any number of horses to grass for any period it may think fit; and for horses so withdrawn, or sent to grass, the Contractor is to make no charge, it being fully understood that the Contractor is not to be entitled to charge for any horses that do not receive the stipulated rations in stable, at the stations contracted for; the rations to be 14 pounds of hay, ten pounds of oats, and 6 pounds of straw per horse per day.

11th. The Contractor is to be entitled to the dung of the horses; and where the dung is given in part payment for the stables, the Contractor is to be allowed four pence per horse per week in lieu of the dung.

12th. The several persons who have proposed to supply forage for the ensuing year, having had full notice, from the badness of the season, of the probable scarcity and dearth of the forage, are not to expect that the Board of Ordnance will make any addition to the price for which they have proposed to provide the horses, or any allowance or abatement whatsoever, in consequence of the future scarcity of forage, or the enhancement of its price.

13th. No extra forage is to be supplied by any of the Contractors, except in consequence of an order in writing of the Board of Ordnance, or the Commanding Officer on the particular station authorizing the same; and no allowance whatever is to be made to the Contractors for any loss or diminution of forage, nor will the Board accept of, or be responsible for any forage that may remain in the hands of the Contractors at the termination of their contracts; and in the event of any Contractor supplying a greater number of rations than shall be expressly ordered or settled, or of his delivering a larger quantity of forage for each ration than the regulations for them express, all such extra forage shall be at the sole expence of such Contractor, and he shall not receive compensation of any sort for the same.

14th. No proposals will be received from, nor any contract entered into, with any person for more than four stations.

George Forster Dalton.

On the Claim of Richard Griffith, Esquire.

Robert Coleman, sworn,

Saith, This Deponent is Clerk of the Surveys in the new Board of Ordnance, and Deponent examines all the accounts—Saith, that upwards of eighteen hundred Horses are now in the service of said Board—Saith, the Forage Accounts are now examined by Deponent, and when allowed, are paid by the Treasurer of the Ordnance, after being signed by the Board. Three Clerks of this Deponent's office make up the accounts monthly; the first Clerk inspects them before they are laid before Deponent. There are other Clerks, probably as many more, who enter and compare them. The Forage Diary, from every station in Ireland, is sent up monthly by every Artillery Officer commanding at each station.—Saith, that the same business which was formerly done by the Forage-master of the late Board, is now done in Deponent's office, and by the respective Officers and Treasurer—Saith, that a considerable portion of the time of the Board is occupied in doing the duty of said Forage accounts—Saith, that twenty-two or twenty-three Diaries were sent back by Deponent in the last month, in consequence of their incorrectness—Saith, that the paper now produced to Deponent, and signed by him, contains the present regulations of the office, as now managed—Saith, the business of the Treasurer is considerably augmented, by the paying of the several distinct accounts—Saith, that the paper before-mentioned contains the regulations adopted in consequence of the discontinuance of a Forage-master—Saith, that the duty of Forage-master is as requisite now, as it was before the Union took place—Saith, that the before-mentioned paper of instructions was formed out of a former plan for conducting the duty of Forage-master—Saith, that Deponent is acquainted with the forms and establishment of the British Board of Ordnance—Saith, Deponent never heard that any such office existed under same as that of Forage-master—Saith, Deponent conceives that the abolition of the office of Forage-master arose from the incompatibility of having such an office, with the method of conducting the business of the British Board—Saith, that the business of Forage was equally necessary under the former, as under the present Board—And saith, that the same is now done by the present Board, as was formerly done by the Forage-master, but by more persons, and with more trouble.

R. Coleman.

The following are the Regulations approved by the respective Officers of the Ordnance, whereon Contracts for Forage are to be entered into for the Horses of the Royal Horse Artillery, or the Brigade of Gunners and Drivers of the Royal Artillery in Ireland.

First. The Contractor, with two respectable persons, is to enter into security for the due performance of his engagement in such sums as may be required; the names, residences, and occupations of the Contractors, and his security, to be sent in, with the proposal, to the Board; the contract to commence on the first of December next, and to continue for one year; the Contractor to supply the horses with good found hay, oats, and straw; no hay or oats, the produce of the year 1805, to be accepted of during the contract.

Second. If bad or indifferent forage shall be offered by the Contractor, or his Agent, the Officer commanding the Detachment is bound to reject it; and if good forage be not forthwith provided, he is to send the horses to livery at the expence of the Contractor, or provide at his expence the best forage the country or market can produce, and so continue until the Commanding Officer shall be satisfied by the Contractor that he has provided a sufficient quantity of unexceptionable forage; and whenever circumstances of this kind shall occur, the Commanding ing Officer is to give immediate notice in writing to the said respective Officers, or such person or persons as they may think proper to nominate for that purpose; and if any dispute shall arise on the subject of the quality of the forage so to be rejected as aforesaid, the same shall be referred to two indifferent persons, to be nominated and chosen mutually between the parties, to end and determine the same; or in case they cannot agree, then the said Arbitrators shall be at liberty to appoint an Umpire, whose decision in either case as to the quality of forage, shall be binding and conclusive between the Officer commanding and the Contractor, provided said award or umpirage shall be made within ten days after such dispute shall arise.

Third. If it shall appear, that the Commanding Officer shall in any case reject good forage, the difference in price between the rate of contract and the expence incurred at livery, or in the purchase of other forage, must fall on the respective Officers of the Ordnance, and the Contractor is to recommence foraging as soon as the said Arbitrators or Umpire, as the case may be, shall make his or their award or umpirage in the premises.

Fourth. And in order to ascertain the quality of forage that may from time to time be rejected, the Commanding Officer shall cause a fair sample of such forage to be tied up and sealed in the presence of the Contractor or his Agent, and of the Officers of the Drivers Corps belonging to the Detachment (if any at this station) which parcel of forage is to be exhibited to the said Arbitrators or Umpire, as the case may be, for their decision thereon.

Fifth. Three days forage, and no more, is to be received by the Commanding Officer on the part of the respective Officers; the second delivery thereof to be made on the morning of the third day, so as to leave twenty-four hours forage at all times in the hands of the Officer; the Quarter-master or Non-commissioned Officers to whom the Contractor weighs the forage, is to be responsible for the due delivery thereof, and is to pass regular receipts for the same; and to make regular entries in his Forage-book of all forage received by him.

Sixth. No Officer, Quarter-master, or Serjeant, is to act as Agent for the Contractor, under pain of being brought to a Court Martial, and broke for disobedience of orders.

Seventh. A non-commissioned Officer at each station is to be ready at a fixed hour; between nine o'clock in the morning and one o'clock in the afternoon, on the days of receiving forage for horses; and none is to be accepted from the Contractor after the last-mentioned hour.

Eighth. As it is the intention of the respective Officers in entering into contracts, to provide the horses with a regular supply of good forage, the Contractors are to understand, that if they or their Agents shall fail to supply good and sufficient forage three several times at any of the stations, according to the regulations herein set forth, that then and in such case they are to be considered as having failed in their contract for said station, and the respective Officers, or those acting under them, or by their order or authority, are to be at liberty from thenceforth to discharge said Contractor, and to retain such balance as shall appear in their hands due to him, and to purchase the best forage the country or market can afford, the extra expence whereof the said Contractor shall pay; and the respective Officers shall be at liberty to proceed for recovery thereof against him and his Securities, or to stop the same out of such balance of said Contractor's account as may be in their hands.

Ninth. Regular Returns of the horses foraged are to be made to the Clerk of the Survey, Ordnance-office, Dublin, at the end of every month, signed by the Officer commanding the several Detachments of Artillery, and countersigned by the Officer of the Drivers Corps; and the said respective Officers, or those acting under their authority, are to pay the Contractor regularly at the end of each month, in Dublin,

Dublin, and to take a receipt in full for the same; the respective Officers will supply the several Commanding Officers with blank Returns, wherein they are to fill the Diary of the horses under their command.

Tenth. Horses at grass in transitu, or on service, are not included in the contract; the respective Officers reserve to themselves full power to withdraw the horses from one station and to send them to another, and to send any number of horses to grass for any period they may think fit; and for horses so withdrawn or sent to grass, the Contractor is to make no charge, it being fully understood that the Contractor is not entitled to charge for any horses that do not receive the stipulated rations in stable at the stations contracted for.

Eleventh. The rations are to be sixteen pounds of hay, ten pounds of oats, and six pounds of straw per horse per day.

Twelfth. The Contractor is to be entitled to the dung of the horses; and when the dung is given in part payment for the stables, the Contractor is to be allowed four pence per horse per week in lieu of the dung.

Thirteenth. No extra forage is to be supplied by any Contractor, except in consequence of an order in writing from the respective Officers, or the Commanding Officer at the particular station, authorizing the same; and no allowance whatever is to be made to the Contractor for any loss or diminution of forage; nor will the respective Officers accept of, or be responsible for any forage that may remain on the hands of the Contractors at the termination of their contracts; and, in the event of any Contractor supplying a greater number of rations than shall be expressly ordered or settled, or of his delivering a larger quantity of forage in each ration than the regulations express, all such extra forage shall be at the sole expence of such Contractor, and he shall not receive compensation of any sort for the same.

Fourteenth. It is to be understood, that in case the service shall require the respective Officers either to augment or reduce the number of horses to be supplied in each or any station with forage, that it shall and may be lawful for them so to do, and they shall not be liable to make any allowance or compensation for any loss the Contractor may sustain thereby, they the said respective Officers giving such reasonable notice thereof as the nature of the service will allow them.

Fifteenth. No proposals will be received from, nor any contract entered into with, any person for more than four stations.

Sixteenth. The Contractor is not to charge grass for any horses; the Commanding Officer of Artillery is to make the best agreement he can with any person for forage of such horses as may be judged necessary to be put to grass; the Store-keeper or Commanding Officer at the station, will, on his report to the respective Officers, be instructed to pay for the same.

The present Regulations of forage of the Ordnance Department in Ireland.

R. Coleman,
19th Nov. 1804.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation,
My Lord, and Gentlemen,

In the evidence which I had the honour to lay before you on Monday last, I endeavoured to shew, that although the office of Forage-master is nominally abolished, yet the functions of that office are now executed by the Board of respective Officers, a considerable portion of whose time is devoted to the management of it, with the assistance of no less than five or six additional or supernumerary Clerks, to controul, examine, check, compare, and enter the numerous accounts belonging belonging to that Department; I have shewn too the necessity, and consequently the permanent nature of the functions of the office inasmuch as the general arrangements of it (made by myself) have been adopted by the respective Officers, as appears by the two printed papers for regulating the business, which are now before you; and you have it in evidence upon very respectable authority, that the sole motive for abolishing the office of Forage-master, was its incompatibility with the general arrangements of the British Board of Ordnance, and the necessity there was of assimilating the Irish to the British Establishments. If then the nature of the office of Forage-master be such, that the functions thereof must be performed by somebody as long as horses are maintained by the Ordnance (and we must conclude that this will be the case as long as there are guns or ammunition to be transported) I think I have proved that the office of Forage-master was as permanent as any office under the State; in fine, the man is removed, the name is abolished, but the functions of the office remain, and are performed by others. Is it possible to deny, that all this has arisen from the Union, and in consequence thereof. Permit me, Gentlemen, to add, that as I am still ignorant of the circumstances that have hitherto induced you to refuse me compensation for the loss of my office, I have endeavoured to scrutinize my claim with the jealousy of an impartial judge, in order to try if I could discover any defect therein, and thereby to find a clue to the cause of your refusal to admit it; in this research it has occurred to me, that possibly the caution with which the Master General and Board of Irish Ordnance have, in my original appointments, guarded against any claim being made by me, in case they should at any future period think fit to abolish the office, may have induced you to think that circumstance a bar to my claim. I admit that if the Irish Board of Ordnance had, after trial, disapproved their own experiment, and had in consequence abolished the office of Forage-master, I should have been completely deprived of any foundation to rest a claim upon; but I beg leave to remind you, that you have now before you the best evidence that the case will admit of—the very contrary of this fact; you have the evidence of the late Master General and the late Surveyor General of the Irish Ordnance, to prove that the experiment succeeded in every respect; and therefore, the reservation above alluded to, does not apply to the present case, and ought not to have any weight with you in deciding thereon.

I am, with great respect,

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

Millicent,

24th November 1804.

Rich^d Griffith.

Sir,

I request you will be pleased to lay before the Commissioners for granting Compensation my earnest entreaty, that, as the cause which prevented their adjudication on my claim is removed by the death of Mr. Rowley, they will have the goodness to take my claim into their consideration as soon as the urgent business, in which I understand they are now engaged, will permit.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

No. 171.—JAMES DAVIS.

To the Right Honourable and Honourable The Commissioners of Compensation.

The Memorial of James Davis, of the Royal Artillery,

Humbly sheweth,

THAT, for several years previous to the Union, your Memorialist was Assistant Surgeon to the Royal Artillery in Ireland, for which service he was paid at the rate of twelve shillings per day.

That, by the incorporation of the Royal British and Irish Artillery, your Memorialist's pay was reduced from Twelve shillings to Seven shillings and sixpence per day.

That your Memorialist has thereby sustained an actual loss of Four shillings and sixpence per day, which, he hopes, he can produce evidence to prove to your satisfaction. His being in England prevented him laying his case sooner, or at the same time Mr. Morton and Mr. Charleton submitted theirs, under similar circumstances with your Memorialist, who humbly hopes you will now be pleased to take his case into your consideration, and grant him such remuneration as you may think fit, and for which he will be most thankful.

James Davis,
Assistant Surgeon Royal Artillery.

of Compensation, &c.
